Fore Nonsense Says Frost

"That's pure nonsense," Mr. Frost said. "I entirely disagree with that statement of our youth."

Mr. Roach (C—Toronto Yorkville) said the report was a slur against the youth of the province.

He urged that it be struck from the record.

Mr. Nixon said the government hasn't lived up to its 1943 promise that it would build 2 and 3 cent power from 25 to 60 cycles was to cost $121,000,000, but he didn't think it is anywhere near that figure today—less than twice that much.

Art Exhibition 'Red Influenced' Painter Charges

TORONTO (CP) — William Newcombe, Toronto artist and former president of the Canadian Society of Graphic Arts, charged today that Communists have "influenced" the selection of paintings for the society's annual exhibition.

He said pictures by the show, which opens March 23 and 24, continue at other Canadian centres, were "not up to political basis, not one of merit."

Henry Orenstein, present president of the society, called the charge "ridiculous and fantastic."

"There is no question of politics in our organization," said Mr. Orenstein. "It's our purpose is to further the development of graphic arts in Canada."

Two British Jet Fighters Collide Before Horrified Gaze of Tito, Pilots Killed

DUXFORD, England (AP)—Two British jet fighters collided today before the horrified gaze of Marshal Tito, killing both pilots.

Then the shaken Yugoslav leader for the first time saw and heard another jet crash the sound barrier.

Britain trotted out its hottest military aircraft for inspection by Tito who is anxious to get similar planes for the Yugoslav air force.

The collisions occurred during tight formation flying by Meteors. Twenty-four in all were in the air. Twenty-four in all were involved. As four of the Meteors were changing position one ran into the tail of another. The wreckage fell six miles away from the RAF airfield in Gloucestershire.

When the Meteors returned to land, Tito saluted the planes in tribute to the dead pilots.

The accident came at the mass climax of a visit by Tito to the RAF which has witnessed most of his left his homeland to pay an official visit to Britain since the war, while he was en route here, three British naval aircraft crashed at Gibraltar. Four men were listed as missing and presumed dead in that incident.

Visibility was down to about 1,000 feet when the two planes met crash. The scattered wreckage of the Meteors sent flames and smoke billowing into the air for miles.

Both planes crashed on open ground about a mile from each other. One was burned out. The other had exploded into small pieces.

Before the Meteors took off the Yugoslav leader wipsered an impressive display by a Canberra jet bomber. It roared by Tito in a steep turn and made high speed runs only about 100 yards in front of the dais.

A RAF officer said Tito had been asked whether the flying began to cancel the display because of the fatalities. After the crash he returned to Lord Tedder, marshal of the RAF, and said: "Please, do not have any more."

Sqdn. Ldr. Neville Duke, one of Britain's hottest, best known pilots—already had taken up a gleaming Hawker hunter into the heavy overcast.

Then Duke came roaring down. As his engines screamed he pushed past the speed of sound. Tito who had started for his car thinking the display was over stopped and looked up. Three sharp bangs and a whine signalled that Duke had broken the barrier.

The Meteors that crashed were each carried only one pilot. As the formation flew past Tito, the pilots from their open cockpits each gave an eyes left to Tito who saluted back.

The Meteors were engaged in exercise "Scramble," designed to demonstrate how fast the pilots of the RAF can get jets into the air in an emergency.

Tito has been keen interest in British equipment and flying techniques.

Tito's time schedule was kept deliberately vague. This was a fundamental security measure. British police and secret agents, who have the job of guarding Tito, received him from possible assassination.

The British government and Queen and his foreign minister, Koca Popovic, had a two-hour conference with Churchill. They dined that night at the British Prime Minister's London guarded residence at 10 Downing street.

The discussion was said to have been confined to the field of military strategy in the cold war with Russia, especially the Korean war and death of Stalin.

The talks will be resumed Thursday, when the four leaders are expected to get down to cases on Britain's military aid to Communist aid to Yugoslavia.

The RAF spokesman said this next may be invited to conferences with President Eisenhower and his top military leaders. Tito's visit has already has made it clear he would welcome such an invitation.

Tito was the guest of honor Tuesday at a lunch with the Royal Family at Buckingham Palace.

Ceylon Standing Pat on Pact To Supply Communist China With 250,000 Tons of Rubber

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Ceylon announced today it is standing pat on its agreement to supply Communist China with 250,000 tons of rubber.

The announcement was made after Sir Cecil Syers, Britain's high commissioner, had a 20-minute talk with Premier Kotelawala. Syers said the report was a slur against the honor of Ceylon and its people. He urged that it be struck from the record.

Mr. Nixon said the government hasn't lived up to its 1943 promise that it would build 2 and 3 cent power from 25 to 60 cycles was to cost $121,000,000, but he didn't think it is anywhere near that figure today—less than twice that much.

Foreign Secretary Athony Eden of Britain agreed at recent Washington conference that Britain can help prevent strategic goods from reaching Red China by British ships and will ask permit all non-Communist ships carrying such goods to fuel in British ports.

Sir Cecil handed the Ceylon prime minister a British government munique issued in the Washington on the results of talks with State Secretary John Foster Dulles.

No Change

The government of this independent British Commonwealth country has not changed its attitude ment: "So far as Ceylon is concerned there is no change in the existing arrangement under which trade agreements between the People's Republic of China and Ceylon are concerned."

China is using Communist ships—usually those of Polish registry—to pick up the rubber. The Polish ships are dieselpowered and do not need to refuel en route to China.

The Chinese have agreed to pay per-cent premium above the world market price for the rubber. The United States offered to buy the rubber at the regular going rate to keep it from the Communists. The Ceylon government has said the lucrative deal will bring about it a premium of about $12,000,000 and keeps 300,000 laborers at work.

Old Car Plates Illegal Thursday

Britain Against Red China in UN While War Lasts

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden says Britain's Conservative government is against admitting Red China's membership for Communist aggression in Korea as China's Reds are "in full aggression against the United Nations and shooting down our troops."

His statement in the House of Commons brought cheers. It was cheered by members of his party, but also by the leaders of the Labor member Clement Attlee, the former prime minister and Aneurin Bevan.

Attlee described the Peiping line as a "most real and effective supporter of that," and asked why it was not on the United Nations until instead of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

Eden replied that Red China is a majority of the UN general assembly by its automatic majorities of satellites on Formosa. Britain has given diplomatic recognition to the Peiping regime.

CHEVRIER DEFENDS TELEVISION POLICY OF GOVERNMENT

Says 'Canned' U.S. Programs Not Wanted

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier says the government intends to control television to provide Canadians with the full benefit of their own developing culture and to prevent an invasion by "canned" American programs.

The minister, resuming a debate on TV in the Commons, said Tuesday that it is "nonsense" to suggest that private enterprise, left to itself, will provide Canadian programs. Private interests would be out to make money and the most money could be derived from imported U. S. programs.

Mr. Chevrier said the people of Canada want more than anything else is that in the field of television the initiative should be of Canadian origination and of Canadian content and not of canned programs coming in from the United States."

Will Be Some

That did not mean there would be no American programs on Canadian TV. There would be some, but they would not monopolize TV broadcasting in this country, as they might without control.

The minister, whose department is responsible for regulating radio and TV licences, spoke during the debate on government action to establish a committee on broadcasting. It would investigate review activities of the publicly-owned CBC, the controlling body for broadcasting in Canada.

Supported by Coldwell

Mr. Chevrier received support from J. S. Coldwell, CCF leader and heard E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) describe government policy as one of "monopoly" and actual restriction of Canadian talent.

Mr. Coldwell said the incentive for radio and television "should be service to Canada as a nation and to the people as citizens." To adopt any other policy would "be an act of treachery and betrayal on the part of this Parliament to those who have built this country have endeavored to make Canada a free, independent and distinct nation."

Two Arrested In Connection With Slaying

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Two men were arrested here Tuesday night for questioning in connection with the shooting said was a record slaying in Quebec province.

Early today the men, identified by police as Hal LeBlanc, 23, and Jack Tremble, 40, were placed in police cells for Montreal.

LeBlanc and Tremble were taken into custody after a gun battle in a taurant, of which LeBlanc is one of the owners, had been closed by police.

At Montreal, one police informant at first said he had no knowledge of the two men, or the slaying. It was later learned, however, that the informant's police and federal officers had come to Tillsonburg after receiving a tip that they could to investigate the two.

Provincial police said the with the death some weeks ago of Jeanne Irene D'Amour. There were no further details.

Tillsonburg is 15 miles southwest of Woodstock.

Duke of Edinburgh Makes First Appearance in New Marshal's Uniform

Sian, Germany (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh made his first public appearance in the uniform of a British marshal today.

The Duke who is visiting the British and Canadian forces in Germany, wore a khaki battle dress coat, the red hat and cape of a field marshal.

He was recently promoted to this rank by the Queen, his wife. A naval officer, the Duke has not been given any military duties. He seemed slightly uncomfortable in the unfamiliar heavy battle dress.

But although his hat was set at a jaunty naval angle the Duke gave the correct army salute as he stood at ease, showing that he must have had a little training to break him of his long time habit of saluting in the naval style, palm downward.

The Duke today joined tank exercises being put on for his benefit. He trained a 30-pound tank gun on a target 1,000 yards away and demolished it with three clean hits. The Duke had also been briefed on gunnery instructions commented that he was a "very apt pupil."

B50 Pilot Ordered To Fire Back After MIG Opened Up

U.S. Plane on Routine Weather Flight at Time

WASHINGTON (AP) —The United States today demanded that Russia discipline the Soviet jet fighter pilot who attacked a U.S. weather reconnaissance plane last Sunday 25 miles off Kamchatka.

The state department announced a protest has been delivered to the Moscow foreign office by the American embassy.

The note asks measures to prevent a repetition of such an attack and "appropriate action" against those responsible for Sunday's incident.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The quick-acting command of a United States Air Force plane said Tuesday night he ordered the chief gunner to "fire back" when his B-50 bomber was attacked by a Russian-type MIG-15 high off the coast of Siberia Sunday.

Lt.-Col. Robert E. Rich, 35, told a press conference at Elelson air force base near here that he tried to escape the attacker with a 200-mile-an-hour dive to sea level. The gunner fired after the MIG had opened up.

The attack occurred as the United States plane, on a routine weather flight, was cruising about in the third such sky encounter between planes of the East and West in a week.

The shooting scrape, the first reported by the air force in which an Alaska-based plane had actually been fired on occurred March 15.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower declined to comment on the latest incident in the cold war and Congressional der s for an investigation of the Russian and might attack : mercial planes on Sunday's run.

Senator Apprehensive

In Washington, Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem. Wash.) said if the Russians continue to be so "trigger happy" they might attack U.S. commercial aircraft flying the great circle route from the Pacific Northwest to the Orient if they have any doubt.

Magnuson said there was no excuse for the MiG to fire first and that if it had not radioed that the U.S. plane to see it it was lost before opening fire.

Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.), member of the Senate armed services committee, said he was going to ask the committee to investigate the incident. "There's a chip on the shoulder" on the part of the MiG may have entered into the skirmish.

May Have Been Too Close

Both Magnuson and Flanders express the opinion that the MiG may have ventured too close to Russian territory just to observe the plane.

The B-50, on duty with the 15th weather reconnaissance squadron at Elelson, was approximately 100 miles east and slightly north of Nome, Alaska, on military base at Petropavlovsk on the Aunchaka peninsula when it was attacked.

Rich gave this account of the skirmish:

Also the lads had upset garbage pails, those being found scattered along the street with garbage strewn about. Police investigated but were unable to locate the boys responsible. They promised severe reprimands for those causing the trouble, if, and when, they are located.

Redism Attacked By Guest Speaker At Kiwanis Club

Robert Stroud, Lieutenant-Governor of Kiwanis, District 7, attacked communism in an address delivered before members of the Kiwanis Club in the centre Tuesday noon.

Delving back into history the lieutenant-governor reminded his audience of the struggle Canadian pioneers underwent in settling this country. "Are you going to let all their efforts be lost and simply because some fool suggests that we live in a utopia of democratic rule," he asked.

Mr. Stroud noted that thousands of Canadians are buried on foreign soil as the result of two World Wars, and condemned the gathering of the struggle during the years of depression. "It was all a fight," he said, "the growling pains which our country has undergone." The speaker noted many who have come out from behind the iron curtained countries believe this country has the best way of life.

"We may only defeat the purpose of those who would call Canada dead," Mr. Stroud said, "by education. By realizing that this country of ours does offer the best way of life. Consider our freedoms, the freedom of the press, and particularly, the freedom to vote as you like, to place the man in office who will do his utmost to preserve the heritage given to the many who cut a country out of the wilds.

The speaker was introduced by L. A. Kells, and received the official thanks of the club president, Frank Creeggan.

J.D. Demeza Gives Detailed Account of O.S.D. Education

On Monday, the Soroptimist Club of Belleville held its monthly dinner meeting in Laidlaw's Town Room. In keeping with St. Patrick's Day, the tables were appropriately decorated with green candles, place settings and little pots of shamrocks.

Mr. Peter Mayberry, formerly of Birmingham, England, and now a teacher at the Ontario School for the Deaf, delighted the members of the club with three fine piano renditions.

Mr. J. D. Demeza, B.A. B. Paed., supervisor of the Ontario School for the Deaf was guest speaker. He was most ably introduced by Mrs. Mary Quinn.

The theme of Mr. Demeza's speech was "Education of the Deaf". The School for the Deaf but the schools throughout the two provinces and what they are doing, from a teaching standpoint, for these afflicted children. He was invited prior to coming to Belleville, Mr. Demeza studied at the University of Manchester in England where from 60-75 teachers of the deaf graduate annually, and also travelling throughout Europe and the United States studying the different methods used by other countries in similar schools.

Visits European Schools

On the continent he visited two schools in Sweden, three in Denmark, five in Belgium and one in France. Language was no barrier in these schools for he had qualified members in all schools who spoke English fluently. The Ontario School for the Deaf in Belleville is the only residential school in the Province of Ontario, of the Kiwanis Club in the centre Tuesday noon.

Delving back into history the lieutenant-governor reminded his audience of the struggle Canadian pioneers underwent in settling this country. "Are you going to let all their efforts be lost and simply because some fool suggests that we live in a utopia of democratic rule," he asked.

Mr. Stroud noted that thousands of Canadians are buried on foreign soil as the result of two World Wars, and condemned the gathering of the struggle during the years of depression. "It was all a fight," he said, "the growling pains which our country has undergone." The speaker noted many who have come out from behind the iron curtained countries believe this country has the best way of life.

"We may only defeat the purpose of those who would call Canada dead," Mr. Stroud said, "by education. By realizing that this country of ours does offer the best way of life. Consider our freedoms, the freedom of the press, and particularly, the freedom to vote as you like, to place the man in office who will do his utmost to preserve the heritage given to the many who cut a country out of the wilds.

The speaker was introduced by L. A. Kells, and received the official thanks of the club president, Frank Creeggan.

Deaf Not Dumb

Mr. Demeza went on to say that there are often misconceptions concerning the School for the Deaf and many people still refer to them as a deaf and dumb school. All are deaf but none is dumb. A normal child learns to speak by imitation of what he hears, whereas a deaf child, in almost all cases has normal vocal organs, but he must learn to speak by artificial methods such as visual aids and touch vibrations.

Therefore is one of the greatest educational handicaps but once they have been taught it is not a handicap and, eventually, most deaf students leave the schools to take good positions and are completely self supporting. Comparing a five year normal child with a deaf child is that the normal child entery school with a vocabulary of about 3,000 words and at the age of seven years, after two years of schooling his vocabulary has increased to 4,000 words.

No Vocabulary

A deaf child of five enters the school with no vocabulary—he can't understand the spoken word, has no verbal words of his own with which to express himself—but he does see things and is normal mentally. Thus the task of the school is to build up a vocabulary and teach the child all the things that are taught in normal schools.

Mr. Demeza then enlarged upon the three distinct types of deafness. Ninety-five per cent of their students are sufficiently deaf and are unable to speak naturally; five per cent are sufficiently hard of hearing and require training in lip reading. As for the school itself, it is a school, and not an institution, and a welfare agency. Students must be residents of Ontario and have attained the age of five years.

Inquiries for entry into the school are sent in by the parents themselves, Children's Aid Societies and Public Health organizations. An application form is then sent out and must be returned duly filled out. These arrangements are made for an inspector or representative of the school to visit the child. He then attempts to assess the hearing and the ability of the child by means of performance tests. Doctors are consulted and if the child school a number of years ago and by these means the child can be determined if the child is accepted into the school.

Period of Training

At the present time to become a teacher of the deaf one must be a teacher of normal children, and also have had a year's practice before joining the staff you must go through this period of training before charge of a class of children, practise teaching, doing reading, writing and lip reading, finally graduate as a qualified teacher. Mr. Demeza does not have an alternative plan, a one year plan which has been sponsored by the Province of Vancouver. They hope to be able to take teachers from Normal school and train them directly at the school in one year.

The Belleville school is divided in three sections with the same teaching staff. The smallest students who range from 9-13 years, the intermediates from 13-15 and the senior students from 15 years on. The senior students retain the same teacher for two years and receive from 30 per cent to 40 per cent educational training and the rest academic.

Mere Similarities

In conclusion, Mr. Demeza said that in comparing other schools throughout the world the similarities are more apparent than the differences. In some European schools, particularly in Scandinavian schools the trend is to take children from the age of three years in La Crosse and the United States the age limit is five. But in each instance the point they are striving for is to have more attractive and homelike surroundings.

Mrs. Laura McLaughlin, thanked the speaker and the lady fire address. The club was also happy to have Mrs. Demeza as a guest for the evening.

After a short business session the meeting was brought to a close by President Frances Bennett.

Dyed Beards Green

Public School Choir Will Be Heard Over CBL

A combined public school choir from Queen Victoria and Queen Mary Public Schools in the city will be heard over CBL, Toronto, on Monday, March 23rd., on a special Education broadcasts for schools conducted by the Department of Education in co-operation with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall's choir is one of four groups from different parts of the province chosen to give each year. The broadcast of choir work will be broadcast by Dr. G. R. Kenwick, director of music for the Department of Education.

The Belleville choir, consisting of close to 400 voices, will go to Toronto for the broadcast. Technicians from the CBC will visit Belleville Friday to make a tape recording in the Prince George Theatre auditorium.

Miss Phyllis May, A.R.C.T., supervisor of music in Belleville public schools, has been responsible for training the choir and has charge of the stage recording. Mrs. Elizabeth Rubba, Mus. Bac., will be the accompanist.

During one of the numbers to be sung by the choir, Mr. Leslie Gilchrist and Mr. Lockie will play obligato for two violins. The combined choir will be composed of Grade 8 pupils from Queen Mary Public School and Grades 6 and 7 at Queen Victoria School.

The broadcast will be heard Monday morning from 9.45 to 10.00.

$140,000,000 Needed To Clear Pollution

OTTAWA (CP)—An expenditure of about $140,000,000 will be needed to clear up pollution in Canada-United States boundary waters around Southeastern Ontario, A. G. L. McNaughton said Tuesday.

Gen. McNaughton, Canadian co-chairman of the international joint commission that regulates the use of these waters, told the Commons external affairs committee that the commission is "on the high road to getting the problem solved."

Under a reference from the two countries, the commission has been investigating the problem for several years.

Gen. McNaughton said projects such as sewage disposal works had been started and were completed. Work would total to about two-thirds the $140,000,000 aggregate. The situation was gradually improving.

Obituary

MRS. CHARLOTTE THOMPSON

181 Forde Street

Following a one month illness, Mrs. Charlotte Thompson of 181 Furcy Street died in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday. She was in her 87th year.

Born in Bathurst Township, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Garey, she had been a resident of Pierna prior to taking up residence in Belleville 19 years ago.

Her husband, Gerald Thompson, predeceased her 28 years ago. Surviving are two sons, Arthur of this city and Frederick, also of Belleville. She is also survived by four daughters, Mrs. William (Gladys) Howard of Toronto; Mrs. Gordon (Mary) Clements of Oshawa; Mrs. Harold (Hilda) Jones of Smiths Falls; and Mrs. Clarence (Bertha) Clarke of Ox Tongue Lake.

A member of the United Church, the deceased is resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement will appear later.

Curling Club To Hold 'Spiel' At the Arena

Plans for a one-day bonspiel at the Memorial Arena on Saturday, April 18th, were laid on Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Quinte Curling Club held at the Wharf Street Debating Club. There was a large attendance at the meeting and the suggestion of the spiel by the president, William Gaslit, was enthusiastically received. It was the concensus that a "spiel" would show the curlers, the good fellowship that can be obtained through curling clubs, while the residents would be able to witness some of the best curling in the province.

Rinks will be invited to attend from Kingston, Napanee, Peterbough, Oshawa, Brockville, Westport, Cobourg and Toronto. Accommodations for twenty rinks will be provided with the home clubs supplying dinner. The spiel will be a three-game affair with an entry fee of $6 a rink. It is the intention of the club to have a prize for every trophy and prizes to accompany for the winning rink and other prizes for other winners. An entertainment committee of Albert "Toots" Holway, Bob Farquharson and Stephen Flintoft was named, while the president will be game chairman.

A number of members have already taken out their membership for the season and the way there are signing up the list will soon be filled. Anyone wishing to join the club can secure all the information required from Don MacKinnon at the Court House. It is expected that ice will be available early in April and that the boys will have some practice before the bonspiel begins. A number of the members are taking in the anglers' bonspiel to be held in Kingston early in April.

Technicalities Holding Up Construction of New High School Being Ironed Out

Technicalities holding up the go-ahead signal for construction of the new high school planned by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board are slowly being ironed out, it was stated today by area board officials.

Plans for the construction of the proposed new school to relieve crowded accommodation at the Belleville Collegiate were given lengthy discussion at the regular meeting of the board held Tuesday evening passing of these necessary by-law by city council is now awaited.

Harold C. Seldon, as chairman of the sites and accommodation committee for the board stated today that the required debenture agreement from Thurlow township and the Sidney township by-law for purchase of their education, have been received by the board. Both these were requested by city council before action could be taken.

Waiting on Passing

"We are now waiting on the first and second reading of the school construction by-law by city council and approval by the Municipal Board and final passing by council," Mr. Seldon stated.

When the necessary by-law is passed by council, Mr. Seldon said that E. H. Roberts of Weshort, Ont., would be retained as the architect to draw plans for the new school.

Discussion on the new high

The next meeting of the club will be held at the Wharf Street Debating Club two weeks from last night.

school took up most of the time during the board meeting.

Authorization was given for application to the Department of Education for formation of a fifth shop class at the local collegiate. There are now four shop classes in operation and a fifth class for instruction in the various phases of electrical work.

Only Start This Year

Principal G. K. Currie explained that only a start could be made next year in electrical work but this would be developed on completion of the new school. The number of technical students at the school is gradually building up so that the four classes operating cannot handle them all.

"Belleville is practically the only collegiate in the province which has no electrical shop, yet this city is considered as one of the more important hydro centres," he said.

The 10 ten classrooms at the collegiate on Monday night for a period of three weeks was granted for civil defence instruction in and the manufacturers of the new model will keep the machine up to date at no cost to the school. This is a policy followed with other types of electrical appliances.

Classes in basic English will be continued at the school until May 31st, it was decided. Regular night school classes will be closed at the end of March, but the demand for basic English classes is such that they will be continued for another two months.

A grant of $10 will be paid for one student in verse speaking to attend the Ontario Education Association convention to be held in Toronto during Easter.

Councillor Harwood

A special committee was formed to study group life insurance at the school.

Delegates from the local board were authorized to attend a meeting of the School Trustees and Ratepayers' Association to be held Saturday at Smiths Falls.

Fire clearances at the school will be re-decorated during the coming summer. The work will be done by a local painter, a change from the former policy of having school caretakers do the work.

Five Persons Missing In Ticonderoga Fire

TICONDEROGA, N. Y. (AP) — Five persons were missing and believed dead in a fire that destroyed the Ticonderoga Inn here early today.

The fire broke out shortly after the last of a group of St. Patrick's Day celebrators had left the three-story frame hotel. It swept rapidly through the structure.

HELPFUL FREMEER

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP)—Passengers from three other cars stopped to help a woman driver whose car was stalled on a steep hill near Clear Lake, Man. Among the men who helped get the car going again was Premier D. M. Campbell, who then resumed his trip with a party of curlers.

Says Malenkov Safe in Power If He Stays on Terms With Beria

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Georgi M. Malenkov heads a cautious regime in the Kremlin but he will continue to head it as long as he stays on good terms with his twin in power, Lavrenti F. Beria. If they fall out one would have to liquidate the other and the winner would be in serious danger.

This is a regime which must avoid taking unnecessary chances.

To give themselves time to buttress their regime at home, Prime Minister Malenkov, ruler of the Soviet Communist party, and Interior Minister Beria, ruler of the omnipresent secret police, are likely to launch a great peace offensive abroad. It will not necessarily be aimed at peace, but at giving the regime time to fortify its own safety.

The Malenkov-Beria combination has already given an indication of its course. The party has been told that disunity—meaning any shadow of disobedience—will be swiftly punished.

Satellite Communist leaders and Communist leaders from the non-Communist countries were told by Malenkov in the Stalin funeral oration that the U.S.S.R. is not giving up its concern for "workers of colonial and capitalist countries."

The cold war, they are told, must not change.

Responsible for tightening the grip on the satellite world will be Beria, the most feared individual in the Red empire.

Beria's real name is said to be Mohsha Sikuratow—is a Georgian, as was Stalin. He can be a cool, vicious killer. He is of the total atmosphere, he is forbidding and terrifying.

All his Communist party career, Beria has specialized in the grisly business of secret police, from the days of the revolutionary Cheka, through the OGPU, the NKVD and up to his present pre-eminence as ruler of an empire of spies, informers and executioners.

Beria's own organizations are stocked with spies of the Communist party apparatus, ruled by Malenkov. Both the party apparatus and the secret police have spies to the enemy, navy and air forces, now headed up by the non-entities, marshal, Nikolai Bulganin, an old time flatterer.

ALARMING REPORT ON ATOMIC STRENGTH

The atomic blast set off in Nevada this week was described by some observers as disappointing in the sense that it lacked the spectacular features of the previous one which had been witnessed. More important, however, was the fact that this new test appeared to meet the expectations of the scientists.

It is likely that this test was one of more importance to Washington defence heads than any that have been made heretofore because it is only quite recently that a group of top-level scientists in the United States have completed a two-year study of Russia's potential atomic military power. The report has been called "grim," and it is apparently all of that considering the head start the U.S. once had in atomic development.

The alarming conclusion of the American experts is that Russia will have a sufficient stock-pile of atomic bombs and the aircraft to deliver them in crippling numbers within two years. Beyond that point the report concerns itself with America's present ability to defend such an attack, and the experts declare that today the U.S. does not have the ability.

Present defences—radar, fighter planes, anti-aircraft batteries actually in operation—could not, they estimate, destroy much more than 10 per cent of the invaders. This one-in-ten figure is a dismal one in the face of the prospect that 100 per cent of the invaders may be carrying atomic bombs.

In this report Washington has been given a dramatic illustration of how completely the strategic position of the United States has been reversed since the first Russian atomic explosion in August, 1949. Before then, the strategy—and the confidence of the democracies in peace being secured—rested solidly on the fact that America was years ahead of Russia. On the assumption that Russia intended to develop a widespread, inter-continental attack force of huge bombers which could deliver atomic bombs anywhere in the world in an emergency, the belief that it would take years for the Russians to catch up, it was believed that this Strategic Air Command was a guarantee of peace.

All this has changed since 1949 and it is now the belief of the atomic experts that the progress Russia has made practically nullifies the power of the Strategic Air Command as a deterrent to war within two years from the Russians could possibly launch an attack which would not only destroy the American ability to fight but would, in its first strike, also wipe out the U.S. as a nation.

However, the experts believe that defence against such an attack is possible, particularly in view of new defence weapons being developed. But they point out the very scheduled that it can only be developed at enormous cost. Such a project for air defence might mean an additional cost of $20 billions in the present U.S. defence program.

That is the "grim" prospect that the experts' report has put before President Eisenhower. In Washington it is regarded that the full implications of the report are demanding the most serious consideration of the President and his advisers. It is a grave alternative which has been put before them however. There is no doubt that in spite of the eminence of the experts whose names are attached to these opinions there would be great opposition in some quarters, and certainly within his own party, against such a huge boost in defence spending.

The President must decide whether to gamble these vast sums—and perhaps the well-being of the whole economy of the scientists being right, or to gamble the survival of the United States on the scientists being wrong.

In the light of this recent picture the greatest importance is attached to the tests at were being made on new atomic weapons in Nevada.

THE BLITZ IS EFFECTIVE

We do not know who first came up with the idea of applying a blitz technique to the business of raising money for worthy public objects such as the Red Cross but it was a happy thought and has proved to be highly effective.

The blitz canvass is now an accepted feature of almost every community drive for funds. Its efficacy was again demonstrated in this week's campaign on behalf of the Red Cross campaign which is being carried out across the dominion throughout the month.

Results to date are the energetic and voluntary efforts of the blitz canvassers and to the generosity of the public in Belleville and its surrounding area, when the one-day drive alone can account for almost half of the total objective.

At a time when there are undoubtedly many more public appeals for financial aid than in years past, and in many cases with the need for help greater than before, it is gratifying to see that the objectives are rarely undersubscribed, and so often exceed the quotas. The public's blitz technique has been a help in these new circumstances. It certainly gives a healthy impetus to the enthusiasm of the canvassers and it gives the public more of a feeling of taking part when a whole community is approached in a single day.

UPS AND DOWNS

Passenger elevators in the United States travel approximately 6,250,000 miles a day, according to a note in the N.Y. Journal of Commerce. This is roughly equivalent to 250 times around the world. There are some 125,000 passenger units in operation. Each averages 1,000 riders and 50 miles a day.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

March 18, 1923.

The 51st anniversary of Dundas Street Methodist Church, formerly known as the city mission, which was established by the Rev. A. Schuster, was celebrated on Sunday last.

Miss Ann Ketcheson is home from Kingston to spend a short holiday.

Friends of Mr. Ted Lill will be interested to learn that he has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Queen's University Journal for the academic year 1923-24.

Mrs. A. S. Kerr and children of Bowmanville spent yesterday in the city the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. O. Stewart, East Moira Street.

Miss Margaret Moore of Peterborough is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Miles, in this city.

Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton attended a meeting of the Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada in Toronto this week.

40 YEARS AGO

March 18, 1913.

Conditions indicate that there will not be a flood here this spring.

An ancient shield, dated back to the discovery of America by Columbus was found recently by men excavating at Marysville. It bears a replica of St. Mary's Church and discovery's barques and carries the likeness of Columbus and some kneeling Indians. On it is engraved "Ave Maria Stella" meaning "Ave St. Maria" and at the base are the figures 1492. The shield is now in the local historical department at Queen's University, Kingston.

The Ontario Government is establishing a fish hatchery at Lake-on-the-Mountain, about five miles from Picton. When completed it will be the largest hatchery in the province.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy McTaggart have returned to the city. Mr. Charles Hanna is attending a convention of the Woodmen of the World in London, Ontario.

40 YEARS AGO

March 18, 1913.

The staff sergeants and sergeants of the 15th. Regiment, entertained at an At Home in the armouries last evening and the affair was most enjoyable. About seventy-five couples were present. Sergt.-Major F. R. Hector (W.O.) was the chairman of the committee in charge. Lieut. Col. Lane, Major Mark and several other officers were present.

Dr. Thomas Lee Morgan of Pittsburgh, Pa., is sending a few days here.

Mrs. C. F. Payne, Burnham Street, is visiting her daughter in Toronto.

Mr. M. H. Mowry is spending a few days in Peterborough.

At the curling rink last evening the Irishmen defeating the Englishmen in the annual 19th. of Ireland match. The following composed the rink: Irishmen, W. N. Belaby, A. P. Allen, P. McG. Dyer, F. Dolan, skip. 19. Englishmen, H. Holland, B. Eley, J. D. Clarke, A. Jones, skip. 15.

50 YEARS AGO

March 18, 1903.

Mr. J. H. Hart has returned home from the Old Country where he spent some time on business.

The ladies were out in large numbers today attending the spring millinery openings.

The roadway on Front street was scraped and sweed today and the improvement is a treat.

Mr. John Cochram of Madoc was in town today.

Mr. F. Britton of Napanee was in town today.

Many citizens are complaining about the street car tracks on Front street, which above the mills are prominently now that the mud has been removed. Something should be done with the tracks, which are not in use; at present they are a nuisance.

Cocoa Saves Gold Coast

(Watertown Times)

That was a fortunate day for Britain when cocoa seeds were brought out of Brazil to the land of Fernando Po off the west coast of Africa, and from this tiny island created her colony in the Gold Coast. For the gold export had just about dropped into the last century and the Britons needed another crop. Now the British colony bordering the South Atlantic could well be named the Cocoa Coast since $300,000,000 worth of cocoa, or one-third the world's supply, is produced there yearly.

Many a plum tree makes a better showing than a cocoa tree, but from the branches hang 40 or 50 pods, containing the valuable cocoa beans. Once a year about this time the pods ripen, are cut open and the beans shaken out. Then follows a process of drying in the sun for a week or more while to a deep chocolate color, are sorted and packed into 60-pound bags.

In 1947 the British Government acted as it had done in the past and accumulated $50,000,000 in the business. Now a board controls the industry with two British officials of the Gold Coast Government as chairman, representing the growers, and three more sterling men, the London merchants. A Briton serves as general manager.

But the high prices of 1947 dipped in 1948, went lower in 1950 till they reached $300 a ton and the board had to make up the price to the farmers from their reserves in order to pay them for each 60-pound bag more than the price had been bet $1.80 a load.

The Korean War changed the price of cocoa. Up it went from $300 a ton to $1,000. Then the growers' price became $11.30, and the government and the farmers were doing well. Then came the result.

Meanwhile with $200,000,000 in reserve profits the government had been able to do something. The farmers are abundantly satisfied with the arrangement that a crop well suited to the soil, the climate and to the growers' hands and eyes and knowledge has under his big trees, drops the cocoa pods down to the ground, and in seven years has a tree producing pods.

On this year's supply the United States will take 40 per cent, valued at $80,000,000, British one-fourth, Russia, Western Germany and Holland about $1,200,000.

1 Million Trees a Week

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

The Scottish Forestry Commission is seeking qualified men for Ontario farms for its tree reforestation program. Scotland has had much experience in handling woodlands over world wars and the authorities have a big problem on them. Over a million trees a week will be planted in Scotland this year. Since the war the rate of planting has been steadily speeded up. In 1939 it was 7,000 acres; in 1953 it will be 33,000 acres.

In spite of this increased planting has been the growing reserves of young trees now 1,000 million. Two years ago there were 700 million today. There are in the main coniferous, or fir trees, with native coniferous tree, the Scots pine, existing and also imported of Sitka spruce, Norway spruce, Japanese larch and Douglas fir. Of these, the Sitka spruce are particular, the Sitka spruce are favoured for planting because only thirty years are, are now over 100 feet in height.

So that there may be no break in planting, the Forestry Commission maintains many years of new land each year. In 1933 the commission owned 215,000 acres to its holdings, of which over 44,000 acres to its holdings, of which over 44,000 acres are now planting. The commission now owns over one million acres in Scotland.

Wandering Waves

(Windsor Star)

The movement of water always has had an appeal to humans. There is an urge to throw something into the water to see how far it is carried. Youngsters throw sticks into streams and, watching them float away, wonder how far they will be carried.

Following this impulse, Dr. S. Hardy Campbell of Windsor who, in 1951, made the Arctic trip on the government ship C. D. Howe, placed two cigars, some matches and a note in a vinegar bottle and dropped it overboard. He then was within 980 miles of the North Pole, up in the Davis Strait between Baffin Island and Greenland.

He wondered where the waves would carry it. Now he knows, as 12 months later he has received a letter from Neil MacDonald on the Isle of Saleshare in the Hebrides. The bottle evidently was broken by the great ice floes and on this rocky Scottish coast but the note was there and part of it legible. The bottle had been carried, by the mysterious course of currents and waves, down from the Arctic and across the Atlantic.

Looking at a map one has the idea of an ocean being a vast placid body of water. But it is a constantly moving mass, impelled by wind and wave, by current and tide. Arctic waters may find themselves in the Antarctic; those in the mid North Atlantic get close to the South Pacific. Those Wild Animals How Tame?

(Sudbury Star)

A Simcoe wild animal trainer had his left arm so badly mangled by one of his "tame" lions that he had to be amputated at the shoulder.

The same "tame" lion had forced a way of bowing after attention, and the loss of an arm does not seem payment in proper coin for a belief that "tame" wild animals are harmless.

We remember the "tame" Northern Ontario some years ago to pull a sleigh through crowded city streets. We can't remember that the handlers saw to it that the wolves were muzzled.

On more than one occasion we have listened to the stories of transplanted "farm boys" in the cities telling of "tame" raccoons that chewed holes through leather gloves protecting hands reaching into cages with feed.

It prompts the question of whether "trained" wild animals are "tamed" wild animals.

In mild-ocean one month may be tossing themselves upon sandy beaches or rugged shores in another month.

All this is part of the mystery of Nature and the constant movement of the elements. Even a tiny bottle bobbing atop treacherous waves in an ocean storm may find itself on a sandy, secluded shore, or crash upon a barren shore.

Rhino Nears Extinction

(National Geographic)

A frustrated love life has helped to bring the tough rhinoceros to the brink of extinction, relates National Geographic Bulletin.

Rhinos, which resemble ice except for man, these huge, herbivorous mammals are members of a group that dates back to prehistoric times. Now, however, only five species or rhinoceros remain. Some of the species are thought to number less than 100 living members.

The rest of the rhinoceros with shieldlike folded skin and single nasal horn has been reduced. It is estimated, by several hundred individuals living mostly in Java and Nepal. The Javan rhinoceros also is vanishing, while the Sumatran rhino, smallest of the five species, is believed to be reduced to some 80 animals.

The African species of rhinos has inhabit Africa also are depleted. The smooth-coated white rhinoceros that ranges through much of the continent is diminishing in numbers, but the two hairy species are rarely extinct. Right protective measures, they are slightly increased the count of these light gray monsters.

The white rhino, largest of the worlds second largest land animal, after the elephant. He stands nearly six feet at the shoulders and weighs up to three tons, and his two horns are often long enough to be carved into canes. One of his favorite foods is clinging best to starlings that pick ticks from his back.

The nasal horn from which the thing gets his name is his principal weapon. Rhinos have also one of the prime causes of their downfall. Chinese drugs, born, actually composed of compressed hair, has been credited with curing many ailments. In China a pound of it is worth about $700. Only the Communist monarchs once used rhinoceros horn for medicine, but the belief that such cups would counteract poison.

Rhino only has his valuable horn strong hide thinned the rhino's hide was used by warriors in many ranks, but romance comes all too seldom to these lovelorn beasts.

Rhinos are an unsociable lot, often preferring to live entirely alone for long periods. When they decide to change their commuting grunts into a high sweet mating whistle, they must wander over great distances to find another rhinoceros.

When a male finally finds a mate, as likely as not she may reject him. To make matters worse, rhinos are short-sighted, frequently this about once every three years the time of the time required to bear and rear the lone calf is born.

Strict conservation laws now protect most rhinoceroses. It is hard, however, to preserve an animal that is so valuable to poachers. Hunting and well tempered that it will charge a truck as well as a man, and so downright stupid.

Letter to the Editor

Proposes Deal With the Reds

To the Editor:

Sir—I see by the papers that Communist leaders in Korea will swap hostages with the free countries. Why should we not take the best of it and make a real offer to the new Red boss Malenkov and offer to buy all Korea?

Every Communist in Canada and in the U.S.A. should get a free one-way ticket for country in Korea. Then they could in return to North Korean and Chinese Christians who do not wish to return to their homeland to be tortured to death. Would be given political asylum in the free countries.

HOARDING FOR SOWING?

The poet Tennyson once wrote a poem entitled "They Sacks of Wheat." He tells of one man who had hoarded his grain and when it rotted away. The other sowed his grain broadcast and reaped a plentiful harvest.

This is the old story over again of those who serve only self and thereby losing it. The Christian enterprise is an invitation to men and women everywhere to lose themselves in the service of others. Sometimes this means the actual laying down of life and the acceptance of martyrdom. Usually more often it means something less spectacular. The service of life with the life all of us lead day by day.

People who continually want their own way are trying to save their lives and having the disappointing experience of seeing its satisfactions escape them. There is a pathetic element in the life of the world whose lives are like the sack of rotted wheat. They are selfishly, complacently, and every good quality of heart and mind has been withheld from them. Others hold their money, unwilling to part to any good cause unless they are literally shamed into giving. Some of the opposition has gone down the drain because it could not stand the pressure of progress and enlightenment.

Wheat kept in a sack will rot; sown broadcast, it brings forth plentiful harvests.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

RESH-LIGHTED REPRODUCTIVE SYSTEMS

Community tongue - clucking and finger-wagging meet any attempt to initiate sex-education in the public schools. Pioneers in the field have long fought adamant opposition from those who would "protect" children from "exposure" to knowledge. This applies not only to children but to knowledge of which the self-righteous disapprove.

Recently it is but a sprinkling who would prevent any steps toward sex-education. The debate now is no longer shall we teach about sex, but two will do the teaching, when, where, and how?

Are public-school teachers qualified to impart such delicate and profound knowledge in the manner that will have lifetime influence? Is it better for parents to assume the obligation. If so, why don't they? Or would it be better if the religious leaders in the community took the responsibility?

I witnessed one sixth-grade in which the reproductive system was being explained by means of movies and colored slides, with some success. But by the way and questions by the pupils afterward, it was fine and dandy, with one glaring exception:

No mention had therefore been made of other "systems" in the human mechanism—digestive, circulatory, glandular, etc. The reproductive system cannot be thrown forth in the primitive glory, unattached to any related knowledge would "protect" children from the elementary school go out, conceiving of their bodies as one great, neon-lighting reproductive system, surrounded by a vague mass which consumes and excretes, breaks or bleeds?

This much-maligned reproductive system plays its amazing part in the sophisticated and unconscious scheme of the whole which God created, and can be explained in just that way.

Isolating it from a physical, spiritual, intellectual concept of man seems to be a mechanized and sterile approach.

Here is a contribution to make to the child's total concept of life. No one can be taken alone. The parents, the school, the church, can work together.

Unfortunately, or happily, as the case may be, sex knowledge is received as much from the sidelong glance of a stranger, or the embarrassed look in the eyes of a mother who loves her husband, as from the silent movies, lectures or "little talks."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

One of the Institutions of America is Mary Margaret McBride's daily author interviews and book reviews, broadcast to millions of listers. She was recently honored by her on the occasion of the latest publication of Miss McBride Talks entitled "The Great Little Things."

Each of her studies is short t...e before going on the air, I was fascinated by the rows of books on shelves from floor to ceiling—a thousand or more of them I should think. Each one a friend and author interviewed. I thought the collection of the author and readers who have been influenced by these kindnesses that she dedicated millions for many years and of the love for this remarkable woman, whose vibrating personality and radiant smile interviewers will never forget.

"love" is attached to most of them for here is a woman who is doing a big job in the world—and people love her for it—and bless her!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The proportion of women to whom style is the very first consideration in clothes has increased enormously in my lifetime. To assume that considerations of style and fashion are inborn characteristic of the fair sex is nonsense. There has always been a tribe of men to whom style has been an obsession. Classic literature and art bear witness to this. But I can clearly recollect, from my boyhood, the attitude of elderly ladies who knitted their own stockings. My early memories are of women who rather severe women who were tidy and neat to the point of fetishism, and who would no more show themselves at the back door of the dowdy condition associated with housework than they would appear in the street in their shift. In the sense of fashion even then adopted by the "fashionable" of the time they had not a trace of it. They scorned it. This was not a local condition associated with my family or my neighborhood. It was that the ladies in the neighborhood who did affect the styles of "society" had been given their marching orders down upon. They were deemed to be putting on side, if not subject. All over the city, in every town, and certainly in every village and through the farming country, only a small fraction of the female population either attempted or presumed to put on style.

The first consideration in clothing was value: in terms of durability. That was the criterion of winter or summer. The values were not those of today in terms of durability. How long would it last, and how could it be altered so as to appear different from now, in due time? And however unfashionable a garment might be in style, of prettiness, of becomingness was not always a matter for any revolution that has occurred, in which every girl and woman in the land, from the humblest village to the core of cities, shows every possible inclination into subordination to style, smartness and beauty is more startling than the political revolutions of the same era. If you went to confirm all this, talk to any really aged lady, making sure, of course, that you are not the victim of the few "society" belles of the bygone times.

'Billiards' Topic Of Classification Talk at Rotary

Campbellford—"Billiards" was the topic of the classification speech given by Notarian J. H. Smith at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club in the Parish Hall this week.

Introduced by past president F. Linton, he said that billiards, as we know it, began to find its way into Canadian and American life over a century ago.

The gradual transformation from the simplicity of the agricultural era to the machine age of today, had more effect on recreation than any other field of activity, and among the numerous recreations and games of skill, billiards gained many thousands of new players, many of them women.

National and international competitions made the game a spectator's sport, which offered a change of pace during the winter months.

Billiard tournaments have been a national sport for nearly one hundred years. George Washington was a billiard enthusiast and ever since his time the executive mansion in Washington has had its own billiard room. Abraham Lincoln was once quoted as saying that the game of billiards was a health inspiring scientific game, which lent recreation to a fatigued mind.

First Title in 1859

The first national billiard championship was played in Detroit in 1859, with Michel Phelan winning the title and $15,000, defeating Johnny Forester before 500 fans who paid $3 admission to see the match.

The first intercollegiate match was played in 1860, with Harvard winning over Yale.

In perhaps one of the most dramatic sports events of all times, in 1906, the 18 year old "boy wonder" Willie Hoppe of New York travelled to Paris to wrest the world's billiard title from Maurice Vignaux.

Billiards, like all other recreations, has kept pace with the times, introducing new and modern equipment, rules and regulations have changed and with shorter working hours, Canadians are finding more time for recreations and billiards finds itself among those recreations.

Mr. Smith was thanked by President Frank DeCarol.

Donates Trophy

The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Public Welfare for the Province of Ontario, and member of Northumberland, has donated a handsome travelling trophy to be awarded annually to the winner of the Northern Division of Trent Valley Hockey League. Marmora and Campbellford are thus in competition for the trophy in its first year of circulation.

Frank S. Follwell, M.P. representing Hastings South, in Ottawa, has made a similar donation for Southern Section winners.

The Thomas Bata Trophy is the prize for the team taking the honors in the North-South playoffs at the season's end.

Guest Speaker

Colonel Robert S. Harewood, chief secretary of the Salvation Army of Canada and Bermuda was guest speaker at a combined service held in St. John's United Church on Sunday evening. After the service, the Kingston citadel Salvation Army band entertained the large crowd. The band also accompanied Colonel Harewood to service in the Salvation Army citadel on Sunday morning and Bunbrae Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon.

On Saturday night, the band presented a program of stirring band music before a large crowd in the high school auditorium.

Bill Hutton, Barber in Trenton For Nearly 57 Years, Celebrates 75th Birthday; Shaved Corbett

TRENTON (Special) — The other day Bill Hutton celebrated his 75th birthday.

Lots of people live that long these days but it's doubtful if any of them are better preserved and as active as the genial barber who has been cutting hair and shaving people going on 57 years.

And surely there are fewer barbers his age still turning out top-rated haircuts and shaves without wearing glasses. Bill, a mighty mite, who is five feet two inches tall and never weighed more than 120 pounds took a lumberman's advice back in the Gilmour timber limits before the turn of the century. At the time he was working in the camps kitchen when a friend observed that he should take up barbering because he wasn't big enough for heavy work.

So when Bill made the rightest decision of his life he came back to Trenton and started serving his apprenticeship with the late Herman Parr. At that time shave and a haircut was 25 cents.

It was in 1910 that Bill started in business for himself in Nulty's building on Front Street. Before that he had been out in the world gaining experience and learning his trade.

Shaved Jim Corbett

One time Bill found himself in the city of Cleveland working at a popular stand often visited by famous men of the early days. "One day Buffalo Bill strode in and got in my chair for a shave," relates Bill. "I didn't think too much of that experience but I always remember the times I worked on Gentlemen Jim Corbett. He was a big fellow and when he bore in the shop would kid us suggesting we get in the ring for a fight. I figure the wind from one of his fists would knock me down."

Bill worked in a shop in Masonore, when gold mining was booming at Deloro and Belmont. They were four hotels doing a land office business in 1896. Three were bustling around the town when the horse drawn carryall brought between 40 and 50 men back from the "Five Acres" mine every night.

For a man who has a very terrific memory Bill can't commence to estimate the number of shaves and haircuts he has given in nearly 80 years wielding the razor and scissors. But he cherishes memories of covered bridges that linked east and west Trenton, the Chemical plant explosion in 1918 when all in the town were ordered to vacate their houses for fear they'd be trapped by a cave in or cut by broken glass. He believes he started bathing only a few years after the striped barber pole was introduced to the business.

You can drop in and see Bill as busy as the proverbial bee every day but Wednesday and Sunday. He has been doing this three days a week for 43 straight years. Time hasn't changed him any excepting there's a little more silver in his hair. But his little corner warmth for his friendly indoctrinee smile. Received in Boston

When Bill celebrated his birthday last Friday he received to receive as soon as his son, Johnny can find another helper. Incidentally, the grandchildren of the Trenton barber business has five sons all of them understudies of their great father. However, only one of his boys, Jack of Picton, and Jim of Trenton, chose to follow the trade in the dad's footsteps.

Bill seems happy about quitting but his son expects that he'll drop at the shop putting his hand in when things get rushed. On the other hand Bill hints that you'll find him easier along some trout stream or back in the bush stalking deer.

Most of Bill's family and many relatives went to his birthday party last Sunday. Among the family present were Edward of Port Hiron; Mrs. Brickman, (Grace), of Port Hope; Jack of Picton, Jim, at home, and most of his 14 grandchildren. Guests were Mate, of Oshawa, and Percy of Kingston. Their mother, Mrs. Hutton died four years ago.

Bill has three sisters and a brother all living in Trenton. Eva Adair, Trenton; Mrs. Jim (Alice) Rook, Trenton; Mrs. Nell Dequette, Trenton and Stanley Hutton, retired government photographer, Ottawa.

Newest RCAF Transport Plane On Display to Press at Station

TRENTON (Special) — The newest transport plane in the R.C.A.F. was on display to the press at the air station here yesterday.

With Commanding Officer Group Captain J. Millward, D.F.C., at the controls, the Ontario Intelligencer was taken for a spin around Hastings, Peterborough and Prince Edward counties.

Designated the "Flying Boxcar", the C-119 Fairchild carries 62 people including a six-man crew. It will replace the faithful C-47 Dakota as the workhorse of the air force.

In tests a 19,500 bulldozer was carried and dropped from the great cargo ship on a parachute 900 feet in diameter. The C-119 has been adopted as the basic plane for the Canadian Van Doos and P.P.C.L.I. airborne infantry troops.

The other day a Sabre jet plane had to be transported from one point to another quite some distance. The moving operation proved no problem for the "fly boys" after the wings had been taken off the weighty F-86.

The C-119 was rightly named "Flying Boxcar" because the inside of the fuselage appears every bit as big as the interior of a railroad freight car.

FLIGHT FOR "DOC"

Flight Lieutenant "Doc" Prescott, a pilot with Air Transport Command, brought the giant aircraft in from Montreal and was at the helm during the flabbing demonstration, when ground people were shown various features of the "boxcar" in flight.

CAMPBELLFORD Large Audiences See Sparkling Operetta, 'Don Alonzo's Treasure'

Campbellford — Large audiences greeted the performance of "Don Alonzo's Treasure," an operetta in two acts by the students of Campbellford, High School in their auditorium.

Judging by the spontaneous applause, this delightful Spanish operetta was an unqualified success.

Colorful Spanish costumes, and lively, melodious choruses to the accompaniment of tambourines and the click of castanets, together with excellent solos, duets and quartets made the performance a most enjoyable one.

Hidden Treasure

The story centres around the search of a hidden treasure which brings a party of Americans to Spain. The disappointing efforts which pursue the treasure hunting party, are in the end, by a strange quirk of fate, brought to a glorious success.

Gayle Meyers, who was to have taken the role of Dolores, was taken ill, and her important part was taken by Joan McCulloch at the last moment. The credible manner in which Joan played the part of Don Diego's elder daughter, deserved special commendations.

The comedy parts were especially well done by (Slim Malone) Ken MacFarlane; (Sherty Simmond) by Charles Calder; (Manuel) by John Bird, and (Paula) by Barbara Fox.

Excellent Work

The work of the principals of the cast was excellent, both the speaking parts and the vocal numbers. The lively, melodious choruses, solos, duets and quartets elicited spontaneous applause from the large audiences.

Great credit was given to Miss Irene Stephens the musical director, to Miss Ferris and Mr. Gentleman who assisted with the dialogue, and to all those who helped in the preparation of this sparkling entertainment.

At the close of the Friday evening performance, members of the staff, who assisted in the production, were presented with gifts by the cast.

A dance to the music of Bruce Barrow's orchestra was enjoyed by the students later.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wood, Belleville, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter Helen Louise, to Richard Austin Flynn, son of Mrs. Flynn, Belleville, and the late Dr. Richard A. Flynn. Wedding to take place at 10 o'clock a.m., on Saturday, April 11, at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville.

L.A.C. A. F. Tosh and Mrs. Tosh were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steward, Peterborough.

Women's Activities

ROSLIN W.I.

Roslin — The March meeting of the Women's Institute was held on the 5th inst., at the home of Mrs. Don Chisholm with 23 present. The vice-president, Mrs. F. Meeks presided.

The branch conveners were reminded to bring their annual reports to the next meeting. The branch directors were asked to be a committee to prepare a slate of officers for the next meeting.

Miss A. Wilson, convener of public relations and community activities, read a paper on "The Art of Reading."

The leader, Mrs. J. Robinson, was in charge of the program. Mrs. M. Hagerty presided at the piano for the community singing.

A reading on "Tulips," was given by Mrs. Sharpe. The first tulip bulbs were brought to Holland from Turkey in 1554. Since that time a great industry has grown with many bulbs being exported annually. The United States are their best customers. Considerable hybridizing is a been done on the tulip with the Darwin Tulip being the first great hybrid.

During the war many people were forced to eat the tulip bulbs. As the diamond dominates the jewel kingdom, so the tulip dominates the flowers.

The topic for the day, "In the Heart of the Bulb is the Promise of Spring," was given by Mrs. Fred Hall, who spoke of the thrill the gardener gets when the first bulbs start to come up and everything is filled with life.

Seeds of Kindness

Later, as the soil warms up planting time comes. As well as planting the seeds in the soil comes the planting time in home life such as patience, kindness, and love. Life compels one to plant some kind of a garden. What kind will it be?

A paper on the life of St. Patrick, also a poem on "The Emerald Isle" was given by Miss Hazel Wilson.

An article, "Conservation Forces Are Dragging My Feet" was given by the leader, Mrs. Robinson.

A presentation in honor of two of the older members who will soon be leaving the community was held. Mrs. J. Robinson and Mrs. M. Hamilton were asked to take chairs of honor and Mrs. M. Fargey read an address signed on behalf of the W. I. and Mrs. W. Bird and Mrs. D. Leslie presented each with a gift of costume jewellery, for which, although taken completely by surprise, they graciously expressed their thanks and spoke of the many pleasant memories they would have of the Roslin Women's Institute.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time enjoyed.

ICE BREAKER AT WORK

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —The United States Coast Guard ice breaker Mackinaw left harbor at Cheboygan, Mich., Tuesday but was not due to enter the mouth of St. Mary's river until today. Coast Guard officials said the Mackinaw will break ice bridges as far up river as the south end of Neebish Island, but will come no farther. She is due back in the Mackinac Straits by Friday morning. Ice in the lower river will be slowed to disperse before any attempt is made to clear the river to the Sault canal.

Foxboro Community Honors Departing Resident With Gift

The ladies of the Anglican W.A. in Foxboro, met recently at the home of Mrs. Robert Gay, in honor of Mrs. Millie Burleigh, who is leaving the community for her new home.

After being taken by surprise, she was presented with a cut glass cream and sugar with tray in "Cornflower" design.

Mrs. Burleigh thanked the ladies and their kind remembrance and invited them all to visit her in her new home in Napanee.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Gay.

Harmony Studio Club Sponsors 'Boys Night'

Last evening at the home of Mrs. A. E. Veley, R.M.T., Harriett street, 60 members and friends of the Harmony Studio Club met for an "Army Night," with a fine representation of fathers present. Mrs. C. Scott, president of the club, welcomed all and extended a most cordial welcome to the fathers, friends and members.

The evening opened with an introduction of the pupils by Mrs. A. Veley, followed by a splendid violin solo, a fantasy, "The Bird Catcher," played by Mrs. F. A. Youngblunnd, a member of the club, who was accompanied by Mrs. Veley at the piano.

Medium of Entertainment

During the evening Mr. Kenneth Hunting spoke briefly on "Advantages of a Musical Education", in which he mentioned the benefits derived at the Veley babyhood, in which he slept most of the time; play days, shooting at himself; school days, a more serious time, and adolescent days, when he found himself entertainment. "These are the days," said Mr. Hunting addressed the boys is preparing himself to entertain others, as well as himself," with emphasis being placed on music as a medium of entertainment."

As this was the annual Boys' Night, the program was essentially sponsored by the pupils and consisted of the following numbers: "The Boy of China" and "The Talking Clock" by Laurie Rowbotham; "Sunny Salesman," by Robert Roe; "Summertime," Ronald Stratton; "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," John Oliver; "The Rainbow," and "The Bonnie Boy," Peter Veley; "The Feather Doodle," Monty Flindell; "Ding, Dong, Bell," Grant Flindell; "Chubby Dubby, and "The Blackbird," Stewart Godden; "The Wind," Wyn Principe; "Long, Long Ago," Teddy Ronsley; "Jack and Jill," and the "Baseball Game," David Allen; "Our School March," Gordon Fudge. These from the "Surprise Symphony," (Haydn), Dennis Kerrin; "Capriccio," (Haydn), Dennis Rowbotham; "The Slavic March," (Tchaikovsky) Ronald Flindell; "Spring Song," (Dunhill), Wayne Flindell; "Minuet in G Minor," (Tach), Wayne Wickett; "In a Toy Shop," (Berenes) Gerry Olver; "Happy Farmer" (Schumann), Roger Ling; "Sonatina," (Kohler), Richard Cowsill; "Allegro," (Haydn) Richard Rowbotham; "The Irish Boy," (Dunhill), Robert Gilham.

Music Appreciation

In the music appreciation period, Mrs. Veley gave a most interesting talk on the "March" music, explaining the various kinds, as that used in battle; in the army, in the navy, historic marches, as the "Battle of Waterloo," funeral marches, as the "Dead March in Saul" and the various tempos connected with each. A practical demonstration was given in "Anchors Away", and others, concluding with the descriptive March "The Burning of Rome."

Following the period of musical appreciation, refreshments were served following an enjoyable and most profitable evening.

Holy Rosary Altar Society Holds Successful St. Patrick's Tea

Outside snow skies, bright sunshine and freshening breezes; inside, the hum of happy voices, the aroma of freshly brewed tea, and the gayly decorated rooms of the Knights of Columbus Hall, combined to form a pleasant background for the Holy Rosary Altar Society's St. Patrick's tea and sale of homecooking, held yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. H. Brown, president of the society, assisted by Mrs. A. Haley, received the many guests, patrons and friends, while Mrs. J. Braddon received the customary dues and tickets.

The first to meet the eye was the tables where the homecooking table was displayed. Here, lovely ropes of white and green garlands criss-crossed the ceiling from corner to corner; while the homecooking table, supervised by Mrs. R. Lovelace, with Mrs. K. Donnelly and Mrs. J. Bradden, was gayly greened with the many delicacies, pies, sandwiches, cookies, meringues, and date squares. Among the delicious homemade cakes were two bearing tokens of St. Patrick's day. On one, in green icing, a shamrock decorated, was a large green shamrock, while on the other, a beautifully constructed Irish harp. Complementing this was the green and white, with the rope and bows of white. Here, too, were little green shamrocks, in pots, growing with delicious maple creams, fudge, and home made candies, all mouth-watering and most tempting.

Through the archway, was noticed one large table, dutifully at ease, watching television.

Bower of Loveliness

The tea room was a bower of loveliness with its colorful decorations, making one think of spring flowers, the colorful crocuses, and snowdrops. The daffodil appointed tea table with its damask cloth, its centrepiece of pale green carnations and tall green vases of the snapdragons, in a silver basket flanked by silver candelabra, holding aloft two tall green candles centred by a taller white one, and the silver and the glistening silver service making

S. Hastings Y.P.U. Holds Interesting Fellowship Sunday

Ninety young people representing 14 Young People's Unions in South Hastings district of the United Church of Canada recently held a "Fellowship Sunday" of great inspiration at the United Church, Plainfield, Ontario.

In the morning, the young people joined with the congregation of the church to hear Douglas Shanks, a student of Queen's University, bring a message on the theme "The Challenge of Today." He reminded that one must first seek the kingdom of God, stating that the kingdom of God is present if only one would listen to its calling and come to God in a personal fellowship.

Assisting the guest speaker in this young people's service were: Miss Clarence Patchett, Wilhelmine Hoffman. The Plainfield-Bethel-Zion Young People's Choir under the direction of Miss Shirley Kerr provided suitable music.

A period of quiet recreation was conducted by Eloise Sine.

At noon, an enjoyable fellowship banquet was catered to by the W.A. of the Church, Mac Cameron, president, presided over the events of the day and at this time he introduced the members of the district executive and Earl Lashway thanked the ladies of the W.A. for catering.

The afternoon session was opened by a worship service presented by Evelyn Emerson, Boyd Moorcroft and Fred Waite of the Mohs — Thomasburg Young People's Union. Douglas Shanks then gave his second theme address in which he said that one must have patience, and be submissive to God and wait for the fulfillment of His will. If one would hear the challenge one must live the life through Christ, having patience and give Him perfect worship.

Discussion groups were formed and led by district officers, Mac Cameron and George Wilson; Earl Lashway, Reta Christie, Wilhelmine Hoffman and Earl Badgley; Shirley Hall and Eloise Sine; Ralph Swan and Ruth Nicholsen.

This day of fellowship and guidance was brought to a fitting close by the Lord's Holy Communion administered by Rev. E. J. Kersey, minister of the church.

ALL PRICE CONTROLS GO

WASHINGTON (CP)—All remaining price controls in the United States were abolished Tuesday. The office of price stabilization announced that all prices and ceilings on steel, alloys, machine tools, rug and cotton chemicals which had remained under controls. The move represented the final step in a rapid series of events completely freeing the U.S. economy.

Temple Lodge No. 666 A. F.–A. M. Sponsors Ladies' Night

On Monday evening, at the Masonic Temple on Foster Avenue, Worshipful Master H. F. Mott, officers and members of Temple Lodge No. 666 A. F. & A.M., were hosts at a "ladies' night" party, which was attended by 220 local brethren, their wives and friends.

The auditorium was appropriately decorated with a touch of 'Old Ireland.' Cards, and dancing to the music of The Commodores were thoroughly enjoyed by the guests. At intermission, the brethren and guests were warmly welcomed by Wor. Bro. Harold Mott after which a buffet luncheon was served.

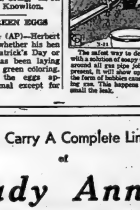
Spot dances and door prizes were in abundance, much to the delight of the crowd. The spot dance prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. Ron Cass, Mrs. J. Ritchie and Roy Cameron. The lucky winner of the main door prize, a large and lovely basket of fruit, was Mrs. H. Reginald Varcoe. Other door prizes were won by Mrs. B. Salsbury, Mrs. Allen McCreary and Al Ketcheson. Winners of the bridge prizes were: ladies, Mrs. O. Hales men, Homer Townsend. The euchre prize was taken by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Orne.

The evening was arranged by the lodge entertainment committee under the chairmanship of Arthur Clare, assisted by D. A. Whillans, J. M. Sills, J. W. Thompson, J. L. Smith, C. B. Templeton, S. W. Smith, W. T. Simpson, G. W. Kilback, G. H. Craig, H. A. Parker, and R. A. Knowlton.

HEN LAYS GREEN EGGS

FORNFELT, Mo. (AP)—Herbert Pichelt isn't sure whether his hen is mad at St. Patrick's Day or Easter, but she has been laying eggs with a pastel green coloring. Pitchett reported the eggs appeared to be normal except for the color.

THE FIRST ROBIN



A cheering song from the tree-top
Where the maple buds show red.
The tawny gleam of a red-breast
In the branches overhead—
And as I look and listen
To the robin's old-time strain,
New hope and faith and courage
Thrill the weary heart again.

That song, so sweet and tender,
Has bridged the span of years,
And with it comes the memory
Of all that life endears
Of one who loved the spring-time,
And bird and bloom and bee,
Who taught me the joy of living
With heartfelt ecstasy.

O bright and beautiful robin
What dreams your warblings bring
Of summer's rippling meadows
Where bob-o-links gayly swing!
The flood of your song brings sadness
Of life that's a joy to live,
And the songs that you lavish so freely
Teach us of our cheer to give.

—Helen B. Anderson.

Arts Crafts Club Hears Talk on Cyprus, Views Fine Handicraft

The Arts and Crafts Club of Belleville, met on Friday with Miss Helen Keeler presiding.

After a short business session, Mrs. Law, who is the craft convener, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. D. J. Dimmantides, a native of Greece. She also lived several years in Cyprus, and resided in Jerusalem after coming to this country. The Club is fortunate in having the talented couple as Mr. and Mrs. Dimantides in Belleville.

There was a unique display of work done by the speaker as well as other craftsmen.

Cyprus Island

Mrs. Dimantides gave a geographical description of Cyprus. The island is about 40 miles wide by 180 long, and has a very temperate climate— almost tropical. It is a meeting place of the east and west, and has many nationalities but chiefly Greek, Turkish and English.

Famed Laces

Its laces and embroideries are world famed, and the handiwork goes back 2,000 years. Cyprus linens and Venetian laces are much sought after treasures.

Cyprus lace is called "Lefkaritsa" after the town of Lefkara. This dates back to the 14th century during the Venetian occupation.

In the year 1481 the great painter, sculptor and architect, Leonardo De Vinci, while visiting Cyprus came to Lefkara where he purchased some handkerchief laces for the altar cloth at Milan Cathedral.

Mrs. G. Hornsby thanked Mrs. Dimantides for her interesting evening and great treat in seeing such exquisite work.

Mrs. H. Vaughan brought samples of wood framing done by Mr. Vaughan. Also wooden bowls and platters of cherry wood, made by Mrs. Vaughan.

Mesdames Goodfellow, Brown, Gibson and Gibbon showed beautiful pieces of ceramic work.

Tabernacle United Ch. Good Companions Enjoy St. Patrick's Party

Irish melodies played by Jack Wheeler greeted the Good Companions of Tabernacle United Church as they congregated in the church parlor for their 17th of March meeting.

Due to the United Church preaching mission, the party was held after the service. As members arrived in the parlor they were trimmed with a green bow tie and handed one of Mrs. Lapsley's patchwork quilt blocks which were soon put together with autographs, thus introducing the visitors and renewing auld acquaintances and preparing the way for a jolly good times with the Hooligans and Clancys who carried out a fine program of Irish games and song characters consisting of Irish jigs, the recreational convener.

During the refreshment hour, president Lew Andrews, introduced each member to the newcomers, Earl and Dorothy Park from Hanover and Muriel Rossmore from Queensville.

CHILD DROWNS IN RIVER

GUELPH (CP)Bonnie Johnston, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnston of Rockwood, was drowned Tuesday in the Speed river, 200 feet from her home. Mr. Johnston said Bonnie and her sister, Mary Lou, 5, wandered toward the river to play. Later he said he heard the screams of the older daughter and ran to the scene. Bonnie was in the river. She carried about 150 yards downstream before her father could drag her out. Artificial respiration failed to revive Bonnie.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

received gift of letter-paper printed with "Mr. and Mrs."

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As you see, I am writing on letter-paper printed "Mr. and Mrs. ——." A box of this paper was printed for me as a present, and I was very pleased. But I have a feeling that it is incorrect, and that it should have been printed with "Mrs. ——" only. What is your answer?—E.

You are right that usually this type of printed utility letter-paper is printed with "Mrs." only. . . "Mrs. John Hall" for the married woman's paper. But it really isn't incorrect to have it printed "Mr. and Mrs. ——" if you and your husband are to use it. And apparently your kind friend who gave it to you wanted to make a bow, with her thoughtful present, to both you and your husband.

Bride-to-be wonders about the possible reactions to her no-reception plan

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning to have a small church wedding in June. I am to wear a white bridal dress. We are not planning to have a reception after the ceremony—just a dinner for the wedding party and the members of the two immediate families.

1. Is it correct to have a wedding without a reception? Will relatives feel slighted?

2. Is it correct to send wedding invitations for the church ceremony only, when there is to be no reception following? Now is the fact that there is to be no reception made known to relatives and friends?

3. When there is to be no reception, does sending invitations to relatives and friends (to whom we have given wedding gifts) mean they are necessarily obliged to send us a gift?—Joyce A.

1. Yes. If it is the bride's wish, it is entirely correct to have a church wedding without a reception. Some brides prefer to emphasize the religious aspect of the wedding, the church ceremony, rather than the social side, the reception. Some rather like little intimate family-dinner, rather than the big general reception. Some prefer to spend the money that would be spent on the reception for other purposes, possibly toward the new home. Some relatives unfamiliar with fuel challenged. . . most people love the romantic gallery and charm of a wedding reception. . . but no relatives should feel slighted when no other relative is invited. The social danger is to invite some relatives and not others. . . then it is impossible to explain where the line was drawn, and why.

2. Yes; it is correct to send wedding invitations for the church ceremony, when there is to be no reception following. The news that there is to be no reception may be made known in many ways: usually one of the others concerned with the wedding will be chatting with relatives and friends about the plans and the no-reception plan, and naturally the news will spread.

3. No. Actually it is not an invitation to a wedding reception that carries the "obligation" to give a wedding present. Naturally members of the family and the intersted relatives give wedding presents, as do intimate friends. Others do if they are so inclined.

Fine Fleece Topper

By TRACY ADRIAN

THIS versatile little coat was one of the styles seen at the "resort Miracle of Dimes Fashion Show at the Waldorf Astoria. This gala event featured the newest inspirations of all the top designers and, as we all know, the funds received are devoted to fighting polio.

The topper is made of white heather-fleece and has a folded beige collar, stylish shoulders and winged cuffs. It's an all-purpose coat that will go equally well in over dresses or separate skirts and is an important item for resort and spring wardrobes.

Make a mixture of 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 tablespoon flour and 1 tablespoon onion juice. Stir this into the hot chopped spinach before cooking. Season well and cook until it thickens a little. Add salt and pepper to taste. Thus you save all of the minerals in the spinach and in the spinach water, one of which is that valuable and hard-to-get iron.

Toss the salad the very last thing before you start to boil for dinner. This way you conserve the maximum amount of vitamins. Include in the salad all of the green things you can buy now: outer celery stalks shredded finely, inner and outer lettuce leaves, radishes, shredded green pepper, 1 tablespoon sprouted onion tops, and as much as 1-4 or 1-2 cup finely chopped parsley. Quickly cost the cut vegetables in French Dressing to trap the vitamins. You see exposure to air is a sure way to lose vitamins.

KMEN'S BRAN MUFFINS

—Mix 1-3 cup shortening (part butter) with 1-2 cup brown sugar, then stir creaming them well, beat in 1 egg. Sift together 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, then add to them 1-2 cups bran and 1-3 cup fresh wheat germ. Stir this dry mixture into shortening mixture alternately with 1 cup buttermilk. Fill greased muffin tins 2-3 full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes. One-half cup raisins added makes them even better.

Cafe au Lait is half 'n half hot milk and strong coffee.

Special-Purpose Menus With Embarrassing Questions

By MARY MOORE

Have you had your iron today?

Do you believe that whole wheat is so packed with minerals and vitamins that you buy nothing but whole wheat bread to serve to your precious families?

Do you fear illness or poor health during these last winter months?

Do you leave your parsley garnish on your plate to go back to the kitchen and the garbage pail?

Do you scrape out the insides of your baked potato and throw away the skin?

Do you pare an apple before you eat it?

Do you call salads rabbit food?

Do you serve liver once per week?

Are fresh fruits a daily must in your home?

If you can determined to feel wonderful all the time instead of sluggish or sick, the answers to those questions should be (1) yes; (2) yes; (3) no; (4) no; (5) no; (6) no; (7) no; (8) yes; (9) yes.

My friends, from my soap box I'm telling you that you can feel full of pep and energy. The ingredients for abundant health are all within your grasp. Why don't you grab them?

Without taking any of the joy out of eating here is a menu that will fulfill normal health requirements, without costing any more than the average meal served in Canadian homes today:

Barbecued Shoulder Chops
(eat the fat)
Baked Potatoes
(eat the skin)
Spinach (see note)
Tossed Salad Bran Muffins
Grapefruit Halves Cafe au Lait

DIRECTIONS

BARBECUED SHOULDER CHOPS

Provide one 1-inch thick shoulder chop for each serving and place in one layer in large baking dish. Cover with a layer of sliced onions—using at least 2 medium onions. Spread over them Barbecue Sauce—1 cup tomato sauce, 1-3 cup water, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon tobasco sauce, 1-8 teaspoon chili powder, 1-4 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1 or 2 tablespoons molasses. Cover. Bake 1 1-2 hours at 325 deg. Fahr.

To get all of the precious best from spinach wash it well and let it drain to shed as much of the water as possible. Cook it without adding any water, turning it over after first two minutes. Cook about 7 minutes in all, then chop it with sharp knife.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Only 21, her married life is full of problems

A young married woman 21 years old, who is the mother of two children, has several problems in her married life concerning which she wants help.

"My husband has a good job," she writes, "and makes plenty of money, but he never gives me money to buy anything for either myself or our children. He has plenty of new clothes himself, though, and he goes out five times a week without ever asking me to go along.

"I believe he is staying out on me, and I have asked different friends to watch him for me, but no one has ever seen him with a girl yet.

"I am wondering if I should get a job myself and never give him any money, or just leave him and make him send me support for the children."

Now, in the first place, this young woman could hardly have made a more mistake than to ask friends to spy on her husband. By doing so, she has not only made her personal affairs public, and provided grist for the gossip mill, but she is running the very serious risk of her husband finding out about her spy system, which, it goes without saying, would only make everything worse. I urge her to put a stop to this business immediately, especially since no one has yet discovered that she has any grounds for her suspicions.

I know it is hard for a wife with two children to care for, and a home to run, to avoid falling into a rut and concentrating all her time and thought on routine household matters. At the same, and even though it does seem very unfair, most men do find it monotonous to come home night after night; find nothing to do except listen to their wives talk about all the things they've done all day, and how hard it is to look after the children, and how tired they are. Perhaps if this young wife made a point of planning some definite recreation for her husband and herself two or three evenings a week, either by inviting friends to their home or going out themselves, she would find he would not be so interested in going out all the time without her. It may be that she has made no attempt to find time for any social life, and so her husband has taken it into his own hands to plan it for himself.

Affectionate Welcome

I wonder, too, if, when hey husband comes home from work at night, he always gives him an affectionate welcome, and makes him feel that she and the children are very happy to see him.

Does she show any interest in something about his day, or does she monopolize the conversation with complaining about her own? Has she any outside interests to provide her with new things to talk about? No husband feels inclined to spend the evening with a wife whose every word be can anticipate.

Let this young woman really put her mind to work on the problem and see if a change in her own attitude might not perhaps point the way toward an improvement in the situation.

As for the money problem, I suggest that she make out a budget, listing all the things that she needs money for each week. Then, some time after she has given her husband a good dinner and he is in an agreeable mood, she might show it to him and ask if he won't make her a regular weekly allowance to cover these needs. If she shows him in this way that she can organize the household finances competently, and is prepared to handle them systematically, he might be willing to let her try. If he won't, and she is really not getting enough money for proper expenses, it will be time enough then to think about a job for herself.

But until she has done everything she can to straighten things out from her side, she shouldn't think about walking out on her husband. If she tackles the problem in a spirit of really wanting to work it out, avoiding quarrels, accusations and reproaches, it's not at all impossible that she might find her husband responds more quickly than she now thinks.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMESON

Don't let your beauty petals fall

"It is a strange thing the way little facial seams and creases can creep up on one. You may have got to the time when you refuse to divulge your age, but old friends, meeting you, exclaim "You haven't changed a bit!" Nice, huh? And you believe them. Or you think you do, which is the same thing. Then, one fine morning you wake up, dash cold water on your face to bring that youthful glow and look in the glass. What's that! Two tiny semi-circles around your mouth? You tell yourself that the mirror is telling lies. But when you take the looking glass to a strong light you see them, accompanied by little crisscross furrows around your eyes.

What has happened? Listening to those flatterers, your friends, have slowed up on the beauty chores. The old massage cream is just as full as it was six months ago. You stopped feeding your complexion and your skin has started to starve to death is that nice? Does it make sense? No woman can take such chances. She is monkeying with fate, and fate is slapping her in the face.

The first tiny line, like the first grey hair, gives a woman pause. Those first silver threads cannot be forestalled or prevented by even the best of care, but if a woman has health, and a disposition that doesn't curdle at the drop of a hat, wrinkles can be avoided.

Under the outer skin lies a cushion of adipose tissue and fine fibres. If she can keep that foundation structure firm, she can keep the epidermal coat from becoming crepe-like. That can be accomplished by the free use of a nourishing cream and by the kind of friction that will keep circulation on the merry-go-round and will help the glands to function normally.

Professional attentions accomplish wonders in rejuvenating a skin that seems bent on its own destruction. But fifteen minutes of self-treatment every night will do more than two or three facials a month at the beautery. It is constant care that counts. Women who have kept to a beauty schedule for years are living proof of this policy. Some of them having started when they were a sign of facial pleating at sixty—or even seventy.

They have realized, of course, that correct health habits must be maintained. Malnutrition must be avoided, as it causes tissues to lose tone. Outdoor life is essential; so is restful sleep. The reward: approval of the appearance of the lady in the mirror.

DRIVING THE MONEY CHANGER FROM THE TEMPLE

An interpretation of the Rembrandt etching (about 1669) from the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Chapter 38

THE POLITICAL BOSS.

The whole Temple — court of the strangers, court of the women, the inner court, even the high altar, the very sanctum sanctorum itself — echoed with the full-throated clamor of His followers.

The Temple scholars and theologians kept after Him with crafty questions. They even joined one day with a shrewd group of Herodians, working together they cooked up a new stratagem, this time trying to upset Jesus by posing another dangerous political and social question: Should a good Jew pay the Roman taxes? That was a real poser! For if Jesus said no, He would be guilty of treason. Pilate would polish Him off without ceremony. But if He said yes, all Palestine would be offended.

Jesus called for a penny and pointed to the image on the coin; the profile of Augustus Cæsar.

"Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's"—and so with that astute sawyer, another trap failed. Even His enemies were ready to concede their admiration for the skill by which He demolished that craftily prepared piece of heckling. But while He was on the subject, Jesus denounced to their face the scribes and the Pharisees for also laying insupportable burdens on the shoulders of the people.

Immediately these daring words reverberated all over the city. They were carried quickly to the luncheon table of Caiphas, the high priest. How the dandy Caiphas writhed! For his friends and partners to be called publicly and in so many words the devourers of widows' houses — which he and most of the associates undoubtedly were!

They Saw Rods

This was the strongest lashing the Master had ever given His enemies, a castigation in the very shadow of the size of their magnificent Temple: He was ruining them in the eyes of a believing multitude enchanted by His every word.

The next day was the day before the Pasch; the celebration of the Feast of the Unleavened Bread would begin at sundown on the fifth of April, A.D. 30.

Strangely, that fateful morning when Jesus resumed His preaching in the Temple there were no spies waiting to debate with Him. Why had Caiphas called off his crew? Had he other plans in mind? As a matter of secret fact, for some days the high priest's agents had been paying increasing attention to the disciples rather than to their leader. Later one of these spies talked confidentially to the high priest.

Caiphas was very much pleased with himself. He had found one of the Twelve who would sell out. He had never known any man who did not have at least one disloyal friend.

"We are almost ready," Caiphas exclaimed. "There is only one more big hurdle. That's my father-in-law, Annas."

Annas was now a very old man but he was still the political boss of Jerusalem. Of the sixty families in the Temple aristocracy, his was the richest and the most powerful. For years — as far back as that long-before day when Joachim had pointed him out to Joseph—Annas had made his people as high priest. When he felt he had held the post long enough, he passed on the stringed blue robe and stately headdress to his eldest son, and then, in turn, to six of his other sons. Now that his own seed was used up, his son-in-law Caiphas got the job—he was the visible authority, but the real chief of Abraham, of Isaac and of Jacob, but he was also privately under the firm governance of Lord Father-in-Law!

"He Will Rain Us"

It was a dark spring evening, Thursday, the seventh day of April, in the year of our Lord 30, when Caiphas said to Annas: "I think the fate of this nation may hinge on what we do tonight."

"The nation has withstood many other nights. Are we at the crossroads again?" jeered Annas, who hated rhetoric. "Why tonight?"

"Because unless we settle this fellow Jesus He will ruin us all."

Annas sneered, "How can I possibly be ruined by a wayside tramp?"

"Just consider, Lord Annas, what this has been able to do in three short years. Our whole world here about, I tell you, is filled with lying reports that He is a prophet, and that He can perform miracles."

"Don't they know miracles don't happen any more!" Annas sniffed again.

"They believe," pursued Caiphas, yanking his beard, "that Jesus drives out devils, makes crooked legs straight, gives sight to blind eyes, and even brings the dead back to life."

"And I still want to know why do you bother me with such nonsense, Joseph Caiphas?"

"Last Sunday, the tenth Nisan, while you were away, He rode into Jerusalem, with twelve of His followers trailing behind Him. He was seated on a Babylonian ass! As if, by our traditions, He considered Himself a king, a judge, or a prophet. How do you like that?"

Arrest Him?

"Why didn't you order the man arrested then and there?" Annas asked querulously.

"Because this is feast time, and Jerusalem is full of pilgrims—two hundred thousand and more, and the rabble love Him. The scum love Him. They might easily revolt."

Annas lifted his old arms in a mock helpless gesture.

Joseph Caiphas," he barked, "what is it you want to do with this Jesus?"

"I want to arrest Him—and then summon the whole council."

"On the eve of the feast? gasped Annas, if his ears lied.

"I want to arrest Him tonight, Lord Annas," Caiphas replied with a gaunt nearsighted look. "His influence has reached a point where we should not hesitate any longer."

"Arrest Him! Summon the whole council! Nonsense!" barked Annas. "The man thinks He is the Messiah? Well, what Galilean does not? He's only another Messiah! I do hope, my boy, you are not taking your position as high priest too seriously."

The old man's scorn failed to shake Caiphas.

A Different One

"I have to make you see that this is a different Messiah," he said sternly. "One with ideas about the rich and the poor not to my liking—nor to yours, Lord Annas. He says the Gentiles are just as good as we are . . ."

On the old man's fresh face there came and went a puckering twinge of malice.

"Quite mad, no doubt! Quite mad!" But his covert satire was lost.

"Jesus is against our entire economic system and intends to destroy it. He denounces the rich. He sets class against class. Already members of our Sadducean families are actually joining His group. They are traitors to their class."

The wrinkles deepened on the dried-apple face of Annas.

"He talks to the people and after He goes away they begin to ask questions," Caiphas continued. "Such as: why the poor do not have the same civil and political rights as the rich. Even our Sadducean families have so much to eat and the others have so little. He tells them all men are equal in the sight of God."

"Well—this is news!" muttered Annas.

"Why, Lord Annas, Jesus is making it so that any man in Jerusalem with two pairs of sandals begins to feel ashamed of himself when he passes a bare-foot beggar."

"Why was I not told of this before?"

"Blasphemy and Treason"

"You have been away for two months. Besides, we waited until we were ready to lay the whole matter before you," Caiphas explained hurriedly. "But not all the Sanhedrin has been idle. We allowed the scribes and the Pharisees to bicker and debate with Him, but we of what some insist on calling the Caiphas group were always on the watch to catch Him."

"In what matter?"

"Blasphemy—and, if possible, in treason."

Annas's slow smile was shrewd and a little tragic. He understood the deadly strategy. The old political boss was not a bloodthirsty man, but he was beginning to suspect that perhaps his son-in-law was not alarmed without cause.

"You have not heard what happened in the Temple," pursued Caiphas, ready to play his winning card. "Did you know that this harmless Galilean fanatic, as you called Him, entered the Temple, kicked over the tables of the money-changers, and drove our dealers out with a whip?"

"Attacking our dealers?" Annas was instantly scandalized.

"He said, 'Make not My Father's house a place of merchandise'."

"His father's home? And He scourged our dealers!"

"Did I not say so?"

"And people are listening to this man, you say?"

Greeted With Palms

"They greeted Him with palms last Sunday, and called hosanna to Him. The rich and the rulers of the inns in Jerusalem tonight where they do not debate if He is or is not the Messiah, the Christ!"

"Wah!" rumbled the scholarly Annas. "When the feast is over, then we shall go after Him, Caiphas."

"Lord Annas, we can't wait that long—not another day, even! The mob might rise up and rescue Him."

"We must raise our own counter-rabble!" decided Annas suddenly.

"To denounce Him?"

"Of course! For blasphemy! And treason. The first to worry the poor pious fools of the Pharisees. The second to worry Pilate."

"Lord Annas," exclaimed the high priest, with a noisy exhalation of his breath, "you understand at last!"

A Hesitant Annas

"You don't believe this Jesus has any real miraculous powers, of course? Any gifts our learned scholars have not yet discovered?"

"Why do you jest with me, Lord Annas?"

Something makes me hesitate to enter on this business. So hurried an arrest—a trial under conditions unprecedented in all our history . . ."

"But Lord . . ."

"Peace! My practical good sense tells me I am justified in agreeing to your plans. It is only inside of me . . . You have your plans, I suppose?"

"I don't have to tell you that the practical and legal difficulties were enough to discourage even a man of action like myself. Getting the court to agree to assemble in the dead of night—and to keep their clacking tongues quiet beforehand—that in itself was no simple task. Arranging for witnesses is not proving to be easy, either, let me tell you."

"But what about ratification?" interrupted Annas. They both knew perfectly well that while the Sanhedrin could pronounce the death sentence, before it could be carried out Pilate, the Procurator, had to agree to it.

"Can you secure Pilate's approval of the death sentence in time? You must kill this man before the crowds find out what you are doing! If you don't . . ."

"I know, I know. We'll have Pilate to you. You are the one Annas in Judea who knows how to handle him.

An Informer

The flattery was not lost. The face of the withered little man lit up.

"So," he sighed benignly, "you set out to save the nation and wind up by asking me to save you from your own folly. Very well, since it is necessary, I will do it. Send out and arrest Jesus!"

The high priest lifted his large soft hands.

"Sorry, Lord Annas. We don't know where to find Him tonight. He constantly eludes our spies, as if He were a sorcerer. But if you will permit, there is a man outside . . ."

"An informer?"

"One of His own men. He will talk only to you."

"Do we really need him?"

"Those who could tell us where He hides for the night all seem to be His friends," answered Caiphas, with an exasperated air. "Only this one man seems to be amenable."

"Well," sighed Annas, "it is sometimes necessary to make use of traitors, but they always turn the taste of a decent man's spittle. Send in your man."

And Joseph Caiphas called softly:

"You may come in now, — Judas Iscariot!"

MILITARY AID

OSLO, Norway (CP)—Norway received more military equipment from the United States during January than in any month since the Mutual Defence Assistance program was launched in 1950. More than 18,000 tons of military equipment received that month, including radar equipment, trucks, jeeps and ammunition.

Prison Sentence Increased to 20 Years by Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—Henry Segalo, 35-year-old Ontario murder suspect, had a five-year prison sentence increased to 20 years by the British Columbia Appeal Court Monday.

He was convicted at Williams Lake, B. C., on a charge of wounding bank manager Leonard Hillier during an attempted holdup. Segalo, a native of Maxville, Ont., was also charged with shooting at an RCMP officer when he was surrounded and captured by a police posse north of Williams Lake. He was sentenced to five years.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner appealed the five-year sentence.

The Appeal Court increased the sentence on a wounding charge from five to 20 years and gave Segalo a concurrent sentence of 15 years for robbing the bank manager.

Hillier was robbed of $6 when the gunman seized his wallet.

"Criminals must realize the sanctity of human life and it is fortunate that no one was killed in this case," commented Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

Segalo's appeal for a new trial, made prior to the attorney-general's appeal, was dismissed by the court.

Segalo is wanted in Maxville for the robbery-slaying of a taxi-driver last August.

Prince With a Mission

The Duke of Edinburgh, a Mountbatten on hi s mother's side, has the family trademarks — love of the sea and a sense of mission under a grey exterior. There are many notable strains in the Duke of Edinburgh's family tree. On his father's side he belongs to the ruling family in Denmark. At birth, Philip was sixth in succession to the throne of Greece. On his mother's side he is related to the Mountbattens whose naval tradition was started by his grandfather, a German princeling named Prince Louis of Battenberg. Prince Philip renounced all his titles when he became a British subject. He conceals his serious purpose with a ready grin and takes in stride his high responsibilities as husband of the Queen. Men of Mountbatten Family Conceal Purpose Under Grin

There's a tradition that men of the Mountbatten family conceal a serious purpose under a ready grin. The Duke of Edinburgh is no exception. He takes in stride his high responsibilities as husband of the Queen. The story of the of a man and of his family background, education and naval career.

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Mountbattens, they say, are playboys with a purpose. The Duke of Edinburgh fits the pattern.

A Mountbatten on his mother's side, Philip has the family trademarks—a love of the sea and a sense of mission under a grey exterior.

Reckless and light-hearted in his dashing naval days, he now gives strict attention to his state duties as first gentleman of the realm.

Similarly, Admiral Earl Mountbatten, "Uncle Dickie" to Philip —as a young man drove a monogrammed limousine and gave lavish penthouse parties. They said he was just a playboy. When war came, he proved himself.

Tycoon Sea Lord

The Mountbatten naval tradition was started by Philip's grandfather, a German princeling named Prince Louis of Battenberg. He entered the Royal navy in 1868, and rose to be First Sea Lord.

By an ironic twist, the feeling against things German that accompanied the First World War—it extended even to sausages and dachshunds—removed Prince Louis from command. The man who helped make the navy the strongest in the world had to watch the war from the sidelines.

Renouncing his German titles he chose his mother's name, Mountbatten, a compliment to the island fortress in Plymouth Sound called Mount Batten.

Apart from the Mountbatten influence, there are many notable strains in the Duke of Edinburgh's family tree. He traces his descent from Christian the Warlike, 12th century founder of the Danish-German house of Oldenburg, and can boast royal ancestors of Greek, Danish and German blood.

Power in Denmark

On his father's side, under the name of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glucksburg, the family has ruled in Denmark since the 15th century. At birth, Philip was sixth in succession to the throne of Greece. He has since renounced all titles to become a British subject.

By a coincidence, the Duke and Queen Elizabeth are distant cousins. Their great-great-grandparents were Queen Victoria and Prince Albert.

Philip was born June 10, 1921, at Mon Repos, his father's house on the isle of Corfu off Greece. His father was Prince Andrew, fourth son of George I of Greece. His mother, Princess Alice, now lives as a nun on another Greek island, Tinos. Philip, an only son, had four sisters, but one was killed in an air crash.

From the first, his life was eventful. When he was still an infant revolution threatened Corfu, and the late King George V sent a Royal Navy detachment. Philip was removed to St. Cloud, a suburb of Paris, where he attended an American school called The Elms. At nine he went to Cheam in Surrey, one of Britain's oldest preparatory schools.

Saw Hitler Menace

The next stop was an unorthodox school in Germany, founded in 1920 by Prince Maximilian of Baden. The school was run by Dr. Kurt Hahn, an anti-Nazi, and as the Hitler menace ripened Philip and Dr. Hahn both left Germany. The teacher established a new school at Gordonstoun, on Moray firth in Scotland, which Philip soon joined. He stayed in Gordonstoun until March, 1939, when he entered the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth as a cadet.

Through his school life he was treated as an ordinary boy. His classmates at Cheam, once recovered from surprise at Philip's ominous coronet and robes as their childish fancy had anticipated, regarded him as one of themselves. At Gordonstoun he mingled freely with sons of fishermen and farmers. His last school report said he had the "strongest sense of service" in the school. He was placed 18th of 34 entrants to Dartmouth and won the King's Dirk as best cadet of his term.

When war broke out, Philip was commissioned an officer in the Royal Navy and was posted as midshipman to the battleship Ramillies. He later served with the cruisers Kent and Shropshire and with the battleship Valiant.

In Famous Battle

In March, 1941, he was searching light cruiser officer on the Valiant at the battle of Cape Matapan, fought in dark and rain.

"It was," he said later, "as near murder as anything could be in wartime."

The Prince was mentioned in dispatches and his captain, Admiral Sir Charles Morgan, commended him. "Thanks to his alertness and appreciation of the situation, we were able to sink in five minutes two eight-inch Italian cruisers."

In 1942 he transferred to the flotilla-leader HMS Wallace, becoming her first lieutenant—"Number One" in naval parlance. Then he was posted to a new destroyer, Whelp, with her joined the Pacific fleet, and was present at the Japanese surrender in Tokyo Bay. His first navy job in peacetime was an instructor in the Royal Navy's staff college training courses. Later he obtained his first command, as captain of the frigate Magpie in the Mediterranean.

From his record, there is no doubt that Philip was an exceptional sailor. That ability, plus his underlying seriousness, qualifies him as a member of a family which, in the words of the weekly newspaper The Observer, "has been the talk of three European generations, giving headaches to statesmen from the days of Bismarck to those of Roosevelt, alternately charming, annoying and splendidly serving their contemporaries."

"Propaganda of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters for the private control of television, whether they realize it or not, and those who associate themselves with that propaganda is in effect, in my opinion, treasonable to this country," he said.

"Those who consciously or unconsciously echo their demand for and broadcasting, in my opinion, are encouraging propaganda which eventually will destroy the identity and the independence of this Canadian nation..."

Later in an interview T. J. Allard, executive vice-president of the C. A. B., said all members of his organization are "prominently identified with the best-known Canadian enterprises and provide distinctive Canadian service to Canadian communities. To describe their activities as "treasonable," he said, "is a complete distortion of the facts."

At the start of the sitting Mr. Howe tabled the annual report of the government-operated Trans-Canada Air Lines for 1952. It showed the airline carried 1,000,000 passengers for the first time in a single year and made a net profit of $607,879.

In the television debate, Mr. Chevrier ordered to government policy under which private stations could be permitted in areas not served or to be served by the CBC. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans others in Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Halifax.

The minister said Progressive Conservative policy to allow private station operation in the larger cities would allow United States television operations to take over the field.

"You are hopelessly wrong," interjected Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton).

Mr. Chevrier said the opposition policy, carried to its final conclusion, could mean the end of French-language programs in Canada. Private stations would import American programs and would not pay the heavy cost of producing French language programs.

Mr. Pulton said Mr. Chevrier's speech had shown disregard for truth, accuracy and fairness. It had been a misrepresentation and distortion of opposition policies.

The Progressive Conservatives wanted an independent regulatory body established with jurisdiction over both government and private stations, a body similar to the board of transport commissioners or the air transport board.

Government TV policy, said Mr. Fulton, is one of "monopoly"—a monopoly for the CBC in the economically-rich areas and a monopoly for the private stations in the less lucrative ones. That policy would restrict the number of TV outlets and therefore would cut down the opportunity for Canadian talent to get on TV shows.

David Croll (L-Toronto Spadina) agreed with Mr. Coldwell when the latter said Canadian TV should be kept Canadian.

"I disagree with those who believe that we should pattern our television system on that of the United States," said Mr. Croll. "I rebel against the unending and constant exhortations to buy beer, cigarets, detergents, dill pickles and lazy laxatives with or without chlorophyll. . . ."

"Believe me, if the Americans had to do it all over again, they would certainly correct their overemphasis on advertising."

He suggested the CBC should spend more money telling Canadian talent on radio and TV.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) fully supported government control of radio and TV. TV represented a new medium that was "cultural dynamite" and the government was right to go slowly.

B50 PILOT

The B-50 had been flying north about 35 miles off the Siberian coast for 30 to 45 minutes when the vapor trails of two planes were sighted 10 miles coastward.

He said the planes appeared a few minutes later behind the B-50 and were 5,000 to 6,000 feet higher. The U.S. craft was at an altitude of 25,000 feet.

Rich said the planes, identified as MIG-15s, "kept coming on our tail" and suddenly cut behind over into a "pursuit dive" and made directly for the B-50.

Rich said he immediately ordered his pilot, Lieut. Harry F. Welch, to dive into a layer of clouds at the 10,000-foot level.

As the B-50 screamed toward cover, Rich said, he heard three or four crew members shout over the intercom system:

"They're firing at us."

"I issued the order 'fire back'" Rich said.

The colonel said members of the crew could plainly see smoke trailing from the MIG's guns as it fired "three or four" bursts from 1,000 yards away.

Sgt. Jesse L. Prim, central flight control gunner, waited until the MIG was within 400 yards and then fired by remote control a burst of 20 shots from each of six .50-calibre machine guns.

All of Prim's shots passed behind the MIG, which dove underneath the bomber, came up on the other side in a high climb and vanished.

Search For a Hero

By Thomas Hal Phillips

—1—

Mr. Wilkes had had G. B. Wilkes' glen. Mdse. hanging over the small porch in front of his store for a good 40 years, and he still thought everybody who came through the front door was going to buy something.

Rufus Cole always came in quickly, when he wanted to buy something, as if he must get it before he forgot, though he never rushed out. George Valley, who was already in the store, was another easy one; if he wanted to buy something, big eyes started searching for it before he had closed the screen behind him.

Rufus Cole let the screen door close on his head, and walked down the long aisle next to the counter. I thought he had come straight from the fields, for it was the last of May and everybody was busy with the new cotton crop, most of it big enough to hoe. He was dark brown, especially about the back of his neck. He was nearly 70, but he seemed with an almost exaggerated straightness. He looked away from me to George Valley, and said, "They're trying to crucify me, hon."

I was not certain whether he was talking to me or to George Valley; in late years he had come to call most anybody "hon" to such a name he once reserved for his only grandson.

George Valley said, "Who, Mr. Rufe?"

Mr. Rufe stared at George Valley, as if one ought to know without asking when a neighbor had trouble on his hands. "The Southern Land Bank," said Rufus timber to Mark Willis, on that north creek below the new place. They say the creek is the line. Why, that fence two rods north's been the line for years. I never got nothin' for the timber to begin with—just the bark have it, because he needed some poplar. They run out with my money 10 years ago but they won't run off with one foot of my land, even if that strip is too poor to sprout whoopers will peas." He looked back at me.

George Valley said, "If you go into court, get Don to testify for you, Mr. Rufe. He done all right for his Uncle Lew." He was talking about the time Uncle Lewis Wade killed Mr. Tonce Burke with a singletree; I had to testify because I was in the fields and saw it.

"You don't want to get in court again, do you?"

I shook my head.

Mr. Rufe said, "I heard a coach was up here looking for your brothers. They get their scholarships?"

"Yeah."

"What did they get?"

"I don't know." I imagined he had an idea, for his grandson, Yoster Lloyd, had been star halfback at Alabama State before he joined the forces.

"Course you know. But you're right. Don't ever tell all you know," He winked, as if he knew I'd tell him if George Valley wasn't there. "You not going off to school?"

"Not this year."

He went out.

I stood in the doorway and looked across the street to the small giftshop that Meb and her mother ran. Meb came to the screen door and waved at me, and then limped back into the shadows of the shop. It was not a bad limp, really just enough to be attractive, or so it seemed to me then.

Her mother, born in Corinth, had been a nurse in France during the First World War, and soon after the Armistice she had married a 43-year-old French cavalry officer from Bordeaux — he was a coffee merchant in peacetime. Meb was born four years later. She was a month older than I. They lived in France until a slight attack of infantile paralysis brought Meb and her mother back to Corinth for three years so that Meb could be cured at Campbell's Clinic in Memphis. Then they returned to France and lived in Bordeaux until Meb was 15; that year her father died.

They came to Corinth a second time, and a few months later moved to Old Shiloh. People thought they had come to Old Shiloh because of the mineral springs but actually they had come because there was no reason to stay in Corinth; their money was gone. Meb had almost no accent, certainly less than her mother, who spoke as if she had been exposed to English until late in life. Meb would often say, "Poor Mother, she's forgotten her English and she never really learned French. But she's smarter than me." And it was true; she was more beautiful than Meb, though they had exactly the same features — heavy eyebrows, almost golden complexion, wonderfully shaped throat, and a good sense of listening — except that Meb's hair was light.

A few times I played tennis with Meb, not because I liked tennis, but because I wanted to see her running in sunlight. I never played often, for I had to borrow a racket from Mr. Walker almost he quit teaching algebra and music and went to work in the post office at Corinth.)

I went out onto the small porch and stood in the sunlight. It was the last of May and everything within sight that would ever be in green was green. The store wasn't so bad—but I wished I had a chance to work in the fields and get away from the whiff of coal oil and cheese. I had gone to work on the railroad with Papa. He let Wallace and William work Saturday in the winter, and in the summer, when school was out, they sometimes worked four or five days a week. They got as much for one day on the railroad as I got for three days in the store.

Papa had some foolish notion that old man Wilkes might die and give me the store. I had started work in the store when I was 14—the year Papa was laid off from the railroad and all of us missed a year in school. Then when George Dan ran away and joined the army in 1940, I began to work every day there wasn't any school. I was the only one who knew where everything was because Mr. Wilkes was so old he forgot.

A few minutes later, Wallace and William came in. They were so pleased about their scholarships that I didn't want to look at them. "It would hurt you to stay out of school a year," Papa had said. "You're 19, and they're nearly 20. I'll be flying high to keep two boys in college." That was true about our age—Monday night we would all graduate together.

Two weeks before, Wallace and William had gone to Mississippi

CBC Executive

Jean Dorg, head of the CBC International service, said in a Commons committee that the Bunsfass jammed a CBC international service broadcast last fall as soon as the program was launched on a new frequency. He outlined to the Commons external affairs committee the work of the service in beaming broadcasts to Europe, Latin America and behind the Iron Curtain. — (CP from National Film Board.)

Tech and the coach had signed them up right away. But Papa said later it wasn't serious and when Wallace had been All-State end and William had been second team All-Black, Papa just wrote to the coach—or he had me write the letter and he signed it, which was this:

If I was able to send my boys to school, they wouldn't be playing football. I understand you're to take care of all food and books and fees, and so forth and so on and give them $15 spending money a month. That's not enough because of clothes and trips home and so forth and so on which I'm not able to buy. They need $50 a month apiece.

Benford Meadows.

The college could have written an answer but they didn't. They sent the backfield coach. He got to our house on the day Papa was out. He talked very quietly, glancing at me a lot, and said of course they could have $50, but only $15 could go down on the record, conference regulations and all that.

—II—

I finished a box of peaches before I said anything to them, then I raised up and said, "Did you find Papa?"

"Yes, topwater," Wallace said. He shook his head. He had fine blond hair, like Meb's; big dark brown eyes; a slight scar on his chin that looked like a cleft; a tall perfectly shaped body. Even when I was saddled at him, I still admit he was the finest-looking person I'd ever seen. William was heavier, his hair was darker, and he had blue eyes, like me. Still, they looked like twins. Their noses did it mostly. All the Meadowses had good noses.

"Where's your boat?" William said.

He might as well ask that as anything, I thought. But it all made me mad. Sometimes I would say to myself that I hated all of them—Wallace and William and Papa. But it wasn't true. I know I didn't really hate William —he would be nice to me at times and it was hard to hate Papa because I had once been such a favorite of his.

"He's at home," I said.

"When you gonna get off from work?" William said.

"About an hour, I guess."

"Meb said the French grades were 'goosed to be up. Will you go by and see if you made? We got to take the coach back to the house and see if Papa's come in. Will you go by?"

"Okay, I'll go by."

They started out. I supposed the coach was waiting for them. I went back to doing prices. I did not hear Mr. Wilkes when he came in, because a freight train was blowing for the station, and it drowned all the other sounds. There were lots of freights now, loaded with jeeps and bulldozers and tanks and guns and things I had never seen before, and things I didn't know the names of. Fat Guy Uncle Richard was standing on the porch of the store and two freights were passing on the tracks below us. "Stuff going east and stuff going west on looks like they can't make up their mind," he said.

Mr. Wilkes came up behind me and said, "They ought to be 18 cents, Don."

"You told me 17."

"That was Saturday. It's 18 now." He looked as if I was back of all the rise in prices. He rubbed at his throat, and then at his diabetic face, strangely thin and pale above his big body. "We're gonna close in a little bit anyway. My blood pressure's bothering me." He insisted there was nothing wrong with him except high blood pressure.

He was not bad to work for, chiefly because he had the great virtue of noticing any piece of extra work I had done (like rearranging shelves or chining something that had grown old with rust) and telling me it was a good job.

"You go on when you get ready," he said.

I put away the new box of peaches I had opened and went out. When I reached the door I saw that Papa was passing the store, on his way home, his dinner bucket on his left arm, his jumper over his right shoulder; he always carried a jumper to work, even in July. I thought I would call to him, and walk home with him; about the coach for he seemed to

Heifer Boasts Three Sets of Twins in Three Years

Mollie Hag Apple Waldorf, a four-year-old Holstein heifer, owned by Victor Reid, of Aston Mills, on outskirts of Barrie, Ont., has performed a feat of producing three sets of twins in as many years. This is believed to be a rarity as Mollie is not a twin herself. Unaware of all the commotion they have caused, Mollie's latest additions to the family are enjoying a visit from Doreen McGinnes, a neighbor of "theirs." — Central Press Canadian.

Hotel Vendome In Sarnia Sold For $300,000

SARNIA (CP)—The 80-room Hotel Vendome, largest in this city, has been sold to hotel interests in Fort William, it was reliably reported here Tuesday.

Gordon B. McFarlane, who purchased the hotel in 1937 was unavailable for comment. It was reported the 67-year-old Front street landmark was sold for more than $300,000.

The building was erected just prior to 1900 by Charles and Laura Hand who operated the hotel until it was bought by Mr. McFarlane from the late Mrs. Hand.

Night Traveller, Last of Old-Type Indians, Dead

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—Night Traveller, one of the last of the "old type" Indians, is dead. He was a long Canada and his bright red kerchief around his head and signed with an air of dignity.

Night Traveller was a boy of 10 when the Crees made their peace with the Cree at Fort Pitt on the North Saskatchewan river, and to the end he placed his faith in Queen Victoria's word. He never considered the revised Indian Act as law.

At the close of each tribal meeting at the Little Pine reserve, Night Traveller would intone in Cree: "As long as the sun rises and the river flows, the promises of the Great White Queen to her Indian children will never be broken."

As a boy, Night Traveller was made to kill a buffalo by his father. At 18 he was a brave of the tribe and a sun shot. In the fighting at Cut Knife hill May 2, 1885, Night Traveller shouldered a rifle in defence of the Indians' way of life.

It is believed that Night Traveller may have left some of the legends of the Battle River Crees on record in Syllabic, the code invented a century ago by a Methodist missionary which gave the Indians their first written language other than sign writing. The legends hitherto had been handed down only by word of mouth.

Owner of Car As Passenger Is Convicted

TORONTO (CP) — For what lawyers said was the second time in the history of Canadian courts, the owner of a car, riding as a passenger, and not driver, was convicted Tuesday of drunk driving.

Magistrate O. M. Martin sentenced Frank Munro and Walter Edward Baker to $50 each.

Munro said he did not remember leaving a suburban Scarborough hotel where he had been drinking. He also said he did not remember anything about the collision his car was in either, because he was "so drunk."

Magistrate Martin said the legal point was whether Munro was so drunk that he did not prevent the drunken condition of Baker to drive, although that apparently been given to drive the car.

Discoverer of Noranda Dies at Age of 87

A Nova Scotia farm boy, who discovered one of Canada's most prolific mines after 40 years of lonely toil, died at Halifax recently at age of 87. As a wiry, sun-bronzed prospector, E. H. Horne roamed the wilds of North America — from Labrador to Nevada and California to the Yukon, — in search of gold but found fame and fortune in a base metals deposit which today is named Noranda. He was nearly 60 at the time of the strike, situated in Quebec near the Ontario border and was on his last grubstake after trekking and canoeing across Labrador and northern Quebec. Horne then sold his option to Noranda for $250,000, married and brought his wealth back to his native Enfield, where he ended his days raising one of the finest Hereford dairy herds in Canada. — Central Press Canadian.

West Germany Will Pay Bills For Capital Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—West Germany will pay the bills for capital costs of army barracks and two airfields being built and set aside in that country for use of Canada's Atlantic Pact forces, the Commons committee on defence expenditures was told Tuesday.

Although original Canadian statements of 18 months ago indicated that Canada did not intend to use money paid by the Germans for occupation costs, the capital costs in these cases will all come out of occupation-money, a defence department document showed.

The explanation given there is that Canada's government decided that there is a difference between capital costs incurred in construction and in day-to-day costs for maintenance of the forces on the bases provided. West Germany apparently has acquiesced in this decision.

The air force is building a big $23,000,000 supply base at Namao, near Edmonton, to back up any fighting operations that have to be fought in Western and northwestern Canada, the committee was told.

About one-third of that sum already has been spent on the air materiel base, H. A. Davis, engineering superintendent of the defence department, testified. A construction department, Canadian Comparts base for Eastern Canada is being built at Downview airport, near Toronto.

No General Price Hike in Steel Is Expected

NEW YORK (AP)—The Iron Age metalworking trade weekly says today that although the industry now is free from its voluntary agreement with the government on steel prices, no general price increase is expected at this time.

The publication adds, however: "Outlook for continuing high level demand strengthens expectations of a selective steel price increase by summer—when the union bid for a seventh wage round will have been dealt with. Steel leaders are determined there shall be no wage increase this year without at least a fully covering price increase."

"Demand is surprisingly firm," the Iron Age says. "Raw materials are adequate; expansion programs are coming along nicely; and chances for solving the seventh round wage question without a strike look good."

Steelmaking operations this week are placed again at 100.5 per cent of rated capacity.

Amphibious Cargo Vessel Sinks Three Drowned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U. S. Army's newest and largest amphibious cargo vehicle — the BARC — sank Tuesday night and all three crew members were drowned, the army said today.

The craft, completed only last September and still under test, went down about 20 miles south of here while it was being towed by a tug.

The BARC barge, amphibious, resupply cargo was the successor to the Second World War DUKW — an amphibian which took supplies directly from offshore to inland depot.

The BARC, many times larger, was designed to carry up to 100 tons in emergency. It was 61 feet long, 27½ feet wide, and 15 feet high. It moved on the largest tires ever built commercially—almost 100 feet high. Each wheel was powered by a 165-horsepower diesel engine.

Afloat, the BARC was driven by two propellers in the stern. Each screw was powered by two of the same engines which supplied power to the wheels.

Sick of People

DETROIT (AP)—Ernest Hazelton, a bus driver, abandoned his load of work-bound riders Tuesday when he became rankled by some passengers' comments about his driving.

"All right, ladies," he shouted, "you want to drive the thing. Drive it."

Some 30 passengers were astonished at Hazelton's action after the Detroit Street Railway System for two months, grabbed his jacket and disappeared. He turned up later at the bus terminal.

"I'm sick of people," he said. "I quit."

U.S. Air Force Will Continue To Fly World-Wide Missions Say Defence Dept. Spokesmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Air Force will continue to fly its world-wide missions despite Russia's shootout challenge to the use of air space over international waters of the North Pacific.

That was the word from top defence department spokesmen after their study of reports on the first confirmed two-day fight between U.S. and Red military planes outside the Korean war zone.

Military officials who may not be named also let it be known that the defence department had talked down a state department suggestion to postpone any public announcement of the incident.

The air force pinpointed the Sunday incident 25 miles from the coast of Russian Kamtchatka, and air force spokesman said the U.S. photo observation craft was operating within standing instructions to stay 25 miles from Russian territory. This is in line with orders to airmen to avoid provoking trouble.

The state department had the bare facts of the Kamchatka clash early Monday, it was learned, and advised caution in announcing the event because of reports that attacking MIG-15 nor the defending U.S. fighters were equipped with guns or any apparent damage. The line of reasoning of some diplomats ran this way:

1. Silence by Washington might help to shake off Russian suspicions.

2. Publicity could weaken the psychological impact of the strong U.S. and British protests in recent days about unexplained losses or down of two Allied aircraft over Germany.

The defence department won the decision to announce the Kamchatka affair Tuesday after maintaining the military view that it would be better to get out the factual story before Moscow could use it distorted to suit its propaganda purposes or to exert diplomatic pressure.

The air force also argued that the U.S. B-50 made its first, brief report of the encounter immediately after it occurred in clear English and might have been heard by non-military planes in surface craft.

The air force had previously revealed a trio of jets that Russian planes have scouted Alaska and northern Canada at infrequent intervals in the last few years.

Navigation charts published by the U.S. Navy indicate that American aircraft have been doing some scouting on their own. The "Bering sea and strait" chart revised and distributed last May clearly indicates at least two new sea depth readings. The soundings are clearly labelled "1952" and both are less than 50 miles from Siberia.

Kiyoshi Okayed

NIIGATA, Japan (AP)—A success operation to straighten the reverse of Christine Jorgensen's Danish transformation was reported Tuesday in domestic court here.

Kiyoko Hirose, 30, asked for a name change to the masculine Kiyoshi.

Since birth Kiyoko has been regarded as a female. She attended girls' school and joined the young Women's association of her village.

She entered hospital Feb. 8 for operations and a month later, Kiyoko said, was produced a man.

The court okayed Kiyoshi.

Nuclear Test Near Las Vegas On Tuesday Affords Lesson In Atomic Age Survival

Still Busy at 74

Caught in a rare moment, Dr. Albert Einstein, known as the father of the atomic age, is shown as he was interviewed by the press at a party celebrating his 74th birthday held at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University, Princeton, N.J. One topic discussed among leaders from the U.S. and Canada were on hand to pay tribute to the brilliant scientist and professor at Princeton, who received, as one of his birthday gifts, the model of a new $25,000,000 medical centre which will be constructed in New York and will bear the name Albert Einstein College of Medicine. — Central Press Canadian.

By BILL BECKER

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—On the friendly proving field of the U.S. atomic energy commission civilian and soldier alike may have learned new lessons in the test victory out of atomic war.

These are the pointers indicated by Tuesday's double-barrelled nuclear tests:

For civilian—

1. In a car, "I would stay in it, open the windows and crouch down as far as possible on the seat or the floor," said J. Stanton Jenner of the federal civil defence administration.

2. In a house, try a basement-type bomb shelter, but make sure you have a solid concrete lighter.

3. If caught in the open, lie flat on the ground if no good shelter is available.

For soldiers—

1. Crouch in a foxhole or lie flat. U. S. Army officers over-ruled the dog-in soldiers could have remained above ground, lying prone, at their two-mile distance from Tuesday's blast tower on Yucca Flat.

2. Watch the wind and stay behind it. The breeze after the detonation at 300 feet swept the radioactive column and cloud eastward across the flat, where it hung overnight four hours. But troops were able to march north through the "ground zero"—head of the explosion.

Can Be Friend

The atom can be a friend if instructions are followed. Like their predecessors under manoeuvre, the 1,000 soldiers and 500 observers found little to fear in fox-holes. They were hardly white lights as they expected. Elton Fay, Associated Press military affairs reporter, found himself most impressed by the "extraordinary white light" as he crouched face down in a five-foot trench.

4. Nothing else can be as potent a weapon as blast in a low-level explosion, Fay reported. The prolonged shuddering of the desert, Fay and other observers believe, corresponded closely to the collapse of the first civil defence test house, 3,000 feet away three-quarters of a mile.

For the scientist, the first atomic test of 1953 brought reaffirmation that—

Smaller bombs can pack a real wallop. The device, packing the explosive power equal to 15,000 tons of TNT, was only three-quarters the strength of the Nagasaki or normal bomb. But it made itself heard or felt in a number of communities including Las Vegas, 75 miles away, Medford, Ore., about 600 miles distant, and Los Angeles, nearly 300 miles away.

The blast destroyed the first of the two experimental houses built for the test, that 3,500 feet (about two-thirds of a mile) from ground zero. The second—at 7,500 feet—stood up through the blast, but suffered about 50 per cent structural damage.

Flying glass from shattered windows might have killed (or badly injured tenants. Of the make-believe family of mannequins, those upstairs were knocked down or broken, those in basement shelters were virtually unmoved.

Most of the 50 cars on the flat were damaged. Two at distances of 9,720 and 5,000 feet burned; three others at a half mile were twisted into crap. In many cases where the windows were left closed, the tops of the cars were caved in by the blast pressure.

City Councillors To be Assisted By Amendment

TORONTO (CP)—City councillors in Ontario will be able to deduct one-third of their civic salaries from taxable income under a bill introduced in the legislature Tuesday.

The bill, an amendment to the Municipal Act, also would extend the powers of municipalities to several fields where they lack jurisdiction at present, including:

1. Right to grant permission for erection of poles and underground conduits for radio and television lines and alarm systems. This means the cities can grant licences for "piped" television broadcasts from a central station.

2. Ability to require insurance for cab operators, truckers and livery stable operators.

3. Right to charge fees for plumbing inspection in homes.

4. Right of veterans under the Veterans' Land Act to run for civic office. Previously, they were considered ineligible because they resided on property technically owned by the government.

Nixon Makes Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial government was urged Tuesday to give Indians a vote in provincial elections and re-instate to drink in beverage rooms.

Harry Nixon, veral member from Brant, said the Six Nations reserve at Brantford has petitioned for the right to enter beverage rooms.

Indians can vote only if they are veterans, although they are entitled to cast ballots in federal elections if they apply for enfranchisement.

Business Blocks In Massena, N.Y. Held at High Price

MASSENA, N.Y. (CP)—"Will you sell?"

That's the question being asked of owners of business blocks in the heart of this city of 13,000.

Although Massena is almost five miles from the St. Lawrence river, business men from New York City, Syracuse and Rochester are inquiring about property prices. They feel a business boom is in store for the area if the United States government decides to join Canada in building the seaway.

Few people here are selling. Even those who believe the seaway is a myth are hanging on "just in case."

Property values are soaring. A business block valued at $20,000 10 years ago can't be bought for $60,000 today.

Speculators are trying to buy land bordering the St. Lawrence, but Here again owners are hanging on to "see what happens."

POLICE INVESTIGATING

TORONTO (CP)—Police of suburban York township are investigating the death by asphyxiation of Mr. and Mrs. James Godfry.

The Godfrys were found dead in their basement apartment early today, after they told landlord Ben Tipper, who smelled gas:

"Everything's okay."

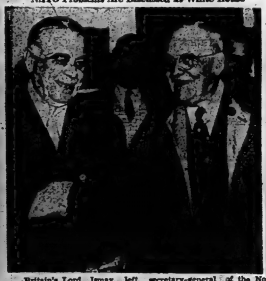
Quemoy Isle is Thorn in Red Dragon's Side



Off the coast of Red China is Quemoy Island, one of the isles in the hands of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists. Quemoy is so close to the Red China mainland that the China coast can be seen with the naked eye. The island and its garrison are thorns in the Communist side, for Red water traffic attempting to run the gauntlet between Quemoy and the mainland comes under bombardment. At top, a Nationalist sentry stands beside his shelter. A shell cap hangs from a pilot as his alarm bell. Above two crewmen man a 57-mm. anti-tank gun, commanding the island's narrow neck of water. Red junks and lastting craft are fair game for these gunners. — Central Press Canadian.

Little Llama Likes the Limelight

Mary also had a little llama and is mighty proud of him, as this photo from the Melbourne, Australia, zoo will testify. The new baby was named "Ragsfoot" because at first he didn't seem to have a leg to stand on. — Central Press Canadian.

NATO Problems Are Discussed at White House

Britain's Lord Ismay, left, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles are shown leaving the White House in Washington following a conference with President Eisenhower. A number of North Atlantic pact problems were discussed and presumably the grim implications of the two Red attacks on Allied aircraft over Germany. Previous to his visit to U.S. capital, Lord Ismay visited Montreal, where he addressed the Canadian Club. — Central Press Canadian.

Sole Survivors

Mrs. John Cramp, still in her dressing gown, tenderly kisses her daughter, eight-month-old Evelyn, after a fire in their home in Toronto's suburban Scarborough killed the father and three other children. John Cramp, 30, collapsed six feet from the open back door of the house. In his arms he held two of the children. Hours later a fourth victim, Dianne, 2, died in hospital. A space heater exploded and within seconds the three-room frame house was an inferno. Mrs. Cramp wheeled baby Evelyn to safety. — (CP Photo.)

Military Pressure on Reds is to Be Stepped Up in Far East

Two Chinese women commandos, who have just returned to To-cheng Island from a raid on Red-held mainland, report to intelligence officer concerning information they picked up while inside enemy territory. Many Communist prisoners were netted in raid as guerrillas struck a blow for Chiang Kai-shek's forces on Formosa. A steady build-up of Nationalist strength, which would include more ships, arms, has been included in new long-range strategy, mapped out by President Eisenhower and his defence chiefs for strengthening all allied forces in the Far East to increase all-round military pressure on the Communists. — Central Press Canadian.

Italy's Contribution to European Army

Two Italian armored divisions displayed their equipment and preparedness to military attaches accredited to the Italian government recently in a review held at Verona. The two divisions — the "Ariete" and "Centauro," the core of Italy's contribution to European army, are equipped with Patton M-47 tanks, seen above, being reviewed by Italian minister of defence, Randolfo Pacciardi riding with other officials in jeep. — Central Press Canadian.

Heads Coronation Contingent

Wing Cmdr. Jack Vincent Watts (right) of Hamilton will head the RCAF contingent of 207 officers, airmen and airwomen who will march in the Coronation parade or line the streets near Canada House in London June 2. At left is Sqdn.-Ldr. Bob Cushley of Ottawa, one of the 22 RCAF personnel who marched in the Coronation procession of King George VI. — (CP from National Defence.)

Garfield-Weston, Canadian-born British industrialist. The girls, whose average age is 17, represent every province and the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Muriel, whose family lives on the Six Nations reservation, eyes medicine men's mask in Martin's Mohawk museum at Oakland, Ont. — (CP Photo.)

Dr. James B. Conant, new U.S high commissioner for Germany stopped off at a Hofbrauhaus during a two-day visit to Munich and in true Bavarian custom sampled some strong Bavarian beer and salt pretzels (king size.) His trip to Munich was included in a tour of the American occupation zone of Germany. — Central Press Canadian.

Butler Reports Trade Not Aid is Key to Britain's Future

In a parting message to Canada, R. A. Butler, seen above, Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, appealed to dominions and the U.S. to boost purchases of British goods and help eliminate Britain's currency and trade restrictions. "The dollar world, especially the U.S., must make it easier for us to trade on competitive terms. Trade and not aid is the 'key to the future,'" said Mr. Butler before he returned to London following a three-day visit to Ottawa and before that to Washington. During his talks with Trade Minister Howe, he had discussed the best way Britain could compete in the Canadian market. — Central Press Canadian.

Named in Probe

Michael F. Allore, manager of the Saskatchewan government insurance office, has denied charges that he received alleged "kickbacks" in commissions from an insurance firm. A provincial government legislative crown corporations committee is investigating allegations that officials of the Saskatchewan CCF government received a share of sums paid by an insurance firm, Financial Agencies, Ltd. An affidavit, signed by J. O. Rawlok, a former agent for the government insurance office, charged Dr. M. C. Shumiatcher, a former secretary of Financial Agencies, arranged the alleged kickbacks. Dr. Shumiatcher denied the charge.— (CP Photo.)

BBC Director

Sir Basil Edward Nicolls, who worked for a time on a Chatham, Ont., newspaper in his early days, is chief of the BBC's coronation planning. Born in England, Sir Basil came to Canada before the First World War and worked on the former Chatham Planet. He returned to Britain in 1914 to join the British army and started with the BBC in 1924. Last August he was appointed acting director-general pending the permanent appointment of Sir Ian Jacob at the end of 1952. He will retire next September to his home in Surrey. — (CP Photo.)

Represents Guides

A Canadian girl, Joyce Douglas, 18, of Flin Flon, Man., has been chosen to represent the British Commonwealth Girl Guide movement at the coronation ceremonies in Westminster Abbey June 2. A normal school scholarship student at Tuxedo, Man., Miss Douglas was considered a "typical representative" of Canada's 90,000 girl guides by the Canadian Council of Girl Guides' Association. — (CP Photo.)

FISH CRATE DWELLING

STRATFORD (CP)—Arthur R. Exazel, who used fish crates to build a place to live, appeared in court Monday on a charge of building contrary to city by-laws. Mr. Exazel said his home has wheels. A building inspector said if that were true the dwelling does not come under city by-laws. He said he would check and the case was remanded for a week.

CANDLE BURNS FATAL

OTTAWA (CP)—An 83-year-old Ottawa widow, Mrs. Annie Grant, was fatally burned in her home Monday when a lighted candle set her dress on fire. Her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Cleland, 71, suffered burns to her arms in a vain attempt to put out the flames. Mrs. Grant was using the candle to look in a dark closet in the apartment she shared with her sister.

FRANKFORD

FRANKFORD — Mrs. Carl Lohnes underwent an operation in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Saturday. Friends are glad to hear she is progressing well.

Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Burich of Bloomfield, visited relatives in town on Saturday.

Miss Helen Rose of Peterborough visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rose, over the week-end.

Mrs. Harry Smith, 6th Sidney, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lohnes, this week.

West Berlin Seeks Aid for Anti-Red Cause

West Berlin's Mayor Ernst Reuter (left), and famed U.S. explorer, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, are seen deep in discussion following the mayor's arrival at Idlewild airport in New York from Germany. In the U.S. to help raise a million-dollar fund for emergency aid to anti-Communist refugees fleeing the Red zone of Berlin, Mr. Reuter will be given a helping hand by Admiral Byrd, who is the honorary chairman of the International Rescue Committee, which is conducting the fund drive. — Central Press Canadian.

Railways Launch 'Broad Survey' Of Labor Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—Concerned over "recurring crises" in rail wage negotiations, the Canadian National Railways has launched a "broad survey" into its labor relations.

The government-owned company, employing about 130,000 persons, said Monday in its 1952 report to Parliament that a condition of recurring crises is "detrimental to the best interests of employer and employee alike, and highly undesirable from the standpoint of the general public."

Behind the CNR move was the costly general rail strike of August, 1950, a recent strike threat by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, that could have crippled the service, and strike threats raised by CNR hotel employees during the last few months.

The action ties in also with a March 9 comment by the board of transport commissioners, the body regulating the railways, which expressed dissatisfaction with the trend of wage settlements and urged that negotiations be concluded within the life of current agreements to avoid expensive retroactive pay.

Also of the CNR's survey, the report said, will be to "examine objectively and in the light of modern conditions the whole context of labor-management relations."

PICTON
Mrs. M. Brisbin Celebrates Her 90th Anniversary

Picton — On Saturday evening Miss Vera Miller, Bowne Avenue, entertained in honor of her aunt, Mrs. Minerva Brisbin who was celebrating her 90th birthday.

The home was bright with spring flowers, where six tables of guests played euchre. The prize for high score went to Gen. Ross, low score to Mrs. Harold Way, and the travelling prize to Mrs. George Ward.

Supper was served with the guest of honor wearing a lovely corsage of pink roses seated at the head of a long table.

Assisting the hostess in serving were Mrs. Margaret Shaw and Miss Emma Wellenks.

A beautiful birthday cake with lighted candles was a feature of the refreshments.

Later Mrs. Brisbin assisted by Mr. George Ross, opened her gifts and read messages of congratulations.

The assembled guests presented Mrs. Brisbin with a chenille bedspread and pylcos. There were numerous gifts from relatives unable to be present.

Looking at least twenty years younger than her age, Mrs. Brisbin very capably thanked everyone for the delightful party.

Among those thoroughly enjoying the evening were a cousin Mr. Bart Shepard, of Frankford, who is 90 years young, and Mrs. George Ward, who had recently celebrated her 80th birthday.

Mrs. Brisbin lives alone, does all her own housework, and is remarkably well. Asked for the secret of her long life, Mrs. Brisbin smilingly replied that she didn't know. Though she was "early to rise", she wasn't always "early to bed". Friends suggested that it was her even disposition, and enjoyment of friends and neighbors and of each day's events.

Mrs. Brisbin has one son Mr. Cecil Brisbin, living in Syracuse, N.Y. who could not be present on this suspicious occasion but sent flowers and a lovely gift.

First I.O.O.F. Band Concert Well Received

PICTON — The I.O.O.F., band of Picton presented its first concert in the Regent Theatre on Sunday evening, before a large and appreciative audience.

Mr. Ronald Baxter of Port Hope acted as chairman for the evening. The twenty-six members of the band under the leadership of Mr. Creighton Lockyer, presented a spirited and varied program of marches, waltzes and favorite hymns.

Mr. Earl Holt sang "An Irish Lullaby."

Guest artists were Miss Patricia Calnan, who contributed a piano solo, Ted Lambert and Mr. and Miss Hinneman, who gave two accordion and guitar numbers.

Each number on the program met with enthusiastic applause, and as proof that the audience appreciated the band's program, it was announced that the silver collection amounted to over $20 it was also announced that next fall the band might present these concerts regularly. Mr. Baxter gave credit to long training by Mr. Bewsie for a large part of the band's proficiency and also to the fine leadership of Mr. Lockyer.

Mrs. George Ward entertained a large family party at her hoome on Main Street, West, on Sunday afternoon and evening, hoooring the natal day of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jack Ward.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Three youths were sentenced Tuesday after being convicted of charges in connection with a fracas March 7, during which they attacked two police officers. Roger Lemieux, 17, was sentenced to 21 days in county jail for assaulting police officer Jerry Maisonville, His brother, Gene Lemieux, 18, and James Gouthro, 17, were sentenced to 10 days for obstructing police.

WALLBRIDGE

Euchre-Dance

WALLBRIDGE — A large crowd attended the L.O.L. euchre and dance on Friday night. A happy time was spent playing euchre.

Later Gerny Reid's orchestra started the dance which young and old enjoyed. Appetizing refreshments were served by the ladies.

Glad to report Mr. Barton Hinchliffe, who has been confined to his home under the doctor's care is able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris had Sunday dinner with the former's sister and mother, Mrs. E. Tuckey and Mrs. Harris, and took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Langabeer, of Belleville.

Report on syrup making is going to be rather slim this spring as the weather is not at all favorable.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wemm makre and daughter, Marlene, of Detior, called on a number of their friends in this vicinity, recently, and had dinner on Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Millar and family, of Montreal, were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sine.

Mrs. Mac Sine and children, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound and baby, Dale, were Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris.

Spring is fast approaching the farmers are busy preparing their machinery and getting their seed grain ready.

Mrs. Arnold Wemmenkar, who has been under the doctor's care for the past four months, is able to resume her work at the Bata Shoe factory, Frankford. Her many friends are glad to know she is able to be out again.

"I'M FROM DIXIE, TOO," LIKEWISE MOSQUER!

They'll do it every time.

Last night while peering through the screen at the Campbellford-Marmora joust and listening to the raucous routine of some 1000 hockey fanatics from three sources, we had the odd familiar treatment.

The guy wore a windbreaker adorned with a Toronto crest.

Remember the race track "tout" on Benny's program: "Hiyah, bud, could I swear a minute." This through the side of the mouth?

This was not quite as bad as that. The guy was more or less frank and outspoken. Maybe he just wanted to make conversation. Why, we don't know. Nearby two thousand howling fans were doing a fair job of it.

"So Dixie plays here tomorrow night, eh?" That was the approach. Between roars he got an affirmative answer.

Came a tap on the shoulder. "Don't worry, bud," he said, "your team will take 'em."

It was coming. The old familiar story. So we played it the opposite way.

"Five nights you tan that Dixie will take this series four straight," we boasted, flagwing the last thin dime until payday.

That sort of quashed and further remarks.

Later he said: "I'm not kiddin', bud! I've seen this Dixie team in action, and it's a cinch for yours guys."

The last time we heard that one, we fair for it. Tipped off a pal who bet the bankroll, life insurance, two mortgages, and his chance of the horsefair and what happen? Your side got knocked off four in a row. We're still paying off the debt to the wicker.

That's the way it goes. These Chic Sales rumors crop up every time an "unknown quantity" team is billed to play anywhere.

Tonight's game between the Black Hawks and Dixie will tell the story. Personally we're going by statistics and figure the team from Dixie will be no pushovers. Neither will the Hawks. It should be quite a tilt and a good crowd should turn out to give Don Barrett's crew the support they've been lacking all winter. How about it?

If the meeting last Sunday in Watertown is a criterion, the organization of the newly proposed Border Baseball League (that is the correct tab for the loop) won't do international relations between Canada and the United States any harm.

Manager Jack Carson, brother "Moe" and Johnny Mowat, who took time out from his role as the "Gentle Heave" for the Wellington Indians, Trent Valley entry, were invited to join the safari, came back with stories of the splendid reception and glowing hospitality accorded them by the baseball boys at Watertown.

It was heartwarming, to say the least, said Manager Carson. "They welcomed us with open arms and did all they could to make our stay a pleasant one. They wined us and dined us and when our dine, I don't mean hot dogs and hamburgers. It was steak, turkey, clams and whatnot. What a reception, and what hospitality."

The meeting proved an enthusiastic one, according to Carson, and prospects for the newly-proposed league look very bright at the moment. On the American side of the ledger, Watertown and Ogdensburg are definite entries, while Belleville and Kingston are are starters from the Canadian side. Other Canadian and Canadian team entries will be arranged this week, it is likely. Another meeting has been called for Kingston for Sunday, March 21st., when representatives of all teams will be present. It is expected the new loop will be composed of six teams at least.

Watertown's chief magistrate, Mayor Newman, was chairman of the meeting in the American city last Sunday, while major league representatives were also present. An entry from Rome, N.Y., was received but this city was deemed too far away for transportation reasons, especially under as the Canadian teams are concerned.

A planning from the Belleville Baseball Association meeting last Monday was to the effect that the same "homebrew" system of players, which proved successful last year, will again be in vogue. District players will be used, but salaried imports, such as the club had two years ago "are out."

The American teams, Manager Carson said, depend largely on district college players for their diamond personnel. Results of exhibition games between these teams and such Canadian squads as Brockville, Smith's Falls, and other down east squads last year, proved the American-Canuck outfits to be fairly evenly matched, and if such is the case this year, Kingston and Belleville will be up there with the best of them.

It is quite definite now that the Central Ontario Baseball League will not franchise this year, but the Redmen will go into ORA senior "B" playdowns through association affiliation with the ORA. This reporter will attend the ORA convention in Simcoe, Ont., Friday and Saturday and will represent the interests of the BBA.

SOFTBALL GET-TOGETHER

The Belleville District Softball Association annual conclab gets under way in the city hall committee chambers tomorrow night when it is expected the 1953 slate of officers will be named, reports received, last season's activities reviewed and plans laid for the coming season. It is an open meeting and all interested in softball are urgently requested to attend. Much business is on the agenda and should be transacted before the league delegation leaves for the OASA convention being held in Hamilton, Ont., on Good Friday.

Team Boasts Six-Point Margin Over Fifth-Place Toronto; Tonight's Game Tells Story

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Sid Abel took on his coaching job last fall, they shook their heads sadly and said it couldn't happen to a nicer fellow.

Today he has just about led his Chicago Black Hawks out of the National Hockey League wilderness to a playoff berth after eight lean years. The only freshman coach in the NHL, needs just one more victory to win his spurs. If he knocks over the Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight, he's in.

Remarkable Career

Sid followed a long and honorable line of Black Hawks coaches when he ended a 13-year career as a player with Detroit Red Wings to take on the Chicago assignment.

From Ebbie Goodfellow, who served six years before him, he has inherited a last-place team composed largely of castoffs from other clubs. His ace goalie, Harry Lumley was traded to Toronto during the championship year of Max Bentley, Gus Bodnis and three others players, one of whom never made the Hawks.

Most observers figured his club would be lucky to finish fifth, but Sid's boys broke fast from the barrier, led the league for a couple of months, faded a little in the back stretch and came on handsomely to hold their present third-place tie.

Barring a series of unspeakable calamities this week, the Hawks should retain possession of their fifth-place tie with Boston and Toronto. Leafs to coast home. And the experts believe that even if Bentley and Sid never missed a Stanley Cup series in all their years in the league.

A loss for the Leafs would be fatal. If Boston Bruins whip New York's last-place Rangers tonight, it would leave both Boston and Chicago out of reach. Even if the Rangers down the Bruins, as they have done in seven of their last nine meetings, the best the Leafs could do would be a fourth-place tie.

And if the Leafs defeat the Hawks tonight, they still need help from other clubs, plus a perfect record in their remaining three games, to make the grade.

Browns' Price Is $2,400,000

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Bill Veeck, restless president of St. Louis Browns, put a $2,400,000 price tag on his ball club before he started for home "with my right foot forward, my chin out and all set to face the music."

The American League Monday refused to give Veeck permission to move his franchise from St. Louis, where the Browns never have been too popular, to Baltimore.

Now he must return to St. Louis with hopes of placating the St. Louis fans, who have recently cut only 3,500 season's tickets for the coming season. This is 15 per cent less than the number bought at this date a year ago and Veeck says his club lost $400,000 in 1952.

Veeck placed the price tag on his clubs as he packed to return to St. Louis. He admitted he hadn't received a firm offer and added that baseball's bigwigs hadn't asked him to sell. "But," he added, "I know none of them would be unhappy if I did sell."

Aussie Olympics Prospects Dim

CANBERRA (AP) — Ministerial sources said today the Australian cabinet has rejected pleas by some of the Albert Park barracks as Olympics village for the games, making it extremely doubtful the games will be held in the Australian city.

There was no official announcement.

Tuesday night Arthur Coles, chairman of the Melbourne organizing committee, said Albert Park was the only practical housing site at this late stage.

Sources here agreed in view of Coles' statement that if how appeared certain political shilly-shallying would cost Melbourne the games.

The international Olympic committee will meet April 15 in Mexico City to make an official decision.

May Lengthen Series Between Flyers, Marlies

TORONTO (CP)—The best-of-seven semi-finals between Barrie Flyers and Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series may be lengthened to a best-of-nine series, it was reported Tuesday.

OHA secretary Bill Hanley said that although an extension is possible it can't be settled definitely until it is determined whether the OHA representative will be ready on time for the Northern Ontario-Maritime winner in the Memorial Cup playdowns.

George S. Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the CAHA has no objection to prolonging the series as long as the OHA representative is ready by April 4.

The Marlboros and Barrie split 2-2 in the present series, both are agreed on an extension.

Meanwhile Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champion Porcupine-Timmins Combines now are playing Renfrew St. Patricks, Ottawa district junior champions, in a two-game series, the winner to meet North Sydney, also in a best-of-seven.

Wolves Take Two-Game Lead

ROUYN (CP)—Sudbury Wolves Tuesday night took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven finals of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series by trouncing Rouyn Flashes 6-1 in the second game of the series.

The next two games are slated for Sudbury Friday and Saturday.

Wolves wasted no time in swapping goal for goal with the Flashes for the first period and finished with two in the second. Captain Guimond spoiled Andy Anderson's shutout with Flashes' only goal at 13:36 of the final. Flashes' spare goaltender Gabby Gendreau replaced regular Don Donaher for the third period. Donachey suffered a knee injury and was unable to continue.

Win Junior Court Title

PORT CREDIT (CP)—Davis and Sons Saints brought the first Ontario Amateur Basketball Association junior title to this town Tuesday night, downing Exeter Maroons 58-37. The win gave them a round score of 136-85. The Saints scored the game down three points, after dropping the first game of the round Saturday in Exeter 52-48. Dave Winter paced the Saints with 39 points.

Boston-to-Milwaukee Franchise Move In Hands of Major Loops Gods Today

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The Boston-to-Milwaukee franchise shift hung in the balance today as the National League and American Association scheduled meetings to vote on the transfer.

Owner Lou Perini was confident he would get approval to move his Braves into the minor league territory where he already operates a farm club.

"Somebody has to tell me why it isn't a good move," he said. "If they can show me it would be detrimental to baseball, I'll go along. But I won't be put off by any kind about this being too late to move. "I'm apologetic about the timing. I'm sorry about it. But this is an entirely different proposition than Bill Veeck moving from St. Louis to Baltimore. I own both franchises. There is no chance of legal entanglements.

"I'm sick of pounding my head against a stone wall. This is no sudden thing. I've known for two years it was inevitable. Boston simply is not a two-club city."

Perini said he got in touch with all National League owners, except Phil Wrigley of Chicago and John Galbreath of Pittsburgh. He said he found no opposition.

However, Perini thought he had seven clubs on his side in his attempt to move the Braves to Milwaukee. When he was defeated Monday, 5-2, he had only the votes of Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox.

In the National League, a unanimous vote is necessary to approve transfer of a franchise.

Bruce Dudley, American Association president, said it would require a 6-1 vote, with Milwaukee abstaining, to approve any transfer.

If the American Association should refuse, the National League could "draft" the territory, paying damages to the league.

Dutchies Edge Mercurys 3-2 To Square Series

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen fought back from a three-period deficit Tuesday night to defeat Owen Sound Mercurys 5-3 in the fourth game of their best-of-seven finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series. The series now is tied 2-2.

The fifth game will be played in Owen Sound Thursday and the sixth here Saturday.

Jaydee McArthur opened the scoring for Mercs at 1:10 of the first.

The Dutchmen finally scored at 9:20 of the second when Art Hurst slapped in a long screened shot. Howie Lee ended a three-way play with another goal at 13:33.

Mercs tied the score briefly in the third with Tommy Burlington slinking a pass from McArthur. Dutchies came back with Maurice Levesque caging a 30-footer from dead in front. Doug Verity and Don Rope scored 53 seconds apart to make it 5-3. Mercs finished the scoring with a breakaway goal by Doug Gillespie at 19:27.

Campbellford Defeats Marmora 5-2; Win TVL Northern Division Title

Campbellford won the northern division playoffs of the Trent Valley Hockey League with a thrilling 5-2 victory over Marmora at the Memorial Arena on Tuesday night. The win gave Campbellford the series, 4-3, and the league-trail crew will meet the winner of the southern seven-off between Wallington and Frankford for the league title.

It was a clean, wide-open game all the way with rival goalies Ossie Nelson and Al Killian turning in spectacular performances. Web Blake, Ellen Hall, Ken Graham, Craig Bergen Payne and Lorie Simpson scored for the winners. Duke Doran and Chuck Lovelese tallied for the losers. Ken Trumble, although he failed to hit the score sheet, was outstanding in a fine game.

Blake sent Campbellford into the lead at 3:13 of the first period. After he had hit the post on a breakaway, he came back with a beauty shot to drive a high screamer from the blue line that caught Killian moving the other way and it was 1-0. Marmora retaliated near the end of the period, Doran shoving the rubber into an open corner from a scramble.

Ahead for Keeps

Wilson sent Campbellford on top by play with a goal early in the second session. Simpson started the play at his own blue line by passing ahead to his team mate. Wilson tore down the right boards and scored. He beat Killian with a short backhander.

The winners sewed it up with three goals in a row in the third period. Craig got the first one from another scramble, Payne and Arch Kelly drawing assists. Payne came right back to up the count to 4-1, sinking a short shot after a fine pass from Pree. The Campbellford scoring ended as Simpson scored from Wilson's passander after Jim Baker had done the spadework.

Lovelese, one of the losers' best, tallied the final Marmora count in the last in the period. This came on a nifty backhander on a play with Doran.

Although it was a bruising battle all the way, only six penalties were dished out by referees Geyer and Carson, who kept the game well in hand.

Campbellford: Goal, Nelson; defence, Pree and Baker; centre, Kady; wings, Craig, Payne; alternates, Blake, Harrington, Colwell, Simpson, Wilson, Pace and Taylor.

Marmora: Goal, Killian; defence, E. Trumble and Leonard; centre, Wagner; wings, Lovelese, K. Trumble; alternates, Doran, Lovelese, Derrah, Jones, Mantle, Stewart, Smith.

Referees: Vern Geyer, Mac Carson.

Sport in Brief

LONDON (AP)—England's Randy Turpin, former world's middleweight champion, Tuesday night won on a second-round disqualification over Walter Cartier when the referee ruled out the New Yorker for repeated holding.

The scheduled 10-rounder ended with 23 screaming men in the ring and the 18,000 fans in packed Earls Court booing at the top of their lungs.

Only three solid punches—all by Turpin—were struck in the short bout. Referee Tommy Little had warned the 30-year-old Cartier four times for holding in the first round but three times in the second. Cartier clamped Turpin's arms tightly to his side repeatedly while the stocky Briton tried to get himself free.

Midway in the second round, the referee pushed Cartier away, and raised Turpin's hand, signifying Cartier's disqualification.

This touched off a mad melee. Cartier charged like a wild man into the ropes just above the press row screaming, cursing and flailing. Seconds and others poured into the ring and milled around.

This was Turpin's first appearance in Earls Court since the memorable July 10, 1951, when the Britisher won from Leamington Spa upset Sugar Ray Robinson and won the world's middleweight crown. He lost the title to Robinson in New York two months later.

Turpin weighed 160¾ to Cartier's 159½.

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—North Sydney Panthers and the Maritime junior hockey title Tuesday night by defeating Halifax Shamrock 8-7 after a 4-1 to take the best-of-seven series 4-3 with one game tied.

North Sydney will meet the winner of the Timmins-Porcupine-Cochrane-Earlton best-of-five series now tied 2-2. The winner of that series will face the Ontario Hockey Association junior A champions for the right to represent the East in the Memorial Cup finals.

MONTREAL (CP)—Field attendance for the regular 1953-53 schedule of the Quebec Senior Hockey League showed a record mark of 911,416, secretary-treasurer Roy Mackenzie reported Tuesday. The figure is an increase of 25,975 over the previous season. Quebec, which finished low in the league standing, showed a drop but still had the highest attendance of any of the seven cities—261,678.

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—George Widener's Battlefield suffered a broken bone in his left front leg during Saturday's $50,000 Gulf Stream Handicap and may never race again, trainer W. F. Mulhollan said Tuesday. Battlefield lost by a neck to Dorsh Admiral and apparently received the injury in the stretch duel.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—A 13-year-old youth was fatally injured Tuesday when he was hit on the head by a baseball. Gary Edgar Kindred was batting during a neighborhood baseball game when he was hit by a pitched ball. He died in hospital. Doctors said a haemorrhage of an artery between the brain and skull caused death.

Barons Halt Hershey's March To Playoffs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears are pretty sure of making the Eastern Hockey League playoffs but their entry into the charmed circle has been delayed.

The delaying tactics were provided Tuesday night by Cleveland Barons, the regular season champions, who downed the Bears 5-3 in Hershey still has to fight off a last-minute challenge of St. Louis Flyers who dropped a 7-3 decision to Pittsburgh Hornets.

At Cleveland, the Barons got three goals in the first five minutes, but a Hershey rally cut the Cleveland margin to a single goal by the end of the period. Two more Baron goals clinched the game.

Cleveland's Bobby Schmidt, Ike Hildebrand, Ray Carsino and Jack Gordon were the Cleveland marksmen. Bill Eddolls, Jr. was Joe Schertzi and Norm Corcoran.

At Pittsburgh, the Hornets, already sure of second place, wrapped up the game by tallying five times in the first period.

Chuck Blair, Willie Marshall and Frank Sullivan were the other marksers apiece will Bill Ezinicki notching the other. Moito McLean, Steve Hrymnak and Ed Jankowski scored for St. Louis.

Hamilton Rink Takes Honors

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Hamilton Thistle rink skipped by Mrs. W. F. Ratcliffe scored 18-8 for a play, top award in a two-day bonspiel sponsored by the Ladies Curling Club here. The rink had a 12-6 victory over a Galt rink skipped by Mrs. J. Hall.

In the Northern Life Trophy Mrs. F. J. Radley's rink from London had little trouble defeating a Sarnia rink skipped by Mrs. D. I. Mackie 14-5. The Londoners headed by Mrs. C. Elliott took the consolation event 11-7.

Mrs. Adams' rink defeated a London rink skipped by Mrs. R. F. Bell 16-7 to advance 1st for a place in the finals, while Mrs. Perry eliminated a Guelph rink skipped by Mrs. B. Fox 10-6.

Mrs. Baldwin defeated Mrs. A. Galt's Kitchener rink 8-7 to reach the consolation finals.

Kingston Bowler In Running

TORONTO (CP)—Two Toronto bowlers and four out-of-town players are left in the running for the Ontario five pin bowling championship at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

Jim Lane of Kitchener-Waterloo and Gord Marsh of Hamilton, the two youngest contenders in the competition, were eliminated Tuesday night. Joe Dunphy, Kingston, John Turcsanyi, Port Dalhousie, Ernie Seness, St. Catharines, Murph Chamberlain, Ottawa, and Tommy Mallon and Jackie Wilson, both of Toronto, are still in the fight for the title.

Dunphy bowled the highest score of the day, piling up 1,234 points in five games Tuesday. Wilson scored 1,234, to stand second in the day's play. Chamberlain with 1,205, Seness with 1,203, Mallon with 1,111 and Turcsanyi with 1,107 followed in that order.

The field will bowl at in three shifts of two today. The two with lowest scores will drop from play.

Smith's Falls Win Opener

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—Smiths Falls Rideaus won the opening game in the Eastern Canada senior hockey semi-finals Tuesday by defeating Saint John Beavers 4-1. The second game will be here tonight when Allan Cup series will be played here Thursday night.

The Saint John club, which arrived by train only a few hours before game time, was tired after a day of its travels in the first period when it didn't get a single shot on the Smiths Falls net. Rideaus commanded the play through most of the cleanly-played game.

Alf Webster, Stu Smith, Archie Richardson and Gord Gwatkin scored for the winners while Charlie Knox tallied for Saint John.

NAVIGATION UNDER WAY

WALLACEBURG (CP)—One of the earliest navigation movements in recent years got under way today when the SS S. T. Cargo, a bulk carrier, moved out from River St. Clair from Detroit to Port Huron, Mich.

LEAFS GET WILSON

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Infielder Robert M. Wilson of Chicago White Sox was sent to Toronto of the International League Tuesday in a move to bolster the Sox' Memphis farm club. Toronto turned over outfielder John Ostrowski and infielder Pete Pavlick to Memphis. Wilson was included in the Sox' Ferris Fain-Eddie Robinson swap with Philadelphia Athletics.

IRISH TWINS BORN

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — The James Mahoneys of nearby Coquitlam became the parents of twin boys this St. Patrick's Day. The newcomers' names: Pat and Mike.

AT THE BELLE — James Whitmore, right, is completely disapproving of the romantic interjude between Mario Lanza and Paula Corday in this scene from M-G-M's new Technicolor musical, "Because You're Mine." The film introduces Doretta Morrow to the screen, following her hit on the Broadway stage in the Rogers and Hammerstein musical, "The King and I." A new Tom & Jerry cartoon is an added attraction.

AT THE McCARTHY — Loretta Young registers one of her most dramatic screen roles to date starring with popular Jeff Chandler in Universal-International's drama-packed "Because of You," now playing the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, also co-starring Alex Nicol and Frances Dee. Miss Young plays the role of an unwitting accomplice in a crime for which she pays the penalty and then builds a new life after falling in love with Jeff Chandler. Joseph Pevney directed.

AT THE CAPITOL — "Kazoos Pacific," glowing in Cinecolor and starring Stirling Hayden and Eve Miller, is the feature presentation in Allied Artists' color special. "Kazoos Pacific" opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program smashing action where east meet west in "Target Hong Kong" starring Richard Carlson and Beverly Tyler. Both hits are Belleville first showings.

Approval Given For Extension Of Hospital

BRANTFORD, (CP) — Taxpayers Monday voted approval of the estimates of Brantford General Hospital by almost a two to one count. A proposal to assist the Sisters of St. Joseph in building a hospital here squeezed through by 300 votes.

The taxpayers voted 8,531 to 8,850 in favor of debentures in the sum of $1,800,000 for extension and modernization of the present hospital.

By 4,613 to 4,412 they approved a grant of $1,000,000 towards the cost of construction of a Sisters of St. Joseph hospital, the remaining cost to be borne by the Sisters.

Just Good Canadians

WINNIPEG (CP)—Sure and it's enough to set a man downright flamin' on St. Patrick's Day.

That was the reject of Loughy Sean MacCourt of the Sons of Ireland Tuesday when a newspaper reporter showed him a copy of the U.S. Congressional Record.

Representative Thomas Lane had read into the report a newspaper account of comments by Thomas Feeney of Lynn, Mass., about how the Winnipeg Irish celebrated St. Patrick's last year.

Feeney was quoted as saying the feast in the Queen was "nauseating."

"What kind of Irish are there up in Canada?" he was quoted as saying. "They seem to be like the conquered people they have conquered."

Exploded Mr. MacCourt:

"I'd show the son-of-a-gun if I could get me fist to him. I'd pound him to a frazzle.

"In the first place we are not shoneen (somebody who licks the boots of the English). We are decent Irishmen. We've forgotten the old feuds. We're Canadians—and good Canadians — besides being Irish.

"And what's more we'll go on toasting the Queen."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find out your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Important matters, planning activities, investments sponsored with reservation. Things of lighter scope should be helped by wise spending.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Today's indication look upward, for big doings, whether in home, industry, profession. Balance your program according to your ability.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Friendly influences favor careful action; but unfamiliar undertakings ask greater concentration. News in p.m. could change outlook for personal affairs.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Profit-making day at work. Correspondents, photographers, economists, military leaders now top favorites.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Most personal interests, clergymen, teachers, students, civic employees highly favored. You in public life can make fine headway if you act honestly and with spirit.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Excellent possibilities for exploiting fertile fields where intuition, accuracy (Virgo strong points) are required. Authors, educators, doctors in high favor.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Specialists in various lines, industry, news-making social workers have increased prestige. New methods, educational fields sponsored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Increase efforts in your sphere of operations, they can bring better earnings and credits. Lesser matters will fall in line automatically.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Attract the benefic vibrations now plentiful by working eagerly for the public good rather than for private gain. Rewards will be high.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Exceedingly qualities knowledge of civics and government, legal procedure very valuable now. Great benefits from kindly deeds, friendly gestures.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Today requires more than ordinary effort to put things over. Seek sound advice, not hit-or-miss means. Be alert, confident.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Transportation, shipping, affairs of the sea; dealers in lumber, metals, tools, electronics show new headway.

YOU BORN TODAY: Usually energetic, full of inspiration: a keenly intelligent individual. The Sun in Pisces stresses deep feeling for fellowmen. Encourage your talents, develop them; come out of your inhibitions, have confidence in you. Birthdate of Wm. Jennings Bryan, famed orator-statesman; John J. Raskob, motor tycoon.

5-Year-Old Girl Slightly Injured In Traffic Mishap

Trenton (Special) — Little Susan Miles, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Miles, of 24 Byron Street, suffered only minor injuries Monday night when she ran into a slow-moving car in a line of traffic in front of Steve Hannah's barber shop on Front St. Fortunately she received only a cut on the inside of her upper lip as the car was almost stopped at the time of the accident. The car was driven by Clarence Burleigh, 38, of Carrying Place.

Susan had been walking along the sidewalk on the west side of the street when suddenly she darted out between the parked cars into the vehicle proceeding north.

Fire Call

An oil burner out of control gave the Trenton Firemen a call trouble this morning and the fire department was called. No damage was caused by the overheating.

A C-118 troop carrying aircraft gave a demonstration of flying manoeuvrability before RCAF personnel and the press here today. The big ship with doors that open up the whole back has been adopted as standard carrier and transport Paratroopers find this plane more suitable than the aircraft with the doors on the side of the fuselage.

Police Double Efforts in Search For Harry Duguid

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police today doubled their efforts in the search for Harry Duguid, one of Canada's 30 most wanted men, following an attempted robbery Monday night of a downtown branch of the Dominion Bank.

Duguid, once a prominent Toronto plastics manufacturer, who slipped into a life of crime 19 years ago, has been sought since 1947 when he sawed his way out of the Welland jail.

Authorities here said Monday night's breakin "definitely resembled Duguid's work."

They said the man worked alone, climbing a fire escape at the rear of the building with a ladder he had taken from a nearby construction job. He then lowered the ladder through a trap door in the roof of the three-storey building and climbed down to a storeroom. Cutting through the floor with an electric saw, he was only inches away from getting down into a wash room directly above the bank when two police believe he was frightened away by the watchman making his rounds.

Ten days ago, a similar breakin was discovered in a Dominion Bank branch in north Toronto. In that case also, police believe a watchman scared the man away before he could complete his work.

The 38-year-old Duguid is wanted for the $14,500 armed robbery of a central Toronto Dominion Bank branch in 1946 and the $75,000 holdup of an Imperial Bank at Stamford in the Niagara district in 1947. He is also wanted for escaping custody.

Science Finds Use for Mud In Drilling Wells

CALGARY (CP)—The woman who does the laundry and mops up floors won't agree, but science has found a use for mud.

Add a few chemicals to mud, doctor it up a bit, and it turns into an important factor in the drilling of oil wells.

As used in the oil-drilling business, mud has many functions. It helps overcome the pressure of water flows and keeps the drill hole free of cuttings. It prevents walls from caving in and is the main protection for producing formations during the drilling process besides gathering a little information.

The manufacture of drilling mud has developed into a science since the first use was first suspected back in 1901. Now there are engineers to make it perform. Most are with the private companies since few universities offer courses in mud engineering.

The mud engineer can tell by samples and delicate instruments just what is going on at the bottom of the bore hole. Some have set up small laboratories in their cars and have been known to stay on the site for days working on a well.

Cubs and Scouts Hold Banquet

STIRLING

Stirling — The recent father and son banquet sponsored by the Stirling Cubs and Scouts were about 150 persons attend the event in the Community Hall. The sumptuous dinner was prepared by the mothers of the boys.

Guests at the head table, including Chairman David Duffin, were Joe Irish, scoutmaster, Betty Bush, Belleville, Mrs. Irish, Mrs. Lillian Ashley, Belleville, Mrs. Ken Ray, Arthur Jackson and Mr. Nicholson, Belleville.

The Woodpecker Patrol, led by patrol leader Ronald Woodbeck, then put on a skit.

Nine boys were presented with their first stars and five with their second by Mrs. Irish and Mr. Ray. Six other boys received badges.

Badges for recent tests were presented by Mr. Jackson and Frank Thompson. Crews were awarded to Scouts Doug Harding, Tom Wells, Martin Secker and Ronald Woodbeck.

Following an accordion solo by Jerry Clarke, the guest speaker, Mr. Nicholson, gave a short address.

Bob Paterson led the sing song.

23 Are Dead In Nfld. Crashes Of U.S. Planes

Two Army Craft Down Fear Toll May Reach 33

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Two United States military planes crashed in Newfoundland Wednesday and the death toll may reach 33.

It was announced today a second U. S. plane, a B-29 medium bomber, plunged into St. George's Bay with 10 men aboard while on a routine flight. Fate of the occupants was not known.

Meanwhile, searchers looked for survivors of a giant U. S. bomber which crashed on the east coast of Newfoundland with 23 persons aboard. Ten bodies have been found. There was no immediate trace of the other 13 persons.

Details of the B-29 crash were not available. Wreckage was found in the bay, on the province's west coast, but there was no sign of life.

On the other side of the island, search parties hunted for the remaining 13 persons aboard the 10-engine RB-36 which went down north of Gander.

Several hours later a 16-year-old boy telephoned Grieve-wold and said he was holding Joe a captive at his home. The trouble was, the youth said, Joe was talking a bad streak and would Griewold please come and pick up the bird.

'Hello, Joe' Is Tiresome Conversation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Joe, the talking myna bird at the Philadelphia zoo, really had something to discuss today—his abduction by a 16-year-old boy who finally grew tired of the feathered society's chit-chat and surrendered his captive.

Joe is best known in these parts for the way he greets visitors to the zoo. For the women, he gives out with a reasonable facsimile of a wolf whistle. For the men and boys, he has a cherry "Hello, Joe."

Joe disappeared Thursday. Bird curator John A. Griewold said he suspected foul play and announced he was willing to take all the questions asked.

Police Missing

Officer Missing

The plan's occupants included Brig.-Gen. Richard Ellsworth of Erie, Pa., commanding officer of the Griewold's home base at Rapid City, S. D.

Heavy snow slowed progress of the land parties into the isolated crash scene. The bomber went down while en route from the Azores to its base in Rapid City.

Eisenhower reports from rescuers gave no details.

U.S. May Regret Seaway Refusal, Says Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States might have cause for regret if Canada went ahead with the St. Lawrence Seaway on its own. He also said his administration has made some decisions about the matter but he did not say what they are.

As for the hydro-electric power phases of the project, Eisenhower said in regards that as a matter for negotiation between New York state and Ontario.

He said if the project is economically advantageous for the U. S. it is going to be built regardless of what he or anyone else thinks about it.

Polish Pilot Granted Asylum In Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—Franciszek Jarecwski, Polish pilot who escaped to Denmark in a latest-type Russian MIG-15 jet fighter two weeks ago, has been granted asylum in Britain as a political refugee.

The foreign office, announcing this today, said he would be considered as Jarewski's movements but reliable sources said he has already arrived in Britain.

The Danish ministry of justice announced Wednesday night the Pole had left for a destination which was being kept secret at his own request.

"Obviously the United States," snorted Polish Ambassador Stanislaw Kelles-Krauz. "He was bribed by American money to desert the fatherland."

The ambassador to Denmark announced that the plane, carefully inspected by Soviet and Polish army officers after the Polish Air Force pilot landed it on Bornholm island in the Baltic, would be flown or shipped back to Poland this week.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Mild weather swept across Ontario Wednesday giving afternoon temperatures ranging from 59 at Windsor to 68 at Muskoka. Cooler air, however, began edging into southern sections of the province overnight heralded by snowflurries in the far north and showers elsewhere. Skies will gradually clear today and tonight in most regions, and Friday will be mainly sunny and cool.

'GREEDY' LAWYERS BLASTED BY KINGSTON M.P.P.

Nickle Claims Exorbitant Fees Paid by Fund

TORONTO (CP)—Greedy lawyers have made a "Santa Claus" out of the unsatisfied judgment fund, the Ontario legislature was told Wednesday.

W. M. Nickle, Progressive-Conservative member for Kingston and himself a lawyer, said unscrupulous solicitors are gouging exorbitant legal fees from the fund to the detriment of the rights of their clients and the government.

Nickle said the Canada Law Society of Upper Canada, who govern the legal profession in the province, are the ones to fix the situation but have done nothing.

Mr. Nickle, son of William F. Nickle, attorney-general of Ontario from 1923 to 1926, said there are many instances in which the lawyer collects more than the client is awarded by the court.

Urges Disbarment

"Nothing brings a great profession into disrepute more quickly than when its members encroach upon ethical practices," he said.

He urged the law society to disbar lawyers involved in these practices. Failing this, he suggested a committee be set up a board to decide how much a lawyer should be paid for work on cases in which the claim is paid from the unsatisfied judgment fund.

"If it was a farmer who said this, he'd be run out on a rail on business, but I'm a lawyer and I know what I'm talking about," he said.

Mr. Nickle said one plaintiff in Kingston was awarded $56 by the court but the legal fees totalled $982. Another got an award which was $800 and the legal fees $875. Mr. Nickle said 75 per cent of all money paid out of the fund went to lawyers.

Final Legal Discussion

"Let's make sure that every dollar paid in a dollar earned," he said.

The unsatisfied judgment fund also came under discussion. Fred Thomas, CCF member for Ontario riding, felt the fund in fairness to the estate and should be replaced by compulsory auto insurance.

Premier Frost said fatalities/even are only one-third or one-half of those injured. Insurance companies they are administered by the government.

High rates encourage people to risk driving without insurance, he said, and there are many damage claims which have to be paid from the unsatisfied judgment fund."

Wants More Aid

Premier also called for more provincial housing aid. He said 21 per cent of the wage earners make $3,000 a year or less and are unable to take advantage of existing aid because the minimum down payments are too high.

"Housing is not a political issue. It is a national need," he said. "I hope the government will give vigorous leadership in overcoming this dire problem."

Important Post Goes To Prominent Farmer

OTTAWA (CP) — As Almonte, Ont., farmer, has been appointed to the permanent agricultural committee of the United Nations Organization, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture announced today.

H. A. Stewart, 45, is a former president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and director of the national federation. For some years he has been CFA representative on the advisory committee to the Empire Marketing mission of Canada, with special attention to dairy and farm labor problems. He was the CFA nominee to the ILO committee.

Declines Invitation

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has regretfully declined an invitation from the Canadian government to come to Canada when he visited the United States early next month, the federal press spokesman said today. Adenauer said he would not have time to combine the visits.

Bevan Left-Wingers Seeking To Lift Ban on Red China Aid

LONDON (AP)—Left-winger Aneurin Bevan and former home secretary James Chuter Ede moved today to throw out British policy on new laws against the sale of strategic goods to Red China.

The two Socialists put down a prayer in the House of Commons Wednesday night in a statutory order tabled last Monday which specifies all ships going to Red China to obtain a license certifying there is nothing in the cargo that could automatically becomes law.

help the Reds wage war.

The statutory order followed the recent precedent by Washington Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles that Britain would plug loopholes in her ban on strategic trade with Red China.

Four other Labor members signed the, Bevan-Ede prayer—a parliamentary device which means a number of members want a debate on the question which otherwise

Adenauer Says Stalin's Death Has Increased Danger of War In Asking Approval of Treaties

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BONN, Germany (ap)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today that West Germany must hurry and rearm because the death of Stalin has increased the danger of war.

"We Germans and the rest of the world are in great danger, and Stalin's death has increased, rather than diminished, the danger," he said in appealing to the lower House of Parliament for approval of twin treaties which would make Germany an armed ally of the West.

As he spoke, hundreds of police surrounded the Parliament Building to keep off crowds of Communist demonstrators seeking to march on Parliament and block the vote. One band of nearly 1,000 screaming, fist-waving demonstrators was beaten off by police using firehoses. There also was an ecstatic burst of fist-fighting, and several demonstrators were arrested.

Adenauer declared that if the German people realized the full extent of their danger they would not delay no longer in joining with the European Army of a Germany backed by Britain and the United States. Germany is slated to add twelve full divisions to the six-country force.

The Bundestag had 140 divisions in East Germany and the East European satellite states—and that nobody knew what their intentions were would do with them.

Adenauer said the world's danger was emphasized by last week's attacks upon U. S. and British planes flown by Communist MIG fighters. He said these attacks were "actually the first shots fired against soil and in the German skies"—this despite what he believed we are if we remain unarmed and without allies.

Fighting off repeated heckling from his leftist opposition, the 77-year-old chancellor told Parliament the German people to "face the facts."

"The full consequences of Stalin's death on future world affairs and the fate of Germany and Europe are not yet clear," Adenauer said, he said.

"But one thing can already be said—Stalin's death has certainly not lessened the danger for us Germans and for the world. It has now been confirmed that Stalin left behind him a heritage that he was in full command, he created a system based upon imperialistic successes by a hot war.

"But now Stalin's death has created world instability and the danger in which we all live."

Police said that Communist and neutralist opponents of the rearmament treaties had imported hundreds of demonstrators from all sections of West Germany, especially the industrial Ruhr.

Closed Off Area

Police closed off an area of nearly 12 square blocks around the Parliament with the barbed-wire barricades. All around the building they stretched fire hoses. Water guns were mounted on the roof.

The demonstrators shouted anti-rearmament and peace slogans. Several were injured.

Chancellor Konrad Adelauer will launch the treaties on their third and final reading in the Bundestag (lower house) with a government declaration. This will be followed by a debate lasting probably eight hours.

The 77-year-old government chief and his ally, Socialist leader Ollenhauer, will be guests of honor at a banquet to be given by the United States for a visiting delegation of Congressmen.

The treaties are the Allied-Bonn peace contract, giving West Germany sovereignty, and the West European Defence Community. The latter would set up a unified West European army. Germany would contribute 500,000 men to the European force.

Vote Expected Tonight

As the two agreements came up in the Bundestag, the confident Adenauer made a big majority "to show the way" to the rest of free Europe in the West's most expected tonight.

Anti-rearmament Socialists have announced plans for a last-ditch fight against ratification, but the opposition has generally conceded privately they had little hope in the Federal house and approval. Adenauer beat them by 50 votes on the second reading last month.

But the Socialists have hopes of stopping the treaties in later stages of its progress toward final German ratification. They still must master the pacts through the Bundesrat (upper house), and then face a test in the Federal house and Court over the constitutionality of rearming the country.

The issue of rearmament also is expected to dominate next year's national election campaign in which the chancellor will fight to retain his leadership.

Defending Tito's Yugo-Slavia Against Russian Aggression Is Big Topic in London Talks

LONDON (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia discussed with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and other top-ranking British leaders today ways the anti-Soviet Communist state could ward off open Russian aggression.

Nub of the talks in Britain's Whitehall and government centre was thought to be Yugoslav air defence against Russia's near-sonic MIG-15 jet fighters.

Not only Russia but most of the satellites surrounding Yugoslavia are armed with the swept-wing MIG jet. Tito's air forces still are powered chiefly by outmoded British piston-engine planes.

Tito's Weakness

That weakness almost certainly was the big worry in Tito's mind as he visited the Royal Air Force base in a bullet-proof car with 14 police bodyguards and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Defence Minister Earl Alexander.

This morning's sessions began in the foreign office with Tito, foreign minister Edvard Kardelj and Vice Milos Shumonja heading the Yugoslav delegation.

Shumonja is the man who played a key part in building up the recently Tito-Stalin Yugoslav-Turkish defence bloc.

Undismayed by police surrounded the foreign office building more than 100 persons gathered in the rain.

It was generally believed that Britain and the anti-Moscow Red dictator might have reached agreements—short of a formal treaty—of mutual help in the cold war with the Soviet Union.

Discuss Trade

The foreign office has given few clues to the scope of the talks, but it is known that the problem of Trieste looms large in the attempt to develop closer ties between Tito's Balkan state and the Western allies.

Conflicting Yugoslav-Italian claims to sovereignty in the divided Trieste territory is the head of the Adriatic sea thus far have imposed

Iron Curtain Fiasco Over Fallen Tree

GOSLAR, Germany, (AP)—A fir tree, rooted in West Germany, fell across the Soviet zone border recently.

Soviet and East-West negotiations on the question:

Who owns the tree?

The answer today is this manner: eight West German frontier guards and eight Communist East German police, armed with carbines, lined up at the fallen tree, one Communist and one West German took the handles of a two-man saw and the tree exactly along the border.

The Communists logged off the top half, the West Germans took away the bottom.

a major roadblock to such efforts.

Before Tito's arrival in London Monday, Secretary Foreign Anthony Eden said Britain hoped "to improve relations between Yugoslavia and Italy—then the West will be truly united."

The talks with Tito at conference was held Tuesday. As it reportedly was, they seemed to raise the question of economic aid and perhaps the placing of Yugoslav troops in the modern arms, including jet fighter planes.

GOOD SWIMMER

OSLO (CP)—An eight-months-old dog lost overboard from a fishing boat on the Lofoten Banks in north Norway swam safely ashore through heavy seas. The fisherman who found the dog awaiting him at home estimated it had been in the water four hours.

RADIO-TV POLICY DEBATE IN HOUSE HEATED AT TIMES

Budgetary Tax Changes Will be Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today studies Finance Minister Abbott's 1953-54 budgetary tax changes, setting aside temporarily a debate on government radio and television policies.

The debate on radio-TV occupied members for the second straight day Wednesday and took on some aspects of a marathon as George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, spoke for more than an hour in introducing a non-confidence speech by Transport Minister Chevrier.

At the end of Mr. Drew's speech which he called the party's broadcasting policies — Revenue Minister McCann indicated he also wanted to speak on the subject. Mr. McCann reports to Parliament for the Broadcasting Board on radio and TV in Canada.

Works Minister Fournier, government House leader, then indicated the broadcasting debate will be postponed and attention turned to budget resolutions preceding bills aimed in effect to tax changes in the budget.

Chevrier Charged

Mr. Drew charged Transport Minister Chevrier with an "almost shameless distortion of the facts" in a speech Monday on television. Mr. Chevrier, he said, had in effect made a "shameless appeal to prejudice" for saying Progressive Conservative policy on television would lead to the establishment of French-language stations.

Mr. Drew said his party believes in the principle of government ownership between the publicly-owned CBC and privately-owned stations in both radio and television. All policies should be under "impartial control," not aggressive legislation of the CBC which itself was dictatorial.

The Progressive Conservative leader said the government now has to establish a committee to review activities of the CBC.

The government-owned broadcasting policies also came from CCF national Credit speakers.

German Reds Protest Treaties

BONN, Germany (AP) — Reinforced police today beat back nearly 1,000 Communist dockworkers who tried to march on the West German Parliament to block ratification of twin treaties that would bring the Bonn republic into a military alliance with the West.

The screaming, chanting demonstrators attempted to storm a barbed wire barricade blocking the street and attempted to break through a police cordon.

The police met them about 200 yards from the Parliament buildings and drove them back with powerful streams of water from hoses.

Several demonstrators were arrested.

Kingston Family Flees From Burning Home

KINGSTON (CP)—Four persons fled early today from a fire that spread rapidly through the one-storey frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Wagar.

Norma Wagar, 15, first noticed the fire when she became trapped in her room by the flames. Her screams awakened her parents and a brother, Gerald. Norma was rescued from the flaming bedroom through a window in her room.

The fire, believed to have started in a chesterfield chair, caused extensive damage.

New York Store Sells Best Of Canada's Coronation Coins

OTTAWA (CP)—As far as Canada's mint is concerned, Queen Elizabeth is a best seller.

The mint reported today that demand for the new sets of coins bearing her likeness has been "extraordinary" but that there should be plenty available at the banks.

The demand, has even reached the stage where a New York department store is publishing ads saying "Gimbel's and Canada scoop the Coronation."

Gimbel's bought 500 sets of the coins—ranging from penny to a silver dollar—and is selling them for $4.50.

The set, nominally valued at $1.31, can be had here for 85—nine cents more than the collection actually is worth. The extra nine cents pays for mounting them.

The present store is in the middle of the mounted sets but can't do any immediate mailing.

Quake Death Toll In Western Turkey May Reach 1,000

Tremor Felt Over an Area Of Nearly 1,000 Square Miles

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A violent earthquake shook Western Turkey Wednesday night and unofficial reports today said from 500 to 1,000 persons perished. President Celal Bayar left Ankara with government officials for the stricken region.

Zahmi Aksoy, Red Crescent (Red Cross) information officer, said telegraphed reports from the scene estimated the dead at 500. He said these reports were unconfirmed. Istanbul radio stations estimated the death toll at 1,000.

Centred Around Balikesir

The quake apparently centred around Balikesir, seventh city of Marmara from Istanbul, and near the First World War battlefield of Gallipoli.

The Balikesir police said thousands of houses destroyed that 500 were dead in Yenice and Chan, towns of about 2,000 each. Their confirmed reports included 35 dead at Gonen, 100 miles southeast of Istanbul, and three at nearby Marzas. They said more than half the houses in the two towns have been destroyed or damaged.

The Istanbul observatory said the quake was felt over an area of more than 10,000 square miles.

Thousands of terror-stricken people fled their homes, spending the night in the open.

Listed as Severe

The quake, which Western spiritualists listed as severe, hit the Istanbul area about 10:16 p.m. (2:16 p.m. EST). Houses and buildings shook from the city, but there were no reports of casualties in the big port.

A report from Gonen said half the town was wrecked in the tremor which also struck nearby villages. Rescue squads pulled 50 living victims from debris as fires broke out.

In New York, Dr. Frank Press, seismologist at Columbia University, classified the quake as severe, class A earthquake, capable of doing severe damage. Press said his instruments were used to react to the shock for several hours after the tremor began.

Earthquake observators in England and Italy also reported registering the quake on instruments.

Dr. Perry Byerly, seismologist of the University of California at Berkeley, Calif., said the quake was probably in the 7.5 to 8.5 magnitude range on the Richter scale, which measures earthquakes from 1 to 10.

Byerly said the quake was probably the most violent earthquake recorded there in years.

Balikesir province is in the northwest corner of Asiatic Turkey. It is separated from the west by the Aegean sea and on the north by the Sea of Marmara. It has an area of 5,983 square miles, it has a population of more than 530,000.

Paving Way For First Firing Of Atomic Shell

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A series of sub-zero atomic explosions next month will pave the way for the first firing of an atomic artillery shell.

The nuclear debut of the 280-millimetre cannon is expected soon after a 15-kiloton blast is fired 4,500 feet above the Nevada proving ground, probably the first week.

While secrecy surrounds the scientists' moves, the next shot is likely to be another tower detonation similar to the 19-kiloton explosion which set off the first test.

Doctor Fined $500

TORONTO, (CP) — Dr. Joseph Chalkoff was fined $500 and costs Wednesday following conviction of making a false statement as the Brooklyn couple could obtain the new-born baby they wanted two weeks ago.

The conviction will be appealed. Evidence showed that Dr. Chalkoff arranged for the baby to be delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lamont at the Toronto East General hospital.

The baby, a girl, was born Feb. 5 and Mrs. Lamont was charged the next week.

'It's a Girl' No Surprise To This Dad

PITTSFIELD, Ma. (AP) — Lloyd Brooks looked at his new-born 12th daughter today and decided that "if we're ever going to have a son, guess we'll have to adopt one."

But Brooks said he was nonetheless pleased with the arrival Wednesday night of eight-pound, two-ounce Lorene Avis, bringing his family to 13 daughters, the largest all-girl family in the United States.

When Lois Ann Brooks arrived at 8:38 p.m. EST she was announced, town of about 2,000. Their confirmed reports included 35 dead at Gonen, 100 miles southeast of Istanbul, and three at nearby Marzas. They said more than half the houses in the two towns have been destroyed or damaged.

The Istanbul observatory said the quake was felt over an area of more than 10,000 square miles.

Singer, Actress Lose Damage Suit Against Airways

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Jane Froman and actress Gypsy Markey, injured victims of a 1943 plane crash, Wednesday lost their multi-million-dollar damage suit against Pan American World Airways.

A state Supreme Court jury, by an 11-to-1 decision, cleared the airline of blame. A verdict need not be unanimous in civil cases.

Although the jury turned down the entertainers' claims for a total of $3,500,000 damages, Judge Aron Steuer awarded them token damages—$2,650 to Miss Froman and $9,580 to Miss Markey.

Limited damages to $8,300, plus an amount covering loss of belongings, the airline had not had denied—are provided under an international flight pact on cases in which an airline is not at fault.

Both had been injured in the crash near Lisbon, Portugal, two Twenty-four died in the crash.

Fund Set Up To Send 'Jamie' Home for Holiday

"We Jamie is 'gang hame'."

The diminutive piper, Jamie Clark, well known war veteran and footman of wide acclaim is going back "hame" to see his native Dundee.

"Jamie," now eight-three years of age, will be the guest of his many war veteran comrades and "every" friends of the city, if subscription funds are forthcoming. "Jamie" will spend a month in his beloved Scotland—the first time in forty years.

A strong committee headed by Warrant Officer No. 1 A. W. Lepp, RCA, and Frank Regimbal, RCA (ALI) has been named to look after financial details. Secretary-treasurer is Bombardier C. A. Scott, also of the 9th. Anti-Tank Regiment. Members include J. McKenna, Jack Clarke, Arney, Harry, and Percy Veterans in Canada, Branch 201; Staff Sergeant K. Carswell and Gunner G. Smith.

Donations can be made any time in the "Jamie Clarke Holiday Fund," Royal Bank of Canada, the largest and most convenient, Bridge Street Armouries, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Sergeants' Mess, or Church Street; ANAF Club's rooms. Every effort by our committee member. Receipts will be given for all donations.

Funds in hand necessary before May 1st, 1953.

"Jamie" Clarke is one of the best known figures of the city and district. His colorful Scottish uniforms and his pipes are familiar sights everywhere. Jamie is one of the few Originals of the famous Belleville Kilties' Band, which toured the world after the turn of the century. He has given of his time services freely and generously.

Now on the sunset trail of life, he would like to see his beloved Scotland before the Great Piper sounds the final farewell.

Any donation, large or small, will be gratefully appreciated by the committee.

Stone Throwers Have to Report At Police Station

Six boys ranging in age from 12 to 15 years were given a reprimanding their stone-throwing ability on light bulbs in the north end of the city are going to have to answer to the police for their misdemeanors.

Last evening a Grier street resident reported seeing boys throwing stones at light bulbs and police were on the scene in time to round up the lads. All were told to report to the police station.

Windows at the Yacht Club building on the south of Victoria Park were also being used as targets by stone throwers, it was reported. Two of the windows in the building were reported broken.

Leslie Gordon Barnard Addresses Women's Canadian Club on 'Behind The Scenes With a Canadian Writer'

"Literature," said the noted Canadian author, Leslie Gordon Barnard, "is a weapon in the arsenal of democracy," as he addressed a capacity audience of the Women's Canadian Club on Tuesday evening in St. Thomas' Parish Hall on the subject of "Behind the Scenes with a Canadian Writer." Though at times sometimes underestimated, it can still be effective, even against this so-called atomic age which seeks to reduce man as an individual to a mere nonentity, but only as man, himself, "throws in the face of inhuman, blight the splendid gauntlet of his own immortality and of his mortal dignity as a man made in the image of God."

One cannot live only in the past with the great classics, which each generation must read, have been man's inspiration, but each generation must write its own literature and give voice to its own deep feelings. In this Mr. Barnard said the modern Canadian writing has come of age, and that public apathy to Canadian culture is being discarded for an alertness and a keen appreciation.

More Canadian Authors

Each succeeding years sees more Canadian books, and Canadian authors about Canadians, and in the last ten years or so there has been a steady increase both in increase both in volume and variety, including fiction, poetry, history, folk-lore; adventure as well as popular science.

Funds, humor and juvenile books. There are also budding poets, prose writers and novelists who are making a real contribution to the field of literature.

In speaking of writing as a profession, Mr. Barnard said: "writing is now the fifth highest income group that some people seem to think it is. It is one of the few individuals, but also one of the most rewarding, professions in the full time sense lance writer whose bread and butter also depend on it. There are disciplines in getting items down on paper pertinent between editor and that first compelling vision. Some writers have a gift of flashed scene agonies over every word; but to all come portion is accepted version of creation which stone for the flat drudgery and staleness of other items. To have your work "flowing" is a wonderful feeling and experience.

Small Portion Accepted

Out of the large amount of literary work offered, only a very small portion is accepted by the editors and publishers. However, the author's work is always welcome or those who show that they can keep up a steady standard of output. Some writers are fortunate enough to have their first efforts succeed, but they must keep it up. Unless the first is accepted, do not depend on writing as a means of support, but rather use it as a side line.

Mr. Barnard began his writing at 11 years of age; wrote a story became he had nothing else to do, and sold it for $2.00; another story was about a train wreck; and at 18 he wrote above story, remembering that it was necessary to have an interest-holding introduction, he began with the sentence: "As soon as the minister had pronounced the benediction, James knew that he had married the wrong woman." As a result of this beginning, Mr. Barnard whimsically added: "It took four years to get James out of that predicament.

Worthy of Your Best

"I would say to anyone aspiring to be a writer, that unless you have the considerable perseverance to accept a setback and unless also you have a deep inner compulsion, don't even contemplate writing. If you have that encouragement and compulsion, then write in job and adventure worthy of the best that is in you."

The rewards of writing are far more than editorial acceptance, pleasure in the response accordary to the joy of creation; when you know that what moves you in the realm of others; then in a day of tension you have been able to give an hour of entertainment and needed escape; or perhaps a little of spiritual undergirding; an expansion of experience, or uttered a valid protest in the world in which there is still much against which to protest.

Witness to Freedom

"Every honest page of type is a witness to freedom; every publication is a vote for the democratic way of life. Every book is a symbol of man's dignity

Seats Still Available

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday he understands that a number of Coronation seats still are available to Canadians, both in Westminster Abbey and along the procession route.

He told John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) that was the situation a few days ago and promised up-to-date information shortly.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned mixed in forenoon stock market trading today after a firm opening. "Boom stocks" recovered strength.

Uraniums, New Brunswick base metals and Northern Ontario rare metals lost ground on the opening but recovered later. Base metals and western oils were mixed and industrials followed the trend in spite of a loss on the exchange index pointing to a weakening in a few leading issues. Golds were firm, Wayne for the first hour totalled 214,000 shares.

Uraniums gained on strength in Chimo, Nordeils, Nesbitt Labine and New Delhi. Among Northern Ontario issues, Inspiration and Tungsten gained.

Industrials were mixed as foods and constructions gained and utilities and banks traded lower.

Senior golds were mixed but strength in juniors buoyed the list.

Higher-priced base metals slipped. Eastern Metals and East Rim rose.

Western oils were mixed.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 17-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Wednesday's noon rate was 98 11-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.77¼, against $2.77¾.

Blind Ottawa Mother Flown to Meet Son

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A blind mother who flew here from Ottawa was on hand to surprise the son she never has seen when he returned Wednesday aboard the big navy transport General M. C. Meigs from the Korean war.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Allen, and her son, Pte. Charles John Allen of the 142nd military police battalion, were one of the happiest couples at the pier.

Mrs. Allen, who has been blind for 28 years and has never seen her 25-year-old, six-foot son, was sitting alone on a bench when the soldier recognized her and rushed into her arms.

Mrs. Allen had been put on an airliner in Ottawa by two of her four daughters.

Marine Raiders Smash Company Of Chinese Reds

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. marine raiders, striking in pre-dawn fog and rain with flamethrowers and bayonets, smashed a Chinese company today as the Reds grouped for an assault on Allied western front positions.

A marine division spokesman said that of the 175 Communists surprised at the Chinese outpost northeast of Bunker Hill, an estimated 90 were killed and 85 were wounded.

The action — some five miles northeast of Panmunjom, the truce conference site—was the heaviest reported today along the 155-mile Korean front. The drizzling rain hampered aerial strikes.

However, B-26 night bombers blasted Communist supply arteries leading south from Pyongyang, the Korean Red capital, before the weather closed in. The 5th air force reported 85 trucks destroyed and several road bridges hit.

Fourteen Japan - based B - 29s dumped 140 tons of bombs on Anjim. Red supply centre 13 miles south of Kaichon in north-central Korea. The air force said it was the first raid on Anjim.

The marines, wearing armored vests, began their raid behind heavy artillery and tank fire. Then the men carrying the flamethrowers moved out.

Behind the flamethrowers came raiders with fixed bayonets. They leaped into the smoldering trenches and bunkers and battled the Chinese for more than an hour.

Appeal Decision

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Board of Control Wednesday approved action of city solicitor James Watson in appealing a decision of the court of revision which recently ordered the city to refund $5,833 in taxes to Ford of Canada.

Ford was awarded the refund after officials claimed the plant was "out of business" for eight days due to a strike in 1952.

Mr. Watson termed the court's action a "very dangerous precedent."

The court of revision recently ordered the city to refund eight days' business tax to the company. The plant was closed May 23-30 during a strike of office workers.

ARE THEY MERELY COINCIDENCES?

The news headlines for the past week have been crowded with reports of "shooting incidents" between Russian MiGs and British and American aircraft over Europe and the Alaskan area. One such incident, or even two, might be written off as inadvertent. Three in such quick order, following the change of leadership in the Soviet regime, are not going to be dismissed so lightly.

The average citizen, and particularly the Canadian citizen who seems to have taken the cold war in a steadier stride than his American counterpart, has felt some reason to wonder whether there is some particular significance to be attached to these unpleasant occurrences. Just such things as these have set the fuse to the powder kegs of war in years past. Are they to be ascribed to newly developed jitters and be accepted as unfortunate coincidences?

Earlier, our answer to this question was an emphatic "Yes," with the added thought that this world has come too far in the business of making war to go off half-cocked. With the exchange of friendly shouts over the exchange of fire over Alaskan territory we are somewhat less sure that all three incidents are unrelated, and not a part of some new design for the Soviet new Malenkov regime.

This doubt is raised by an article by Drew Middleton of the New York Times which was written before the Alaskan incidents were reported. It is strengthened by the extraordinarily stern protests which have come from both Washington and London during Tuesday and Wednesday this week. In advance of Tuesday's killing and the Alaskan fracas, Middleton suggests that there might be a Malenkov design behind the case of jitters.

His theme is that Germany must be let down as one of the failures of the late Josef Stalin. Between 1945 and 1952 he failed to extend Communist authority there beyond the Western pickets. In the light of this failure it is Middleton's view that the attack on British and American planes is part of a plan; first of all, to demonstrate to the Russians that they are actually menaced by external enemies and the new Soviet regime headed by Malenkov is protecting them. Secondly, the object is to remind the other satellite nations that the new regime is prepared to provide a military shield at the same time, and to convince a lot of Western Germans that their achievement of nationalist ambitions might better be fulfilled under Soviet auspices.

Middleton adds: "Unlike many Western planners, the Russian leaders do not believe that either Dr. Adenauer or his successors will be immune from the deep, instinctive drive of the German people, and it is probable that they can prepare an offer on unification which could appeal strongly to other elements in Germany."

Understanding the importance on the one hand of Malenkov solidifying his position at home and, on the other, the importance of the question of unification of their homeland to the German people, Mr. Middleton's speculations are not unreasoned. They become more logical in the knowledge that he arrived at them before the shooting incidents had become a series extended so far abroad as Alaska.

THE WORLD'S BEST DOCTOR

Canadian-born William Osler discovered no miraculous cure or wonder drug. Yet a study of his life, the most beloved physician since Luke," claims the April Reader's Digest.

Osler was a brilliant diagnostician, a practitioner in "psychosomatic medicine" long before the term was invented, and the most effective public-health crusader of his time. His books and articles numbered 1,200; one of the first he led to the formation of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

The Digest article traces Osler's career from his birth in an Ontario parsonage in 1849, his first years as an Anglican ministry, but his early curiosity about natural science shifted his focus to the study of medicine.

Graduating from McGill Medical School in Montreal, Osler pursued his studies in Germany, Austria and England. In London, his discovery of the "third corpuscle" contributed much to the knowledge of blood clotting, and McGill's medical school, at 24, a professor of physiology.

At McGill, Osler's investigations of trichinosis revealed that this disease was widespread and brought about the first municipal meat inspection. While at McGill, he also did much to change the gloomy aspect of hospitals by organizing flowers for the rooms and pastel colors for the walls.

Osler left McGill to teach at the University of Pennsylvania, and later moved to Johns Hopkins, in Baltimore. By 1905 his fame was such that a wealthy Canadian offered McGill $1,000,000 to bring Osler back. But his choice was made in England. George VI appointed him Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford. Later the King conferred on him the baronetcy which made him Sir William. . . . In World War I, Osler was consultant to the Canadian and American hospitals in England.

He died in 1919, but 20 years later the Journal of the American Medical Association claimed: "No one has in any way taken his place as the world's best doctor!"

FAMILY SIZE GROWS

American families are growing larger, the N.Y. Journal of Commerce reports. Between 1940 and 1950—the latest period for which complete figures are available—the birth rate for third children rose by 77 per cent, for fourth children by 50 per cent, and for fifth children by 27 per cent.

JUST FOLKS

MEMORIES

These are memories we keep;
Little things to make us weep;
Tiny shoes and bonnets small
Worn in days beyond recall
By a baby here no more,
Grown or long since gone before.

In the attic stored away
Are the prizes of yesterday:
Scented letters tied with braid
Which the loving mother made,
Used as rags are kept and worn
For a charm to make us weep.

Lacy caps and linens frayed;
Toys with which the baby played;
Pictures yellowed by the years,
Where but dimly still appears
Some familiar splendor gone,
For the eye to linger on.

'Tis to simple, little things
That the memory longest clings;
Much of sorrow we forget,
Much of joy's remembered not,
But we cherish down the years
All the tokens of our tears.

Property owners in this city will soon be penalized by increased assessments on their properties following any minor repairs to buildings, alterations or improvements by painting or remodelling unless such repairs or remodelling are extensive enough to warrant it, was the assurance given by Mr. T. Ed. Ketcheson, city tax assessor this morning. Rumors to the effect that householders who paint and beautify their houses will have their assessments increased prompted the questioning of Mr. Ketcheson in this matter. "There's a building I assessed low because of poor repair and is later completely renovated and restored to good condition," he said, "reassessment is judged according to the extent of the work done and the improvement shown. In the case of additions, verandas, extensive etc., this is also taken into consideration, but I assess all new houses and new verandas before the owner is given the notice of the assessment," concluded Mr. Ketcheson.

By GREGORY CLARK

It never occurs to us, when we see people like the Red Dean of Canterbury, that there is anywhere and say anything, that it may be in the request of the police and the security authorities likewise. The Red Dean is enthusiastically guided by country and a form of government to which I am opposed to the unthinkable. It irks many of us to witness public meetings in which our country and our ideals of government are held up to ridicule and contempt.

But how better could our security officers learn who amongst us are security risks in case of serious trouble than by being privileged to observe those who really found the Red Dean when he goes on his travels? What better bait could be set out to find the fish in which we must be intensely interested in the event of war? And as we know, there are extremely important officers of police and of state whose job it is to consider the possibility of war every day of their lives.

The leaders of a potential Fifth Column in any country are easily identified and can be rounded up within a matter of hours. But as was demonstrated in the fall of France in 1940, it is never enough to round up the leaders. Among the followers are all degrees of fanatics, vengeful, embittered and actually unbalanced men and women, capable of sabotage on a small scale which, added up, amounts to serious sabotage. In the early stages of the last war, we were sorely troubled by these collaborationists in the Low Countries and conquered by the enemy. In the last stages, we were enormously aided by a Fifth Column of our own, the underground Resistance that invaded countries. We never could have helped to recruit that underground if the conquerors had permitted Red Deans to rear about and attract the dissidents into the open so they could be identified.

The dangerous big shot Fifth Columnists are the little shots security forces. Maybe we should allow the less dangerous but highly troublesome little shots to declare themselves amongst us. They will be easier to corral in time of trouble.

Green Hair And Anguish

(Cleveland Flish Dealer)

The Beres woman who charged she suffered great mental anguish when she tried for a bleach job and that it came out deep green might have been saved considerable vexation if she had taken a tip from the immortal Through the Looking Glass, as follows:

"But I was thinking of a plan
To dye one's whiskers green,
And always use so large a fan
That they could not be seen."

If it would work for whiskers, it might even work for hair. Another obvious method of avoiding green hair would be to let Mr. Herman's crowning glory go natural.

Embarrassing Reference

(Fort William Times-Journal)

The Trans-Canada highway in Northern Ontario has been finally opened for cars—if Britain. An article in the December issue of The Motor, outstanding automobile publication of London, England, an author says, "I have driven over jungle Jeep tracks in New Guinea; driven the war, in the Sahara Desert, in Northern Greece and over the by-roads of Spain, but nowhere have I found roads as bad as in parts of Northern Ontario, throughout almost all Saskatchewan, and generally on roads other than main highways to provincial capitals or national parks in the West. I would not drive across Canada again except in a Jeep, until such times as the Trans-Canada Highway is completed."

To illustrate his point, a photograph accompanying the article shows a Superior Cartage trailer stopped down one-third the width of the road between Geraldton and Hearst.

Now we know what the lady must feel when someone takes her picture without her knowing it—old dressing gown and has her hair up in curlers.

Pens Of Yesteryear

(Montreal Gazette)

Whatever happened to the pen that could write under water? It seemed there was deep-sea divers who kept diaries—or for taking down marginalia by numbers. These specialized needs may not have provided a very large market, but at least it was an idea to one.

A current pen maker's claim seems less applicable. His new pen can sign 2,500 cheques without needing a refill. Does it mean 3,500 good cheques? There is no indication. Does it mean sign 2,500 cashable cheques at one sitting? Or would they want to, even if they could?

It is interesting to consider how the figure was arrived at. Was it an office boy who signed the 2,500 cheques (or 3,500 alive) In either case, the results would be interesting. An office boy would get delusions of grandeur; an executive would get delusions of imminent bankruptcy before he was half way through his day.

The thing could become quite complicated. Looking back on the days when pens just wrote, wrote anything, brings a nostalgic lump in the throat.

Times Change

(Detroit Free Press)

Americans, above the age of 21 years, smoked an average of 3,719 cigarettes each last year. That established a new record.

James L. Kilgore, 4, who was long from 1603 to 1625, called the use of tobacco "a custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs and in the black stinking fumes thereof nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

A little later, though, an emissary from Virginia went to London to raise money during a visit and pleaded that there were souls in the colony to be won. "Damn your souls," was the rely of Virginia Company directors. "Grow tobacco!"

James was gathered to his fathers, however, before anyone got to becco, and today the "stinking weed" constitutes an important factor in our farm economy as well as lush pickings for the tax gatherers.

Twenty-Two Languages

(Toronto Telegram)

Canada has 114 publications printed in 22 languages other than English and French.

The Department of Citizenship and Immigration, which prepares for the editors of our foreign-language press a weekly news bulletin, gives in its annual report the circulation figures of Ukrainian papers, 15 German, seven Finnish, seven Czech and Slovak, five Polish, Chinese and Yiddish. This order of frequency is reversed for corresponding totals of Canadian residents whose mother tongue is other than English or French. One exception is the substantial group whose mother tongue is Indian or Eskimo—it has no special newspaper.

More surprising is the existence in this country of publications in Danish, Icelandic, Swedish, Japanese and Ryelo-russian. Moreover, a couple of Hollanders employed on the Harrison, Ont., Hackensack farm have published a Dutch monthly.

Letter to the Editor

Dairy Industry Needs Support

Toronto, Ont., March 16, 1953

The Editor,
Sir:

For some years now, in the news and editorial columns, I've been reading more or less confusing references to the conditions in the dairy farming industry. While this reader is merely a consumer of the farmers' products, I have come to the conclusion—despite the smog of conflicting opinions in various journals—that, in fact, things are far from being as economically healthy on the nation's dairy farms as they should be?

As one who has a deep appreciation of all services being so unfailingly rendered by our rural brethren, I, as the sponsoring promoter of off-the-farm Canadians, it seems to me that the time is ripe for drastic positive action by our political authorities, to delve into this whole dairy farming industry "headache", and come up with remedial measures that will to any lay mind, reveal the causes! I endeavor to keep reasonably posted on matters affecting rural Canada and feel like going on record as being convinced that, in fact, there is something radically wrong with the above basic industry; that we have a "sick" industry; that we have a "sick" industry (although the word "ill" would be a bit too strong) and that the time is ripe for a thorough investigation hearing and are not primarily it pulsed by the profit incentive which motivates the manufacturing on an act,

Reading the editorial columns, for example, I noted the following: "Agricultural Representative" and the point is made if the dairy industry can be kept prosperous on the farms, great sections will never become dust bowls like those which afflicted the great prairie plains of the U.S. and in western Canada, during the thirties, and that would be a gradual disappearance of the buffalo grass from the plains." Yes, I'll agree. I presume that is this vital problem the Canadian Legion would do well to remember the homely adage about an ounce of prevention outweighing a pound of cure!

Toy Dog Is Trojan Horse

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

A Boston doctor thinks he has found a way to eliminate the fright—and tears—from "shots," which young children feel when they are to undergo a painful surgery.

The doctor (who need not restrict the fear of anesthetics to children alone) has told the Harvard Medical Society he suggested that a child can administer the anesthetic himself with the help of a toy dog. He is given the toy to play with. It squeaks when it is squeezed and, fascinated by this, the child's nervousness is allayed.

But then the doctor makes a hole in the head of the little toy dog and hooks it up to a tank of anesthetic gas. The youngster still squeezes himself into unconsciousness, and never really finds out what happens.

24 Work On Pair of Pants

(Gali Reporter)

An advertisement, signed by the provincial deputy minister of labor in the province of Quebec, appeared in the Gali Reporter. It occupied 12 newspaper columns in one of its issues. The subject matter was the completete text of an agreement between various manufacturers of needle trades and employers. The amazing thing about the advertisement is the listing of trades involved in making a pair of pants. Altogether there are 24 separate types of skilled workers who have a hand in the job of making your britches. Quite naturally cutter is included. They cut the cloth. There are "under-pressers" and "top-pressers" and so it goes on until the last one is "cleaner" and he is one who "cleans the thread end of pants".

There are 35 types of workers who have made provision for who make vests. No part of the agreement was left to chance, for there is even a "vest tester" in one who makes loops and a vest sewer is one who sews vest but we can't find out what a vee is, except to tell you that a joiner (not a carpenter) is one who sews up vees and closes the centre of the pants.

All of which we don't understand. We've always had a deal of respect for the clothes we wear, but now that we're so cheerful about the price we pay,

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

BORIC (BORACIC) ACID IN THE MEDICINE CUPBOARD

For a century boric (also called boracic) acid has been a familiar item in the medicine cupboard. In hospitals quantities of boric acid solution have been kept at hand for routine use. Either as a saturated solution of boric acid (SSBA) for mouthwash, irrigating bladder or other cavity, syringing ear, eyedrops or eyewash, bedding or nursing pads, ointments ready for use, wetting dressings for burns or other surface irritations. The finely powdered boric acid may be used as a dusting powder for the insides of shoes to control excessive sweating of the feet.

Boric acid is a feeble antiseptic, although a mixture that purports to relieve or prevent "colds," sore throat, flu, etc. by killing germs has been for years more C—sh, ah, you charlatan! Remedy for Chronic Running is a solution of two teaspoonfuls of boric acid (or, say, about one-third of a level teaspoonful) in one fluidounce of pure grain alcohol. If your druggist refuses to sell pure grain alcohol (no other can be safely used) perhaps your doctor will furnish the necessary prescription for it. Shake the bottle thoroughly warmed by standing the vial in warm water. Drop two or three drops in the ear each night and morning. I must insist on a prescription for alcohol because this remedy: the habit of keeping the ear plugged must be stopped. If you think you know better than I do about this you can keep your ear running from now on, for all I care.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HOW SIMPLE IS ENJOYMENT

I used to think that life would grow more and more complicated as I grew older, but I find in experience just the opposite. Life grows simpler. Its genuine enjoyments are most lavish, and the simpler ones have the greater appeal. I have witnessed bigness in little things. I have come to begin a multitude to get enjoyment. Often it comes in multitude.

People have travelled the earth for enjoyment and returned home to find it in greater abundance in their back-door yards. Give a child a number of toys and at once it will select the simple ones every time. John Howard Payne, when alone in Paris, thinking of home, expressed it all in that line, "Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home." Home is home, and the simpler it is the greater is its enjoyment.

Men who know poverty and struggle in their youth, and in coming wealthy, still look back to those days of simple enjoyments, even persisting in them though they can command about every enjoyment that money can buy. A friend recently told me of the habit of his late Henry Ford in saving simple things he found useful in his days in his youth, many of which when revealed and described, will illustrate the kindly character of his mind and bigness of heart. Little things, and multitudes of enjoyment. If it was most of the people of the earth, never would know it. The fact is that most people of humble circumstances know the thrills of appreciation that anyone else. Enjoyment is within the reach of people creating within themselves. Other people only contribute to it.

With the starting of another delightful Springtime, can you think of a greater source of enjoyment than the one of the simple joy with the fishing rod and belt beside a bubbling stream? Or of the lover of birds and flowers, happy in the little open spaces for happy discoveries? Genuine enjoyments are always the simple ones. And open to all.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MODERN MIRACLES

At the dedication of the cemetery at Gettysburg during the Civil War, the two speakers were Edward Everett and President Lincoln. Newspapers the country over carried Everett's speech in almost unabridged form. Most of them did not even quote a line from Lincoln's address. It was only when some editor of unusual insight began talking about Lincoln's address as the better of the two, that people sat up and took notice.

The great events of history generally pass unnoticed. To the Romans of the crucifixion there was one more execution of a condemned rebel. Nobody paid any attention to it. Paul when he was executed in Rome created established the first Christian Church in that Empire. There were but a few of every congregation with which we worship today.

The headlines in today's newspapers will probably appear a hundred years hence to be dealing with superficialities. In the recent presidential campaign, the two great issues were treatment of atomic energy for peaceful purposes and the establishment of a sound monetary system over which we are threatened by either side. People seldom know what is going on around them. But once in a while a miracle may be taking place right beside you.

RAWDON

Clemence David Tells of India, People

RAWDON.—A large number of folks from Rawdon United Church circuit and from St. Paul's, Stirling, convened at Bethel United Church Sunday evening when Mr. Hans Skoutajan, student minister of Stirling United Church charge, and Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, pastor of Rawdon circuit, arranged to have Mr. Clemence David of India, as the special speaker.

The students of Queens University are sponsoring the tuition of this special student who is completing his theological training in Kingston, and will then return to his home land to preach the gospel. Mr. David described the "caste" system, giving a vivid description of each group, their beliefs and superstitions.

Mr. David has served on a mission field in his native land and he knows under what difficulties missionaries carry on their activities. In 1952 Central India celebrated their 75th anniversary.

Dr. Henry Campbell, the pioneer missionary to India, came as a dedicated servant of God to help the people of India to have a richer, fuller life, but even now there are still 80 per cent of India's teeming missions who are illiterate despite the fact that educational facilities have increased a over the mission field.

Interested in India

Canada first became interested in India in 1824 when Dr. Alexander Duff stirred up enthusiasm for India missions.

Dr. A. A. Scott, moderator of the United Church of Canada, served as principal of Indore Christian College beginning in 1928 but he and Mrs. Scott went to India in 1912 and they served the college throughout the years, returning to Canada in 1952.

Evangelism is showing forth and it is the aim of every missionary to redeem souls for the Kingdom.

Educational work has greatly expanded with many students at the Indore Christian college. Two high schools, one for girls at Indore and another for boys at Rosalpura. Both of these schools have Indian principals.

All over Central India there are primary schools. If the Christian community is to play its part in the new India, it must be a literate community.

The medical work has grown from small dispensaries to well-established hospitals and in several of these the training of nurses is an essential part of the work. Recently, several public health centres have been opened and this is a promising development.

Since the granting of Independence to India there has been a friendlier spirit toward people of other nations, and especially to citizens of other parts of the Commonwealth. The missionaries seem to be able to continue their work and Christians in India have a great influence at the governors of Bombay and Bengal are both Christians.

Following the service, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Warren entertained the visiting students, ministers and others to a "fellowship hour" at their home. Here the group asked questions of interest re India, and thoroughly enjoyed the discussion.

ROSSMORE

Chicken Dinner Enjoyed By Banquet Club

ROSSMORE — One of the most delightful and pleasant times of the winter months, was held on Saturday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Wicky Rose opened up their spacious home for the Banquet Club's annual feast.

The long tables set in the dining room made a pretty picture as the guests sat down to a repast of roast chicken, dressing, salads and all that goes to make a meal delightful to the inner man.

When the tables were cleared, five tables of euchre were enjoyed, with the first prize for men, going to A. C. Alyea; low to Wicky Rose; ladies' high to Mrs. L. Pollett; low to Mrs. J. Empey. Mrs. Ross carried off the lone hand prize.

A social half hour was then enjoyed.

Thanks were tendered Mr. and Mrs. Ross for a most enjoyable time.

Mr. Jack Empey spent the week-end with his family here.

The Wednesday night euchre will be held at Mr. and Mrs. Don Rupert's on the 18th.

Mr. E. Alderson spent a couple of days last week in Ottawa.

Mrs. Mabel Russel entertained friends from Detroit, on Saturday. Mr. Earl Russel of Toronto, was also a visitor at the same home.

Mr. Bruce Root has returned from Belleville Hospital where he has been confined for the last 1,719 kroner (about $320 Canadian) and married couples 2,800 kroner ($500 Canadian) annually. Sweden now has 830,000 old age pensioners. wishing him a speedy recovery.

Salem W.A.

There were 23 ladies present at the Salem W.A. quilting and pot-luck dinner on Thursday last, at the home of Mrs. Albert Tweddy. Mrs. Harold Holden presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Mayo and opened the meeting.

Items of business were discussed.

Mrs. Murney Johnson had charge of the program. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Arnold Hay. Miss Barbara Tweddy gave two piano numbers.

Readings were given by Mrs. Will Donald entitled "History on Coronations" and Miss Edna Tanner read "One Day at a Time."

Mrs. Tom Clements chose for the topic "The Working Christian".

Mrs. J. B. Hagerman expressed thanks to Mrs. Tweddy and to those who assisted with the program.

Weddings

FONGER—McCARTHY

Standards of spring flowers lined the chancel wall and white gladioli adorned the altar of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Shannonville, on Saturday, March 14, at 4:00 p.m., for a lovely wedding ceremony when Patricia Dorothy McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil George McCarthy, of Shannonville, became the bride of Raymond Lionel Fonger, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon B. Fonger, of Belleville. The Rev. A. L. Fain, rector of the church, officiated.

Mr. Alfred Evans, guest organist from Peterborough, played the Bridal rendered the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white, brocaded satin fashioned with molded bodice having a sweetheart neckline and long, sheathlike sleeves ending in fitted points over the wrists. The softly-draped, floor-length skirt hung in graceful folds. Her fingertip veil of embroidered net was held by a wreath of white lilies-of-the-valley and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink Delight roses, white carnations and white hyacinth bells.

Miss Marlene Ellis, of Belleville, as maid of honor, was gowned in mauve, chiffon net over taffeta, featuring a draped bodice with draped, puff sleeves, and full, floor-length skirt. She wore a matching headdress and carried a posegay of Golden Sceptre roses, white pom pom mums and mauve sweetpeas.

Miss Pat McCallum, of Toronto, was bridesmaid, wearing blue net over taffeta fashioned with fitted, strapless bodice and tiny, matching mandarin collar, the three-tier, slightly crinoline effect floor length skirt was accented with matching rose-bow. She wore a matching headdress and carried a nosegay of pink Briarcliffe roses, white pom pom mums and mauve sweetpeas.

Mr. Edward C. Fonger, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Ralph Gulliver, of Hamilton, and Mr. Noel L. Fonger, of Cochrane, Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, where Mrs. Cecil McCarthy received, owing to the sudden illness of the bride's mother, Mrs. Caldwell was attired in mauve crepe with matching accessories She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Fonger, who wore a black velvet suit with white accessories, white nylon lace blouse and white carnation corsage.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Fonger left on their wedding trip to Detroit, Michigan, the bride travelling in a red suit with navy and white accessories and white gardenia corsage. They will reside, upon their return, at 125 Bowood Avenue, Toronto.

Guests were present from: Mandaumin, Wooler, Toronto, Hamilton, Sundridge, Ontario; Montreal, Cochrane and Ottawa.

Club Activities

PR. EDWARD-BELLEVILLE WOMEN'S CLUB

The March meeting of Prince Edward-Belleville Women's Club was held at the Y.M.C.A., with Mrs. L. W. Fonger presiding. The newly appointed president, presiding.

After the minutes, reading a letter from Mr. Goodwin was read, thanking the club for the donation to be used for those attending a course in the new Quicke-St. Lawrence Institute for the Blind.

The group leaders drew names for their groups. Mrs. Lent, past president, presented the beautiful cup and saucer to Mrs. McCoy, who recently celebrated her golden wedding anniversary. A huge bouquet of Easter lilies and snapdragons, which was presented by Mrs. Skaggs, was used on the chairlady's table, and later taken to Mrs. A. Palmer, one of the shut-in members.

Interesting Program

Mrs. Ruth Garbutt, with Mrs. N. Montgomery, co-convener, and her group, presented an interesting program.

Interesting readings were given by Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. C. Ackerman and Mrs. Garbutt. Mrs. Montgomery read a letter written over 100 years ago, showing characteristics of thought, style and mannerisms of the letters writing in the early 18th century.

Two piano selections were given by Mrs. G. W. Wright and greatly appreciated.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Garbutt and her group and a social half hour spent.

Y'S MENETTE'S CLUB

The Y's Menette's Club held its regular meeting in the auditorium of the Y.M.C.A., on Monday.

The business meeting was conducted by the president Norma Clarke.

A talk, "The Arts and Crafts of the Eskimos", was shown by Oscar Wager, and much enjoyed by all present.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the hostesses, Mrs. G. Tyll, Mrs. B. Lake, Mrs. G. Hyde and Mrs. R. Moorman.

Women's Activities

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD

The regular meeting of St. Margaret's Guild was held with president, Mrs. A. Watson, in the chair.

Final plans for catering to the Barber Shoppers and Pioneers' Club were made and business ended with a welcome to three new members, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Titus.

A novel entertainment evening was held under committee head, Mrs. C. James, assisted by Mrs. B. Clarke.

Miss D. Martinson, of B.C.I., patiently taught the basic steps of square dancing and humorous comment and merriment.

The most enjoyable evening closed with refreshments served by the hostesses, Mrs. S. Sillitoe and Mrs. C. James.

Elena Nikolaida, Contralto, Delights Large Audience With Most Varied Program

By EUGENE LANG

The final concert of the 1952-53 series presented by the Belleville Community Concert Association took place in the Collegiate Auditorium before a large audience of the members of the Association last evening. The program featured the brilliant leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Association, Elena Nikolaidi.

Madame Nikolaidi was unknown to Canadian and American audiences until her successful debut in New York four years ago. She had previously to this been associated with the Vienna State Opera, having been with that renowned organization since 1936. Fame came to her quickly after her New York debut, and she paid a visit before successes to her name after her other three debuts, namely with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony under Mitropoulos, over the air, and recently with Columbia.

Since then she has appeared twice as soloist with the San Francisco Symphony and opera. The Metropolitan opera debut was made in the Verdi Requiem with Bruno Walter conducting. She has made three solidly booked tours of the U.S. and Canada, appearing in both as soloist with most of the leading symphony orchestras. Last year she made her first tour of Australia, and at present she is fulfilling another heavily-booked season of the U.S. and Canada.

Varied Program

Two numbers by Bach and Handel opened the recital, first the familiar "Come Sweet Love Faithful" of Bach, and second the air "Spring is Coming" from "Otione" of Handel. Both were sung in a very sensitive style and showed the interest from the very first that here was a voice with wholesome quality and richness of tone.

The second group consisted of six very popular Lieder by composers of German, Bohemian and Norwegian conquests. Whether it was the plaintive pleadings of "Solveig's Song" by Grieg, the sincere warmth of "Where my Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak, the beauty of melody of Schubert's "Standchen", the vibrant, impassioned phrases of the same composer's "Ungeduld", (impatience) or the highly emotional, feeling vested in Richard Strauss' "Standchen", Madame Nikolaida proved her wide range of tone color and distinctive powers of interpretation were more than adequate to the demands of each of these songs. She imparted a feeling of inspirational emotion from the luscious qualities that emitted from her throat as she sang each of these beloved songs.

To display the tremendous power of her voice and dynamic range that it commands, Madame Nikolaidi chose two representative arias from early 19th century Italian Opera. Rossini's "Bel raggio lusinghier" from "Semiramide," and "O mio Fernando" from Donizetti's "La Favorita" were the two operatic selections offered. Both exhibited the flexibility and vocal scope that is contained in the great singer's voice and also gave her a chance to demonstrate her interpretive skill as an operatic prima donna. Both arias are of a certain stereotyped sameness in conception, but nevertheless, always result in tumultuous applause, simply because Rossini and Donizetti knew what their audiences wanted and wrote accordingly.

The Final Group

Five variegated songs of modern composers were chosen for the final group. The delicately tender "Nina Rosa" by Barbirolidge Crist was a lovely morsel that deserves many more hearings. "Oh, No, John"—an old folk ditty was dressed up by Cecil Sharp and given new life in a distinctive piano accompaniment. "Ecstasy" by Walter Rummel again showed the power of the specialist's voice, but in content was musically nil.

Encores consisted of a Greek folk song and "Habanera" from ever popular "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen" and the lovely but so over hackneyed "Lullaby" of Brahms. If the Ballet Russe could have created the last fall we would have had a perfect score, as every concert this year has used it as a sign off number. There are only two Lullabys, including a heavenly one by Mozart. The Habanera was exciting and sung with the necessary wholesome abandon to give it that certain thrill.

Fine Accompanist

Special mention must be made of the excellent accompaniments given Madame Nikolaidi by Mr. Stuart Ross, the pianist. His accompanying was one of the finest that this listener has heard in a long time. His playing seemed to "breathe" with the soloist in perfect unison, notwithstanding the fact that some of the piano parts are very demanding, as witness Standchen" by Richard Strauss. The three solo piano numbers were very fine indeed, especially the refined polish of the Prelude in E Minor of Mendelssohn. Debussy Prelude in A Minor came off very well also.

Prior to the concert, the president of the Belleville Association, Mrs. Ivor Riggs, gave a short talk on the aims and ambitions of the association, welcoming all the newest members to join again for the coming 1953-54 season.

Miss M. Vandervoort Recipient of Fine Gift

On Tuesday evening, the Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, had a party in the Y.M.C.A. to commemorate the 111th anniversary of the organization of the society and to honor Mrs. Joseph Smith, on March 17th, 1842, in Nauvoo, Ill.

At the conclusion of the program, Miss Marion Vandervoort was presented with a beautiful gift of china, in appreciation of her services to the Relief Society of the church. Miss Vandervoort will shortly be leaving the city to reside in Oregon, U.S.A.

FARMHOUSE BURNS

TILLSONBURG (CP)—The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fistrovici, four miles southeast of here, was destroyed by fire Wednesday, with all the kitchen furniture. Loss was estimated at close to $3,000 Neighbors saved most of the furniture in the other part of the home.

'Visual Development' Interesting Address Heard at Kinette Club

The regular meeting of the Kinette Club of Belleville was held on Monday evening at St. Thomas parish hall.

President Ruth Follwell occupied the chair, Ella Calles, acted as Sergeant-at-Arms, with Marg. Hallam, as song leader.

Eve Tanover introduced the guest speaker for the evening, the local well known optometrist, Mr. Sid Rose.

Visual Development

Mr. Rose, after a humorous opening, gave an interesting and educational talk, stressing the importance of the visual development and its effects on the general personality. His talk brought home forcibly the importance of a routine check of children's eyes in the early years of schooling, so that the tendency to become short-sighted can be detected and treatment be given in the early stages.

Mr. Rose gave kindly words of praise to the Kinsmen Club for their unselfish work that has been carried on in their eye clinic for a number of years.

Nell Farrow graciously thanked the speaker for his most enlightening talk.

Report and highlights of the coming Inter-Club meeting to be held in April at the Quinte Hotel was given by Helen Lemmon.

A motion was made and unanimously carried that $30 be donated to the Kin European Food Relief Fund.

District bulletins for the year from district convener Helen Wilbur were distributed.

Fashion Flashes

RAISED surfaces and patterns give a new feel and look to cotton fabrics readied for next weather wear. White cotton, with an eyelet daisy and dot motif in raised black that looks like patent leather, makes a handsome dress. With scoop neckline, softly curved at the centre; cap sleeves; contour belt of black patent and easy skirt complete the details.

AN EXTENSION of the wool or cotton sweater is the newest of softest suede or capeskin with fabric trim. Light blue, buttercup or pale grey suede, with collar and binding of silk ribbon knit, makes a handsome cardigan that should see plenty of wear.

ABOUT MIDWAY between rich beige and pastel shades in color is a new shade called Apricot Brandy, for want of a better label. One store is showing clothes of various styles and fabrics in this shade, or its dark colors trimmed with it. Silk taffeta takes this color exceptionally well as does firm silk linen. A coat of gray poodle woollen is lined with taffeta in Apricot Brandy and with it is a reversible stole to match.

THE RUSTLE of taffeta still sounds in the Spring fashion symphony. Silk taffeta, in a fine black and white check, makes a pretty dress that buttons to below the waist with black velvet buttons. There is black velvet piping at the collar and rounded lapels and down either side of the front of the skirt, which opens to disclose a wide insert of scarlet taffeta. The opening turned back and lined to match.

SMARTLY SLIM suits predominate in most collections. Raw silk, in beige, makes a handsome suit lined with brown silk crepe. Beige frogs match a soft shirtwaist blouse.

A NEW MOVIE dealing with Paris in the Nineties has marvelous use of color, especially in satin, and of flip plumed hats. Sure to be adapted, if not copied, is a dress of mauve silk satin with a slim, full-length skirt, the bodice top sagged with deep-cut toned tulle and trimmed with large matching roses and velvet leaves.

Women Will Outnumber Men In Canada Going to Coronation

TORONTO (CP)—Women will outnumber men in Canada's contingent of Coronation visitors to Britain.

In a good many cases, mothers and daughters are going while their menfolk will be left at home to attend the Coronation activities through newspapers, radio and perhaps television.

Wives of some prominent Canadians will accompany their husbands to Britain, a survey has shown most of the other women will likely be bound for overseas without their men.

Some observers here say women travellers in the Canadian group will outnumber the men by as much as 70 to 30.

Toronto was chosen to investigate this matter of sex, travel and the Coronation because Sir Alexander Maxwell, chairman of the British Travel Association, said here recently:

"Toronto made more bookings and inquiries than any other city in Canada."

Office manager of BOAC here, C. A. Whitson, said:

"We find many of the women going are school teachers and office workers."

He said that his office received a flood of bookings when King George VI died. However, many of these, after they have had to cancel, so this airline still has some space for Coronation passengers.

One travel agent said: "Men can't travel, they have to earn the money and women spend it." One said his agency caters to many older women who have not want to travel, but few older men.

Many women in their late 'teens and early 20s are going in large numbers but few young men.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's right and she's wrong

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in the army and just 19, and for almost a year now I have been very much in love with a girl who is only 16.

She wants to get married, and nothing would please me more, but I know we are too young for anything like that and I can't seem to make her understand why we should wait. Her idea is that if we did start out on marriage while we are young, it would be a good thing, but I know better, because I have known other people who got married with the same idea and I have seen such marriages fail.

Do you think I am right, and what can I do to make my girl understand?—D. M.

Dear D. M.:

You certainly are right in wanting to postpone any marriage until you and your girl are older, and you are right, too, in thinking that many marriages fail when they were entered upon when the girl and boy were far too young for such serious business.

I suppose your girl tells you that if you really loved her you would want to marry her, as this is the usual argument put up in a case of this kind. Your answer to that is that you love her too much to want to run the risk of your marriage breaking up.

I suggest that you ask her to agree to wait at least until you get out of the army and have time to establish yourself in a job, so that you would be ready to take on the responsibility of a wife. In the meantime, you and she can be making plans so that you will know how to start out on your marriage wisely and make it a success. If, for instance, you could work out some plan for each of you to put aside some money regularly, it would give your girl a feeling that you were really working toward marriage and not just letting things drift. By giving her some specific thing to do like this, she might feel better satisfied and more willing to wait.

In my event, don't let her persuade you to change your mind, for it is to the best interests of both of you to wait for marriage until you are older.

Mother doesn't like her boy friend

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a teen-age girl who has been going steady since last summer. My mother doesn't like this boy and she refuses to let me see him. When he only telephones, she makes me hang up. Also, he has written to me several times, and my mother reads the letters before I see them.

This boy is expecting to leave for the army any day now, and since I love him very much, what do you think I can do about the situation?—P. E. L.

Dear P.E.L.:

I can't think of anything less worthy of a mother than to open her daughter's mail. This seems to me even meaner than to be so arbitrary about her daughter's friendship with a boy.

Of course, though, it is only right that I should ask if your mother could have any really good reason for not liking this boy, and consequently for not wanting you to have anything to do with him. Or might it be possible that she feels you are getting too serious about him for a girl of your age?

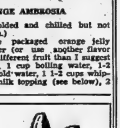
In my event, since your friend is leaving for the army so soon, why not leave my big worries about him until he comes home again? For all you know, both of you may change your minds during a long period of separation, and then all your worrying would be seen just a waste of time and energy.

I do think that you should be allowed to write to this boy, and perhaps, if you promised your mother that you would just write him as a friend and not consider yourself committed to him, she would be more willing to approve the correspondence. It would really be much smarter not to have any definite agreement with him at this time anyhow.

Frozen Desserts Without Cream

By MARY MOORE

You girls always amaze me with your business and your energy and your zest for living and cooking.



How did dozens of you are at me all at once for frozen desserts—using not cream, but skim milk powder and evaporated milk "because I enjoy using my new frig. for frozen desserts" or "because the children get more milk that way" or just plain "because I love cooking"?

Some of you coyly add such comments as "Many they are not so fattening as desserts with cream are they?—I'm reducing you know, but I give myself a small serving of ice cream." Don't fool yourselves, my sweets. With all of the milk and sugar and eggs, etc. these recipes contain they are packed full of calories whether they come from cream or not.

CHOCOLATE MARLOW

Chill 1 cup (8 oz.) evaporated milk until it is icy cold (this is for whipping) in ice cube tray. Put of double boiler shave 1 1-2 squares bitter chocolate 1-2 cup) and add 1 cup evaporated milk and 18 marshmallows. (This recipe uses 1 1-2 cup evaporated milk in all.)

Cover boiling water until blended. (This is very attractive if chocolate is not completely melted, but chocolate can be completely blended by beating the mixture.) Remove from heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla and chill. Turn cold bowl with the 1 cup of chilled evaporated milk until stiff, then fold into the chilled chocolate mixture. Pour at once into ice cold freezing trays and

WHIPPED SKIM MILK POWDER TOPPING

(1 1-2 cups)

Into a bowl put 1-4 cup cold water and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Chill thoroughly. Sprinkle 1-4 cup skim milk powder over water and beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff. (Takes about 10 minutes.) Beat in 1 tablespoon sugar and 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. (This may be used in many recipes for frozen desserts where whipped cream is called for—if you want to reduce the cost and the calories.)

LEMON MILK SHERBET

Two and one-half teaspoons gelatin, 2 tablespoons water, 1 7-8 cup water, 3-4 cup skim milk powder, 12 tablespoons sugar, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 egg white, stiffly beaten. Soak the gelatin in the 2 tablespoons cold water for 5 minutes. Sprinkle the skim milk powder over the 1 7-8 cup water in a mixing bowl; let stand for 5 minutes, then beat with rotary beater until milk powder is dissolved in the water —about 1 minute. Pour into top of double boiler, add sugar, and heat over boiling water about 3 minutes. Remove from heat, add soaked gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Chill. Gradually stir in lemon juice and lemon rind. Pour into freezing tray and cover with wax paper. Freeze until it is a mush. Turn into cold bowl, and beat with chilled rotary beater until fluffy but not melted. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Return to freezing tray at once, cover with wax paper and freeze firm.

ORANGE AMBROSIA

(Middled and chilled but not frozen.)

One packaged orange jelly powder (or use another flavor and different fruit than I suggest here), 1 cup boiling water, 1-2 cup cold water, 1 1-2 cups whipped milk topping (see below), 2 oranges peeled then chopped. Dissolve the jelly powder in the boiling water, then stir in the cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Then beat jelly with rotary beater until foamy and add chopped oranges and whipped milk topping. Pour into large mold to chill until firm. This is good served with additional topping.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A party for a one-year-old, if given at all, should be very simple

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Very soon my husband and I will have the happiness of celebrating our first child's first birthday. Is it in good taste to have a birthday party for this occasion? I plan to invite only our small immediate family and a few friends. Some of these guests whom I have in mind have never been to my home, because I have been negligent in extending a definite invitation to them. Would it be permissible to invite these people to my child's party? If so, when I extend the invitation should I explain that it is my child's birthday, and say that I am having a small afternoon reception? A few of these friends have children of their own who will also attend.—Helen N.

The plans you have in mind would, certainly complicate a party which, most naturally, should be of the very simplest kind. Even though it is not customary to give a birthday party for a one-year-old, and though it isn't very practical (or very rewarding to the baby!), it is something done. But the plans to be wise, should be simple. . . perhaps a party for approximately one or one-and-a-half hours in the afternoon, only a very few relatives and perhaps one or two intimate friends invited, very simple refreshments. I think that you're making a mistake to try to pay many of your social obligations by inviting the nearest friends you mention to such an intimate party. It would, of course, be more appropriate to invite these friends to your house for tea some afternoon soon.

When bride's surname is the same as her stepfather's surname

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a very special question concerning the wording of my wedding invitations. My father died eighteen years ago, and several years after his death my mother married a cousin of my father's. Thus she has not changed her last name, or her initial. Which form of invitation would you consider proper:

(a) "Mr. and Mrs. Lee Langley request the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter." Or:

(b) "Mrs. Lee Langley requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter?"

I would not like to give the impression that Lee is my father, and yet I would like to give him due respect, by mentioning his name in the invitations, as he has taken care of and provided for me for many years and also he is helping out with the wedding expenses.—I. L.

You have the right and fine point of view about showing your appreciation, and respect to your stepfather, and considering all the circumstances, I suggest this form:

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Langley request the honour of your presence at the marriage of her daughter Lillian Langley to etc.

Note 1: In this circumstance, even though your surname is the same as the surname in the first line, it should be given after your first name.

Note 2: "Honour" . . . in wedding invitations and announcements . . . should always be spelled with the "u".

RADIO-TV POLICY

Labor Minister Gregg told the House that disputants in Vancouver's five-week strike of grain-elevator workers have declined to accept settlement terms proposed by a labor department conciliator. A new settlement attempt would be made.

Mr. Drew said Mr. Chevrier has tried to give the impression at attempts was being made to place TV broadcasting in the hands of private interests. No one in his party had suggested that.

Spoke an Hour

The Progressive Conservative party did not believe control of television would be safe if left entirely to private hands. But it did believe competitive advantages for both private and public stations should be assured under an impartial and independent body similar to those which regulated the airways and railways.

Under government policy only one station will be allowed in any area until most parts of Canada are covered. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans others in Halifax, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Vancouver. Private stations will not be allowed in these large centres.

Political Friends

Dealing with French-language stations, Mr. Drew said it was the "policy of this government" which "enabled opportunities to have French as well as English-language TV in many parts of Canada.

Mr. Chevrier had said the Opposition wanted to hand TV monopolies to its political friends. Yet the list of people applying for TV licences showed people who had openly declared their support for the government.

Miss Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) said Canada's record in television has been "inefficient, disappointing and maddeningly slow." Canada lagged years behind other countries in the development of TV because of the "indecision, vacillation and hesitancy of the government."

Mr. Thatcher said he believed the CBC could do the most effective job of developing TV in Canada. But the CBC was "hobbled" by government policy. "Canadians want television, but they won't in their lifetime."

John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) said the CBC has an important place in Canadian radio, but should not be the regulatory body when it competed with private stations. His party wanted an independent regulatory body and would like to see a standing select committee of the Commons set up to scrutinize the radio policy.

Tearful Opposite Claim

Mr. Blackmore said the Bible taught truth, understanding and fear of the Lord. The CBC should teach these things. Yet he had never heard a CBC program with a theme of fear of the Lord. In fact he had heard programs which taught the opposite.

He defended the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, describing it as an organization of private radio interests that knew what the people wanted. He criticized M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, for stating previously that C. A. R. "wrote sermonettes" was "treasonable" to the country.

Walter Dinsdale (PC-Brandon) thought use of TV as an educational medium might be highly over-rated. He suggested an advisory council to keep the CBC in touch with the kind of programs the people wanted.

Angus MacLean (PC-Queens) said he believes both the CBC and the private stations have done excellently in their own fields. Canadians wanted entertaining programs without obnoxious advertising.

J. W. Noseworthy (CCF-York South) said he has great confidence in the CBC to provide good programs. He believed that the moment control ever passed from the CBC to private stations there no longer would be freedom of expression on the airways. Private groups would keep off the air opinions with which they disagreed.

TAKE BULLET FROM BOY

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Doctors operated Wednesday night to remove a bullet from the abdomen of six-year-old Kenneth Renshaw, who was accidentally shot Wednesday at his home near Thamesford. Afterwards the operation the boy was reported in "satisfactory" condition in War Memorial Children's Hospital here.

A grim-looking Andre Vyshinsky (centre) accepts a bouquet of flowers from members of the French Communist party following his arrival at Le Havre, France, en route to Russia. The bearded gentleman behind Mr. Vishinsky is Mr. Alexis Pavlov, Russia's ambassador to France, who greeted Vyshinsky at the plane. Named upon the position of Soviet foreign minister to that of permanent Soviet delegate to the United Nations, Vyshinsky was in the U.S. at the time of Joseph Stalin's death, attending the meeting of the General Assembly. He sailed back to Europe aboard the S.S. Liberte shortly after the news of Stalin's death was announced to the world. —Central Press Canadian.

British House Denationalizes Steel Plants

LONDON (Reuters)—The house of Commons, by 304 votes to 271, Tuesday night passed a bill to sell the state-owned steel companies back to private ownership—one of the two major measures of the Conservative government's program.

The other, a bill to denationalize road transport, has already been passed by the Commons and is with the House of Lords, where the steel bill now will go. Both bills are expected to become law by early May. The Labor party has stated it will nationalize both industries again if it returns to power.

When the steel industry was nationalized Feb. 15, 1951, the state took control of about 130 of the biggest companies, employing altogether about 300,000 workers.

These firms were all those producing 50,000 tons of iron ore or more a year or 20,000 tons by (1) melting iron ore in blast furnaces, (2) converting pig iron and scrap into steel ingots and (3) shaping steel by hot rolling.

Smaller firms, including many foundries, were allowed to carry on as private concerns.

To sell its shares in the state-owned companies, estimated to be worth £300,000,000, the government will set up a special body called a realization agency. The job may take two years.

Mrs. H. J. Neath and daughter, Shirley, are visiting relatives in Toronto.

Peter Pearce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pearce, is a patient in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Order of Service For Coronation Will be Changed

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Changes in the Order of Service for the Coronation in Westminster Abbey June 2 were outlined Tuesday by the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

The text of the service will not be published until late in April. In a preview of the proposed changes, made public at a press conference, Dr. Fisher said the most "substantial" alterations include:

1. A change in the wording of the first part of the Queen's Coronation oath. Under this change, the Commonwealth countries, except the republic of India, will be mentioned by name for the first time. Thus the altered section now reads:

"Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the peoples of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, Pakistan and Ceylon, and of your possessions and the other territories to any of them belonging or pertaining, according to their respective laws and customs?"

(At previous coronations, Commonwealth countries were referred to as overseas Dominions. The Queen's promise to govern these countries "according to their respective laws and customs" is also new.)

2. The order of the Coronation service will be changed so that the Bible will be presented after the Queen has signed the oath and before the beginning of the communion service. Previously the Bible was presented after the act of crowning.

3. For the first time, the Church of Scotland will be associated with the presentation of the Bible. The Queen will receive it from the moderator of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland, Rt. Rev. A. Prentice.

306 Logs Stacked on Sleigh Wins for Lumber Loader Bets Running Into Thousands

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Here's the story of the biggest load of logs that ever hit the skidway at an Algoma log dump.

A recent report claiming a record for a 175-log load raised a big laugh with veterans of the Algoma log lands who remember the fabulous Dan Shanahan.

With a picture to prove it, the old timers tell how Shanahan stacked 306 logs on a sleigh, stacked the wrappers and with two teams, hauled the load more than three miles to the dump.

The whole thing started 36 years ago when the Foley brothers crew offered to show J. J. McFadden Lumber Company loggers how to deck and load a record number of logs. The McFadden boys took up the challenge and loggers and lumbermen collected at a camp north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., to watch the fun.

Bets in Thousands

The Foleys proved formidable opponents and stacked 275 logs on one sleigh before Shanahan, McFadden's best hooker, swung into action. He asked how many logs were on the skidway and found there were more than 300. "I'll load 'em all," said Dan.

Bets ran into the thousands against the stubborn Irishman. He passed the Foley's 275 mark with his load still growing and his opponents left in disgust. He finally added his third wrapper and reached his 306th log. With a double hitch the wooden pyramid started for the dump.

By noon it was at the cookhouse and everyone knocked off for lunch. After a tough three-mile haul in the afternoon, the driver jumped clear at the dump and allowed the horses to stop the load.

As it came to rest the wrappers let go with a crack and tumbling logs reduced the heavy sleigh to patchwood.

Chronicler of Civilization Does Not Think Man Will Blow Himself to Bits by A-Weapons

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP) — Prof. Arnold Toynbee, the chronicler of civilizations, doesn't think man will blow himself to bits with atomic weapons.

There's hope for the Western world, too, says the noted scholar whose learned writings give the impression he can detach himself from our troubled times to peer at minuscule man from the olympian of the historian-philosopher.

Actually, Dr. Toynbee is a down-to-earth observer with a practical background in real politics. He served in two wars in the foreign office's intelligence department.

Essentially a humanist and a great believer in free will, Dr. Toynbee sees human affairs as definitely not pre-determined and fated. The spirit of man is free. He feels man can do much to shape the course of his destiny.

He does not claim—as some say who interpret his brilliant works—that the West is finished. He does stress, however, this is no time for complacency.

Nor is he disturbed by complaints that he is a prophet of doom. These complaints were prompted by the professor's six lectures over the BBC on "The World and the West."

Soon Published History

Those lectures took only 30,000 words, he explained. They were merely the summary of one of the forthcoming volumes—No. 8—of his prodigious "A Study of History," which soon will be published.

Mainly, what aroused those who listened to his lectures on the BBC was Toynbee's statement that the Russian world has seized the initiative against the Western peoples. He described the West as "the aggressors of modern times."

Toynbee sought to clarify misunderstandings in an interview.

Pressed for a "yes" or "no" reply to the question whether he felt the East-West clash would lead to an atomic war and destruction, he thought for a moment.

Will Not Commit Suicide

The answer was "No." Man will not commit suicide. First, the Western world has too much respect for the dignity of man to unleash so terrible a war as can be envisaged by development of the hydrogen bomb. Second, Communism is a philosophy which tells those who hold it that they are predestined to rule the world.

Realizing that an atomic war would leave them nothing to rule —and eliminate themselves as well —the rulers of Russia seem unlikely to provoke such a catastrophe, he argues. Believing that history is bound to do their work for them, they probably will prefer to wait for the inevitable (as they see it) to happen, he says.

Toynbee foresees years and years of stalemate, with the world's people living in a continuing state of insecurity, yet producing and surviving and even being happy.

PICTON

$3,000 Drive For Red Cross Set for Mar. 30

Picton—Prince Edward County's drive to raise $3,000 for the Red Cross campaign is to take place on March 30. There will be a one day canvass. Plans for the drive were made at a dinner meeting attended by Canadian Legion members, County Reeves and others, with Mayor H. McFarland as host.

Chairmen appointed were: Picton, Branch 78 Canadian Legion; Athol, Warden C. Green; North Marysburg, H. M. Hicks; South Marysburg, Jack Welsh; Sophiasburg, D. Thompson; Sophias Bruce Hyatt, C. Wilson; Bloomfield, Reeve H. MacDonald; Wellington and Hillier, Wellington Legion; Ameliasburg, Carrying Place Legion, RCS of AA (Picton), yialson, H. J. Colliver.

County Fair Dates Set by Board At Meeting

PICTON. — Dates for Prince Edward County Fair at Picton have been set for August 22, 24, 25 and 26, directors were informed yesterday by the committee empowered to set the dates and engage a midway. This brings opening fair date on a Saturday, continuing on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. In keeping with coronation year, that theme will be stressed.

A committee of president Harold Spencer, secretary Phil Dodds, George Atkinson and Agricultural representative Don Taylor was named to arrange for entertainment and the secretary will investigate the advisability of a draw.

Mr. Taylor reported that ten junior farmer clubs will operate in conjunction with the fair, that a full crop competition is planned and that there will be a commercial feature display.

Reports Given

Reports of the Ontario convention were given by the president, secretary, Wills Sills and D. Taylor.

D. O. Reynolds and Brian Dodds were named to approach county council to seek a co-operative plan in improving buildings at the fair grounds.

CAMPBELLFORD

Kinsmen Club Re-Shuffles Officers

CAMPBELLFORD. — George Nicholls was the genial pianist and Ray Hall presided at the fortnightly meeting of the Kinsmen Club, which has been transferred back again from Wednesday to Monday night at the Trent House at Campbellford. Paul Coughlan, the club secretary, was named vice-president of the club and Bill Hampel, 2nd vice-president. The re-shuffling of officers was made necessary by vacancies in key posts. Forrest Dennis and George Vice reported on the work of the Century Club, which they will supervise henceforth for the balance of the term.

President Ray Hall presented a new past president's pin to Kinsman Forrest Dennis, and praised the long and faithful service of this senior and charter member of the local club. The recipient made a gracious reply. Other members present received the new-style Association of Kinsmen Club pins.

Kinsmen Forrest Dennis was chosen to head the drive for new membership, the need fo rwhich is particularly keen at this time. Danie Pace was the efficient song-leader for the meeting. The next meeting will take place in Trent House on March 23rd.

Labor Income Hits New Peak During Past Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Impelled by increased weekly earnings and growing employment, labor income soared to a record $10,868,000,000 during 1952, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The 12-per-cent rise from $9,732,000,000 in 1951 was due mostly to the advance in average weekly earnings. Wage rates were up and working hours down.

Income by labor groups with 1951 figure in brackets was: Agriculture, forestry, fishing, trapping and mining, $902,000,000 ($839,000,000; manufacturing $3,-974,000,000 ($3,221,000,000; construction, $909,000,000 ($739,000,-000 utilities, transportation, communication, storage and trade, $2,720,000,000 ($2,420,000,000; finance, services, including government, $2,393,000,000 ($2,125,-000,000; and supplementary labor income $360,000,000 $328,000,000.

C. H. Goulden, Distinguished Grain Scientist Awarded Medal

OTTAWA (CP)—They've named a lake after Dr. C. H. Goulden and now they've given him a gold medal.

Dr. Goulden, distinguished Canadian grain scientist, today was recognized as Canada's top civil servant of the year, receiving the 1953 gold medal award of the Professional Institute of Civil Servants.

For years the 55-year-old chief of the federal agriculture department's cereal division labored to fight grain disease and develop new wheat and oats varieties which helped boost Canada's grain production by millions of bushels.

This work, a three-member panel of Canadian university professors announced today, was "outstanding." It had been "tested and appreciated" by other scientists and had proven of "great material value to Canada as a whole."

The work of Dr. Goulden, raised on a Saskatchewan farm, was recognized by the Saskatchewan government four years ago. They named one of the province's northern lakes after him—Lake Goulden.

Named 4 Varieties

Under his supervision, Canada produced such new wheat varieties as Renown, Regent and Redman and such new oats strains as Vanguard, Exeter, Ajax and Garry.

Forty per cent of Manitoba's acreage is covered with Redman wheat. The province has expanded its Redman wheat acreage by some 44,000,000 bushels in the 1940-50 decade. Dr. Goulden's oats varieties also have been widely used in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan where acreages have expanded over the years.

"The professional institute is indeed proud to have one of its members recognized for his contribution to this field," the institute said in a statement.

Dr. Goulden was born in Wales and was brought to Canada at the age of three by his parents who started a farm at Tofield, Sask.

He was graduated from the University of Saskatchewan and specialized in plant breeding and genetics at the University of Minnesota.

For 32 years he was in charge of the federal cereal breeding laboratory at Winnipeg. That's when he began experimenting with new grain varieties.

Sees Great Future

Dr. Goulden sees a great future ahead for Canada in grains—if the country can control plant disease and pestilence. The current worry is race 15-B, a disease which has knocked out growth in parts of the southern United States and for a time threatened to damage some of the Prairie wheat crop.

The danger is still not over. But for the moment race 15-B appears to have been arrested. Meanwhile the scientists are working on new varieties which can resist this plant destroyer.

Dr. Goulden since 1948 has headed the federal cereal division at the central experimental farms here, where scientists not only are working on wheat problems, but also those affecting flax, barley, rye, peas and oats.

He still finds time to do a little fishing at home—driving among such things as photography and electronics, especially high fidelity modulation.

Dr. Goulden is married to a talented violinist, Flora Goulden. They have two daughters: Marilyn, attending Queen's University; and Cynthia, at Fisher High School in Ottawa.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

By Fulton Oursler

Chapter 37

THE UPPER ROOM

At sundown of that same day thirteen men met to celebrate the Passover in an upper room in a house on Mount Zion.

In spite of the warnings Jesus had given the Twelve, none of them realized, or was willing to believe, that this would be their last meal together. They were still too earthbound and too worldly to grasp, as they would later, the great historical realities of the drama in which they were actors.

At such a tragic time, while they were still a good long way from being saints, and while waiting for the Master to join them, they began arguing among themselves all over again about priority. In spite of previous rebukes, they argued once more which of them would be the greater, which would be the closest assistant to the Master, in the glory of the future.

In the very midst of their squabbling He suddenly appeared, wrapped in a long blue cloak, at the doorway. This time Jesus did not admonish them in many words, but in unmistakable action.

His garments laid aside, He stood facing them with only a towel wrapped around Him. In the unbroken and bewildered quiet, Jesus poured water from a pitcher into a basin. Then He knelt at the feet of his strongest and strangest disciple.

"Do You Shall Know"

"Master," gasped Peter, "do you wash my feet? No! No! You must not."

Jesus, on His knees, looked up at the great, hairy-handed fisherman.

"What I do, you know not now—but you shall know hereafter."

Peter's face suddenly turned a deep maroon and he shouted:

"You shall never, never wash my feet!"

The disciples were thunderstruck by Peter's vehemence. But the Master's warning voice was calm.

"If I wash you not; Peter, you shall have no part with Me."

"Lord, not only my feet—but my hands and my head."

Twenty-two feet He washed, drying, rubbing, and drying toes and instep and heel with the towel with which He had girded Himself, and at last He came to Judas.

Some in the room had already noticed that a strange mood had fallen on the treasurer and keeper of the bag; it was as if Judas were looking upon some dire vision, visible only to him.

"Am Not Wash'd"

Jesus got up, carried His basin, and knelt to Judas. As He methodically washed the treasurer's shin, long feet, He said:

"He that is washed needs but to wash his feet but is clean wholly. And you are clean—"

He paused and looked up straight at Judas.

"—but not wholly!" He added, with a sigh.

Then He sat at the table surrounded by the twelve familiar faces.

"With desire," Jesus told them, "I have desired to eat this pasch with you before I suffer."

He made the words as emphatic as He knew how.

"For I am telling you that from this time I will not eat it till it be fulfilled in the Kingdom of God!"

And going straight back to the ceremonial which He had begun with the washing of their feet, He asked:

"Know you what I have done to you? You call me Master and Lord. And you say well, for so I am. If I then, being your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that as I have done to you, so you do also. I say to you, the servant is not greater then his lord."

"One Shall Betray Me"

"I speak not of you all when I said you are clean now, for I know whom I have chosen, but that the Scripture may be fulfilled: 'He that eats bread with Me shall lift up his heel to betray me.' And at present I tell you, before it comes to pass, that one of you that eats with Me shall betray Me."

These sudden and completely shocking words of the Master resounded frighteningly in the dining room. True, the old religious books were full of prophecies that the Messiah would be sold out by one of His friends. True, too, they believed Jesus was the Messiah. But never, never, had they actually brought the old prophecies home to themselves.

Their faces were full of sorrow as, one after another, they asked Him the same question:

"Is it I?"

"Who is it?" shouted Peter.

And John, who loved Jesus intensely, was even at that moment leaning his head on the Master's bosom; the young disciple gently echoed the fisherman's voice:

"Lord, who is it?"

Like Frozen Men

"He it is to whom I shall reach bread dipped," Jesus answered. "He that dips his hand with Me in the dish, he shall betray Me."

They were like frozen men, unable to move, as the Master dipped a morsel of bread in the dish of lamb and gravy and then very quietly held it out toward Judas.

The voice of the treasurer trembled as he croaked:

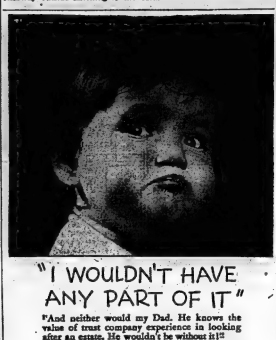
"Is it I, Master?"

"You have said it," answered Jesus. Even then He could not keep pity from His eyes. "That which you do, do quickly."

As Judas wrote later, Judas received the morsel of bread and gravy and then fled from the room; the door slammed heavily behind him.

Even now the disciples found it hard to take in. True, Judas, son of Simon, was the least popular among them, but who could believe he would sell his Master's life? Such a thing still seemed beyond belief. As they looked at the door, closing behind the escaping Judas, they told themselves that Judas must have been sent out on some business mission. After all, he held the purse.

"This Is My Body"



But when Judas was gone, Jesus made no further reference to him. Instead, He took the bread, and broke it, passing a piece to each of the eleven, as He said:

"Take you and eat. This is My body."

They ate. Then He filled with wine the chalice, one of the liturgical cups of the paschal rite. And now Jesus gave thanks, and passed the chalice of wine to the eleven, saying:

"Drink you all of this. For this is My blood of the new testament which shall be shed for many unto remission of sins. Do this for a commemoration of Me."

And they all drank of it — except Judas, who had gone, and who was still crouched on the stairway outside listening to the words.

"I WOULDN'T HAVE ANY PART OF IT"

"And neither would my Dad. He knows the value of trust company experience in looking after an estate. He wouldn't be without it!"

So many wise men to-day rely on the experience and co-operation of a trust company.

Write for free booklet headed: "Blueprint For Your Family", covering some aspects of estate administration.

"Simon! Simon! Look. Satan has desired to have you that he may sift you as wheat.

"But I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not, and thou, being once converted, confirm thy brethren."

A Great Blessing

Peter looked mildly insulted. That Satan desired him, he well knew. That the Master prayed for him was a great blessing, although Peter felt he could defeat the devil by his own strength, if he needed to. But to be told that he would some day be converted. Peter coughed and grew red in the face at the thought.

"I say to thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day till thou three times deniest that thou knowest me!"

A grim silence settled upon them as He turned and motioned them back to their divans. Once He had told them to go without scrip or purse and shoes; now there were to be changed conditions and new orders; let them carry money and weapons; a man could sell his coat to buy a sword.

"For the things concerning Me have an end."

They showed Him two swords and He said they were enough.

Speaking in a whisper, He gave them His final charge:

"Let not your heart be troubled. You believe in God, believe also in Me. Peace I leave with you; My peace I give unto you; not as the world gives, do I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled nor let it be afraid. I am the vine, you the branches; he that abideth in Me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit.

"If you abide in Me, and My words abide in you, you shall ask whatever you will, and it shall be done upto you. This is My commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. Greater love than this hath no man, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

"Arise! Let us go!"

And one by one they followed Him to Gethsemane.

Executive Head of BBC Once Worked as Hired Man in Ont.

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Sir Basil Edward Nicolls, now approaching the end of a long career in British radio, wasn't kidding when he let a group of CBC officials last year that he could beat them shucking corn.

It's an art he learned the hard way as a 19-year-old hired man on a small Ontario farm in the Chatham district, before the First World War.

Lacking money to go to Oxford, British-born Sir Basil arrived in Canada in 1912 to make his fortune, did farm work for two years and turned to reporting with the old Chatham Planet for eight months. Then he left Canada for good in 1914 to join the British Army.

Important Task

Now chief of the BBC's Coronation planning, he had sufficient army gratuities in 1919 to take the special Oxford war course. His BBC career, started in 1924, took the tall, courteous and friendly knight, now 59, up the ladder to acting director-general.

But his memory easily spans the 40 years to his brief Canadian stay, recalling muscle-building farm toil, 250 pound pigs and the proper corn-shucking technique of a 120-acre Ontario farm, as well as his reporting experience on the old daily and weekly editions of the Planet.

Sir Basil was lugging 100-pound sacks of wheat around a farm, midway between Dresden and Thamesville, a week after landing at Quebec, St. John, N.B.

"There was a popular British assumption in those days that you dug a little gold out of a Canadian street when you wanted money there," says Sir Basil.

Quite Farming

Two years as hired man disproved the theory as far as he was concerned. He abandoned the wheat, corn and hogs for an offer from the Chatham daily circulation of 3,500 and weekly 5,000-8,000.

There, as a reporter, he joined R. J. Rankin and Douglas S. Oliver, sometimes taking over from the fourth editorial employee who collected advertising. Rankin now is managing editor of the Halifax Chronicle-Herald and Oliver is managing director of the Canadian Tourist Association.

"There was a tapering pork-pie hat popular just then—prescribed garb for young journalists," Sir Basil recalls.

"As special events reporter, with no shorthand and two-finger typing, I'd cover hopsetic, church sermons and anything else that popped up in a small town.

"When news was dull we could always go to Detroit and see what was going on.

Newspaper Rivalry

Rivalry with the Chatham News, with which the Planet merged in 1923, was pretty tough. He doesn't remember what he got paid but it wasn't much.

He's never been back to Canada, although he feels that he likely still would be there if the war hadn't broken out.

Sir Basil became Manchester station director in 1934 in the pioneer days of the BBC and rose steadily until in August last year, he was appointed acting director-general pending the permanent appointment to the post of Sir Ian Jacob at the end of 1952.

Made a knight commander of the order of the British Empire in the Queen's New Year's honors list, Sir Basil stayed with the BBC to help out in Coronation services but will retire in September to his Sussex home.

A garden there is his only link with agriculture these days. Since 1939 he had combined with

Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon Tells of Food Value Purchase; Preparation

32nd THURLOW — Members F. Bedell, J. Sharpe, A. Bellamy, S. Anderson, were hostesses at the Y.M.C.A. to the Quinte W.I. on Tuesday afternoon. About 25 were present.

The president, Mrs. H. Grills, was in charge, and Mrs. J. Parrott at the piano.

Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of one of the beloved members, the late Mrs. J. Donaldson.

Letters were read by the secretary treasurer, Mrs. D. Atkins. Several business matters were attended to. Mrs. W. J. Tufts, Mrs. H. Bunnett and Mrs. A. Macquire were named to get the slate of officers ready for the business meeting in April.

Mrs. Ken Vivian, home economics convener, took charge of the following program:

Several St. Patricks songs were enjoyed. A homemade apron parade to be worn by the makers, with several competing Mrs. (Dr.) Rolut received the prize for the apron with the most work. A discussion on the motto, "Cottages have a better reputation for happiness than palaces, brought out many reasons and thoughts.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Eric Denyes introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Don MacKinnon, home economist, who is widely known for her work and is heard over C.J.B.Q. every second Friday of the month. She gave a varied talk on how to buy food, how to "dress up" food in various ways, shapes and colors to make it attractive and gave many helpful and instructive hints.

Mrs. A. Mitchell moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. MacKinnon for her most informative talk.

Mrs. F. Mitchell, Mrs. W. Grey were appointed to audit the books.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

MARMORA

MARMORA. — Miss Arlene Aunger, of Toronto, spent the week-end at her home here.

The executive of the Home and School Association met in the public school on Tuesday evening. Matters relative to the forthcoming monthly meeting were dealt with. Mr. James Sproul was nominated as convener of the nominating meeting to bring in the new slate of officers.

The work of the Canada Home Bible League was introduced in an interdenominational service held in the Pentecostal Church on Monday evening, conducted by Rev. D. Boulby. Mr. C. W. Kleinsteuber, representative of the League, who was present, gave an address and showed a film which depicted the value of the Bible in church and family worship.

Prior to the film, Rev. K. J. Crawford, who was present, was asked to offer prayer. Rev. D. Routly and another worshipper consented to act as distributors of the Bible in such homes as they visited where there was no Bible but a desire to read the same.

Robins made their reappearance locally on Monday.

BURE'S

Burr's—The March meeting of Burr's W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Floyd Huffman on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Douglas Harris invited the April meeting to her home. Mrs. George Harris, 2nd Assistant was a guest.

Mrs. G. Clark, had charge with Mrs. H. Hall assisting her in the devotional. This being the anniversary month of the association, birthday greetings were received from Mrs. R. Spencer, Belleville, and Mrs. R. Anderson, Cannifton.

Plans for the birthday supper were completed for the evening of March 19. Membership fees and birthday dues were paid. Mrs. G. Cunningham became a member. Mrs. F. VanCoot and Mrs. C. Fulford contributed readings. The quarterly M. and M. fee was paid and friends were forwarded the buying committee.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham and Jane and Mr. Rodney Burr were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dempsey and Terry at Rossmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Burr recently entertained Mrs. B. Squire, Mr. Philip Squire, Consecon, Mr. and Mrs. G. Vallent, Melville, Mr. and Mrs. Val Squire in observance of Mrs. B. Squire's natal day. Mr. and Mrs. W. Sobb, Wayne, Elsie and Dale were Sunday tea and evening guests at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall, Sharon and Barbara were recent tea and evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Caldwell.

Mr. G. Carter accompanied by his mother, Mrs. G. Carter spent Saturday in Toronto. Mrs. Carter was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brawley and baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Blakely were recent dinner evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Tice, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Fulford attended the funeral of the latter's aunt, Mrs. W. Black, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Spencer of Buffalo, and sons, Fred and Earl, attended the funeral of the former's mother, Mrs. E. Spencer, and were Wednesday callers of relatives in this community. Mrs. Spencer intends embarking for England late in July.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burr were Thursday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Burr.

Mr. Rodney Burr was Sunday guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. McGafferty, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hough, Ronald and Carol, Lynda Pilgrim, Beatrice McQuoid, Keith McQuoid and Mr. and Mrs. R. Burr attended the presentation of "The King's Man" at Wellington Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Jessop and children were Tuesday tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Humphrey.

Robins, Kildeers and a Mourning Dove have returned. Sawing wood is quite in vogue locally.

TRANSFUSIONS VAIN

WELLAND (CP)—Blood transfusions failed Wednesday to save the life of a four-hour-old baby born in Welland County Hospital. The child had RH negative type blood. Doctors began transfusions following birth while the father, Joseph Burke, drove to the Red Cross blood depot in Hamilton for additional supplies. He returned with a provincial police escort, but the baby had died before the hospital supply was exhausted.

Academy Awards To be Witnessed On Television

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movies and television get married tonight, with the rites taking place at the 25th annual academy awards.

For the first time, a television audience estimated by NBC at 40,000,000 persons will watch the movie industry's biggest show. It will mark the TV debut for scores of the biggest names in moviedom.

Studios have given blanket clearance for their stars to be seen on television—almost a naughty word in movie circles not too long ago.

Fourteen TV cameras will greet the ermined and minked movie queenie.

Six cameras will be in New York to catch Shirley Booth as favorite, or any other winners. Frederic March, a two-time winner himself, will present the New York Oscars. Jose Ferrer, nominated for "Moulin Rouge," will be in the New York show.

Bette Davis, recuperating from jaw surgery in a New York hospital, will give a 30-second acceptance speech if she gets the nod for her performance in "The Star," which would make her the only three-time winner.

Of the top 10 actresses and actors up for the big plums, only Joan Crawford—"Sudden Fear"—will be at the Hollywood ceremony.

The NBC telecast goes on the air at 7:30 p. m., (10:30 p. m. EST) and stays on until finished, approximately two hours. RCA-Victor, picking up the $250,000 sponsor's tab, also will sponsor a radio broadcast.

That bit of irony became possible when three of the major movie studios refused financial support for the academy show.

Who's going to win?

Most experts pick Miss Booth, Gary Cooper and "Moulin Rouge" to win the three top Oscars.

I pick Joan Crawford, while fully admitting the greatness of Miss Booth's performance. For 25 years Joa Crawford has been working 24 hours a day at being a movie star. Her personal popularity among the voters will be hard for a screen newcomer to overcome.

I think Cooper is a shoo-in but I like "The Quiet Man" for the best picture

Not so Safe

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Nogue decided to move from his home on a busy Montreal street so their seven-year-old son, Michel, could play in safety.

They found a place at Ile Des Roches on the Mille Ile river, 15 miles from Montreal.

They moved Tuesday. While they were putting the furniture in the house, the youngster wandered out on the ice near the shore. The ice gave way and Michel was drowned.

Windsor Enjoys Great Variety Of Telecasts

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—This industrial city, though beyond the range of Canada's television stations at Montreal and Toronto, still enjoys a greater variety of telecasts than any Canadian city. It boasts more TV sets per capita than any other Canadian area.

The reaction to television in Windsor therefore may be a guide to other communities to which Canadian television is to be extended in the future. Apart from Montreal and Toronto, Canadian areas that will have television in months to come can see in Windsor what the advent of TV means in terms of education, entertainment habits and family life.

Three stations across the river in Detroit provide a wide selection of programs, both network and local. Stations in Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio, are also viewed here occasionally.

Not Fearful

Theatre managers, night - club owners and tavern proprietors, at first apprehensive of the new medium, say it isn't too great a threat now. "The novelty of TV kept many regular customers away when it first became popular," said one night-club owner. "But it hasn't had any serious effect on business in the last two or three years."

Theatre managers were less cheerful, but were confident that three-dimensional movies, when they come, will be the "shot in the arm" the movie theatres need.

Cocktail bar and beer parlor proprietors said TV is "great for business." It draws customers, particularly for special events.

Teachers Dubious

However, many parents and school organizations still look askance at the effect TV has on the family circle, homework schedules and church, Boy Scout and other group activities.

The Windsor Women teachers' Association and the Windsor Home and School Council collaborated to question hundreds of parents, teachers and school children.

The poll of more than 900 students showed the average grade school pupil viewed three hours on school nights, 4½ on Saturdays and five on Sundays. One 12-year-old said: "I stay up until 10 o'clock on week nights. On Saturdays I watch half the day, on Sunday all day."

The average viewing time for high school students was about half that of their younger brothers and sisters.

More than half the 300 parents who replied said they had to set definite rules regarding children's viewing habits. About 21 per cent said they felt TV had improved their children's general knowledge.

Most of the 208 teachers questioned agreed there was a need for more programs to stimulate "mental action," but handed down a split decision on the effect on the children's school work.

Lulls Audience

One teacher said it encouraged students to become "viewers, not doers."

Many teachers lined up with parents who said they frowned on TV sets because of poor English used by announcers and actors.

In summarizing its findings, the committee said it was impossible to be entirely objective.

"When a parent claims a child knows more about world events on account of TV and a teacher claims that pupils are sleepy and listless for the same reason, he may be forgetting, or be ignorant of, other factors which affect these things.

"It would appear, at a conservative estimate, that at least 65 per cent of Windsor pupils have sets in their homes. When TV becomes available throughout Canada . . . it will be more important in the lives of people than radio because it must be given undivided attention.

"It would be safe to say that, counting holidays, children will in the future be spending at least as much time in front of a TV set, as in the classroom."

Czechs Raise Pomp, Ceremony For Funeral of Gottwald; Thousands File Past Bier

VIENNA, Austrais (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia mustered Red pomp and ceremony today at the funeral in Prague of the country's late dictator, President Klement Gottwald.

The body of the 56-year-old chief of state, who died last Saturday after an attack of pneumonia and pleurisy, was to be borne in a state funeral procession at 1 p.m. from Hradcany Castle to a burial place in the Vitkov War Memorial monument on the capital's Vitkov hill.

Thousands of Czechs filed past his bier after it was put on public view Monday in the Gothic Spanish hall of the presidential castle. A period of national mourning was declared.

On a less ornate, observances for Gottwald were similar to those in Moscow for his close comrade in communism, Joseph Stalin. Gottwald attended the Soviet chief's funeral in Moscow's Red Square March 9, and there, in near-zero temperature, caught the cold that led to his fatal illness.

The official radio and press in Prague has been silent on who will replace Gottwald at the helm of the government, or whether there will be one. Although the constitution provides for Parliament to elect a new president within 14 days after death of the chief executive, there is no hint that the post will be abolished.

In that case, Gottwald's dictatorial power might be divided among his former deputies.

The head of the Kremlin's delegation to Gottwald's funeral, the new Soviet war minister Nikolai A. Bulganin, arrived in Prague Tuesday, arousing speculation that he was carrying on military talks on the side with satellite representatives.

Observers noted that the Polish delegation included deputy defence minister Stanislaw Ostawski, and Army Minister Mihaly Farkas was among Hungary's representatives. The satellites had not sent military men to Stalin's funeral.

To represent Red China at the services for Gottwald, the Peiping government sent its premier and foreign minister, Chou En-lai..

Chou and Bulganin were met upon their arrivals at Prague airport by Czech Premier Antonin Zapotocky, who is looked upon as the top contender for highest power in the new Czech regime.

Former Trustees Refuse to Stand For Re-Election

TORONTO (CP) — The former trustees of Woodsworth House charged Wednesday night that the principal tenants, the Ontario CCF party, have usurped the original intent of the institution by converting it from a study centre into a dispensary of partisan political propaganda.

Control of the building, named for the late founder of the CCF party, changed hands last February when the tenants also became the landlords. At the annual meeting of the Ontario Woodsworth Memorial Foundation most of the original trustees declined to stand for re-election.

A statement signed by 15 of the former trustees charged their successors with employing Communist tactics in bringing about the change.

David Lewis, now vice-president of the foundation, commented: "Sour grapes." He branded the former trustees' accusations and interpretations as untrue and without foundation.

Dentist Absolved

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight-year-old Raymond Sang, like most small boys, was afraid of dentists.

He had to be carried to the dentist's office in his father's arms. He was kicking and struggling so hard that he was given a general anaesthetic so the dentist could fix his teeth.

Without warning, Raymond's heart stopped beating. The dentist and a doctor worked frantically to revive the boy. But it was no use. Raymond was dead.

A coroner's jury Tuesday night absolved dentist and anaesthetist of blame.

BARBER VS. BARBER

KITCHENER (CP)— A barber was fined $5 and costs Wednesday for working on a Wednesday following the evidence of another barber. Harry McKelvie testified he drove past Harry Jones' shop Jan. 21 and noticed a customer enter the shop. He rounded up other witnesses to observe Jones working. It is illegal under the Barbers' Act for barbers in this area to practise their trade on Wednesday.

British Pressing Investment Of Dollars in Canada

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government is quietly pressing a campaign to promote investment of British-held dollars in Canada's booming development program.

Treasury officials decided some months ago to give investors who place their dollars in Canada priority over investors in other non-sterling countries. The decision is only now becoming widely known.

Officials said British dollar investments in Canada stand comparison with the current rate of U.S. investment in Canada but the pace may become too hot soon for Britain's limited dollar resources.

They said they had not rejected any serious application made to them for investment of dollars in Canadian industries. The treasury must sanction all British investments outside the sterling area.

Treasury chief R. A. Butler said Tuesday that so far this year $40,000,000 of investments in Canada have been approved compared with only $10,000,000 of investments in all other countries outside the sterling area.

Critics of the present British campaign claim the new investments are "too little and too late."

MAY BAN SEERS

TORONTO (CP)—The ancient arts of fortune-telling, phrenology and palmistry may be outlawed in this city if a recommendation passed Wednesday by the city council's property committee is carried out. The committee asked the legislation committee to draft a law to prohibit the operation of any such establishment used for such purposes.

Duke of Edinburgh Makes Flare-lit Landing in Fog

HANNOVER, Germany (Reuters) —A helicopter, carrying the Duke of Edinburgh made a flare-lit landing on a Canadian parade ground here Wednesday after fog delayed the flight for an hour.

The Queen's husband, clad in the combat uniform of a field marshal, hopped out of the helicopter and immediately inspected a 100-man honor guard of the Canadian 27th infantry brigade.

Since nobody knew exactly when the Duke would arrive, the guard had remained in ranks while other soldiers cleared dust off their shined shoes several times.

The duke kicked up by the four helicopters carrying the Duke's party from Soltau, Germany, was so thick that press photographers could not get a clear picture of the inspection ceremony.

When the dust settled some 1,000 other Canadian troops, nearly all with cameras, followed Prince Philip around the station, snapping pictures at every turn.

The Duke was welcomed at Hannover by Brig. J. E. C. Pangman of Toronto, the brigade's commanding officer.

The 100-man' honor guard waiting for him was commanded by Maj. A. M. Mills of Calgary.

The Duke got his big laugh of the day from Lt.-Col. R. H. A. Parker of Toronto.

Col. Parker, who broke a leg recently, proudly displayed his plaster cast painted in the gay colors of the Cameron tartan, as worn by the band of the 1st Canadian Highland Battalion.

After his visit the Duke returned by helicopter to Cortech, near Bad Oeynhausen.

HERRING RUSH

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Strong western gales late in February brought record herring shoals to Sweden's North sea coast. A similar rush occurred at Karlskrona on the Baltic, where a record one-day catch of 300,000 pounds was recorded.

Old Trade Rivals Germany, Japan Back Again; Britons Must Produce Butler Warns

LONDON (Reuters) — Treasury chief Richard Butler, gently pushing industry to produce more, warned that they must "old trade rivals" Germany and Japan are just around the corner.

If Britain does not want living standards to fall, he told business men and labor chiefs, she must adopt the only alternative—higher productivity.

Road Challenge

He told industry to "take full account" of the two countries, whose mass of people were "content with standards of life which we should call austere, if not worse."

Butler said they were "re-creating their industrial capital and reforming their productive plans at a very high rate."

Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, was speaking at the opening of the British Productivity Council.

He had good news about Britain's gold and dollar reserves, announcing they now stand at more than $2,000,000,000.

Butler, who is due to present a new budget in a month, declared "Sterling finances hold the world's trade. We do not just represent some small island in the North Sea overburdened with our problems."

Board Decides Against Legal Action Over Trees

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control, acting on city solicitor Wallace Angus' advice, decided Wednesday it won't take legal action over University avenue's maple trees—or lack of them.

A controversy was stirred up last year when alderman Roy Bevens said the city had not received the right species. He contended Holland Bulb Company had given the Norway maples instead of the sugar maple variety, which changes the color of its leaves in the fall to a brilliant red.

Mr. Angus said he doubted a court action against the company would be successful because there was no unanimity among the experts as to the identity of the species delivered.

ENJOYED SMOKES

MALINHEAD, Ireland (CP)—Mrs. Bridget McGonagle died in this County Donegal town at the age of 104. For years she had smoked 30 cigarets a day.

P.M. Suggests $1,000,000 Grant To Relief Fund

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Wednesday the government will ask Parliament to appropriate $1,000,000 as a contribution toward the Canadian national fund for European flood relief.

The prime minister said the flood relief committee, set up to bring aid to flood-stricken areas of Britain, Belgium and Holland, was anxious that an announcement be made as to the amount of the federal contribution. He felt it appropriate that he should make the announcement to the Commons.

The national committee handling the fund is composed of the premiers of Canada's 10 provinces and officials of the Canadian Red Cross Society which will oversee delivery of the material aid for the flood areas.

The committee was set up following devastating floods in Britain, Belgium and Holland last month. At that time Mr. St. Laurent said the kind of assistance to be rendered by Canada would be decided when it was determined what was most needed in the flood areas.

The senate approved incorporation of the Canadian disaster relief fund which will use $1,500,000 contributed for flood relief in the Manitoba Manitoba flood for disaster relief anywhere in Canada.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Thomas Crerar (L — Manitoba), was sent to the Commons for consideration.

Pretty Prints Set Fashion Scene Agog

All the fashion world is in a whirl over prints, among the most important fashion news for Spring and Summer 1953. The new ones are pretty and personal and they give a Parisian accent to the smart woman's wardrobe.

Prints are pretty, because color and design on wonderfully supple silk by rayon fabrics combine to give softness and grace to everything from sportswear to evening clothes. Patterns range from geometrics and Renaissance-like designs, or flowers of every shape and size, to "texture" and dot effects, or conversation prints.

And colors are divided between light and dark grounds, depending on the occasion. A good print adds color and light for the country, dark for town, and helps the new-making neutral of the season, for any and all stops on the social calendar.

Prints are Personal

Prints are very personal too, for carefully chosen designs can give a new personal look to a woman's wardrobe. Whether trim and tailored, with neat geometrics, tweed-like patterns, closely knit abstracts, or fragile and delicate, with all-over flowers, the new branching tree designs, and airy effects in lightly streaked patterns, there are types to spell out every personality.

And perhaps most important of all, prints are practical, serving as they do a multitude of uses. In the costume theme, the well-dressed woman's wardrobe basic, are the all-print dress and jacket, the solid cardigan over a print dress (or vice versa), the suit with matching print blouse and jacket lining. The dress that's "news" dancing the night before might well turn up the bridge table the next day, bare shoulders covered with a little bolero. The print blouse strikes a match with solid-hued suits, and the cardigan can top any simple dress with ease.

Good For Travel

And the woman who loves casual clothes with a brilliant dash of color, will find neat little geometric and paisley-printed blouses to wear with sweaters and skirts, or the classic shirtwaist dress for tailored sport wear.

Prints are good travelling companions, says Mr. Silk and Rayon Print Institute, as wrinkles and spots do not show up easily. And, after a day's outing, they clean up fresh and well-groomed looking for an unexpected evening date.

Prosaic Sheets Emerge as Aid To Change in Interior Decoration Put New Light on Spring Scene

The plain and prosaic sheet that has done such heavy-duty work for so many years has now emerged as a glorious aid to interior decoration.

Today's homemaker uses sheets not just on the bed, but for colorful bedroom decor in draperies, vanity skirts, canopies, in fact, she even carries them into the dining room for gay luncheon sets—and for a host of attractive effects throughout the house.

Sheets are becoming more and more popular in home decoration because, in the first instance, they offer a real economy. A double bed sheet contains about seven yards of good quality fabric, and it takes only four sheets to decorate a charming single bedroom. In the second instance, both muslins, and percales come in such a wide variety of lovely pastels with endless decorative possibilities—so perfect for Spring and Summer.

Both these fabrics have a clean-cut smoothness that lends itself beautifully to decoration. They fall naturally into soft, even drapery folds; they make crisp ruffles and pleats; they fold smoothly into swags and flounces. And what's more, it's a cinch to match bedroom colors to their pastel-tinted sheets. Any housewife who has gone through the arduous task or trying to find an exact match for a pastel color will appreciate the joy or being sure of color duplication.

Sheets provide a wonderful expanse of seamless fabric which minimizes time and work in sewing. A pair of window draperies can be made by measuring the window length and sewing in the hems. It's as simple as that.

There's no need to tell the average housewife about the easy laundering qualities of sheeting fabrics. Modern sheets, with their guaranteed fast colors, are constructed to come through constant laundering flower-fresh—sturdy as ever.

Despite their dainty colors today's muslin and percale sheets are made to wear — to give years of beautiful satisfaction in all your make-it-with sheets decorating projects.

New Outer Bra Tops Fashions

The line of fashion is a slim one this Spring, requiring the figure beneath the fashion to be slim, too. The secret of the slender look is the foundation garment that gently restrains Nature's curves.

Smooth, all-over control is the purpose of the newest foundations. Brassieres are longer, girdles higher, corselets more sleek for the refinement of American women's figures.

Strapless brassieres become fashions this season, in a multitude of attractive styles, some with wired plunge bandeaus, others with cuffed tops for adjustment to the lowest decolletage. There are bras to be worn halter-style, others in cotton eyelet to show dainty through sheer blouses.

And the very new outer bras, in seersucker, denim, velvet, felt and flimsy tulle will top every thing from shorts to evening skirts.

With the accent on a minimum of boning, girdles fit the midriff snugly right up to the bra line. Many are cut longer too, to control the thighline. Ribbons, embroidery and appliques add pretty touches to all these figure-fashioners.

For the junior figure, boneless pull-ons give comfort as well as control, while one-piece garments for larger figures offer scientific design, with less boning, for better and more comfortable fit.

Tailored Silk Suit

By VERA WINSTON

THE silk suit has taken firm hold in the fashion field. Not the soft silk suit mind you, but the suit handled more tailored lines with softening touches, such as this new and attractive style. The fabric is textured raw knit in a tweedy weave. Nicely proportioned for the average figure, it employs the curved line to advantage as shown in the front closing. Four covered buttons are on a curved band that starts from below the collar and branches outward at the waist necessitating little pockets. The skirt is slim and straight.

More than a thousand Canadian women working for the Red Cross Corps gave more than 150,000 hours of volunteer service to veterans and others, using equipment and supplies purchased with money donated to the Canadian Red Cross.

Slim Skirt Dominates Here Too

"Slim and easy" is the predominating theme of the new Spring suits this season, with a wide range in interpretation, for this so very flattering look. Skirts are uniformly slim, with all the fashion interest centred on the all-important jacket.

Variations on this look include the box-jacket suit, with emphasis on the wider shoulder look, the fitted suit with longer jacket, the semi-fitted effect, inspired by the Paris designers, and the practical three-piece "walking suit" ensemble.

The box-jacket suit makes news this Spring, being popular with every figure type because of its "easy fit, and slenderizing effect when coupled with its neat slim skirt. Many jackets have a carved oval look, carried out with curving bottom and facing trim.

The cardigan box-jacket introduces texture news in facings of self or knitted trim, braid trings, or loop pin-locking. And the cut-away, or tuxedo jacket often reveals a dyed-to-match wool jersey, silk, or cotton blouse as part of the costume look.

Shows Off Blouses

The tailored suit, classic and flattering, is again important, in sheen gabardines especially meticulously fitted to the body, the collarless and classic-lined open necklines invite the soft, pretty show of the new, feminized blouses.

"Custom tailoring", details, such as self bindings, precise pockets and slimming skirts add to the neat, spare line. Lightweight fabrics, including the gabardines, tweeds, flannels, jerseys and synthetic blends, tailor beautifully, and their light, practical weight give the wearer more good use from season to season.

Look for the longer jacket line this Spring, both in boxy and fitted styles. Molded over the hip and slightly eased at the waist, this season's fitted jacket is a far cry from the mannish-tailored or the exaggerated padded styles of yesterday. Cardigan necklines add to the overall slim effect.

The slim, elongated silhouette centres too on the compromise between the box and th fitted jacket, with both necklines and waistline cut slightly away from the figure. A miracle of fitting gives curves without the precise figure-hugging cut Canadian women have come to think necessary. Inspired by the Paris collections, this line has been successfully adapted here, and is one of the most prophetic

Gloves Present Exciting New Spring Touches

The novelty theme in gloves means fresh excitement this Spring, with straw and straw cloth-decorated styles receiving fashion acclaim. Styled to tie in with Spring and Summer wear, they are of course washable, and delightfully new.

Patent leather too, are credited to match the many plastic prints and patent accessories featured this year. Plastic patent cloth or new pliable patent leathers give sharp accent to Spring costumes.

The white glove again reigns supreme, but this season is spiced with delectable color trim in clear pastels or bright shades, especially wearable with the gay prints in every wardrobe.

String gloves are not only smart, set in novelty stripes and patterns, have a new dressed-up air. Embroidery gives a new note to this colorful fashion, long a Springtime classic.

And pebbled cottons continue strongly as a match-and-mix contrast for the solid pastel colors this Spring.

New Blouse To Stretch Wardrobe

With more and more fashion emphasis being put on the ensemble look for Spring the newest blouses are designed to match and mingle in fresh style.

The suit blouse takes a new lease on life with the cardigan neckline which gives a narrow line of color at the collar of the prints, sleeveless cuts, set-in sleeves, or easy dolmans are also featured as bulk-less fashions for wear under suits.

And making a pretty appearance under a wide variety of jacket styles is the jewel neckline blouse, newly dressed up with inserts or lace, novelty buttoned fronts or fresh embroidery trim.

Suggest Costume Look

Favored styles for blouses include silk broadcloth, cotton georgette, tissue faille and silk-like cottons. Simply tailored, with rows of tucking, bands of eyelet, or novel jewel or button trim, they suggest a costume look when teamed with suits.

Special finishes enhance the wide range of brilliant colors that will be seen this season, as well as many subtle shades and geometric prints in silks and glazed cottons, and pale grays and light stripes in the popular cotton tweeds.

The rise of beige for Spring fashions has created a demand for matching color blouses to give an ensemble effect. Linens, shantung, and slubbed crisp and silk blouses are seen in champagne beige, while coffee tones are favored in cottons and sheers.

Wool dressmaker sweaters and cotton knits with little collars will be seen in beige or brown with white accents.

The Tailored Effect

Nylon tricot, extensively used in every fashion field, is popular in soft colors as well as white. Tailored effects, a tailored effect, while glitter buttons, eyelet embroidery and lace trim look sweetly feminine.

Back detailing is news in blouses, with deep V'd backs, well seams, and full gathered yokes giving the important look of top fullness.

TIP FROM FRANCE

Take a tip from the smartly dressed French woman, who regards her handkerchiefs as an important part of her accessory wardrobe. Often using two or more handkies to accent a costume she pokes one at the belt, in the pocket or at the neckline, always keeping one in her handbag for a fresh, well-groomed touch.

Exciting New Shoe Fashions Simply Designed Necklines Call For Colorful Touches at Throat

The new Spring fashions herald "the new in shoes"—an exciting and fashionable array of footwear, beautifully designed to complement and enhance the wardrobes of the season.

The classic pump looks new again for Spring, being lighter in weight, softer in construction, slimmer in line, and higher as to heel. There is infinite variety in pumps, with a wide choice of contrasting trim and heel contours. The sling is a big favorite, but the closed pump runs it a close second for early Spring wear.

At the top of the fashion news for Spring is patent leather, a most popular accent for the sculptured shoes and pastels that will be seen everywhere.

Flattering Styles

Especially flattering are the pointed toe styles with low square cut vamp and very high curved heel, the refreshingly open sandal with a single curved strap, and the closed front and back styles with open sides.

Inspired by the extensive use of patent this Spring are the interesting uses of this glossy leather as a matching piping on suede, and as contrast trim on both formal and streetwear dresses, especially popular because of its complete washability. Umbrella cases, handbags, and hat and glove trimmings in patent leather make for a sleek ensemble look when worn with the new patent shoes.

Also newslooking, very smart and sophisticated, is the tailored pump, again with the very high curved heel, in one of the beautiful soft shades of aniline calf, light wood tones and warm beiges. The feminine touch of a low cut envelope vamp banded with contrasting leather gives a soft look suited to the newly feminine tweeds and flannels.

Suede is seen in black and rich navy in more open types of pumps to wear with silk town suits and ensembles. In some instances suede is combined with kid, calfs in open dress pumps for more formal costumes. Elastic suede will give glove-perfect fit to closed styles.

Touches of White

Touches of white are so important on the first Spring shoes as they are on costume ensembles. Never have there been so many white trimmed shoes as this season, introducing white as a major fashion theme right through Spring and Summer.

White combines with black, navy, spring tans and browns, bright red or royal blue, depending on the type of costume. Newest of all is white with grey, heralding the return of the grey shoe to the fashion picture.

Especially suited to the mood of Spring is the fresh look of nylon mesh, combined with suede, patent, or calf to give pumps and sandals a new dalliancy and charm.

Typical of the new feeling is a high-heeled sandal for the town coat or suit, combining black nylon mesh with patent. It's an open sling on a high heel, with three wide bands of black mesh edged with patent, riding high on the instep and a very narrow band of the patent to form the back of the shoe, especially flattering with one of the new black silk coats or formal black suits.

In a slightly more closed sling pump of navy suede and mesh, the buckled back strap and heel are of the suede, and curving bands of suede make a graceful pattern on the mesh vamp.

Mesh is Popular

Natural or eggshell mesh with black patent is exceedingly smart in narrow strippings or in bands for treatments. Eggshell with tan leather makes shoes that look crisp, cool and fresh. White or natural mesh is also combined with brilliant red, blues and greens in softtoned leathers to make some of the more exotic of the casual shoes, wedgies, platforms, and similar styles.

Another very important fashion is the all-over white shoe in smooth leathers combined with mesh in banded or stripping designs, also in open and closed pumps. For cocktail and evening slippers nylon mesh dress pumps in new textured weaves, embroidered, beaded, or in very lacy pat-

New Formals Waltz Length

Look to the "waltz-length" terms makes the sliriest of dancing shoes.

For monotone ensembles choose shoes that combine two and three colors, to go with white, natural and pastel clothes later in the season.

formal gown for dress-up Spring time wear, a graceful and practical length that sweeps a full 12 inches off the floor. Taffetas and color news, with filmy sheer nets and laces also particularly lovely for Spring.

"Festive but not too formal" is the keynote, with delicately feminine cover-ups seen in the guise of a one-shoulder design, removable fichu back, or voluminous full skirts, embroidery lots of glitter, and romantic pastels star in the pretty Spring scene.

When Skin Texture Is Coarse, Your Diet May Be To Blame

How a good foundation for facial beauty. A tinted liquid lotion that's silky smooth helps hide complexion flaws.

By HELEN FOLLETT

ONE of the toughest jobs a beautician has to wrestle with is refining the texture of coarse skin. It cannot be done in a few treatments; home care is necessary, too.

Pores relax under heat, contract when exposed to cold. For this reason, when the face is washed, water should be only warm enough to form a suds when soap is used. A cold rinsing should follow and an astringent used. Apply with pledgets of cotton, let it dry on. These toiletries can be found at cosmetic counters. Nearly all skins thrive under a tonic lotion.

Easy on Cream

The less cream used, the better. If the flesh is chapped and sensitive, rub in a little cream lightly, remove it in half an hour or so.

Foundation cosmetics will give the skin a more attractive appearance. They should be applied carefully, directions followed to the letter. There is such a thing as using too much foundation and the effects will be anything but attractive.

The smart thing, of course, is to get at the cause of coarse skin. Usually the diet is to blame. Rich foods should be avoided—sauces, pastries, rich salad dressings, butter and cream. At fat foods start sebaceous glands rampaging, they pour forth too much of their lubricating fluids so that the pores expand. Many complexion ills are due to food.

Morning Lemonade

Start the day with an unsweetened lemonade, orange or tomato juice. No fried meat! Meat should be broiled, boiled or roasted. At least once a day have a green salad.

Drink buttermilk and have cottage cheese occasionally. Drink plenty of water. Outdoor exercise is helpful because, it stimulates circulation, which has much to do with the health and loveliness of the complexion.

Last year 97 per cent of all Red Cross work was done by volunteers who donated their services entirely without pay. They need your help to carry on this important work.

Narrower Belt Molds Figure

With the emphasis on the slim, lean line for Spring, belt styles will be found in narrower width, and contoured in shape for a figure-molding effect. Novelty back and side closings add interest, as well as crushed leather waist-spanners.

Especially suited to the slender look of fashion are the very narrow strap belts, to be worn singly or in numbers, in matching or contrasting colors.

SIMPLY DESIGNED NECKLINE

The new collarless and simply designed necklines of Spring call for pretty neckwear to add a feminine touch. And the boxy jackets, scooped necklines and open fronts can take countless variations with the new weskits, fill-ins and gilets.

Stoles are the biggest news this Spring, newly dramatic with coats, suits and dresses. Gossamer-sheer or functionally wrappable and cozy, they drift over evening gowns in airy chiffon, soften a dyed-to-match linen dress, or take the place of the little jacket for casual wear.

Scarves in brilliant shades or prints, "step collars" and bright lengths of ribbon are important as the little touches that "make a Spring costume, including narrow little ties, huge pouts of taffeta, pleated pull-through scarves and flower-edged ribbons.

White and pastel accents, becomingly placed at the neckline, spark the traditional navy ensembles of Spring, as well as the new lighter shades. Yellow plays is a strong color note for gilets and collars.

Dyed-to-match flowers are another "custom" touch seen often with Spring costumes, and do much to soften the cardigan necklines of the new suits. Some make a festive fill-in lei for the open neckline.

Weskits are the perfect match for open-front suits, in a beautiful range of decorative fabrics, including cotton, taffeta, and shimmering brocade in solids, stripes or floral patterns.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMESON

Care of the complexion

It is a world at loose ends, but in some ways it is a better place for a woman than it was when great-grannie was a girl. In those days beauty was confined almost exclusively to the leisure class the lucky ones who never had to worry about the balance in the cheque book. Their lives, given over to social affairs, were devoted to the cultivation of beauty. It was their particular business to be alluringly attractive. They did not have the arts that we have now to make complexions lovely, hair curly, figures divine,

Beauty is a common commodity.

Today all that is changed. We have no leisure class. Women of wealth, working for their favorite charities, are always on the go. Beauty is more diffused. Glamor girls are everywhere, in shops and offices as well as at social events. The waitress who serves you at a lunch counter may display a beauty that is ideal, a skin that is delicately touched up with beauty props, a figure that is smart and snappy. Yes, beauty is a common commodity.

If a girl has a beautiful skin of fine texture, smooth surface and delicate natural coloring, she has a good-looks asset that heads the list. She can use that as a setting upon which to bring out or build up other attractions—nice eyes, neatly tinted lips, eyebrows curved like the wing of a bird in flight, long, dark lashes. Given a dazzling complexion, almost anything in the way of beauty can be achieved.

The perfect complexion calls for fastidious care, if it is to be preserved. Left to go its own way, it may lose that lovely youthful freshness. It depends to a certain extent upon the physical being, hence the need of regard for the laws of health—wise eating habits, daily bathing, plenty of sleep, outdoor exercise and a sweet disposition.

Cleanliness must be maintained to a high degree. There should be a thorough soapy scrubbing at bedtime. If the suds are massaged lightly into the flesh, there will be slight chance of blackheads forming.

Before the face-washing, makeup should be removed with a cleansing cream. After the suds are rinsed away with warm water, there should be a cold rinsing for the tonic effect. Drying should be done with gentle pats of a soft towel, then a heavier cream should be applied, to remain on over night.

REJECT OIL PROPOSALS

TEHRAN (AP)—Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi said Wednesday Iran is turning down latest British proposals for settling the oil dispute on the compensation issue which Britain wants for properties taken over by Iran's nationalization board. Final word to Iran's stand will be given Friday when Premier Mohamed Mossadegh speaks on what Iran regards as the second anniversary of nationalization of oil.

WEEKLY TO BE DAILY

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Le Progres du Saguenay, weekly newspaper serving Saguenay district for 88 years, announced Wednesday it will become a daily Sept. 7 next. Last December, Le Progres installed teletypesetter, automatic typesetting equipment, in preparation for daily publication.

Slip Covers Offer Easiest Way to New Home Look

Slip covers offer the easiest keyed to the casual way of life and most attractive way to give and run the gamut from gay homes a fresh look for the new stripes, delicate florals with a season. With all the delightful lacy look, quaint provincials new fabrics blossoming for 1953, freely drawn, to decorative geothe tired, drab look that rooms metrics inspired from all parts seem to acquire come the end of of the world.

winter can be quickly transformed.

There is a richness of colors, patterns, weaves and textures in slip cover fabrics this season that opens unlimited horizons for the homemaker to give free rein to her imagination in creating a Spring and Summer decor that will graciously reflect the dignity of her own good taste and personality.

The old "standbys" have changed their faces. They look new, fresh, more useable in their attractiveness and there's a host of metallic glint to add sparkle.

Designs for the most part are group is composed of small scale, hand printed patterns on white or natural ground linen. A muted color has been combined with brown or grey in each design. All the linens have correlated wallpaper.

The over-all color picture is exciting!

Mauve, fuchsia, violet, lilac and amethyst are cited as the purple tones. The reds are leaning toward orange-red, russet, persimmon and pumpkin. Black and white continue with a new "jet" look, while chocolate, sand, tan, cocoa, terra cotta, blues and green will represent the landscape family for '53.

TROUT SEASON EARLIER

QUEBEC (CP)—The fishing season, for brown, speckled, grey and red trout will open one day earlier in Quebec province this year, the Quebec department of game and fisheries announced Wednesday in its summary of fishing laws and regulations for 1953. The fishing dates for the species will be April 15-Sept. 30 instead of April 16-Sept. 30.

Bonnets and Sailors Top Fashion Trends Again To Flatter the Profile

Spring millinery fashions for 1953 have a charm which no feminine heart can resist. Dainty little shapes that curve and cling, or spreading parasol brims that cast flattering shadows, they all have a light-headed look that is definitely appealing.

The bonnet and the sailor are again at the head of fashion's list. The most wearable bonnets have curving, face-framing brims that are angled for profile-flattery, and has a softer, irregular brim. Little cap shapes have high-flying feathers or flowers, the pillbox is scalloped or dimpled, or cuffed with a tiny rolled brim, and wide-brimmed hats share the trend to less crown and gentler proportions.

Texture is important in Spring straws and fabrics, particularly the deep, soft, mossy loftiness achieved by combining transparent and translucent straws.

Highly Polished Surface

An iridescent look is found in combinations of fine-sewn braid in row-on-row or all-over lace or, or cobweb shadings. Smooth straws are often striped, plaid, or checked. Newest of all the Spring straw textures is the glossy satin sheen of highly polished straw.

The flower-trimmed hat is now likely to take a single full-blown rose, or masses of delicate miniature blossoms such as forget-me-nots, violets, clover or apple blossoms. Veils, too, are important both for "trimming" and as flattering masks over the brow.

The Spring color palette ranges from the brightest to the palest shades. The vivid contrast of black on white, and warm blond beiges are the most central combinations. Bold color combinations, such as orange-and-pink; turquoise-and-violet, or royal-and-lime, are high fashion this year.

Among the quieter, harmonious costume colors echoed in hats of straw, felt or shrin are the sunny yellows, mossy yellow-greens, Venetian blue, lilac-mauve, mauve, sapphire; petal pink, scarlet and crimson, copper and beige and mauve and violet.

Exciting Combinations

Metallic gold with beige, and shining silver with white straw are the most exciting combinations that go with everything for Spring.

Choose Perfume To Fit Costumes

With the exciting variety in this Spring's fashions, perfumes become the fourth dimension of a woman's personality.

For the casual way of life, when sweaters and skirts or tailored suits are worn most of the day, a casual type of perfume is best, with a choice of woodsy, spicy, or fruity fragrances.

The woman who works likes a subtle, crisp, fresh scent to give the essential air of womanliness, important to every female in the business world. A navy suit with soft white touches calls for a floral scent. A light, airy scent is for the new pale beiges.

For afternoon and informal evening occasions, the feminine touches of large puffy sleeves or draped effects invite the use of perfume in a sweetly floral scent, or a provocative note such as one of the crisp, worldly scents to accent a chic decolletage.

Crisp and Cool Cottons Making Lingerie News

It's a cotton Spring as far as lingerie is concerned. Crisp, fresh and gay, as well as enormously practical and cool, the fashion for cotton has grown with the years to emerge as the biggest lingerie news of the season.

Cotton plisse leads the Spring parade, and shows itself to be enormously adaptable to many new looks of lingerie fashion. Perhaps its best-known features are its no-iron and easy-care qualities, but this season plisse will star as high fashion too.

Besides opaque finishes make cotton plisse suitable for dress length gowns that may be worn as lounging robes and dusters as well. One style will be seen with its wrap-over-the-shoulder cape looking equally smart for street-wear or sleep-wear. Darker colors and print patterns look right for these new dust-purpose fashions.

Dress-length styling for the new season's gowns directs attention to the wide sweep at skirt, very high or very low-cut necklines, and fitted midriffs, which are either elasticized or nipped in at the waist by slender self ties. Tiny puffed sleeves give an in-genue air to even the barest of shoulders.

Cotton pajamas look new in dusk-to-dawn styles, with the usual knee-length or calf-length trousers, or in the gentle version of styled like tennis shorts or tailored sleepcoats. One pajama set features three pieces, with a tailored print top, and both long and short trousers for cool or warmer weather.

Boudoir and printed nylon crepe show up in pajamas and gowns too, often in tailored pajama sets with matching robes and cuffs. Many are sold in kits, forming compact travelling companions.

Shirts Accent Collar Trends

The trend to button-downs, rounds and the new short pointed in men's shirts continues to gain ground at the expense of the widespread collar.

Collars of the new season will be the increasing importance of short-sleeved models. While vertical weaves, stripes and lightweight fabrics predominate in this type of shirt, it will also be available in white on white and regular weight oxfords and broadcloths.

Although white will continue to dominate the picture in business shirts, solid colors, thin stripes and closely woven patterns are staging a sharp upsurge in this field.

In sports shirts, lightweight, ventilated weaves and sheers will continue popular with summery cottons coming into increased prominence.

"Textured surface" or 'surface interest" fabrics seem sure to make a favor this Spring. Never before have so many rub, slub, polished and speckled effects been shown as will be seen in the new Spring lines.

Stripes will be strongly featured in men's sport shirts this Spring. They will include verticals, horizontals and stripes formed by a series of designs as well as border stripes that hit only at the collar, pocket and cuffs.

All indications point to a big season for polo shirts, with colorful-attached models running ahead of the crew-neck models.

Bonnets Are Favored For Younger Set

When it comes to millinery fashions, this Spring the younger set favors two classic shapes — the bonnet for dress-up and Sunday wear, and the cloche for school and trips to town. Yet while the silhouettes they love haven't changed, it's more than just the switch to straws that marks the young hat of Spring 1953.

The smartest young bonnet is the soup — the deep-brimmed almost crownless silhouette that snugs the back of the head and lifts in a gentle arch over the brow.

But the scoop bonnet is sure to be an ice-cream pastel, a lustrous confection of sugar-candy straw in fragile pink, vanilla or coffee, or even lime. The scoop may be completely simple and unadorned by design, or flowers the bonnet's crown melds into the brim.

The cosy that's posed alone, usually down at one side of the brim, will most likely be a silk-and-velvet rose, or a bright American Beauty, fresh from the garden with rhinestone 'dew.' Or the smart junior may choose to crown it flowers, either a disc or tiny blossoms at the back of the head, or a wreath of dainty blossoms at the point where the bonnet's crown melds into the brim.

The young Spring cloche that's a favorite with the younger set has a minimum of crown and a deep, slightly flaring brim, as close to the traditional shape as a belle can find. Another smart version is made to the satin, combining a rounded cloche crown with the stiff little sailor brim. Both of these styles are taken straight, never fussed with streamers, and bows.

Crisp plaids, checks and stripes in bright red-and-white, navy-and-white, or tri-colors, give just the right accent to the smart girl's suits, sweater-dresses and tailored coats.

Pale-dark for juniors this Spring may be just a whimsical half-a-hat or a little beret.

They like the little hat that perches well back on the head and reveals most of their shining coiffures. Pie-crust edges soften the jaunty pillbox, and an S-shape of straw, festooned with flowers, may be all the hat there is back of that sophisticated little nose veil.

Pretty posy pinks, natty navy, vivid red, sunshine yellow, lime, greens, and the deep, smoky greys as well as lots of fresh, sparkling white — in piques and linens as well as straw — are the shades they find most complimentary.

For a Spring Marriage

By TRACY ADRIAN

WEDDING BELLS are ringing all year around in these modern times and lots of them are chiming for the Spring as well as for the month of June. Though our brides of today are just as romantic as their mothers and grandmothers, they are also, of necessity, a bit more practical in their choice of bridal gowns.

For this reason many brides-to-be are selecting fabrics that are not quite as costly as the materials used in the past. And without giving up tradition they have retained the charm and beauty of the wedding dress.

This one is a perfect example of today's trend. It is made of Swiss organdy daintily embroidered with lilies of the valley which are picked out with tiny iridescent sequins. Sprays of lily of the valley outline the decollet-age and the soft draping of the bodice. A bouffant floor-length skirt has same embroidery as the organdy gloves.

With Shoe Fashions on Bare Side New Hosiery Matches the Trend

With shoe styles on the delightfully bare side, and fashion colors excitingly pale, hosiery trends are keeping step as well as for the month of June. Though our brides of today are just as romantic as their mothers and grandmothers, they are also, of necessity, a bit more practical in their choice of bridal gowns.

For this reason many brides-to-be are selecting fabrics that are not quite as costly as the materials used in the past. And

With shoe styles on the delightfully bare side, and fashion colors excitingly pale, hosiery trends are keeping step as well as for the most for the well-dressed woman's wardrobe this Spring.

Cut-out shoes, the high-riding banded styles, bare-back sandals, airy-mesh designs, and open-toe or strapped footwear call for the very barest covering of the legs. For each type there is a choice of hosiery, including the sandal foot, seamless styles, and the stocking with a bare minimum of reinforcement at heel, toe or both.

Texture plays a large role too, in this Spring of unusual fabrics. Nylon mesh hose blend well with the mesh shoe, giving a desired unbroken line from foot to hemline. Look for the new crepe nylons, pleated and tweedy effects. These are all as practical as they are fashionable this year.

The new shades of the Spring fashions vary from brilliant hues to the palest neutrals. The wide range of colors in hosiery gives every woman the opportunity to shade to blend with Spring costumes.

New greens call for beige-toned hosiery, with topaz or honey overtones. Browns take spicy russets, beiges and taupes, while grey shoes and outfits call for misty taupes, charcoal grey, or grey-blue shades.

Variety Is Spice Of Sportswear

Many an otherwise conservative man welcomes the opportunity to give full sway to his flair for color and his urge to individuality and variety in the choice of sports wear. This Spring, he will find the sports wear style stage lavishly set with a bright array of styles and colors to spur his imagination and give wide scope to his tastes.

Gayer and lighter in tone are the colors featured in the new Spring sports coats, which present a fascinating variety of fabric patterns, including plaids, checks, stripes and herringbones.

Favored among the fabrics are soft, lightweight tweeds, shetlands and cheviots, together with woolens and worsteds with strong surface interest. This is achieved by the use of slubs and nubs which create an impression of depth in the cloth and enhance the richness of the color effects.

Adding to the attractiveness of the Spring fabrics picture are the specialty fibres, notably cashmere and mohair, which come both alone and in blends with wool which create completely new fabrics. The orizna, dacrons and various blends of these and other man-made fibres with wool are looming large on the style scene. New plaidlies

Among the new styles bowing in for Spring is the one-button sports coat model. Created in California, this newcomer is reported due to give the more conventional two- and three-button models a run for top honors.

Style touches that will identify the new sport coats as "definitely 1953" are the ticket pocket, side vents, pleated back and bias-tiered patch pockets.

Fancy waistcoats will continue to grow in popularity this spring. Tattersalls will lead by a wide margin. Plain solid colors and tartans will also be frequently seen, along with some striped reds and foulards.

As to slacks, flannel will continue to share honors with wool gabardine in the tar-favorite bracket, with the various man-made fibres and blends sure to claim a healthy slice of the market. Many new and novelly fabrics, such as cotton shantie (extremely light, yet tough and durable), chambrays, denims and leightweight pure silks will add to the diversity of the fabric lineup.

Sweaters Colorful

For active sports, the always popular pullover will feature a wide variety of designs, including diagonal stripes and multi-colored patterns of Scandinavian flavor together with diamond patterns, hunting themes and other novelty effects. As usual, solid colors will continue in strong favor in the pullovers.

Wool fabrics will retain their popularity with sports participants, even in the warmer weather. Because the wool fibre can weigh 30 per cent of its weight, without feeling damp, it tends to eliminate unpleasant "clamminess" when a man perspires.

The sleeveless sweater will be offered in both pullover and cardigan-front versions. Sweater-vests will feature plaids, solids, checks and small stripes.

The lighter Spring shades—tan, yellow, soft grey, light blue, light green and medium red— will be widely seen in sleeveless and full-sleeved pullovers as well as in cardigans and turtle-neck models.

DIAMONDS TRUMPS

In the realm of socks, diamond panels continue prominent in traditional Argyles and modern interpretations. They are shown in the usual two or three rows of diamond panes, although they may appear in one only in a band design. Many combinations of the new Spring colors are featured.

Spring Jewelry Shows Influence Of Coronation

The June Coronation of England's Queen Elizabeth, with all the pomp and circumstance it inspires, has had an important influence on new Spring jewelry here in Canada.

The look of royalty, complete with crowns, lions and Coronation motifs, dominates the picture for Spring, in exciting replicas of old court jewelry, Victorian designs, and "royal" colors.

Large pins are featured in many popular stylized crown patterns, brilliant and chunky, with either colored or clear crystal stones worked in combination with marquise and baquette stones.

The British Lion and coat-of-arms motifs too, may be studded with precious looking jewels, enamelled in heraldic colors, or wrought in heavy gold or silver-colored metal.

Typical Victorian designs, such as the graceful pendant effect in earrings and necklaces, seem to be in keeping with the Coronation theme. Dark ruby and garnet colored stones are combined in lacy patterns with antique gold settings for an authentic opulent look.

Top among Royal colors in elaborate stone jewelry sets are the deep reds and golds, emerald greens, and shades of amethyst, used with bright or antique gold.

Brunch Coats

Dusters and wrap brunch coats are styled with paredown line at cotton or nylon pliss, broadcloth, polished cottons, denim, terry cloth or embossed types. All take brilliant or subtle hues for a colorful approach to Spring.

"A GRIP FOR EVERY TRIP"

New Styles Now Favor The Tall Girl

Time was, and not so long ago either, when women 5 feet 4 in inches and over were idealized in song and fiction but made to feel like Gulliver among the Lilliputians when they entered any clothing store. They either had to have their clothes made to order, or pay for extensive alterations on the few ready-made fashions they were able to find.

Now that the skyscraper set constitutes a full ten percent of the total female population, stores and manufacturers are beginning to realize that a new discrimination is called for, especially proportioned for "talls." Several stores have opened up complete departments for tall girls with everything from bathing suits to sweaters.

And an even larger percentage of stores is now carrying suits and dresses fashioned to flatter the tall figure, in the regular suit and dress departments.

In Newer Fabrics

Tall girls, long dependent on separates for the bulk of their wardrobes, will welcome dresses styled with additional length in waistline, sleeves and other essential points of fit. Many of these new clothes are of easy-on-the-pocketbook man-made fibres such as rayon, orlon, nylon, dacron and acrilan.

Year-round suits which have long been a favorite in other size ranges are now designed for talls in blends which simulate wool but know no season.

"Made to order" for tall girls is the long, slim line of this Spring's fashions, ideal for setting off a classic figure. The straight, slender silhouette of the new suits and coats, the easy bloused backs of the newest dresses, and the dramatic dash of a colorful weskit, all add up to glamour for the "tall set".

Drama in Design

One manufacturer of tall fashions who is 5 feet 10 1-2 inches herself, reasons that no one can carry the unusual and dramatic as well as a person who is tall. Her line of cocktail and evening dresses, utilizing such flattering fabrics as supple rayon crepes, taffetas and shimmering satins, illustrates her point.

Strapless Bra Good For Slender Styles

The strapless bra-top slip is especially good with the slender-dress styles that feature wide open necklines cut in boat, scoop or open V-effects.

With beige and navy leading in Spring ensembles, newest lingerie will be used to pick up these colors, especially since many of the new fabrics are rather sheer and light in weight.

Spring Jewelry Fashions Are Delicate and Royal in Color

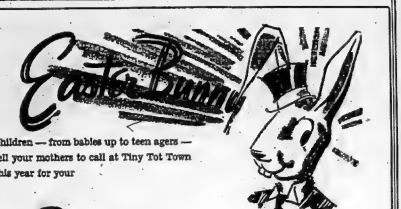
The new jewelry this Spring is likely to have two outstanding qualities. It will be notable for its delicate, ladylike air and full of rich colors such as might be found in a beautiful stained glass window.

In fashion jewelry, not 'only' are a great many colored stones to be seen in the new collections, but there is a considerable amount of enamel work emphasizing such royal colors as deep blues, reds, and purples.

White, which for several seasons has been a top favorite for Spring and Summer jewelry accessories, also rates high on the list of favorites for Spring. Sometimes its frosty beauty is emphasized with touches of jet or with rhinestones and some of the most attractive pieces are a white enamelled effect framed in gold.

The forthcoming coronation of Queen Elizabeth has not only caused interest in the royal or stained glass colors, but has revived interest in such designs as crowns, bar pins shaped like sceptres, little enameled footmen and a host of other jewelry forms which are as delightful Spring, 1953, as they are beautiful.

Many of the new watch designs look more like fashionable bracelets than the efficient time pieces they really are. Quite a few of the new daytime as well as evening watches have covered faces which flick away at the touch of the finger to reveal the face of the watch. Some also have colored crystals which add to their glamor, and there is a variety of new bracelet watches which have bangles in the form of bells, bee hives, or other intriguing designs into which are set tiny, accurate watches.



Slips Feature New Linings

A practical feature in the new slips, petticoats and camisoles is lining or panelling for complete opaqueness. Cotton batiste types are trimmed with rick-rack, bright ribbon, eyelet or embroidery, and most is now shrinkage-controlled for perfect fit.

Black cotton pilaus combines with sheer nylon net or lace to give a basically practical gown a glamorous look. Pilaus petticoats are gaily polka-dotted and fringed in contrasting colors, and shiny cotton styles are covered with print designs.

Although there are fewer very full petticoats than last Spring, this year's full-skirted styles are fluffed with organdie or nylon for a feminine look.

Satin slips now follow the silhouette of the Spring clothes with their slim lines, as seen in the sheath slip, the pared-down skirt fullness, or in the molded princess line.

Trim, Slim Silhouette Favored

The "lighter, brighter look" keynotes men's fashions for spring. Expressed both in lighter, brighter colors and in fabrics greatly reduced in bulk, this trend is directly in line with the growing popularity of the slimmer, narrower silhouette in suits, topcoats and sports jackets.

Both styles—trim and comfortable, the net result is an extremely happy one.

Mr. Man's spirits get a Spring tonic lift from fair change in lighter colors. At the same time his demand for comfort and practicality is met by fabrics and tailoring keyed to longer periods of warm weather and modern heating facilities in cooler weather.

In every item of apparel — from sports shirts to topcoat — he'll find the new "lighter, brighter look" singing the cheerful theme song of his Spring wardrobe.

Synthetics Popular

Tweeds and flannels, lightweight worsteds, new silks and mohair blends are assuming great style importance, along with the man-made fibre fabrics such as Dacron and Orlon in a variety of blends with other synthetics and wool.

In surface texture interest, "the nubby, stubby look" looms large in the Spring spotlight. Successfully initiated last Fall, it has gained acceptance rapidly and is now being strongly featured in the softer textured fabrics.

It is big Spring style news in almost every sports jacket line including sports "shirts in rayons, cottons and interesting blends and slacks featuring Orlon and rayon and even Dacron and rayon.

The "nubby, stubby look" is achieved by the use of irregular balls of yarn, called "nubs" and of streaks of yarn of varying thickness, called "slubs."

The popularity of the single-breasted, two-button suit continues into Spring, with a variety of single-button and three-button models also available (in sports coats, the number of buttons may run as high as five!). Still the top favorite of millions of men, the double-breasted suit is well represented in the Spring style parade.

Suit models for the new season are marked by greater emphasis on patch pockets, narrower, longer lapels, smaller notches, medium width shoulders and easy lines. Blending tones of tan, grey, light and dark blue, and brown are the colors preferred in approximately that order.

The "Pre-Coronation influence" currently prevalent in the women's fashion picture, has its masculine style aspect as well, tending to strengthen the influence in America of London's Savile Row, long the arbiter of men's fashions in the British Isles.

The plaid comeback bid of the year is perhaps significant of this influence. This Spring, the Tattersall will be seen peeking around the lapels of many jackets with the blazer striped vest available for the more adventuresome. There are even gaily embroidered vests and vests made of upholstery fabrics for daring souls.

With outdoor sports coming back into the picture and warmer weather approaching, active men will turn their attention to the wide selection of sports clothes of all kinds.

Sport coats, for instance, may choose from a variety of shirts and slacks, in cotton and wool, a wide range of cotton mesh and man-made fibre fabrics.

The spectator coats, doubled-vented sports jackets in three-button and two-button models will be popular.

House Dress Has New Style Touch

The newest home fashions offer every woman of the house a versatile wardrobe that does duty as hostess frock, shopping and streetwear outfit and comfortable working garb as well. And in them this year are seen all the important fashion news including neckline interest, gay prints and new colour styles.

Embossed cottons are seen in a variety of patterns, including diamond, honeycomb, blister and chevron types. They may be all white and slacks featuring Orlon and rayon and even Dacron and rayon.

The "nubby, stubby look" is achieved by the use of irregular balls of yarn, called "nubs" and of streaks of yarn of varying thickness, called "slubs."

Slip-ons Go To Town This Spring

Footwear for men moves happily this Spring toward the more comfortable type of thing they like most. The new in shoes reflects styling dominant in suits, jackets and slacks.

With due concern for the average man's innate conservativeness the new footwear is trimmer and lighter and the variety of styles being made available for the new season furnishes a broad opportunity for expression of individual taste.

The most exciting development of all is the blossoming of the universally popular "loafer" style into full-fledged footwear that is now designed to go anywhere — to business, to the dance, or to play.

This new type of shoe's a far cry from the original "loafer" which soon after their introduction came to be known as "sloppy Joes." To begin with, they are now called "slip-ons." In the second place, they are being so carefully designed that once the trouser cuff reaches down to their tops, they are distinguishable from time-tested classics only by the fact that they have no string.

They Have No Strings

Add to place of strings they are conservatively decorated by stitching of the leather itself. Some sport tassels. Models are available in a great diversity of leathers.

More conventional shoes for men for this Spring are treated somewhat more conservatively as might be expected, but every care is taken to avoid the stodgy. Browns are out in front. The wing tip is expected to be even more popular. Plainer, smoother and more restrained detail, especially in the higher priced brackets, dominates the new shoe pictures.

The plain toe Blucher in grain or cordovan leathers is headed for greater spring popularity. Among lighter, brighter colors for footwear, the blazer stripe is peculiarly with brilliant colors on clear white grounds.

Especially suited to warmer weather are the cotton pliaes which in addition to their new takes pretty prints and eyelet trimming retaining all the while its easy-washing and no-ironing virtues.

Details that make news in high-fashion footwear, such as the Empire waistline, full skirts with overlapping pockets, and pretty necklines, take over in the dress department, attractively ready for streetwear at any time.

Fabrics for Spring Feature Light, Airy Surface Effects

Texture rises to the surface of Fashion this season, carrying out the mood of Spring with a wide array of newly light and airy effects.

One of the most unusual and practical of the new finishes is the bubble-light wool tweed, looking nubby and texturesome, but weighing much less than its winter-weight counterpart. In keeping with the lightness of this fabric are the pale tones in which it will be seen.

Linens, jerseys and silks, too, take on a newly textured appearance through either weaving or three-dimensional print. When woven in combination, a crocheted or bouclé effect is achieved.

New cottons look like tweed, silk, woolen or linen, depending on the finish, but retain their affinity to soap and water, making them a practical choice. Patent leather appliques on cotton look smart, and are also washable.

In coats and suits, brushed surfaces, silk or orlon and wool blends, light worsteds and zibelines, wool crepes and fleeces all bring out the newest Spring fabric news.

Fabric news continues in coats and suits, offering surface interest with less defined loops and bouclé nubs. Poodles show up in "tamed" versions, looking almost frothy, due to the large content of mohair.

Frosty effects are achieved through the use of white as a background for the pastels and beiges of the season.

Zibeline and long-hair fabrics give a smooth look to the texture story, and flannel coatings, doeskin, suede and worsted jerseys present the bulk of the smooth side of the fabric story.

There is a reverse side to the fashion news this Spring, and that is the fabrics that line many of the newest coats, suits and ensembles, as well as their matching blouses. Prints are most often seen with solid color ensembles, in silk, jersey, cotton or linen.

In the case of the equally popular print ensemble, the blouse and lining will be solid, in a shade to pick up the predominant color of the print.

Silk surahs, shantungs and nobby-textured blends of silk and orlon, as well as rayons and linens, have a definite place in the Spring into Summer wardrobe, being especially suited to resisting wrinkling and keeping the wearer cool and well-groomed looking.

Lighter Shades Attune Topcoats To New Season's Style Theme

In tune with the "lighter, brighter" theme song for Spring in men's clothing, lighter shades will dominate the topcoat picture, with tan, grey and mild blue favored. Some tweeds have pastel nubs over tan or grayish-tan background colors. Others feature large box overplaids and overall houndstooth or step patterns.

Tweeds and shetlands will take the spotlight in the Spring topcoat scene, as their rich new patterns take the eye and win the favor of smart dressers everywhere. Saxony and cheviot weaves are also expected to move up fast in the style sweepstakes.

Topcoats with set-in sleeves and balmacaan collar present the newest look" for Spring. A close runner-up is the raglan sleeve cut, again with the balmacaan collar. Still the most favored of all cuts is the tubular-body coat, characterized by set-in sleeves.

Those long-time favorites, the Chesterfield and the Raglan, will continue to hold their places in the Spring style parade. The Raglan, a loose-fitting coat built around the sleeve for which it is named, while the Chesterfield is fitted.

Hats Go Lighter In Tone, Weight

Because of the deft styling and the appealing softness of lines which the designers have put into men's hats for this Spring, it begins to look as if the "1953 Easter Parade" may well turn out to be a "Men's Hat Parade."

Narrower brims and smaller, more tapered brims will be prevalent. Bright, smartly patterned bands will give hats an extra dash of color and style. Subtle tweedmarks are adroitly blended with the new lighter colors for tones.

Spring Coat Lines Given Slim Look

The coat story for Spring is a varied one, with styles running the fashion gamut from the reed-slim to the sweeping flare coat.

The slim line is one of the newest in coats, and dresses in columnar look that is as easy to wear as it is distinctive. A feminine effect is retained by use of flattering necklines, soft and luscious fabrics, and the all-important matching or contrasting stole.

As in the new Spring dresses, the fitted coat no longer relies on the cinch to attain a tiny waistline. Skirts are gently slimmed down, and the hipline may be emphasized with slight padding. The waistline and midriff are smooth, molded to give a high-rising Empire look. Collars provide a soft frame for the face, or are cut away deeply to flatter the neckline.

The "Long Shorties"

Of new importance too, this Spring, are the long shorties, or seven-eighth coats, often shown with companion skirts and blouses; the narrowly tapered coat, worn "clutch style" rather than buttoned; the classic tailored Chesterfield dressed up with novel seaming and the shortie jacket, as versatile as ever.

Stoles cover just about everything, often "braid-trimmed or fringed for glamour.

Surface interest continues strongly, with the poodle cloth remaining a light, frothy and delicate look. Tweeds have a new "frosty" effect, while zibelines and long-hairs fabrics are lustrous and silky. And doeskin, suede, flannel, worsted jersey and gabardine give elegance to the smooth side of fashion.

Clear, cool pastels are forecast for Spring, with beige showing an even stronger hand than grey as the most popular neutral tones. And in the neutral family, look for small-patterned tweeds in black and white, newly featured as a good background color for the smart, high-color accessories of this season.

Good For Traveller

The coat with its own skirt is both practical and fashionable, and often possesses a blouse and matching jacket lining in solid or printed silk, jersey or cotton.

Kitchens Take On New Tones

The mechanical marvels that make it almost completely automatic have been accepted and now the kitchen is being made to look as well as it operates.

The use of warm tones, so much easier to maintain than the laboratory hardware look, is becoming more and more popular. The beauty of the grain of birch, pine, maple and oak add immeasurably to the attractiveness; is enhanced by new window treatments, floor and wall coverings.

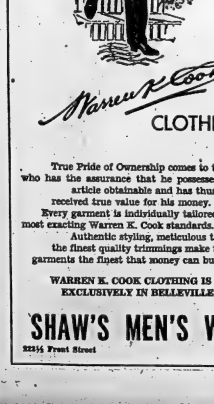
Cabinets with drawers expertly designed for the things they're to hold are real furniture with handsome hardware that is fine, durable finishes. If metal and white cabinets are preferred excellent color note can be given to the white by contrasting it with colored backgrounds and gay accents.

Neckline Cues Little Furs

The look of the new Spring necklines provides the cue for little furs this season. Cardigan line coats and suits take all sorts of scarfs and fur pieces, including the little fur capelet especially suited to cape-inspired shoulder lines.

The band neckline style takes to little fur bibs, collars, scarfs or chokers to give an entirely new look to this fashion. And the open neckline fashions call for fill-ins, plastrons or V-shaped collars of fur.

Very versatile and popular for Spring is the let or fur, draped and wound several times around the neckline to give a soft, luxurious effect. These "necklaces", as well as most of the furs, of this season, will be beige or pastel in tone to complement every wardrobe.



Important influence on the fashions this Spring is the slim look of coats and suits, coupled with a look of top width. Capes, short jackets, stoles and cowl effects in fur will accent this new look.

SCARVES ADD COLOR

Pretty scarves not only add the spice of color to a wardrobe but they help to protect dress and coat collars from cosmetic and perspiration soil. To function properly in the scarf trend, scarves be clean itself. Squeeze it often through rich, warm scenends and rinse thoroughly; roll in a towel shake into shape; press with warm iron while damp. It's flowe-fresh, ready to be used again

FRESH WHITE TOUCH

Now in Spring trimming is the fresh white touch of kid leather at the collar, cuffs and even bottoms of the new suits and coats. Suede too is a smart accent in rich jewel shades.

Winnipeg-Born Radio Star, 'Gisele' Really Loves to Sing

By JOHN PATTERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Gisele MacKenzie, Winnipeg-born singing star, loves to sing. "I've always wanted to sing," the 5-foot-2 used to be to get people to listen," she says.

Although well-known at the time as a radio personality and hostess, the French-Canadian singer's big chance came about 12½ years ago. She was invited to sing with Percy Faith—another Canadian—and his orchestra on a big United States network show originating in New York.

Gisele says "Canadians sort of expect entertainers to move" to the United States or abroad "if they have the opportunity. They would be disappointed, I think, if you didn't when you got the chance."

Attracted Attention

Oddly enough Percy Faith's offer came partly because of a show he saw in Canada. Leading entertainers from many countries were chosen to appear on the program. Gisele, one of the top names in radio and supper-clubs in her country, was invited to represent Canada.

Other stars of Canada during the same year and she appeared with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy and Morton Downey.

Then, back in Canada, came a "toil from the blue," an offer to go to Hollywood to appear on the network radio show Club 15 with Bob Crosby, brother of Bing. The sponsor took her without an audition after hearing hundreds of American vocalists.

Now established in Beverly Hills, Calif., Gisele has been making a personal appearance tour since last January. She played in several U.S. cities and in Ottawa, Montreal and at the top supper club dates on Toronto. From here she goes to New York to the Cotillion Room of the Hotel Pierre, considered one the continent.

After that she is to go on tour with Jack Benny starting in San Francisco.

Radio and popular records have made the six-foot-tall brunette violinist one of the best-known voices in the entertainment field. A recent recording of "Don't Let the Stars Get in Your Eyes," is in the hit class.

She was trained as a child to be a classical violinist and showed considerable promise.

Born in Winnipeg in 1927, one of five children of Dr. and Mrs. Georges Laflèche, she came to Toronto in 1941 as a scholarship violin student to the Royal Conservatory of Music. She played with the conservatory's symphony orchestra and, at 14, made a network performance with a classical symphony.

But singing always was her first voice. That and playing the piano, although she never has taken a lesson in either.

She might in 1945 she was spotted singing at a club date. Her discoverer, Bob Shuttleworth, later hired her for his orchestra and now is her personal manager. She has signed a contract with Music Corporation of America, one of the biggest agencies in the world.

For four years she was the star of a CBC program called "Meet Gisele." She made film shorts in Canada and appeared in supper clubs and at fashion shows and in some stage productions.

Completely bilingual, she is noted for her singing of French folk songs. One of these, "Le Plaire," in which she imitates the sound of the clop-clop of the horse's hooves, has become another of her hit records. She sings it at almost all her stage performances and it has become a trademark.

Her ambition is to visit France and England but she is waiting until she has a "big" record.

"There's no point to going over there until you have that big one," she said backstage at a Toronto theatre.

At the request of her Club 15 sponsor, she changed her professional name to MacKenzie, one of her family names.

"There's nothing continental or arty or poesy about me," she says. "My personality is frank and open, a typical Canadian or American girl and that's how I like it to be. Some people have suggested I become continental, but it's not my nature."

In London Show

June Grant, 26, formerly a Halifax newspaper reporter, plays a leading role in the London musical "Paint Your Wagon." Miss Grant came to Britain in the fall of 1950, hoping to break into London's Royal Opera Company after operatic training in Canada. She flitted in at radio and typing jobs and a few shows before landing the role in the hit show. —(CP Photo.)

Spring Offers Color Variety

Colors are varied for Spring, ranging from the go-with-everything neutrals to basic navy to pastels. In the neutral families, beige displaces gray as the most popular shade for Spring, offering a large diversity of colorings that include palest ivory, cream, putty, bamboo, seashell and "chewing gum," a greyed tone of beige.

Grey shows up most often in the very pale, or the charcoal shades. And the blue family includes the sky-bred pastels and bright bird-wing colors as well as navy.

Pastels of every color, including pale yellows, pinks and creams will be seen everywhere, especially with the important accent of patent leather accessories this Spring.

Luggage Goes Light This Spring

The problem of how to pack and how much to pack is as old as the history of travel itself. In the days of pre-jet propeller portage and plentiful skirts, leisurely trips by slow methods were the rule, but today's traveller wants to spend more time sightseeing than arranging her wardrobe which demands new fabrics, new luggage.

To answer the need are science's miracles in man-made fibres which wash and dry quickly, require no ironing, and pack without wrinkles. Stylists turn these fabrics into garments which may be 'dressed down' or 'dressed up' with simple accessories such as scarves, costume jewelry and flowers.

The traveller is no longer confronted with a list of clothing to cover everything from a suit for the trip to a dress for dinner, for often they are the same garment cleverly accessorized for each occasion.

Names on instruction tags now include such twisters as dynel, saran, dacron, orlon, nylon and blends of these and others with wool or cotton or rayon to provide the beauty or old favorites with the advantages of the new fibres.

To the traveller this means that she can go further unhampered by extra clothing to compensate for ultimate laundering or the fear of not having something fresh and clean always at hand.

Luggage, too, has undergone many changes, for it took two men to lift one pieces of baggage —even when it was unpacked! Cumbersome and awkward trunks have been replaced by attaché-cased and tapered cases and suiter bags, or the travelling garment bag for motor trips.

Heavy wood construction is out of the picture since light molded plywood and metal are used. Many luggage pieces have made way for fashion colors in everything from leathers to fabrics and textures and prints.

Concealed "bumper" edges absorb shock and hardware has been scaled down or recessed to guard against breaking. Interiors are waterproofed, and exteriors are washable with a damp cloth.

SURPRISE FOR SPRING

Jersey is the big surprise of the new season's collections and ensembles as well as dresses.

Umbrellas Sprout Flowers to Put Drama in Spring

Flowers are blooming everywhere this Spring, and they never looked newer than on the smart slim umbrella. A definite trend this season, they march in oversized bouquets with dramatic effect.

Posed at the top of the umbrella cover, costume flowers most often seen are lily-of-the-valley, roses, carnations, violets and hyacinths in natural colorings. With them are seen highly lacquered or clear handles, long, and elegant.

Canadian Actress Plays Earth Character in 'Paint Your Wagon'

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A buxom gal with a yen for men and money is the earthy character portrayed by Canadian actress June Grant in the London production of the Broadway success, "Paint Your Wagon."

Blonde, 26-year-old Miss Grant, born in Truro, N.S., and once a Halifax newspaper reporter, plays the lusty favored wife of a three-married Mormon, who brings both women to a gold-rush town where women are scarce. Here the Canadian actress volunteers to be "auctioned off" to a willing horde of would-be husbands.

The part gives Miss Grant plenty of scope for down-to-earth humor, and her talents as an opera singer prove useful in the catchy lyrics that help make the play.

Had Broadway Run

"Paint Your Wagon" is an American musical by the authors of "Brigadoon." After nine months on Broadway, it now is drawing packed houses to Her Majesty's Theatre in London's West End.

Miss Grant came to Britain in the fall of 1950, hoping to break into London's Royal Opera Company. She had just been awarded a two-year government scholarship for her operatic talents in Canada.

"I found, however, they were not waiting for an unknown arrive," she said. "But so far I've been lucky."

Miss Grant, who spent five years as a reporter for the Halifax Mail Star, brought to London $800 of her scholarship money and took lessons from an opera coach. At £2 a lesson, however, her money ran out fast.

After a spell of typing jobs, she landed a part in the ill-fated posthumous musical "Jassan," staged for the Festival of Britain in 1951. It lasted just three weeks and Miss Grant went back to typing. She also fixed radio and television jobs before starting a year's tour with a lesser opera company in July, 1951, singing lead parts in provincial audiences.

Toured Scotland

This ended in June, 1952, and she toured Scotland, singing Scots ballads and operatic pieces in such places as St. Andrews, Inverness and Greenock. In October she returned to London to find the first stage offers awaiting her, the best of which was "Paint Your Wagon".

Now she's all set for a long run, happy that being in London gives her a chance to continue operatic training.

Singing Star

Gisele MacKenzie, Winnipeg-born star of stage, radio and records, says she loves to sing. The trouble "used to be to get people to listen," she said. One of the top names in Canadian radio and stage she went to the United States 2½ years ago and has become a popular star there.

Lord and Master Has to Take His Turn at Sink

LONDON (CP)—The old saying about the Englishman's home being his castle may still hold good, but the lord and master often has to take his turn at the kitchen sink these days.

Gone are the times when incomes as low as £250 a year provided for a "living-in" domestic.

In an examination of the domestic situation, the Yorkshire Post concluded that resident domestic servants are "almost extinct" and added:

"Could there be any better illustration of the decline in upper-and-middle-class living standards which has occurred in the last 20 years—and, of course, more particularly since the war?"

Census figures show that although there were nearly 707,000 resident domestics in 1931, there were only 178,000 in 1951 and that 58,000 of these looked after one person.

The survivors of once-numerous domestic servant agencies feel their day is done.

They blame hard times, but more particularly the modern girl's preference for a regular office job.

Present-day domestics are choosy about employers and demand social amenities ranging from television to private sitting rooms.

For instance, clergymen's homes are said to be shunned because of the clergy's lower income. Doctor's homes involve too much door answering, old persons are "crotchety" and children are a bother. One agency official said he "quits frankly" felt sorry for persons hiring a maid these days.

Many of the wealthier families have gone to the continent for girls but the resultant problems of language and custom are aggravated by the tendency of the immigrants to acquire English husbands or other jobs.

COLOR BLOOMS AGAIN

Forsythia yellow, wedgewood blue, and rose and purple tones make a spring bouquet of bride's attendants.

Ties Reflect 'New Look' in Clothes

The new season's neckwear echoes the slim new fashions and men's ties are narrower. The trend sway from the flamboyant designs of yesteryear continues. There is a strong interest in ties featuring a single motif directly under the knot.

Striped reds continue in favor. But the resultant problems of language and custom are aggravated by the tendency of the Immigrants to acquire English husbands or other jobs.

COLORS GO SUBTLE

Colors in the new men's wearables show a trend to softer, more muted tones. Big splashy patterns give way to smaller, neater designs.

Irish Concert Attracts Large Crowd to Town

Picture highlighting St. Patrick's day was an Irish concert which attracted an overflow crowd to St. Gregory's hall last night. Chairman was assisted by A. A. Bonvie, production in charge of J. E. Armand and stage managed by Jack Walters. Sponsor was the Parent - Teachers Association of St. Gregory's R.C. Church.

A colorful thirty voices opened the rollicking program with a medley of Irish numbers, and throughout the program gave a variety of selections. They assisted various singers including Margaret Ryan in "When Irish Eyes are Smilin'," Miss Finnegan in "If I knock the L out of Kelly," Ted Armand in "Peggy O'Neil," Jack Walters in "Who Threw the Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder," Margaret Ryan and Marjorie Drexler in "My Wild Irish Rose" and Peggy in "McNamara's Band."

Soloists who gave Irish songs were Pete Preston, Jerry Mayer, James Cole, Don Maher, Betty Lou O'Brien, Rosemary Ryan, Fred Howes. Other numbers included piano solos by Bonnie Walters and Russ Attersley; tap dances, Molly and Susan Howell, Barbara King; trumpet solos Bob Smith; Irish jig, Elmer Gerow; guitar and song, Bill Cook; ballet, Elizabeth Williams; skit by Eileen Rogers and Mike Finnegan; piano duet, Bob Harrington and Bob Wright.

With a colorful background and costumes in keeping with the occasion the chorus proved a lively one and evoked spontaneous applause for each number.

Bearded Kikuyu Becomes Most Feared Mau Mau Terrorist in Kenya

By RONALD HATCHELOR

NYERI, Kenya (Reuters)—A 30-year-old, bearded Kikuyu with a missing middle finger on his left hand and a cowlick just this year scored across his left cheek has become the most feared Mau Mau terrorist in Kenya.

A former clerk in a dairy company here, Dedan Kimathi, alias Kimani, has assumed the role of the colony's public enemy No. 1 by the killing, or being responsible for the killing, of an estimated 53 Africans and Europeans since the declaration of the emergency last October.

For three months, the equivalent of a brigade of troops have been hunting the outlaw, believed to have his headquarters within 25 miles of the Queen's royal lodge at Sagana. So far, he has literally thumbed his nose at every attempt to nail him out and kill him.

Audacious, and cold - blooded, Dedan has inspired a dread and a respect among the Kikuyu of this Mau Mau-ridden area far beyond anything ever known in the past. His name has become a by-word for death and destruction.

According to police, Dedan, a former branch secretary of the Kenya African Union, began his Mau Mau activities long before the emergency.

He assembled a gang and settled down to a systematic plan of eliminating known "loyalists" and government sympathizers among his own tribe.

A skilled woodsman and tracker, Dedan gradually organized his small force into a guerilla band which struck at night in the African reserves, killing, pillaging and burning.

Top Killer

Dedan's first big killing—and the one which placed him in the category of top Mau Mau killers—was the murder of Chief Nderi, senior Kikuyu chief of Nyeri reserve, just 24 hours after the emergency was declared last Oct. 21. Nderi was one of the three senior Kikuyu chiefs appointed by the government to rule over the 1,200,000 Kikuyus and his murder slashed the government's hold on the tribe like a razor blade.

Hidden in the almost impenetrable bamboo forest, Dedan is slowly, but surely, being pinned down by government forces.

Each raid he is forced to make in search of food becomes more risky for him.

Recently he ordered his followers to drop his real name. He has styled himself "General Russia," even going so far as to wear shoulder boards with crudely drawn insignia on them to denote his rank.

Police in his district have found and captured "dispatches" from Dedan signed "General Russia" addressed to another Mau Mau chief leader operating in south Nyeri reserve. This leader is referred to by Dedan as "General China."

These "despatches" have been devoted almost entirely to bragging accounts of the two "generals" exploits. Dedan has bragged that he now commands an "army" of thousands, equipped with machine guns, grenades and even howitzers.

MUSKRATS PLENTIFUL

MEAFORD, Ont. (CP)—Trappers preparing for the muskrat season which opens March 20 to April 21 reported muskrats should be plentiful in the Georgian Bay area. Many young muskrats were spotted last summer.

RAWDON

WEATHER BALLOON FOUND

Rawdon—Recently Mr. Burton Wrightman found a weather outfit on the farm of his father, Mr. Milford Wrightman, third concession Rawdon. This mechanical apparatus looked much like a small radio with an inverted parachute and balloon on top. According to information recorded on the outfit it had been sent on its mission that day and had been released when it was at a distance of 13 miles in the air from Buffalo, New York. Burton returned the contraption per instructions to Joliette, Illinois, with full particulars as required.

It is reported that some time ago another weather outfit was found in Seymour township.

Low in Favor Of Exporting Surplus Gas

OTTAWA (CP)—Solon Low, Social Credit leader, suggested Tuesday it is "silly" to refuse permission to export surplus natural gas to the United States while waiting to see if a trans-Canada pipeline is economically feasible to feed the Eastern Canadian gas market.

Mr. Low, from Alberta's oil-rich Peace River constituency, said the Social Credit government of his province has a "Canada first" policy along with the federal government. But it was determined that Alberta producers would get a fair return for any exported gas which would encourage further development of the province's oil resources.

He is not convinced, he told the Commons, that an all-Canadian line economically feasible because of the distance, high cost of construction and of maintenance. Cheaper gas might be supplied the Ontario market from Alberta through a pipeline going part of its distance through the United States.

The pipeline discussion occurred during consideration of a private bill to incorporate Mid-Continent Pipelines, Ltd. The company plans a pipeline from Alberta to Winnipeg and "then to Eastern Canada" over an undetermined route. Critics of the proposal have suggested the company plans to pipe gas into the United States.

The bill made no progress during the hour devoted to consideration of private legislation.

Leafs Live To Fight Another Battle; Edge Chicago Hawks By 4-3 Score

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

IN THE BAG!

A plucky, courageous bevy of fast-skating, hard-checking youngsters wearing the uniform of the Dixie Flashers, bowed to superior weight and ability here last night when the Black Hawks defeated the Flash Hollett-coached crew 7-1 in the first of their best of seven Junior "B" quarter finals.

The Dixie youngsters, looking more like a Juvenile squad, had plenty of fight and despite the score were battling like little demons when the final whistle blew. In fact if it had not been for one "Turk" Barclay in the Hawks' net, the margin of difference would not have been what it was.

The boys from Dixie appear to be a well-coached crew, with several stick-handling specialists. Their passing was good but the Hawks' heavy body checking slowed up a lot of their offensives.

The Hawks came up with a fine performance and deserved the victory. They were, boring in too close for the kill in the first period and missed several chances at the goalmouth. They rapped home five counters in the second period, all clean-cut goals, and were held to one counter in the third heat when the Dixiemen drove in furiously in an attempt to reduce the margin.

The third line of the Hawks, Hermisse, Brant and Casey, came up with an outstanding performance, especially the first two. Hermisse scored a pretty solo goal and Brant rapped home another and was generally the spark plug slot on a second tally. Hank Therrien was flying all night. The Webster brothers, especially Bruce, the diminutive Fish swinger, looked the best for Dixie, along with Mitchell on the defence. Clements, in the nets, came up with some remarkable saves from the flying Hawks. The teams play in Dixie Saturday night.

SOFTBALL CONFAB!

This evening in the city hall council chambers the moguls and oilers of the Belleville District Softball League go into annual conclave, and much may result from the get-together.

The league, at least, can look back with justifiable pride on its 1952 achievements. It produced the first all-Ontario championship and sent several of its representative teams into the OASA playdowns with varying degrees of success. It was a good season all round, especially in the minor division.

Proof of the modern operandi of the young fry is seen in the fact that the Oshawa Fire Department adopted the system used by Fire Chief Gerald Vance and his merry, men and that in itself is a feather in the "smoke-eaters'" caps. There are, and should be, proud of it.

Last year the league decided to expand itself and take in teams from the district. The Wooler and Frankford teams entered, and reports have it, enjoyed a good season. So good in fact that the other day representatives of these squads contacted President Don Lee and expressed their entire satisfaction with the way the loop was operated and the reception they received from the league and its city members. Both hoped they would be permitted to enter again this year.

The league will elect or appoint its slate of officers for the coming season at tonight's conclave. President Don Lee has stated he will not run for office after several years as boss-man of the league, and who has been a booster of softball to the fifth stains it holds in city sports today.

Just who his successor will be is not known. Certain names have been "on the grapevine" as being in line for the post, principal among which is that of the league secretary, Cy Barriage.

Cy, in this department's opinion, would make a good president. Heaven knows he has the background. One of the veterans of the game in this city, Cy has pushed the ball around the smaller diamond since he was knee high to the proverbial grasshopper, in between seasons when he wasn't playing hockey for Ed. Thomas. He has played on many senior teams in the city and was a member of the Percival Steco team that won a provincial title away back in the mid-thirties.

THIS IS IT!

The Battle of the Villages starts its final phase in Memorial Arena tonight when the Frankford Lions, fresh from their "kill" of last Monday night, clash in the fifth and final game of the Trent Valley League southern section finals with the Dukes of Wellington. And the Dukes had better come up with a better exhibition than they displayed on Monday or it will be Waterloo in reverse. The Lions tasted Wellington blood, but plenty, the other eve and they'll be drooling for more tonight. The winner meets Campbellford for the league championship and the Stein trophy.

Down Two Goals in 1st Period They Roar Back to Snatch Win; Boston Bruins Virtually 'In'

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

At the first intermission, the spectators could have been forgiven if they concluded that Toronto Maple Leafs had decided to go quietly to the National Hockey League sidelines.

Needing a victory to preserve their last chance for a playoff spot, the Leafs were trailing Chicago Black Hawks 2-0 and had been outshot seven shots at the visiting goalkeeper.

But between periods, someone must have convinced the Leafs that they had a chance. Outskooting their opponents 25-10 over the last two periods, they worked their way to a 3-2 lead, watched the Hawks tie it up once, then rallied again to take a 4-3 decision.

Having lived to fight another day, the Leafs left Montreal at midnight to try their luck against the Canadiens. A victory could haul them up within two points of the fourth-place Hawks, with both clubs having two games to play.

Meanwhile Boston Bruins virtually nailed down their playoff spot by defeating the Rangers 3-1 at New York. Even if they drop their remaining three games, their worst possible finish would be a fourth-place tie.

Sid Smith was the hero of the Leaf comeback, firing two important goals. The first, in the second period, tied the score and the second, with less than five minutes left in the game, put his club the victory. Rookies Gord Hamilton and Ron Stewart set the other Toronto markmen.

George Gee and Jim Peters gave the Hawks their early lead and Gerry Couture counted in the third period.

The Bruins sewed up their decision against the Rangers when Milt Schmidt and Johnny Peirson tallied in the opening frame. The best the Rangers could do in reply was a goal by defenceman Leo Boivin during the dying minutes.

The Bruins can make sure of their playoff berth by defeating the front-running Red Wings at Detroit tonight. The Rangers, Canadiens are assured of finishing one-two in the final standings.

Windsor Ousted By Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Hi-Aces Wednesday night eliminated Windsor, Ont., AKO from the Canadian basketball playdown, although losing the second game of their two-game totalPoint Eastern Canada junior quarter-final series 59-55. The Montrealers edged last year's Canadian junior finalists 114-113 to take the round.

Coach Doug Potvin and his Hi-Aces will play in Saint John, N.B., Friday and Saturday and the winner of that series will travel to Halifax to play for the eastern crown.

John Thompson was the big gun for the Hi-Aces with 21 points, while team-mate Phil Fiorucci scored 15. For Windsor Mike Ubrin potted 18 points.

Milwaukee Braves Improved, Club

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Braves of Milwaukee and Boston should be a vastly improved club this year.

The impression one gets after watching manager Charlie Grimm send his charges through a few weeks of spring drills is that the Braves are not rate with the big boys in the National League, but they will have more than a little to say about the pennant race.

There is plenty of optimism in the camp of the downtrodden Braves, who finished seventh last year and played before fewer than 300,000 people at Boston. That cost owner Lou Perini about $800,000.

There is no doubt they are a better team this year and look good enough to climb a couple of notches.

"We definitely are strengthened" said Grimm, who relieved Tommy Holmes as skipper in the middle of last season.

"We have plugged the two spots where we were weakest last year by purchasing Andy Pafko from Brooklyn to play right field and obtaining Joe Adcock from Cincinnati to play first base."

Pierre Langlois Decisions Dykes

DALLAS (AP)—Pierre Langlois won a unanimous 10-round decision over Bobby Dykes of San Antonio Wednesday night.

The husky-haired Frenchman won the decision with his eternal boring-in tactics and his general aggressiveness. The squatty young man from Port-Audenemr, France, thus remained undefeated as a middleweight. It was his fourth decision in his class.

Langlois is ranked No. 4 in the U.S. while Dykes holds the No. 9 rating.

Langlois weighed 161½ pounds, Dykes 154½.

A crowd of more than 3,300 paid $16,000 to see the fight. Each fighter received 25 per cent of the gate and also about $3,000 each for television on the nationally-televised bout.

Joe Dunphy Still in There

TORONTO (CP)—Dominic Senese, St. Catharines regional champions, Wednesday night set a record for Ontario five pin bowling championship tournament play with a score of 1,290. The previous record was 1,278 set by John Turcsanyi of Hamilton.

Two more teams were dropped Wednesday night from the competition being held at the Sportsman's alleys. They were Leslie Wilson of Toronto with 1,236 and Turcsanyi with 1,114.

Senese meets Tommy Mallon of Toronto with 1,285 tonight. Murph Chamberlain of Ottawa, with a score of 1,283, meets Joe Dunphy of Kingston, who bowled 1,281.

Two more players were dropped competition will play off Saturday in two shifts of five games each for the championship.

National League Owners OK Braves Shift to Milwaukee

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Boston Braves, a charter member of the National League, shifted to Milwaukee Wednesday in the first change in the major league baseball line-up in 50 years.

The transfer, requested by owner Louis Perini after several losing seasons in Boston, was approved unanimously by owners of the seven other National League clubs.

The American Association, whose territory was invaded by the major league, also gave its consent. The Milwaukee franchise, owned by the Braves and operated by them for the last several years as a farm club, was transferred to Toledo, now "open" territory.

The changes will become effective with the opening of the two league seasons next month.

The Milwaukee club, to be known as the Milwaukee Braves, will become one of the western clubs of the National League, taking over the schedule previously drawn up for Pittsburgh Pirates. Pittsburgh will move into the eastern schedule, assuming Boston's schedule.

The 1953 all-star game, previously scheduled to be played at Braves field July 14, was awarded to Cincinnati.

The National League's action was opposite to that of the American League, which refused Monday to permit Bill Veeck to shift St. Louis Browns to Baltimore.

The circumstances were different, however. Perini already owned the Milwaukee franchise and presented plans by which the move could be made with little difficulty. Veeck's proposal was to move into a city where he had no established connections and where he would have to start from scratch less than a month before the opening of the season.

Hawks Defeat Dixie 7-1 To Take 1st Game Junior B Playdowns

Nearly 1,400 View Fast Game; Five Goals in Second Period Put Tilt on Ice for Winners

By JOHN GOODFELLOW

Belleville Black Hawks gunned their way to an impressive victory in the first game of their best-of-seven quarter final OHA junior "B" series with Dixie Flyers here at the Memorial Arena Wednesday night by downing the visitors 7-1 before 1,350 roaring fans.

For two periods Fleah Hollett's crew from the Toronto area skirted on even terms with the Cook-Barrettmen. But in the other period, the second, they were properly clobbered, the Hawks ringing up five goals without a reply. That terrific 30 minutes made the difference.

The Hawks started flying from the opening whistle and before the game was a minute old, Halstead took Hull's pass at the enemy defence, dsked goalie Terry Clements, but hit the post.

Hank Therrien, a standout all night, set up the first Belleville counter at 3.38. The pride of Chapleau fumbled the puck at his own defence and swung down centre. As he split the Dixie defence he lost control of the puck, but Pat Gilmour, speeding down the left boards, raced in to whistle the biscuit past Clements.

Goalies Good

Goalies Barclay and Clements pulled off respective feats of magic before Dixie tied it up at 17.14. Loose defensive play by the Hawks was responsible for this marker. Pete Boncardo grabbed a loose puck 20 feet out and drilled it at Barclay. Before the Turk could smother the rebound, Bill Copeland tore in to shove the biscuit home.

The Hawks waited for almost four minutes of the second period before going on their real scoring spree. Doug Hull got the party under way by taking Jacklin's pass inside the Dixie defence and sinking a sizzling backhander into the far corner.

Ray Hermiston upey-daisied the tally to 3-1 at 8.27, scoring the prettiest goal of the evening. Sitting's gift to the Hawks took Pete Green's pass just inside the Dixie blue line and waltzed in on goal to fake Clements out of his shirt before putting the trigger. Sherman Brant was also in on the play.

Brant made it 4-1 five minutes later. It was the recently-acquired juvenile's first marker as a junior and it was a good one. John Casey did the manual labor on the effort, battling two Flatbacks along the boards for the puck before slipping a perfect pass to his linemate at the edge of the crease. Brant made no mistake.

Have We Go

Davey Jones, with plenty of help, took over to score two goals a minute to break the within a minute to break the hearts of the visitors. He got the first by slapping in Jerry Goyer's waist-high smokey from the blue line. Jacklin notched second by pumping home Therrien's pass from behind the Dixie net. Goyer started this play.

Both teams played it close throughout the third period and it was the Hawks who got the only tally of the frame. Jones was the payoff man, taking a Jones pass and walking in from the right to snap in a backhander that just caught the corner.

The Hawks, as a club, came up with a top effort. Jones led the pack with two goals. Sherrien was really moving, as was Hull. Halstead and Jacklin turned in steady games. The checking line of Brant, Casey and Hermiston did all that was expected along those lines and came up with two goals besides. The defence was solid, although as a unit it had much difficulty clearing the puck from in front of hard bodychecks. Goyer, with a goal and two assists, was effective both ways. Barclay almost stole the show.

Clements, Boncardo and the Webster boys were best for the losers.

The lineups:

Dixie—Goal, Clements; defence Bain and Mitchell; centre, Courtney; wings, Gibband Bedford. Alternates—Clements, V. Webster, Boncardo, B. Webster, Reynolds.

Belleville Hawks—Goal, Barclay; defence, Sicoco and Goyer; centre, Halstead; wings, Jacklin and Hull. Alternates—Green, Delbosco, Brant, Jones, Therrien, Gilmour, Hermiston, Casey and Russell.

Nothing Wrong With 'Rocky' Says Trainer

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—There are those who think heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano is training too hard for his title bout with Jersey Joe Walcott April 10 in Chicago.

These critics think Rocky is "too fine," despite the fact the champion went through a brisk workout Wednesday.

They say he started training too early—light work started Jan. 6 in New York—and he may be stale by the time April 10 rolls around.

But the two men whose business it is to see that such a thing doesn't happen—manager Al Weill and trainer Charlie Goldman—only smile.

"How can you be too far ahead?" asks Goldman sarcastically, and then answers his own question:

"Sure, if you're forcing a boy by taking off a lot of weight, and then trying to keep him there maybe you can be too fine. But with Rocky, it's different. He can put on weight and take it off in a hurry."

Weill nodded agreement and went on:

"Of course Rocky has his bad days, but so what, everybody has 'em, don't they? There are no decisions here. The point is, he's out there working and getting ready. That's what counts."

"About that long training business," interrupted Goldman. "Rocky depends on condition to back up that wallop of his. He likes to train."

Bears Clinch Playoff Berth

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears clinched a place in the playoffs of the American Hockey League by blanking St. Louis Flyers 1-0 Wednesday night.

The victory assured the Bears of at least fourth place in the league race. At the same time the loss took away from the Flyers their last chance to gain a place in the play-offs.

Otie O'Brien scored the lone goal for the Bears mid-way in the first period.

Late in the final period Jake Forbes, the Flyers coach, was banished first for a tripping penalty and then ordered his objections to referee Jerry Olinkl in such strong words that he was sent to the showers.

Barrie Flyers Blank Marlies, Take Game Lead

BARRIE (CP)—Barrie Flyers scored the only goals of the game in the third period to edge Toronto Marlboros 1-0 here Wednesday night and take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-nine game Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final playoff.

Doug McKay broke the scoreless deadlock at the 10:47 mark of the final frame and that goal stood to send Barrie ahead once again in the series, originally a best-of-seven set.

The next game will be played at Toronto Saturday.

McKay's goal came after he took the puck up the ice, passed over to Don McKenney in front of goalie John Henderson of Marlboros and then took it back again to slap in one of the prettiest goals of the season.

With Ingram in the penalty box on an elbowing charge, Marlies pulled Henderson out of the nets with one minute to go, but they couldn't tie the count.

It was the second shutout the Flyers have handed the Marlboros in the series.

The Marlboros took the offensive from the faceoff in the first period and were pushing hard all through the frame. At one time they were two men short but the Flyers still couldn't break through the Toronto defence. Bill Harrington was a standout in the nets for Barrie, stopping 12 shots in the first period, most of them sizzlers.

In the second period Barrie had a slight edge and again had the advantage in penalties, but the Toronto defence coupled with Henderson's netminding proved too tough.

Introducing DRIVERIZED DESIGN in the COMPLETELY NEW FORD economy TRUCKS for '53

ALL-NEW DRIVERIZED CABS

Here . . . now! All-new economy way for '53—the greatest Ford Trucks of all time—Driverized, for the first time, a completely-new idea in truck engineering—Driverized Design. Now, at last, here are trucks specifically designed and built to increase driver efficiency . . . to get jobs done faster! With this entirely new principle of design and all-new time-saving features, Ford Trucks take the lead again in providing new hauling economy!

Driverized Design has developed the greatest advance in truck cab comfort . . . Driverized Design combines shorter wheelbases, wider front tread and new brakes for greater manoeuvrability, shorter turning radius and better control. With Driverized Design, Ford Trucks offer the greatest choice of Synchro-Silent transmissions in any line!

For 1953, Ford Economy Trucks present a greatly expanded line . . . 8 new models . . . 17 wheelbases . . . with a range that runs from G.V.W.'s of 4,000 lbs. to G.C.W.'s of 55,000 lbs. With over 100 models and a choice of four great V-8 engines, there's a Ford Economy Truck that's right for your job . . . to save time—cut costs—last longer. See your Ford Truck Dealer!

Fleetside cab on the road . . . with every hauling advantage to make hauling more comfortable—safer—more efficient! New one-piece curved windshield is 25% bigger—has extra-broad rear window . . . new larger side windows with sills at same-car height. New wider seat—new counter-shock seat number! New wider doors! New curved instrument panel! New heating and ventilating system! New interior trims! New rugged hardware throughout! Choice of standard or Deluxe Cabs!

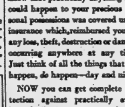
ALL-NEW DRIVERIZED TRANSMISSIONS

Now—the widest choice of transmissions ever offered in any line! New Synchro-Silent Transmissions standard on all models. "Double-clinching" eliminated—"down-shifting" is easier, safer! Choice of 5-speed Direct Drive or Overdrive Transmissions on "Big Job" Series! Choice of five transmissions on Series F-100 including smooth, thrifty Overdrive and Fordomatic Drive!

ALL-NEW DRIVERIZED MANOEUVRABILITY

Ford's new 4-inch shorter wheelbases and new, wider front tread offers greater manoeuvrability, shorter turning on all models—provides easier handling—faster, time-saving operation. With the new front axle location, driver sits in the comfort zone where the riding qualities are finest.

V-8 POWERED for PERFORMANCE



Four great V-8 engines, including the new, thrifty "Cargo King" V-8's for Ford Truck "Big Jobs" . . . famed for performance and dependable hauling. Truck-built and engineered by the leader in V-8 engines with further advancements for a longer lifetime of low-cost, rugged service. High sustained torque output . . . big reserves . . . traditional Ford thriftiness with Power Pilot Economy in every model to save on every mile.

The Kibitzer

When competition in bridge is tough, the road to ruin is paved with the best intentions. As often south and north were vulnerable and east-west were not in this deal:

NORTH
♠A 9 4 2
♥ None
♦A Q 5 3
♣Q 5 4 2

WEST — EAST

♠None — ♠Q 7 6 5
♥Q 9 8 7 4 — ♥A K 10
♦10 8 7 6 — ♦J 9 4
♣10 9 3 — ♣K J 8

SOUTH
♠K J 10 8 3
♥J 6 5 3 2
♦K

When north and south reached six spades, east doubled eagerly. East had not opened his mouth up to then. He had been sitting there with a heavy hand waiting for opportunity to get revenge.

However, south redoubled the east double of six spades and east began to have his doubts. South could have a very freak hand and it might be just screwy enough to nullify the east big cards.

Fearing he had made a bad double, east took himself in hand with a bid of six no-trump. He knew this would not make. He knew he never in might be doubled for penalty.

But his side was not vulnerable. The sacrifice, he figured would not be as bad as the amount the other side would get if they made a slam redoubled. He could not take the chance.

North could have doubled six no-trump, knowing it would go down. But he refused to let opponents off with a sacrifice. After all, he stopped to consider, there is nothing that says it is impossible for us to make seven. We might as well try for a grand slam, he mused.

So, north bid seven spades and relied on his expert partner to find some way of making it. If he lost his shirt doing it, east would not make doubling seven spades, and north redoubled.

The double of a slam by east was also a signal that asked partner to lead the first suit bid by partner. Therefore, the opening lead from west was his ten of clubs.

When dummy hand went down, declarer in south rose not very happy about what he saw. But if had possibilities and he went to work on it, the line of play is obvious. All it needs is courage.

Wins Dog Title

TORONTO (CP) — Cairndonia Fragis Ex Ellen owned by Mrs. G. W. Hyslop of Brockville placed first of cairn terriers bred by exhibitor in the dog show at the Canadian National Sportsman's Show Wednesday. The show drew more than 900 entries.

Cairndonia Kelmit's Fionna, owned by Mrs. Hyslop, won the cairn terrier bitch class, bred by exhibitor.

In the open cairn terrier class, Mrs. Hyslop's Redleier Miaidh won first.

Hi Tom's Golden Brandy, owned by Col. A. Earchman, Fraserville, took first place for Canadian-bred wire-haired fox terriers.

BROWNS SELL BEARDEN

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gene Bearden, southpaw hurler of St. Louis Browns, has been sold to Chicago White Sox for an amount in excess of the waiver price, the Browns said Wednesday. The 32-year-old Bearden won seven and lost eight, appearing in 34 games for the Browns last season.

SIGN FOR TITLE BOUT

BOSTON (AP)—World champion Jimmy Carter and Tommy Collins of Boston signed Wednesday to fight for the lightweight boxing crown here April 24. Details were not disclosed but Carter was assured of a rematch in the event he should lose. A $200,000 gate is expected.

Movie Column

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If Academy awards can be doped like horse races, Shirley Booth and Gary Cooper should be crowned the best actress and actor at Thursday night's Oscar sweepstakes.

On the basis of past performances in other races this year, Cooper and Miss Booth are the heavy favorites. The pair has won more honors in the pre-Academy awards circuit than any other duo in recent years. Usually the awards are scattered among a number of contenders.

So far, the Broadway actress has been honored six times for her performance as the housewife in "Come Back, Little Sebe." No other film actress has received more than one award this year.

Cooper, the lovable law enforcer of "High Noon" walked off with five citations.

Closest contender is Ralph Richardson ("Breaking the Sound Barrier"). He won three awards but he isn't nominated for an Oscar this year.

Thursday night's event will be the most elaborate in the 25-year history of the Motion Picture Academy. Three studios withdrew financial support, and the academy sent out an S O S for a TV-radio sponsor.

RCA-Victor answered the call, plunking down $100,000 for the rights.

This year the academy was faced with an alarming dearth of the top contenders would be on hand for the awards' presentations at the Santages Theatre.

Among the top actress nominees, Miss Booth is in a New York play, Bette Davis ("The Star") has undergone surgery following the closing of her Broadway show, Jo Harris ("Member of the Wedding") has been tied up with a play, but is expected to be in Hollywood, and Audrey Hepburn ("Sabrina Song In My Heart") took off for a European vacation.

Only Anna Magnani of ("Sudden Fear") is expected to attend the Hollywood-and-Vine festivities.

Of the male contenders, Cooper is making a film in Mexico, and Kirk Douglas ("The Bad and the Beautiful") is filming in France. Alec Guinness ("The Lavender Hill Mob") is in his native England, and Jose Ferrer ("Cyrano Bergac") has been overseeing his theatrical ventures in New York.

Marlon Brando ("Viva Zapata!") is the sole male star nominee making a picture in Hollywood. He hates formal events and says he won't attend.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—St. Louis Browns may not go anywhere except back to St. Louis after the current turmoil subsides, but there will be nothing fanatical about their play as long as they have Clint Courtney, the 1953 rookie of the year, catching for them.

He's still a throwback to the old-time, hard-boiled fighter who liked to keep a keen edge on his spikes.

"How how do you think you're going to do?" he demanded at the outset, a month ago, of his new boss. "You think we haven't got pitching? I tell you this much, it'll be better than we got with that bunch of bums we had last year. It couldn't be worse. We're liable to show you something.

"Who do I think will win it? Well, I guess maybe you've got to say them Yanks, long as they've got that Mickey Mantle out there. I've had words with him in Kansas City and I could've told 'em they wouldn't miss DiMaggio. I see they're worrying whether Phil Rizzuto will be able to play and all the ways. They can quit worrying. That little sucker will be in there."

At least one magnate out this way doubts that general manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox made such a great move in signing his new first baseman, Vern Stephens, to an eyeclaw contract in which the veteran will be rewarded for playing in a certain number of games.

When Stephens balked at the contract offered him—it called for a healthy cut of the salary paid him by Boston in 1954—Lane reasoned—Lane induced him to sign by promising an extra $2,000 if he played in as many as 100 games and $2,000 for 120 games. Stephens appeared in only 92 for Boston last year, when he was hampered by a bad knee.

"Frank might find himself in an awkward position before the season is over," opined a rival official, who requested anonymity.

"What if the Sox are out of the race a week before it ends and want to try out some rookie infielders and Stephens is only two or three games shy of that final $3,000? Will Stephens decide whether he plays third, or will manager Paul Richards?"

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. ... April 19 (Aries)—Get work, chores, obligations done well, as promptly and speedily as circumstances permit. But within, take some time to relax.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Go more than half way to meet advantages, and you will achieve success before you realize. Carry tact and good humor with you.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—A bright start is fine, but be sure this doesn't stimulate you to move too quickly, overlooking useful little things. Grand aspects all told; you should gain.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Generous aspects. "Never-say-die" can be most helpful motto applied rightly. But it can result in over-insistence if you are not guarded. Use self-control!

July 24 to Aug. 23 (Leo)—Extremes are likely tempters now. Don't go off the beam, with undue exuberance, neither with inclination at times of laziness. Good day for essentials.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Canalizes can be a relaxing virtue. Apply it carefully to such instructions and impressions as are imposed now. Extra caution urged in signing contracts, etc.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—When you hear, heed, when you see, recognize. And when you act, let it be to the highest standards. Libra's natural goals. Extra care in promises, agreements! Cover, possible.

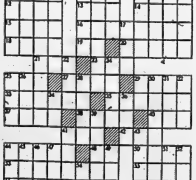
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Friendly day on whole but you will have to exercise adroitness, patience and consistency if you are to get results you desire.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Not an easy going now but there are opportunities for the thoughtful go-getter, one who won't be stumped by a few obstacles or competition.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn in "be careful" column today, especially for you handling machinery, vehicles, chemicals. The unusual should prove beneficial, bring gain.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your planet Uranus in one of the few in very good configuration now. This should instill greater ambition, will get you farther faster.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Mild indications improving day and week. Monday now is very promising. Plan cautiously with this in mind. Carry now increases benefits later.



IF YOU BORN TODAY: Amiable, imaginative, great intuition and patience are but a few of your attributes. Self-effacement and lack of appraising your own ability properly can be blinding faults, could keep you from reaching the top. Study, show the world your capability and God-given talents. Don't fear ridicule, speak up! Is Birthdate: Henrik Ibsen, great dramatist; Sir Isaac Newton, discoverer of gravity; Chas. W. Eliot, famed educator.

RAWDON

River Valley W.I. Holds 6th Euchre

RAWDON. — The sixth of this year's series of euchre parties was held at the school house on Friday evening, under the auspices of River Valley Women's Institute. About 25 guests were in attendance from Menie, Wellman's, Trenton, Mountain, Pleasant and Stirling.

There were 14 tables in play and the prizes were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Reasman.

The awards were: ladies' high, Mrs. G. B. Bedford; 2nd, Mrs. Henry Farrell. Gentlemen's high, Douglas Kane; 2nd, Percy MacMullen.

Sandwiches, pickles, cake and tarts were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen extended a welcome to the visitors on behalf of R.W.I. and voiced thanks to the donors of the prizes.

There will be three more parties to complete this series.

The euchre party, March 20, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reasman, Mrs. Ina Free and Mr. Harry Hesaman as conveners for party and prizes.

On Wednesday evening, March 25, "A Five Hundred" party and the closing euchre party for the season on Friday evening, March 27.

The Institute year closes March 31, and the annual meeting is being held on Thursday, April 2, at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Mowbray, when the new slate of officers will accept office.

The president, Mrs. Edward Reasman, the secretary, Mrs. J. L. Donohoe and the entertainment committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Bob Philp, have had a busy year.

THOMASBURG

THOMASBURG. — The service in the Thomasburg United Church Sunday, conducted by the joint staffs of Moira and Thomasburg schools, was well attended. The children's choir accompanied by Pauline Holbert on the piano, was much appreciated.

Mr. Boyd Moncrieff had charge of the devotional portion of the service and Mr. Fred Wells gave the address. Much credit is due the teachers and pupils for this very fine service.

The play "Look Out Lizzie", presented on Monday in the I.O.O.F. hall by the Friendship Club of Sulphide, was much enjoyed. The audience was kept in gales of laughter. Miss Shirley Meyers with a reading, Mr. B. Moorcroft, a solo and community singing with Mr. F. Porter as accompanist, appreciably filled the intermission time.

Friends of Mr. Allan Jones were sorry to hear of his removal to Belleville Hospital last week. His condition is somewhat serious.

Funeral services were held for the late Mr. James Chalk from the Thomasburg United Church, Friday, the four days after his elder brother, Mr. John F. Chalk. Interment was in the Thomasburg Cemetery.

Mr. Wm. Yeteman is under the doctor's care. All wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. F Hosking and baby, Gail, were week-end guests at the Richardson home

It was just a dusty attic a few days ago

Just a few days and surprisingly few dollars are all you need to build an extra room in your attic. Finish off the walls and ceiling with Armstrong's Temlok Tile and Plank, and you're ready to move in. Temlok is a sturdy fibreboard that builds, decorates, insulates at the same time. It helps to keep out winter cold and summer heat. Temlok has a smooth, factory-applied paint surface. It's a quick, easy material to install.

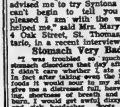
Got Relief From Weak, Nervous, Upset Stomach

"Am Surprised How Quickly Syntona Helped Me," Says This Woman. Now Real Relieved of Headaches, and Dizzy Spells, "Backache Gone, Sleep Well, More Energy."

A few weeks ago when I was feeling very miserable a friend advised me to try Syntona and I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am with the way it helped me," said Mrs. Mary Bell, 4 Oak Street, St. Thomas, Ontario, in a recent interview.

Stomach Very Bad

"I was troubled so much with stomach disorders that for other day I didn't care whether I lived or died. My stomach was very tight and I couldn't would sometimes nearly give me a distressed full, heavy feeling, shortness of breath and heartburn. I would get awful dizzy spells and sick headaches. Spots danced before my eyes, my tongue was coated and my nerves were so on edge that I almost screamed at times. I had backache and aches and pains in my limbs, back and shoulders.



Syntona Acted Quickly

"After I started using Syntona it wasn't very long until I noticed some improvement. In a few weeks time it all the good qualities of my stomach gradually cleared up. Now my appetite is back, have practically no distress afterwards and I am rid of that terrible feeling of nervousness. My nerves are calmed down, too, and I sleep like a baby at night. My color is also beautiful now and I am so feel so well again. I have already told many people about Syntona and will recommend it to any one."

May Help You, Too

Syntona is believed to help many people in this way that any one suffering from similar troubles should make a mistake not to try it. Obtain from your druggist today. Many grateful and many satisfied users have completed with the results it gives.

Syntona is on sale and recommended in Belleville by Dolan, the Druggist.

Search For a Hero

By Thomas Hal Phillips

"He told me something about it."

"Did he?" I would have felt better if he hadn't told her anything.

"You're mad because of last week?"

"I'm not."

"Oh, what a little ming you've got! It's only to an athletic banquet, and with your brother. Are you going to tell me not to go?"

"You can go wherever you want to go with your friend."

"There's Irish in you. Oh, yes, I can see it. Now ask me if I love you. Go on and ask me."

"I don't want to know."

"Mother!" She turned around and looked toward the small office where her mother was. "Don doesn't want to know whether I love him."

I whispered, "Leave your mother out of this."

"Don said to leave you out of man first."

"Your friend said you said the French grades were up. I'm on my way to see."

I went out of the shop and started up the walk toward the schoolhouse. I walked slowly, because I hoped that she would follow me; she lived in that direction. But she was time to close the store. Then I heard her. I slowed a little more and she drew even with me.

"What a shame you don't walk home with your mother," I said.

"You didn't walk home with your father."

"I've got reasons."

We caught hands and walked on to the schoolhouse, without saying any more. When we reached the school fountain, I said, "Are you going to kiss me good night?"

"It's not night yet."

"It soon will be. Just one."

"No."

"Okay. You know it doesn't matter to me. It comes close, but that's all." I started off, and then I stopped and looked back at her. "Let me go in and see the grades, and when I come out, it'll be night."

She made a little popping sound with her lips only the French can do it. She was wailing.

"Everything is all right once again?" I said.

"Oh, you—"

"And you love me?"

"Yes . . ."

"Not just a little, but very, very much?"

"Yes . . ."

III

I hurried into the schoolhouse and into Miss Brammon's room. Her examination grades were always the last to be posted, because her papers were graded by a French teacher in Corinth. That procedure, she said, insured complete impartiality in the grading. But we all knew she didn't grade the papers because she could hardly see. She was always getting me and Wallace and William mixed up. The list, tacked to the corner of the blackboard, was typed in alphabetical order. At a glance I saw that three names were underlined. I had done all right; William had passed, but poor Wallace. The red line beneath his name was drawn precisely, no doubt with a ruler.

I hurried out of the fountain. But Meb was gone.

I went to the back door of our house, because the back door was nearer; but when I heard Papa and Wallace and William in the kitchen, laughing, I went around to the front door, through the living room.

At exactly the right minute I would walk into the middle of the celebration and let it be known how well Wallace had done. It would give me no pain, though it was somewhat the cause of his flunking. Right after the football season—our senior year—William asked me to help him catch up with second-year algebra. He reminded me, cleverly, that I had passed it when I was a sophomore with only one mistake on all the monthly exams. But for some reason (maybe he was not clever enough), I set out to give him a piece of my mind, I said. "You just tell me one small reason that I should help you and I'll do every one of your problems. You and Wallace never had a class with me except the one you thought you might fail and would need. I'm through doing your work."

But he put his arm on my shoulder and said, "Aw, don't be that way, Don. If you'll help me I'll take everything you take next semester."

I worked his problems, and he lived up to his bargain. That was not too bad, for I figured I could get him through: I had learned a lot of French from Meb. But up comes Wallace. He was going to take French if William did, Miss Brammon said, "Wallace, are you sure? Absolutely sure?" He said, "Yes, ma'am. Absolutely sure." I knew that he was sure of his blond hair and brown eyes and perfect body—he hadn't reckoned with Miss Brammon's bad eyesight.

I heard Papa and Wallace and William move into the living room. I got up and went downstairs. At first, they never noticing me. I leaned against the stair post and waited. William saw me and got up. Then Papa and Wallace got up, as if I were a stranger.

"Did you go by school?" William asked.

"Yes."

"What did you find out? Did I—"

"Yes."

"Did Wallace pass?"

"He made 47."

"What did I make?" William asked.

"Never mind that," Papa said. "Sixty-four," I said.

"What did you make?" William said.

RED AIR CHIEF SUGGESTS TALKS ON 'INCIDENTS'

Conciliatory Tone In Answer to Protests

BONN, Germany (AP)—Allied officials today studied a Soviet suggestion for a British-Russian conference aimed at avoiding air clashes along the East-West border in Germany. British sources described the Red reply to a western protest as somewhat conciliatory.

The suggestion was made Thursday night by Gen. Vassily Chuikov, Soviet commander in Germany, in otherwise rejecting a joint protest by the three western occupation powers against hostile action by Soviet fighter planes toward three British aircraft last week.

Chuikov proposed a conference of "competent" British and Soviet military representatives "to work out adequate measures" in order to "avoid such disagreeable air incidents," the Soviet news agency ADN reported.

The agency said Chuikov's reply to the British, French and U.S. high commissioners declared their protest was "based on informations that do not meet the facts."

Dismissing Western accusations of "reckless and aggressive behavior" and "deplorable departure from the standards of humanity," Chuikov counter-charged that in two cases the Western planes concerned violated air traffic rules over the Soviet zone.

In the other, an RAF bomber was shot down by Soviet fighters with the loss of all seven aboard, the Soviet commander repeated previous charges that the bomber had fired first. The RAF has denied it, regarding the allegation that the bomber had lost their lives."

In London, officials close to the foreign office said they considered Chuikov's reply "reasonably conciliatory." They described his use of the word "deplorable" was a new note in Russian communications with the West.

A foreign office spokesman declined comment on the conference suggestion but said the proposal was being studied.

Beside the attack on the RAF bomber, the protest to Chuikov concerned the buzzing of a British European Airways plane en route to Berlin by two Russian MIG-15 Soviet fighters at a British plane over West Germany.

Judgment Given Against Railway

SUDBURY (CP)—In a judgment which lawyers say may have far-reaching effects on assessments of railway properties, Judge Elliott St. John has turned down an appeal, by the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian Nickel—McKim township assessment for a sewer project.

The railway contended that, because it receives no benefit from the sewer, it should be exempt from it. With 1,120 feet of land involved, its payment amounts to $7,080.

Judge St. John in his ruling said the fact an owner does not build or has land should not entitle him to an exemption.

BRIGHT BIRD

EDMONTON (CP)—Maggie the Magpie is a member of Sacred Heart School here. The bird has made her home in the school grounds for about a year, and teachers say the children have great fun with Maggie—"she's a great source of humor and can laugh and whistle."

EAGER TAXPAYERS

CALGARY (CP)—Prepayment of city taxes at the rate of 6% has surpassed all previous records with a total of $1,837,000 banked into the civic treasury by March 12. The total advance payment in 1952 was $2,017,000.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Today, the first day of spring, refuses to be cheated of the last of winters within memory with mean temperatures for every month nearly normal. Even though the winter has been mild, it will be remembered as the second mildest. The winter of 1931-32, when mean monthly temperatures ran as much as twelve degrees above normal, holds the record mark.

Today itself will be springlike in southwestern Ontario, but as north residents, say of Armstrong with three feet of snow on the ground and thermometers standing at 45, below zero, may agree then the statement that spring has arrived.

By Fast Praise, Perhaps?

TORONTO (CP) — A Roman Catholic school trustee Thursday night spoke in favor of allowing board of education employees to attend Orange Lodge functions.

William J. Daly said of the Orangemen at a board meeting: "I respect and honor them. You know where they stand—they're not like so many wishy-washy groups, even in my own faith.

"They believe in heaven and certainly believe in hell. Over the years they have consigned many of our most able popes to hell. Let them march on the 12th of July, but let them get the kind of weather I always pray for."

Until last year, board employees could attend such functions without loss of salary. Then the board decided its employees would not be paid.

The board will send the matter back to the finance committee for reconsideration.

Little Hope Any Of 33 Airmen Will Be Found Alive

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Little hope remains that any of the 33 men aboard the Boeing Stratofortress which crashed on opposite coasts of the Atlantic Wednesday are still alive.

The bodies of 21 of the 23 occupants of the Liberator B-336 have came down on the shores of Smith Sound while the other 12 on the Azores to its base in South Dakota have been located. Searchers now have also found the blackened wreckage for the other two.

On St. George's Bay, some 200 miles to the west, floating debris and oil slicks were found of a four-engine B-29 which crashed with 10 aboard as it was returning to Harmon air base after a routine training flight.

All persons on board the two aircraft were United States service personnel. On board the Liberator was Gen. Richard E. Ellsworth of Erie, Pa., commanding officer of its home base at Rapid City, S. D.

To Probe Death Of Toronto Man

BARRIE (CP)—George Mason, 36-year-old Toronto riding school operator, was found shot to death with a rifle south of Hill Lake Saturday, Provincial Police Chief Ross Lee told Barrie Magistrate Wright at the coroner's inquest here Thursday night.

Coroner Thomas Wright of the criminal investigation branch of the provincial police, Toronto, opened the inquest on Monday and then adjourned it to permit Chief Lee to travel to Barrie to buy for his horses. Chief Lee said he could not shoot the live here.

Police said he went to one of two farms he owns here to collect firewood. His body was found in a clearing by the side of a bush road close to him.

Police said an autopsy is to be performed today.

Mr. Mason 10 years ago operated the Big Bay Point Riding Academy seven miles south of here. He was many prizes and trophies for horsemanship.

Fashion Whim of Countess Rouses Humane Group to Ask Prosecution

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A claim by a Danish countess that she was in fashion when she wore a live mouse in the high heel has angered the Danish Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Newspaper reports say live mice in transparent plastic heels have become the rage. The fad hit with eccentric ladies in Paris this spring. Countess Ida Ahlefeldt-Laurvig saw these reports and told a Copenhagen reporter she planned to clothe the fashion at a Paris ball six years ago. She showed the reporter the shoe with the hollow heel that housed the mouse.

The society today announced that they would take action against Countess Rouse. Said President Knud Jensen:

"We have recessed through our No. sir."

PREMIER HAS NO AMBITIONS IN FEDERAL FIELD

When Service Completed Will Retire to Lindsay

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario says he has no political ambitions in the federal field.

He told the legislature Thursday that he doesn't regard service in the federal field more important than in the provincial or municipal field. He added:

"When my service to my native province is completed, my ambition is not to transfer my activities to Ottawa but to Lindsay (the premier's home town).

Other developments from the busy day and night sittings of the house:

A revised Pharmacy Act was introduced by Health Minister Phillips which would tighten restrictions on the sale of sleeping pills. If the bill is approved, barbiturates will be available only on a doctor's prescription and can be bought only from a drug store.

A long list of amendments to the Highway Traffic Act was introduced by Highways Minister Goodfellow. They include a provision to raise the minimum age of drivers to 16 from 15 and a section strengthening laws against defective vehicles.

Accepts Motion

Premier Frost accepted a motion of Harry Nixon (L—Brant) to refer to the legislature's public accounts committee.

Maj. John Foote, minister of reform institutions, said two more prisons are in Ontario jails because prison terms are often given in addition to fines. He said:

Mines Minister Kelly, replying to questions, said it would not be wise or possible to ban the export of natural resources, such as iron ore, from the province.

Mr. Frost said his statement Thursday rumors that he might be the next national leader of the Progressive Conservative party was prompted by newspaper speculation and a remark by Mr. Nixon earlier in the day that the premier would soon be asked to take the party's national leadership.

Not Interested

Premier Frost termed Mr. Nixon's remark "facetious" and added:

"Such a statement from the chairman of a skilful parliamentarian might leave the implication that there is a possible vacancy. The change in the Ottawa leadership and that I am not interested in any way but here. Neither of these conjectures is correct."

Mr. Frost said George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, premier of Ontario from 1943 to 1948, is "a great Canadian, doing an outstanding job at Ottawa."

"In my opinion he is eminently fitted to be prime minister. I know of no alternative in government that our parliamentary institutions system requires.

"I have a big job given to me in Ontario. It is so big that it requires every bit of my thought and energy. I am interested in having my colleagues and associates in Ottawa do the same good government to the province."

PRESERVE TREES

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A plea to preserve this town's precious elm and plant new ones was made to municipal council by G.S. Gilroy, secretary of the local horticultural society, who said trees were being spoiled by "excessive" trimming in the interest of better street lighting.

The Dominion council of the Canadian Nonpersonnel Veterans Association has appointed Walter Lapointe to increase to $60 from $50 a month the widows allowance paid to widows of war veterans Veterans Allowances Act.

The allowance is now paid to widows of at least 55 years of age who find themselves in circumstances. Their husbands must have served in a theatre of war.

Mr. Lapointe promised consideration of their brief.

FLY OUT SICK ESKIMOS

MONTREAL (CP)—Seven Eskimos, suffering from tuberculosis, arrived at Sherval airport Thursday night from Frobisher Bay, Baffin Island, in an RCAF North Star. The aircraft, piloted by F/O. John Robert of Montreal, made the 1,500 mile journey flight after completing a routine supply mission in the north.

Sub-Freezing Weather Grips Half Country as Spring Comes In at 5.01 This Afternoon

TORONTO (CP)—Spring comes in at 5:01 p. m. EST today with snow in the Alberta foothills, the mile-an-hour gales in Manitoba, and hardly a blue sky or balmy breeze across the country.

Sub-freezing weather gripped half the country as spring prepared to take over from winter, which had been around for 89 days and apparently didn't want to leave.

Lower - than - average temperatures were reported in the lower Western provinces, Northern Ontario and Quebec, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Vancouver was struck by fog and a freezing 29 degrees.

Weather offices said the same storm that brought rain to California Thursday night, brought snow in Alberta today.

Probably the only above-freezing section of British Columbia, Alberta or Saskatchewan was Vancouver Island, where heavy fog replaced any wild rejoicing over spring's appearance.

In Northern Ontario, Armstrong reported six inches of snow and three feet of snow on the ground.

Clouds hung over the central and eastern provinces, bringing rain in the south and snow in the north. Dauphin has reported 29 degrees—cool for that east-coast city.

Welfare Council Proposes Steps to Meet Work Slump

OTTAWA (CP) — Measures for meeting unemployment were proposed today by the Canadian Welfare Council in a brief presented to the cabinet.

The recommendation, also put before provincial governments, the council said the federal government should assume financial responsibility for unemployed persons not now provided for, and that the provinces should administer such aid.

The federal Unemployment Insurance Act covers most workers, but some categories are not included.

The council report, based on a two-year study, said help for unemployed persons in the form of abnormal unemployment periods.

Also, it said, the federal government should try to reduce the risk of unemployment as much as possible by "full implementation" of the policy of maintaining a high rate of employment.

The provinces, said the council, should develop their welfare services by helping pay for administration grants to municipalities most of the additional cost of public assistance in periods of severe unemployment.

The council suggested a formula for federal-provincial payments.

There would be a basic payment from the national treasury to the provinces, and a flat percentage of the cost of administering an assistance plan provincially and municipally.

Variable payments would be the federal government's share of providing for the employable unemployed, the amount being determined from time to time.

Group of Widows Asks Increase In Allowance

OTTAWA, (CP) — A group of widows of overseas war veterans told the government Thursday that high living costs have shrunk the value of their government-paid allowances below the minimum needed to live adequately.

The Dominion council of the Canadian Nonpersonnel Veterans Association has appointed Walter Lapointe to increase to $60 from $50 a month the widows allowance paid to widows of war veterans Veterans Allowances Act.

The allowance is now paid to widows of at least 55 years of age who find themselves in circumstances. Their husbands must have served in a theatre of war.

Mr. Lapointe promised consideration of their brief.

C.N.R. Expects $400,000 Surplus In Coming Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian National Railways made a preliminary estimate Thursday of a net surplus of $400,000 on a gross of $142,000 last year—but pointed to factors that might throw the estimate off widely.

The government-owned company, predicting $400,000 surplus, forecast gross revenues and operating expenses of $720,000,000 and $676,000,000, respectively in its budget tabled in the Commons.

The income figure was up by about $42,000,000 from the 1952 record of $675,000,000, and the operating expenses would jump almost $50,000,000 from last year's peak of $634,852,00.

But the budget pointed out that the estimates take into account neither the effect of the latest freight-rate increase nor of a retroactive wage settlement reached with 23,000 employees late in February.

The rate increase went into effect Monday, after the budget was prepared. It is expected to yield an extra amount $20,000,000 during 1953.

Cost of the retroactive wage settlement, giving the lowest paid firemen $4,500,000 in pay to last April 1, will be taken out of 1953 revenues, since the contract was reached only after the books had been closed on the budget took account of wage increases that will be paid in 1953 work, but not of that part of the settlement dating back into 1952.

Nineteen Miners Killed in Norway

OSLO, Norway (Reuters)—A coal mine explosion in Spitsbergen killed 19 Norwegian miners, it was reported here today.

The explosion, which occurred Thursday was the third serious accident in the Spitzbergen coal mines since the war.

In January, 1952, 15 miners died in two explosions in the Longyear mines. In December, 1948, an explosion in the New Aalesund mine also killed 21.

The Spitzbergen archipelago, covering 24,000 square miles, is Norwegian territory, its southernmost point 360 miles from the North Pole.

In September, 1941, Allied forces Canadian, British and Norwegian—landed on Spitzbergen and destroyed stocks of coal and disman-tled mining machinery to keep them from falling into the hands of the Germans.

After the war, the mines were rebuilt.

Twenty Jap Workers Missing in Cave-in TOKYO (AP)—Twenty Japanese workers were missing today after the cave-in of railroad tunnel under construction on Kyushu Thursday night.

Thirty-four others were rescued during the night and one body was recovered. Police said workers were entombed when 30 yards of the tunnel collapsed more than a mile from the entrance.

FILING OF TAX RETURN ONLY WAY TO GET REFUND

Tip Given Commons During Budget Debate

OTTAWA, (CP) —There's only one way to get a refund on your income tax, Jean Lesage told commons Thursday night. He told you've got one coming—file a return and claim it.

Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, gave that tip in the Commons Thursday night. He told C. H. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) that there simply is no other way to get a rebate.

Deadline for filing 1952-53 income tax returns is April 30.

Mr. Fraser said a great number of Canadian taxpayers entitled to refunds didn't know they have them coming. Outstanding refunds due should be advertised as they were in the United States.

Mr. Lesage said he understood the advertising in the United States concerned only outstanding refundable portions of income taxes paid by Americans during the war.

The exchange took place as the commons considered resolutions preceding bills which will give effect to the budget made by Mr. Abbott's 1953-54 budget presentation March 9.

The opposition parties took the opportunity to criticize the government's budget. Social Credit Committee Speaker Rene Beaudoin (Lac Saint Jean) criticized the government when they strayed too far afield from their assignment.

Resolutions concerning excise tax and customs tariff changes were considered and the bills to give effect to these changes—including the immediate four-cent rise in cigaret duty—were introduced and given first reading.

Favors Tariff Changes

During the rambling discussion Mr. Lesage announced that the government has decided to introduce a tariff change that would have imposed a higher duty on many imported motors. The change may affect millions of dollars of trade presently

During consideration of the excise tax resolutions—a matter of a flat 11 per cent effective July 1 on all sales—Mr. Lesage was teamed up in criticism of income tax changes.

Mr. Macdonnell said the budget provided only "minimum relief" in income tax relief and "left out of consideration the mass of the people."

After being called to order several times by Speaker Roland Michener, Mr. Thatcher challenged a government statement that Canadian income tax rates are the lowest and exemptions the highest in the world.

He produced a table—and got the House of Commons to put it on the record—which he said showed that a married man with two children pays less tax in the United States than in Canada.

Produces Own Table

Mr. Lesage replied by producing a table of his own, which also was put on the record. It showed that the highest rate in the U.S. income tax rates dropped below those of Canada only when income amounted to $8,000 and $10,000 a year.

Gordon Churchill (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) asked if the government had consulted provincial municipalities from payment of the sales tax on materials they purchased.

Mr. Lesage said Finance Minister Abbott would reply later.

Hit-and-Run Victim, Cornwall Boy Killed

CORNWALL (CP) — Richard Ouellette, 8, was killed in a traffic accident Thursday night. Police are seeking the driver, who they say fled the scene.

When the child did not return home from a visit to a friend's home, his father went to look for him and found him fatally injured on the roadside. He was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Doctors Discover What Kids Know By Instinct, Spinach Is Harmful

LONDON (AP)—So spinach is good for kids, is it?

The medical researchers said today that far from being a boon to the young, the stuff may actually be harmful to their health.

Doctors Jean E. Bamji and N. S. Bamji of London advanced this theory: "The intense dislike of spinach shown by most children is nature's way of protecting them from its harmful effects."

The doctors set forth their conclusions in a letter to the British Medical Journal.

The Bamjis said experiments have shown that the oxalic acid in spinach upsets the body's absorption of calcium, thus leading to a weakened bone structure. The said also, they declared, tends to deposit in the kidneys in the form of stones or gravelly acid salts, which damage these vital organs.

"Spinach raw or cooked, should be added to the diet of dogs which includes meat, cracker meal and skimmed milk powder," the Bamjis wrote, "produces fat only a greater negative calcium balance and poor absorption of nitrogen.

"And yet we know of conscientious mothers who have forced large quantities of spinach on their unwilling children day after day."

West German House Approves European Army

First Country to Meet Demand of United Nations

BONN, Germany (AP) —Disarmed West Germany emerged today as the first country to meet the United States demand for action for "clear and viable" progress toward creation of a 2,000,000-man European army to include German troops.

By the sizable margin of 224 to 165, the Bundestag (Lower House) of the West German Parliament finally approved the treaty Thursday night. Its companion Allied-West peace contract was passed 228 to 164.

Although the treaties still face stiff legislative and court tests in Germany, the Bundestag was the first European legislative chamber to act on the army pact authorizing recruitment of 500,000 Germans for the army with provision for a 12-nation, one-uniform western defense force.

A Clear Challenge

The action laid down a clear challenge to other West European countries, especially France, to move on with ratification of the treaty in line with their promises.

In Washington, U.S. State Secretary Dulles said the Bundestag's action was "a very significant step forward."

Everyone is now increasing likelihood that the European Defence Community will become a reality," Dulles said.

Dulles had warned European leaders against "the illusion" that any of the continent that the U.S. Congress might hold up voting large-scale funds for foreign military aid unless the army project gets rolling by April.

Given Near Sovereignty

Under the companion pact—the peace contract—the Big Three Western powers renounce most of their post-war occupation rights in the great West Germany near sovereignty. Britain and the U.S. already have ratified this, leaving only France and West Germany to complete action.

Paris, an official French spokesman pointed out that the treaty "still has to go through the Upper House (of the German Parliament) where its revolve will be a lot closer and then through the German Supreme Court where Socialists are already testing the proposal as unconstitutional."

The anti-rearmament Socialists in the past have voiced either the country's constitution and therefore requires a two-thirds vote for parliamentary approval. The margin in the Lower House balloting Thursday night was little better than 57 per cent. The German Supreme Court has said it won't rule on this point until the Bundestag has finally acted.

But Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared the treaties "will not only be an important signal to other European countries but truly the European Army Treaty."

Controls Lifted On Wide Range Strategic Metals

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government today lifted all export and import controls on 28 metals and minerals, most of strategic metals to and from the United States.

The move affects all non-ferrous metals, except nickel and nickel-bearing materials.

From now on, exporters and importers of these metals will require government approval on shipments across the Canada-U.S. border. They include copper, tin, tungsten, zinc, antimony, bismuth, brass, bronze, cadmium, cobalt, lead and molybdenum.

CHILD RUNS INTO SIDE OF PASSING CAR

Bobby Ruther, 3, of 46 Bowsell street, suffered bruises when he ran into the side of a passing car while playing on Church street.

Gerald Swenson, Burton street, said he was driving north on Church street when the boy ran out from the east side into the left rear fender of his car.

TWO TWEED GIRLS TO BE QUESTIONED FOR CLOTHING THEFT

Acting on information from Police Chief Mathison of Tweed, city police last night apprehended two young girls, Gladys Shaw and Lela Woodcock, both 17, of Tweed, and held them for return to that village. They will be questioned in connection with the theft of clothing from a Tweed residence.

Police Chief Mathison said the home of John Breen of Tweed had been entered and a quantity of women's clothing and other articles being taken.

FURTHER REMANDED ON THEFT CHARGE

Appearing on car theft charges in connection with the theft of the Albert Cook car last February 26, four local teen-aged youths were further remanded in city magistrate's court today and will appear March 26. The four had previously been arraigned on the charges.

The Cook car was stolen in Belleville and later abandoned in the city after being driven about 100 miles. A knife-slit in a Tweed garage is said to be connected with the theft of the car.

EXECUTIVE DISCUSSES PLANS FOR COMING CHARTER NIGHT

The Belleville Lions Club held its regular supper meeting at Latimer's Town Room last night. Larry Bankard of the Coca Cola Company, showed a film dealing with the history of carbonated beverages. William Parry presided at the piano. The executive committee met afterwards to discuss plans for the coming April charter night.

LIONS CLUB WILL FURNISH ROOM

The Lions' Club of Gananoque is furnishing a room in the new home for Blind at Kingston, in memory of Lion Jack McKendry. The late Mr. McKendry was a brother of Mrs. Harold Quinsey, 371 Coleman St., in this city.

LUMBER COMPANY OPENS WAREHOUSE IN THIS CITY

The Kingsway Lumber Company, which for many years has serviced retail lumber dealers in Toronto and the surrounding area, has opened a wholesale warehouse in Belleville at Henry and Everett Streets.

The new warehouse will offer an on the spot distribution point for brand name products. The warehouse will be fully staffed and complete with mechanical handling and delivery equipment.

Police Stepping Up Campaign Against Offenders

Motorists just don't seem to believe in signs.

That is the opinion belng formed by members of the local police department, which is now stepping up their campaign against motorists who persist in making left hand turns at the Front and Bridge Street intersection, contrary to the local traffic by-law.

Some months ago the city traffic committee decided that no left turns at the main intersection during the business hours would serve to speed traffic and large signs drawing attention to the regulation were erected at the corner.

But a small percentage of motorists either failed to see the signs or believed they were there just for appearance sake. In any way a good many left turns continued to be made each day during the period when they were out of bounds.

So just to emphasize that the signs mean no left turns can be made on weekdays between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. police are stepping up their campaign against offenders. Quite a number have already received court summons for violating the regulation.

2 Ottawa Youths Taken to Oshawa To be Questioned

Two Ottawa youths, Robert Scott and Ronald Turpin, both 19, were returned to Oshawa yesterday where they are being questioned in connection with the theft of an auto in that city.

The two young men were apprehended on Thursday morning by Provincial police at Belleville as they walked along the highway near Deseronto.

Constable E. L. C. Smith was investigating the report of an auto being overturned in the ditch south of Marysville" when he was told by a transport driver that two young men had been seen running away from the scene. The youths were picked up about a mile from the overturned car and were held for questioning. It was later found the wrecked car had been stolen.

Transport driver, Harry Barr, of Toronto, told police he had been stopped because of motor trouble and that the stolen car applied his brakes as he passed and going out of control turned over in the ditch. The car was damaged to the extent of about $400.

Hawkers, Peddlers Under Discussion At C of C Meeting

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce are seemingly not content to allow the question of transient traders fade off into antiquity. A motion supported at the first open directors' meeting in city council chambers Thursday afternoon, stating letters be sent to other Chamber of Commerce offices requesting support of their resolution. The resolution if passed will prohibit hawkers and peddlers from selling their goods within city limits unless they obtain a license.

The resolution will be brought up before the Ontario Chamber of Commerce directorates at the end of this month. Charles Cawker, chairman of the directors said he expected the Ontario Chamber would take up the motion in Queen's Park.

Some time in May, a questionnaire will be circulated around the city requesting information on shopping and other pertinent facts concerning shopping conditions in Belleville. Known as the "Better Service Survey," the form will be compiled into a booklet when all the findings have been turned in to the Chamber of Commerce.

Charles Mott, city engineer announced an allotment of $200 has been set aside for levelling out of the parking areas behind stores on Bridge St.

Bill Wills, chairman of the Retail Merchants' section, outlined to the guests and directors, the retail merchants' activities for 1953.

The following is a list of new members accepted into the Chamber at the Thursday meeting: Dorothy Reid, Sally Shop; Seymour Hersch, Radio and TV Parts Supply; and Alan Lennox, Neil's Shoe Store.

Convictions Follow Theft of Timber At Sharbot Lake

At Magistrate's Court in Sharbot Lake on March 17th Robert P. Shore of Renfrew and Allen Denham of Harlowe pleaded guilty to separate charges of theft of crown timber laid under the Criminal Code by Constable A. G. Stout of Northbrook. Fines, inclusive of costs, assessed by Magistrate Jackson of Madoc amounted to $43.50 and $72.50 respectively.

Evidence was submitting by officers Mulvihill and Legris of the Department of Lands and Forests and involved the matching of stump sections and portions of the logs taken by the accused. The material had been held under seizure at mills in Renfrew and Tweed and was turned over to the Department by the magistrate.

In summing up the evidence Crown Attorney Bradley of Kingston told the court that penalties imposed must be made more severe in future cases until this type of infraction ceased. Warnings were issued in particular of the seriousness of the offence. Mr. Bradley made it known that the Department intended to fully prosecute such cases and that courts had no alternative but to consider theft of timber from the Crown in the same light as theft of livestock, money or other private property.

Life Relates Former P.M. Was Good Cook

NEW YORK (CP)—Life Magazine relates a little-known anecdote about W. L. Mackenzie King to illustrate the human side of the Canadian prime minister who died in 1950.

The magazine, which runs a color spread in its current edition labelled "Statesman's Other Side," says that in 1947 Stanley Woodward, later to become U.S. ambassador to Canada, went to Laurier House to arrange details of President Truman's state visit.

A formal seven-course luncheon was served and the last course was home-made gingersnaps.

Woodward remarked that his father loved gingersnaps. King replied: "Gingersnaps would be an ideal test for any cook."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices held firm in forenoon stock market trading today.

Industrials, base metals and western oils gained slightly while golds held firm. Uranium and Northern Ontario rare metal prospects rose. Volume for the first hour totalled 1,039,000 shares.

Among base metals, Eastern Metals and Eureka traded actively for good gains. Uraniums gained on advances in Gunnar, Chimo and Goldfield. Inspiration and Tungsten carried North Bay-area issues all gains higher.

Senior golds slipped in light trading but secondary issues gained.

Western oils showed a good list of gains. Aquarius led the gains with a $1 rise.

Rescue Workers Seek Estimated 300 to 600 Persons Dead in Quake

BALIKESIR, Turkey (AP)—Rescue workers combed the shattered, fire-blackened ruins of Turkish farming towns and villages here in western Turkey today, seeking the bodies of an estimated 300 to 600 persons feared dead in Wednesday night's violent earthquake.

Scores of centres still had not been heard from and relief officials feared as many as 1,000 persons may have died in the catastrophe which laid waste to the rich farming and mining region southwest of Istanbul and across the Sea of Marmara from that big port.

From reports so far received at Balikesir, capital of the quake-stricken province, the small town of Yenice appeared the hardest hit. The interior ministry gave an initial report of 300 victims of the 5,000 population, but Turkish newspaper men who visited the town said they believed as many as 600 may have been crushed by the falling walls or charred by flames which swept the wreckage.

The Turkish Red Crescent (Red Cross) estimated a total of 500 dead in the quake area.

Other reports said 35 were dead in the farm city of Gonen, 90 miles southwest of Balikesir and with a population of 12,000, and from six to eight dead elsewhere in the area. Inland from the First World War battleground of Gallipoli.

Thousands of homeless shivered through the cold night, without shelter, refusing to return home for fear of another quake.

The Turkish Army and the Red Crescent rushed relief tents and medical help and food supplies to the stricken sections, 30 to 60 miles northwest of Balikesir.

Officials of Gonen opened all jail doors to political prisoners who volunteered to help clear the rubble or run an ambulance. No word was heard from.

Stories of terrible destruction came from the shattered towns and villages. United States ambassador George C. McGhee, who toured the Gonen area, said 95 per cent of the town's 2,000 buildings—and all 12 of its mosques—were destroyed or badly damaged.

McGhee said the death toll in Gonen would have been much higher but most of the residents were warned and fled to the open before the first big tremor.

Workers at Yenice reported about half of the 600 buildings there, and again all the 5 mosques, were destroyed.

Istanbul observatory reported 65 small tremors followed the three successive big quakes which began Wednesday night.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 11-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 98 15-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.78 7-8, against $2.78 7-8.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Trade was slow at the egg market and top grade prices slipped. Quotations for graded eggs in three cases were: A large 54-54½; A medium 53-53½; A small 51; grade B 43; grade C 40. Ontario rate for cartons: A large 60; A medium 58-59; A small 56; grade B 50; grade C 45.

Prices for solidpack first grade 80½; no other prices established.

SOFTENS FLOW

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—A pamphlet explaining just how the tax dollar is expended will again be mailed with each tax bill to Waterloo taxpayers. Mayor D. A. Roberts said the city owes it to the people to give them a realistic idea of how their money is spent.

Postpone Hearing Week on Proposal To Join Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate sub-committee Thursday postponed for at least a week its hearing on proposals that the United States join Canada in construction of the St. Lawrence seaway.

The hearing, before a Senate foreign relations sub-committee, had been scheduled for March 31. Chairman Alexander Wiley said he now hopes it can be started March 30 "or shortly thereafter."

He said the sub-committee "is still waiting on reports from various interested departments of the executive branch."

President Eisenhower, meantime, told his press conference the United States might have cause for regret if Canada went ahead with the seaway on its own.

Congress has several times rejected U.S. participation in the proposal to open the St. Lawrence river and Great Lakes to ocean-going vessels, long considered as a joint project of the two governments. Canada announced last year that she would proceed alone if the U.S. refused to join in.

Eisenhower said he would be distressed to see Canada go ahead with the seaway project on its own. He added that if the project is economically advantageous to the United States, it is going to be built regardless of what he or anyone else thinks about it.

Senator Charles Potter (Rep. Mich.), meanwhile, wrote to the president that "a favorable expression from the executive branch at this time would assist immeasurably in clarifying this important issue."

He said the project's "economic, social, defence and political aspects are of vital significance not only to Michigan and the other lake states but to the entire nation."

Senator Haig Picks October 19 As Election Date

OTTAWA (CP)—Here is a new elect on-date forecast from the man who was right in 1949: Monday, Oct. 19.

It comes from Senator John T. Haig as a second bought to a forecast he made earlier this session. At that time he picked Monday, Oct. 12, but he said Thursday he overlooked the custom of celebrating Thanksgiving on the second Monday in October.

Senator Haig, Progressive Conservative leader in Upper Chamber, is an old hand at picking election dates. He hit it on the nose by predicting June 27, 1949, as the date of the last election.

His latest prediction came unexpectedly in the Senate while he was commenting on the length of time the Commons is spending on the budget. The debate has been going off and on since last Feb. 19.

The reason, he said, is that members of the Commons are "facing a general election."

"What's the date?" interjected several Liberal senators.

"Oct. 19," replied Senator Haig. "I think that's when it will be. The 12th is too near Thanksgiving."

Outside the chamber, Senator Haig explained his system for picking Oct. 19. He said Prime Minister St. Laurent has expressed the belief that intense political activity should not be carried on in July and August.

"That rules out July and August for an election.

MEN OF FEW WORDS

We have ad hand a useful work of reference for writers on the choice of words. We consulted it in respect to a statement made in Parliament this week by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent. He stated that there will be an election "within the next few months."

This is the first statement from the Prime Minister to indicate that the appeal to the electorate will be made sooner than some expected, certainly within the year, but we find that it still leaves the experts in Ottawa guessing at dates almost as widely separated as those they were predicting before the statement was made.

So we turned to the handy reference for help, and under a heading, "few, some, number, several, divers, sundry", found this rather definite instruction: "The ideas of 'few' and 'many' are as strongly opposed to each other as those of any words can be, but there exist the absurd colloquialisms 'quite a few' and 'a good few'."

Now, Mr. St. Laurent has made it pretty clear that the term was "few".

We must next consider then whether Mr. St. Laurent is a man who might use the word loosely. We don't think he is. His eminent career at the Bar, before entering politics, leads us to believe that terminological exactitude would be one of his strongest points. And indeed it has never been suggested that he owed his legal prestige to the force of sheer eloquence.

We were strengthened in the belief that he is an exact man, too, in another statement he made to the House of Commons the same day on the same subject. The government was being charged by the Opposition with refusing to make public reports it regarded as confidential. Mr. St. Laurent agreed with the refusal in these words:

"It is quite agree with the leader of the Opposition that the government cannot refuse to a majority of Parliament anything that the majority of Parliament requests but the majority of Parliament is not of the government, so long as it has the confidence in the government, has not required the government to disclose the information it obtains in a confidential manner."

What Mr. Drew had to say in reply was of course strictly off the cuff and a thundering rebuttal, but treats want in this case. The fact is that at last the Opposition was so quick to grasp what the Prime Minister said indicates to us that his words must have been stated with the utmost clarity and a complete knowledge of them.

So we must assume that Mr. St. Laurent would choose his words with no less care when he was volunteering, for the first time, a specific reference to the imminence of election. We have no alternative but to believe that there must be an election "within the next few months." And in view of our best grammatical instruction that "few" is opposed to "many" like "love" is opposed to "hate", for instance, it must be our further assumption that the election will take place in the least number of months, or thirty-odd days, from the time that the Prime Minister made his statement on March 16.

This process of deduction obviously leaves all the second-guessing experts in Ottawa to the lurch. Their predictions have ranged all the way from July to late autumn, when it is quite apparent to us that the election cannot be later than the latter part of May.

But that puts us right into the curtain-raising days of the coronation and nothing is surer than that Mr. St. Laurent would not hold an election at such time. That seems to put the date somewhere between July and late autumn, just as the experts have figured it out.

We wish Mr. St Laurent were a man of fewer words.

THE NEXT PREPOSTEROUS BEST

A Toronto evening newspaper which is given to the fabrication of headlines at the drop of a sentence had a sensational story Thursday. It purported to be the report of disclosures by Marshal Tito in London of the use by international Communist spies of forged Canadian passports.

The story left the impression that a London correspondent had an inside track to the talks between the Yugo-Slav dictator and Mr. Churchill. That obviously happened was that a London correspondent of this newspaper was told to get to see Tito personally. In view of the fact that Tito was in London for his official state visit, he merely dreamed up something Tito might have said. And of course Tito might have said something to Churchill about the scandalous passport forgeries of the Communists.

After all, it hasn't been news since Igor Gouzenko told all about it in the espionage inquiry in Ottawa seven years ago.

NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD

A New York woman offers a new slant on the question: Should a married woman work? She puts it this way:

"One of our most anxiously discussed modern problems is whether the woman of today can be a wife and mother, and hold down any other job at the same time. The woman of yesterday was a wife and mother and held down about a dozen other jobs at the same time. She was gardener, chicken fancier, dressmaker, tailor, milliner, cook, nurse, laundress and goodness knows what else. And she didn't ever think about it — she didn't know she had on was a problem."

COMPENSATION

Life pays us for the work we do
In misery for our deeds of shame;
In friends and honor and in fame,
For standing fast and standing true.

Who toils in honor shall rejoice,
For he shall smile upon his choice.

Who lives on earth shall surely reap
The wages that his strength has earned.

Not from its course can life be turned;
Unpaid, it never leaves a debt.

Who toils in honor shall rejoice,
For he shall smile upon his choice.

Who toils in honor shall rejoice,
For he shall smile upon his choice.

The wages that his strength has earned.
Life makes its laws for men to keep.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The aggressive spirit in business and enterprise of all kinds is to be praised, and is highly regarded at all levels in the community. In some individuals, it is born, in others it is encouraged and acquired. But it can easily become a most disagreeable personal trait. I was struck by it in the line-up at the gate to the Pullman sleeper entrance at an American depot, awaiting the arrival of the train. Everyone who would validate our tickets and allow us to go in to the cars and go to bed.

Up strode a middle aged man at once recognized as a well-known business leader in my home city, a sandy-haired, red-faced man with an aggressive big nose and a cigar under it. Ahead of me were seven decent citizens, four of them a family party of what I took to be a prosperous clergyman, his wife and baby in arms and the wife's sister. The aggressive spirited businessman had timed his approach exactly. Maybe he had been standing behind in the crowd, awaiting the arrival of the conductors and had seen them coming. At any rate, he stepped into the head of the line, had his tickets looked at and punched, and was off to bed, all with cigar tilted.

There was a buffet club car on our train, for the convenience of breakfast. All four tables were occupied when I arrived. The steward showed me to the club car chairs and explained that two others ahead of me were sitting in reserved seats. We were in no hurry to closer to the table and as our fellow diners finished eating and digestion, from the table end of the car, the aggressive little man of the night before came striding briskly at the moment a solitary breakfaster rose from one of the tables. Our friend promptly sank into the vacated chair. He ordered. When I signalled the steward and acquired about the order of precedence, he said:

"Aw, I know him! He'd only wait a minute. I'll see him."

"Let him," I urged.

"Aw," said he, "forward.

I'll be biggered if, on emerging at the taxi rank on arrival home, Mr. Aggressive Spirit was not standing with his foot in the open door of a taxi-cab, and was awaiting the arrival of his bags.

Somehow in the midst of all the development of science and the labor-saving devices being introduced in every industry, it never occurred to us that the picture of the old country farmer digging and drying his winter's supply of peat, would ever change. Today it is learned that a machine has been developed which will cut and process 40,000 tons of peat briquettes a year.

Who Freed The Slaves?

(Sudbury Star)

We get a little tired of seeing women writers rush into print with exclamations of "a forward step" over the emancipation every time ago-old regulations are relaxed to permit the admission of women to organizations that were looked on as male domains.

Women in this country do not go about with bale-and-bag attached to their dainty ankles, and the women writers are hardly engaged in the task of rearing children to become good citizens simply do not have the time for go "gadding".

Our ancestors believed in the principle that a woman's place was in the home, and it isn't an accident that most great women were housewives first, a fact that can be proved by the reading of biographical sketches.

It is true that labor-saving devices around the home (invented by men) have given women more leisure time. It is also true that modern methods of mass production (developed by men) have put women opportunities to seek and follow careers in the business world.

The point we are making is that men have come a long way in the way of "forward steps" and "emancipation" by comparison to the women themselves. That is why we fail to see the excitement women writers rush into print with "Well done, girls!" and "Forward, sisters!" whenever it decides to admit women to membership or participation in its activities.

Having adopted men's wearing apparel, and men's habits (some of them bad) we are happy in the thought that they are also prepared to accept male responsibilities.

Meeker Parents

(Louisville Courier-Journal)

More submissiveness, more humility from parents will help the child. Whether his adult role in life, the experts agree at one gathering.

Now isn't it time that somebody started a forum on how a child's parents should behave? Or is the viewpoint. The psychiatrist child guidance view seems to agree on parents' role in the child:

Parents should be a self-effacing being, lurking in the shadowy until needed to pick up the pieces. Parents have a coincident binge in parent should be seen and not heard. Be known nothing, associates only with dull people. Be a non-participating spectator for the 10th birthdays of each of his offspring, and is grown. Be a real meek character and accept as to these obvious drawbacks the child will be known nothing of style, dresses herself with the finesse of a Bulgarian peasant and inflates self-confidence by her beautiful daughter to the self-same living death.

There is, however, another view of the relationship of parent to child. It is that of the average Pa and Ma, workaday beings who cannot understand the mysterious being of kindly detachment from which the psychiatrist deals, desirable to the expert. There are times in the lives of this couple when it seems though their children arrive in the early teens as the finished product, complete with sufficient adulthood. Observe the bewilderment of the parent when she —mama—has just been rebuked for her views on the subject of what kind and sequins for a woman of 14.

The baffling behavior of this grim lady, whose son, a junior in high school, would like to spend going to Port Said. Rebekah himself to be a man of the world, and the pitfalls of life and the infinite variety of the human race would. It this to be a moment in which to speak of such things? Or draw back abashed from the worldly wisdom before the child's eyes? Only to end wondering how, in his innocence, he ever progressed as far as he has.

Somehow, more humility does not seem right. Such recipe for those crushed beings. Nobody can produce self-abasement in parents. Nor can children be summarily arrived at the argumentative age.

Too Fat To Be a Hero

(Newsweek Magazine)

How did Georgi do it? Many Western observers had expected Georgi Maximilianovich Malenkov to emerge as the most powerful figure in the Kremlin when Stalin died. What they didn't anticipate was the speed and the extent to which he took over the marshal's functions. There were two explanations:

1—Malenkov's personal power was greater than had been estimated. The story was well known in the Soviet Union through the party bureaucracy, but his friends in key positions, because custodian of the huge party files. It read away in his red-lined memoranda detailing the thousands of individuals, and made himself the protector of the rival of Stalin. What was not known was that his power extended to Soviet industry as well and was the power of being extended to the army. As an engineer by profession, Georgi graduated from the Moscow Higher Technical School in 1925. Malenkov was in charge of the Russian aircraft industry during the war and placed his men in key factory positions. Later he cultivated the friendship of particularly Andrei Zhdanov, during their season of power in Leningrad.

2—The power of Beria and Molotov was less soundly based than it seemed. The spite of Beria's personal ambition, energy or pep, little intelligence, and a sense of vacation, a tendency toward sadism, suspicion of excess weight and flabbiness, a tendency to spirits or melancholy, precarious aging, graying of the hair, mental torpor, cold hands and feet, a tendency to boils, and often works magic in these circumstances and may prevent high blood pressure or possibly hardening of the arteries.

It may be another way of saying a suitable iodin ration may fail to do. All I can promise is that it can do no harm in any circumstance. It is not medicine, so don't expect to see any benefit by "trying" it.

Many correspondents ask whether I approve of taking this or that medicinal preparation of iodine or iodide. I do not. Whether one should take any medicinal iodine or iodide is a question best left to the judgment of one's physician.

I have never claimed that the iodin ration will restore natural color to graying hair or even prevent or retard graying of the hair. But a good many correspondents have assured me it has rejuvenated them in this respect. I have seen their hair before and after, so I don't know whether it has this effect. Maybe such a one tells me that his or her hair is darker than it was two years less of its natural color, I do not dispute the assertion but I have come to think that what I have overburdened with troubles (my own and other people's). I see the gray hairs and wrinkles in the mirror when I shave, and in my main care is to get to the bowling green in time for the game. I am a mirror-shy old loafer, if there ever was one. I mean that character that's doesn't a tap of honest work for years— the world probably is a lot more wrinkled, decrepit and gray but for the iodin ration, good digestion, serenemuils, belly breathing, temperance, vitamine supplements and the like enjoyed since we sold Topsy to the sewing salesman.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

IODIN AND YOUTH

A correspondent says he has excellent health, seldom an ache or pain, eats well, sleeps like a lamb and always feels ready for a frolic or fight. He says he has been taking Iodin Ration for an unspecified period, but so far his hair has not darkened, as nearly as he can tell, and it remains to be proved whether it keeps him in better spirits than if he did not take it, although it may, "as you claim, stave off hardening of the arteries."

Hold on here. I make no such claim. But I have been getting an optimal daily ration of iodine since Tony was a pup and my arteries are still soft and elastic.

It's a place about the iodin ration which prompted the correspondent to write did refer to hardening of the arteries, thus giving me a chance to explain why as a manifestation of iodin deficiency, but instead a chronic tired feeling, lack of ambition, energy or pep, little resistance to cold, fever or vaccination, a tendency toward sensitiveness, irritability and flabbiness, depression of spirits or melancholy, premature aging, graying of the hair, mental torpor, cold hands and feet, a tendency to boils, and often works magic in these circumstances and may prevent high blood pressure or possibly hardening of the arteries.

It may be another way of saying a suitable iodin ration may fail to do. All I can promise is that it can do no harm in any circumstance. It is not medicine, so don't expect to see any benefit by "trying" it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

APPRECIATION AND UNDERSTANDING

Our main happiness, it seems to me, is centered in the appreciation and understanding that come our way through life, even if it be brief intervals and not upon the rarest of occasions. If what we do is appreciated, even by a few, we feel that we have not lived in vain. If we do not appreciate.

It was lucky that Herman Melville had no friends Nathaniel Hawthorne and Henry D. Thoreau, for instance, appreciated and stood him. Few others did. Book after book came from his prolific mind, but only a few bought his books, so he remained obscure for most of the years of his life. Only in later years has he come to interest themselves in the unique adventures and travels of this man who wrote one or the great sea stories of all time, Moby Dick.

What a different story could be told of Rachel Lindsay had people genuinely appreciated and understood her. She lived by giving of his strength and youth to the benefit of the people in one of the great arts of life. How true it is that in many instances we women have to die in order to live!

All honest work in life is important, but it grows more important as it is appreciated by others. The worker, as well, grows in appreciation of his fellowmen in the horse, after a pat on the nose, or the dog that is overjoyed by appreciation and understanding. In all nature, even the trees and flowers acknowledge kindness and consideration by giving more fruitful and their foliage, beauty and fragrance.

How is anybody to know that he or she is appreciated if not told so And what a transformation in the human heart when others is told! The greater the responsibility of a person, the more does he appreciate cheer and commendation. The time to appreciate is always—right now!

Rooted In Contempt

(Regina Leader-Post)

Segregation is rooted in contempt. And the white man's contempt for the black man is deep-seated. That centuries-old complex of white superiority, in the south and Africa we, the superior ones, are being told, must be met by legislative or political limitations.

Such a solution would run into being the free world. And the free world's charity and humanity are not dead, despite the spite of its sins. And if the free world is, ultimately, to lead the whole world, it will be through a development of the best in the world's virtues. And some shrinkage in its faults.

At present, the free world, a partial world, is a little annoyed that the rest of the world should aspire to freedom, too. Their pretensions is, of course, selfishly and economically disrupting just at this stage.

But they rot the idea from us. It is a good idea. It brought freedom for us, if not always in sufficient. And, in God's good time, it will bring freedom for them. And with it, more equality for our own neighbors.

Long Running Fight Against Communism Breaks Into Full-Scale Warfare in Que.

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—A long running fight against communism, waged by an official organ of the Roman Catholic Church, has broken into full-scale warfare. The heavy ammunition is supplied by a 37-year-old Irishman, a former labor organizer.

When Pat Walsh went to Louis-Philippe Roy, editor of the daily L'Action Catholique, three weeks ago with a story of Kremlin-directed plans for wartime sabotage in Canada, the editor loosed an all-out attack against communism in Quebec province.

It brought yelps of denial and veiled threats from Communist ranks and created some consternation in Quebec City, which is predominantly Roman Catholic.

Walsh Charges

In a series of interviews with editor Roy, Walsh named leading Labor — Progressive (Communist) party members in Canada as alleged king-pins of sabotage planning. He denounced Communist "cliques" and "cells" in labor organizations in upper town and in lower town.

The fear that names of Quebecers might be published set the whole city talking.

Quebecers are used to public and political controversies and usually take them in stride, but this Red-tinged sensation touched traditional religious and family ties.

A family might be ostracized by the naming of one fellow-traveller or card-carrying Communist. There might be dismissals from jobs.

Red-haired Pat Walsh started the uproar with an announcement he had resigned from a number of labor organizations, which he said are Communist fronts. He said he had remained a member only to gather information about Communists and their activities.

Supplies Names

Mr. Roy, 25 years with L'Action Catholique and editor since 1945, wrote in one of his front-page, two column stories that Walsh had supplied the names of Communists and sympathizers. About 50 names were reported to be on the list. But later he wrote that names of Quebecers would not be published.

He gave three reasons: Many Communists belong to prominent families whose names would be besmirched; some Communists are young and divulging their names "would only embitter them in their deviation;" the public welfare, at least for the present, does not require the naming of persons who are without leading influence.

Walsh says that since publication of the interviews he has been approached on the street and by telephone with requests that names be withheld.

He said there have been such threats as: "When the Red army gets here, we'll fix you."

One threat reached Rev. Pierre Gravel, parish priest in suburban Montcalm where Walsh lives, a long-time foe of Communists. He received a letter saying Walsh was secretary-treasurer of the union when he quit.

Fertile tinsmelt statements denying Walsh's claims. He started a $25,000 libel suit against Walsh and L'Action Sociale Limitee, publishers of L'Action Catholique.

Parish priest "the attitude and statements of Pat Walsh constitute an act of treason towards the working class, and especially the bushworkers he betrayed."

He said one of Walsh's claims—that the Canadian Woodworkers Union received orders from Moscow through Bruce Magnuson to burn forests in event of war with Russia — were "ridiculous" and "dishonest." He also denied that the workers' peace committee, of which he is president, is a Communist organization.

Magnuson, Labor - Progressive party organizer for Northwestern Ontario, described as "false and libellous" the accusation that he acted as courier for sabotage plans from Russia.

Not on Papers

Gui Caron, Quebec organizer for the LPP, denied that Walsh was ever a member of the editorial staff of the Communist publications Combat and Action.

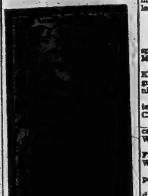
Tim Buck, LPP leader, termed Walsh's statements about sabotage "an invention" and said Walsh "was never a member of the LPP, much less a party organizer."

In detailing his allegations Walsh said there was sabotage at a nearby Lauzon when ships were built there for Nationalist China. He said there has been Communist activity at the Aluminum Company of Canada's Shipshaw development in the Lake St. John district of Quebec.

He said many of the same Communists who worked at Shipshaw now are working at the company's Kitimat development in British Columbia. He said the woodworkers' union was formed to "spread Communist propaganda and cause discontent and strikes among the workers."

In a front-page editorial Mr. Roy asked: "What interest would Pat Walsh have in disclosing all his secrets and turning his back on dangerous individuals . . ."

Police Information



Premier Duplessis said information held by Quebec provincial police corroborates many of Walsh's statements.

Roman Catholic Church officials at Archbishop Maurice Roy's residence have remained silent. Father Gravel, however, told The Canadian Press he believes Walsh is "all right." After the sabotage threat against his church, Father Gravel said:

"Those who think there can be peace with the enemies of God and truth are seeking a fictitious peace and are either naive and ignorant or traitors and collaborators of a bloody heresy."

Two other French-language newspapers in Quebec, Le Soleil and L'Evenement - Journal, gave Walsh's claims front-page space. The Chronicle-Telegraph, only English-language newspaper in the city, published a few stories but editorially indicated disbelief that Walsh had been a member of Communist-front organizations only to learn about their activities.

U.S. Jet Fighter Ace Arrives in Germany to Hold Back the Reds

Captain William Leddy of Bilbao, Calif., climbs out of his F-86 Sabre jet after landing at Fuerstenfeldbruck air base near Munich, Germany, after leading a force of 60 American jet fighter planes from Britain to bolster defence against invading Communist aircraft along the Iron Curtain. The number of planes involved in the transfer was withheld by USAF headquarters, but it was reported the Sabrejets already are patrolling the area where an F-84 Thunderjet was shot down by a Czech Communist MIG. — Central Press Canadian.

PREMIER HAS NO

Causing Addiction Claim

In introducing the revised Pharmacy Act, Dr. Phillips said that habit-forming barbiturates now enjoy unrestricted sale and "are causing a great many people to become addicted and many enter our mental hospitals."

The bill incorporates all regulations and shipments which have been passed since the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act was passed in 1871. The old act will be repealed.

Dr. Phillips said the new act, instead of restricting the right of retail stores to sell drugs, would extend the rights of retailers. The bill would remove any legal barriers on the sale of aspirin. Under the old act it could only be legally sold in drug stores, although the regulations had not been enforced for many years.

The premier's acceptance of Mr. Nixon's motion to set up a select committee to investigate reform institutions and a government amendment makes the measure government legislation and assures its passage.

Waste House Committee

Mr. Nixon, former reforms institutions minister in the Mitchell Hepburn government, said he felt a legislature committee could have done a "real job" following the Guelph reformatory riots and the break of the Boyd gang from the Don jail in Toronto last year.

He added he thought it was in the public interest to have a House committee—empowered to call hearings at any time and call witnesses—survey the department on which he said he didn't intend to throw any bad light. The last such survey was made more than 50 years ago.

During consideration of the budget estimate for the reforms institution department, Maj. Foote said one of every 74 persons in Britain at one time was convicted of an offence, compared with one in 36 in Ontario, but only one of every 3,348 persons in Britain was sent to jail compared with one in 113 in this province.

Claims Fine Enough

Maj. Foote added that 30 per cent of the convictions in Ontario result from liquor offences, for which a fine would often be sufficient penalty.

When the budget estimates for the sinews department came up, Albert Wren (Lib.-Lab.—Kenora) proposed that royalties be imposed on raw materials exported to the United States.

Miles Minister Kelly replied that the only royalty is the normal tax on profits but the alternate of prohibiting export is not feasible until the province has coal.

The town of Atikokan, centre for the Steep Rock iron development in Northwestern Ontario, about 140 miles west of Fort William, would be greatly retarded by a ban on export, Mr. Kelly said. The town, which had a population of a few hundred before the iron ore deposits were developed, had a potential population of 25,000 as long as production is maintained and expanded.

Cuts Road Accidents

The amendments to the Highway Traffic Act are designed to cut down the number of road accidents. The proposed changes include the prohibition of television sets in cars and an increase in the distance between commercial vehicles travelling on rural highways to 200 from 150 feet.

Under another amendment drivers involved in minor traffic offences would not have licences suspended if they carry insurance. New licences are suspended until financial responsibility is proven. It is believed this change would cause a larger number of drivers to carry insurance.

Weddings

HUTSON—COLLINS

St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, March 14, at 3 p.m. when the Rev. R. F. Gardam, rector of the church, united in marriage Beverley Ann Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Collins of Minion, and George Edwin Hutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hutson, of Crofton, Quebec.

Mrs. Arthur Bates provided the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a misty blue fleeked satin, navy shoes, white gloves, small white hat with pearl trimming and veil and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of red carnations with pink bells and carnations with white streamers.

Miss Lola Trumpour, of Belleville, was her only attendant, wearing a navy fleeked dress, white lacy hat with matching veil trim and carried a nosegay of yellow roses, mauve sweetpeas, with mauve and yellow streamers.

Mr. Hugh Wallace of Mimico, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Belleville at Lattimore's Town Room, where the bride's mother, wearing a gown of green plaid taffeta, corsage of pale pink carnations, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of blue figured silk and corsage of deep pink carnations.

The couple left later for a honeymoon in the United States, and on their return they will reside at Roslin.

ALEXANDER—WEBSTER

The Rev. A. B. Thomas officiated at the wedding in Trinity Anglican Church, Gait, which united in marriage Helen Joyce Barbara Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Webster, "Kirkcroft", Gait, and James Arnold Alexander, of London, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Alexander, of Belleville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a white satin gown, fashioned with a fitted jacket or lace and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt ended in a brief train. A fullet cap held her waist-length veil of French tulles aisle, shedding a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Susanne Webster, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of yellow with a mauve tooled velvet jacket and she carried a cascade of white and pink carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marlene Graham, wore an identical gown to that of the maid of honour, in pastel green with matching velvet jacket and carried a cascade of yellow and white carnations.

The best man was Bob Alexander, brother of the groom, and ushers were Jay Webster, brother of the bride, and Jack Alexander, brother of the groom.

Receiving guests at the reception at Ehrp's Banquet Hall were bride's mother wore a gown of navy velvet accented in gold with a corsage of red carnations.

The groom's mother chose a gown of coffee-toned lace over satin with a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to the Northern States, the bride donned a gray worsted suit with a blue hat and checkered topcoat with red and white accessories.

The couple will reside in London.

Christ Church C.C. Holds Successful Social Evening

There was entertainment and fun for all at the social evening the Contact Club of Christ Church held this week.

Joined by the Evening Branch of the W.A. for the first part of the program, the club began the evening with a most enjoyable film depicting the history and development of the soft drink industry. This technicolor film, shown through the courtesy of a local soft drink company, showed how this great industry grew and is helped by, many other industries. A pleasant aspect of this part of the evening was the cooler filled with refreshing drinks for everyone.

Lively Games

After a short meeting, conducted by vice-president Catherine Roulet, the club was again put in the games in which everyone soon overcame Evelyn Warham and Pauline Bishop. They began with the "Bean" game in which everyone discovered in the course of the games how difficult it is to avoid the words "yes" and "no" even the pain of forfeiting a bean. The lucky winner who at the end of the evening had the most beans was Mrs. Ruby Sprung who avoided saying the words, or by tricking her neighbour into using them was Margaret Day.

The main game was a rollicking bingo, called by Evelyn Warham and Dorothy Halbert. Among the winners in this fun-filled game, were, Shirley Amos, Evelyn Clark, Joan Taylor, Evelyn Warham, Dorothy Halbert, Evelyn Ethier, Della Bull and Doris Stewart.

At the end of the evening, while enjoying the refreshments served by Marg. Bunnett, Margaret Day and Joan Taylor, everyone agreed that the social evening had been a success.

Uniondale W.I. Holds Men's Meeting

The March meeting of the Uniondale Women's Institute was held in the spacious home of Mrs. G. Harrington, 4th concession of Sidney.

The meeting was opened by president, Mrs. M. Grills.

All agreed to give $25 toward the Red Cross and also $10 to the Child Mental Health Association.

The letter from Mrs. George Wilters, 167 Dundas Street East.

Mrs. Winters and Mrs. Davidson received the many guests, while Mrs. F. Lent invited them to be seated.

The treasurer sealed just inside the door was Mrs. Schliever.

Mrs. MacLean and Mrs. Rodgers took charge of the table filled with delicious looking home cooking.

Mrs. Rose and Mrs. M. Windover sold very attractive looking aprons and tea towels.

Lovely Tea Table

Across the centre of the dining room was the lovely modern covered tea table, centred with a silver bowl of green and pink baby blooms, narcisi and ferns flanked by silver candelabra with tall green and white candles, and at each end silver dishes adorned silver services.

The floral centre was donated by Mrs. Hick, of Lindsay, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Kerr, a former member of the W.A.

Those who poured were Mrs. R. Rowley and Mrs. J. Nunn; Mrs. F. Lent and Mrs. F. MacLean. Replenishing the tea table were Mrs. G. Miller and Mrs. Wheeler while those who served were Mrs. G. Gorsline, Mrs. M. P. Buck and Mrs. F. Farrell.

The kitchen convener was Mrs. P. Kerr, who was also in charge of refreshments. She was assisted by Mrs. L. Alexander.

Red Cross Nurse Tells of Life In Matachewan

TORONTO (CP)—Pat Barbara Maxwell says Matachewan, Ont., has "a car outside of every tarpaper shack."

That's her capsule description of the little mining town, some 30 miles southwest of Kirkland Lake, where she has been stationed as a Red Cross nurse since last October.

The attractive 23-year-old nurse here for the 32nd annual meeting of the Ontario division of the Red Cross, said she left six feet of snow behind.

"The roads are always kept open and you really need a car to get around. But it amazes me to see these little places that haven't even got curtains at the windows, but have a car parked outside," said Barbara.

Babies take up a good deal of Barbara's time.

"You're on call 24 hours a day and although 15 or more babies have been born since I've been in Matachewan, the stork only managed to make two of them daytime visits."

Barbara, a graduate of the University of Toronto's school of nursing, disclosed why so much water is boiled when a baby is born.

"It keeps the father occupied," she said. "Besides it doesn't necessarily keep people slim and fit. At the moment Barbara has a watchful eye on a 200-pound couple she's put on a diet.

"He was eating a loaf of bread a day, too," she said.

Matachewan is quite a problem up there just as it is in large cities today."

Teeth, too, are a serious problem, she said. "Partly because of poor eating habits, but also because of distance."

"We have a doctor in Matachewan and he pulls teeth, but it's 75 miles to the nearest dentist to get them fitted."

Barbara said that she had quite a few laughs on her list, but mostly French Canadians.

Tabernacle United Ch. Group 1 Sponsors St. Patrick's Day Tea

Tuesday afternoon Group No. 1 of the Tabernacle United Church sponsored a St. Patrick's Day tea, in the home of Mrs. George Wilters, 167 Dundas Street East.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

Singing in Disaster

By ROY L. SMITH

Unless religion can redeem the darkest hours of life it is nothing more than a waste of time; it does not deserve any man's loyalty; it has no right to claim any man's allegiance. If there is any power in this universe greater than the power wrapped up in our faith, then let us worship that instead.

It is the glory of the Christian's faith, fervently held, it produces a spirit within the soul of the believer which enables him to sing out triumphantly in the midst of the bleakest and the blackest hours.

Let's Get the Story

This week's Sunday school lesson tells in simple and unpretentious words the story of the last few days of our Lord's life. He is being entertained as a guest at a dinner when a woman of the street pours a vial of very expensive perfume over His head, as one might who is anointing a king. Some of His disciples, testified to the experience, though they have, of course. But the strength of the Christian appeal to them of today lies in the fact that literally hundreds of millions of people, of all races and conditions, testify to the fact that something happens within them when they "trust and obey."

Jesus was then in the midst of the blackest nights! That is why the Christian can sing in the midst of disaster.

Paganism's Tribute

One of the most glowing tributes paganism has ever paid to Christianity has been the way it has copied the Christian hymns, and the gentle compliment which Christianity can pay to Judaism is by the use of the ancient psalms of praise in the midst of the darkness.

Christianity is known throughout the non-Christian world as a singing religion, and scores of Christian hymns and psalms have been appropriated by other religions, and sung in pagan temples. Even the non-Christians seem to recognize something very significant in a faith that will set men singing.

In the very face of death Jesus and His disciples sang a hymn, and music is one of the chief elements in a Christian funeral service. Judaism and Christianity are the only religions in the world which do that.

And God who hears in the dark gives power to the dark, especially when we sing.

Young Girls Enjoy St. Patrick's Party

A pretty St. Patrick's party was held recently at the home of Miss Audrey Ann Ford, 21 Pinnacle Street, when she was hostess to a group of young girl friends.

The tea table was daintily appointed, while green and white streamers formed a lovely cake bearing out the St. Patrick motif, added to the attractive decorations.

During the supper, the girls retired to the living room where games were enjoyed, after which Audrey was presented with a lovely nylon sweater for which she graciously thanked the donors.

Those present included: the Misses Gail Scriven, Betty Rannie, Helen Peterman, Mary Lessels, Helen Moynes, Shirley Kirkey, Jane Townsend, Edith Campbell, and Elinor Rothwell.

Audrey's 82-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Drewry, was also present as a special guest of honor.

Women's Institute

IVANHOE W.I.

The March meeting of Ivanhoe Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Elmer Wood, Crookston, with 23 members, two visitors, and three children present.

With the branch president, Mrs. W. French, presiding, the meeting was called to order.

The usual business was transacted, and plans were laid for tables for Ivanhoe Hall. Also the speaker of the evening for the Ascension Service for the Home Maker, to present the subject, "How to Conduct Meetings".

Presentation

At the conclusion of the business, Mrs. J. C. Sills was presented with a life membership certificate and a life membership Women's Institute pin.

Mrs. Earl McMaster made the presentation and in her address she expressed appreciation of Mrs. Sills' work in Ivanhoe branch W.I.

In thanking the members, Mrs. Sills said she wanted to always be a member of the branch, and be a faithful member.

The convener of Education and Citizenship, Mrs. J. B. Haggerty was asked to take the chair for the program which included the following numbers: Mrs. H. McMullen, splendid paper on the motto, "It is no small contribution to a community and its activities to make it a better place for others."

The subject "Rural Women as Citizens", was taken by Mrs. J. Sills. Mrs. Sills said, "Today citizenship begins in the family, and the woman having the biggest share adding all could name many phases of citizenship, but was confined to the following:—(1) civic citizenship, religious, citizenship, social citizenship and political and public relations citizenship.

These headings were well given (1) Civic Citizenship is where women take an active interest in school boards, fair boards and civic organizations of all kinds; (2) in religious citizenship, the women set the background for the family. She provides the spiritual element without which no home can hope to exist.

Under social citizenship one of the remarks was, "There is no more impressive service than provided by enlightened foster homes. To give homeless children a home is the finest form of citizenship.

Good homes are the beating heart of every community. There is a need to develop human relationships in the home, in the school and in the community. It also a willingness to accept the responsibility of Canadian citizenship."

A short but entertaining reading was read by Helen Kirby, entitled "What is a Canadian".

Mrs. M. Shaw sang a solo "The Rose of Tralee", which was appreciated.

The hostess was given a vote of thanks for the use of her lovely home.

Mrs. Wood and her co-hostesses served afternoon tea.

Knights of Columbus Scene of Enjoyable Bridge and Euchre

Tuesday evening, the Knights of Columbus Hall was the scene of an enjoyable bridge and euchre sponsored by the Catholic Women's League, convened by Mrs. St. Jean-Braid and her committee. A record crowd was present.

Winners at bridge were, Mrs. Harold Barrett, Terry Scanlon; at euchre were, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. J. Hilton and Mrs. M. Winn H. Henn, W. Taylor, K. Crewson.

The basket of groceries was won by Mrs. G. Fitzgibbon. The special prize for St. Patrick's Day went to Miss Rita McCullagh, and door prize to Mrs. Lorne Burks.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The girl he loves won't take him seriously

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20, and very much in love with a girl a few years older than myself, whom I have known all my life.

I have never felt about any girl as I do about her, but when I tell her that I love her and want her to marry me, she just laughs at me.

Now can I get her to notice me in some special way and not just as the boy she has known for so many years? I want her to learn to love me.—C. E. P.

Dear C.E.P.:

You don't say how much older this girl is than yourself, but it is readily understandable that, since she has watched you grow up, she feels as though you were just a younger brother. It's also possible that your feeling for her, whether you realize it or not, is that of a young brother toward an older sister with whom he has always been close and on whom he is unusually devoted.

Whether this is so or not, the best way for you to find out is not to hang around this young woman all the time, trying to talk her into noticing you in some special way, but to let her see that you are a mature and responsible young man. If you're out with other girls, do well at whatever job you have so that she can see you are headed for good things in your field of work, and cultivate a few of the same interests that other men of your age have, developing yourself to fit into these pursuits so that you will appear to her as a well-rounded young man with lots of initiative and ambition, it will do more than anything you can say to make her see you as an interesting and mature person instead of the self-pleasant she apparently still considers you.

In other words, try to sell yourself to her through what you are, and what you do, instead of merely what you say. If she is ever going to lose that condescending attitude toward you, this will do it.

Promise to conclusions will win you no friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a month ago, I broke off with my boy friend because I got very bothered and thought he was taking me for granted. He is away at college, and, after we had been writing steadily to each other, all of a sudden he stopped writing, so without waiting for an explanation I gave him back his ring. Afterward I found he had been very busy with exams that he didn't have time to write, and another reason was that he had heard I had gone out with another fellow. I did go out with another boy, but it was because my steady boy friend had stopped writing.

As soon as I realized how wrong I had been, I wrote my boy friend a letter and asked him to forgive me. He replied that he would forgive me if I wanted it, but he wasn't sure I did. So I wrote and told him that I loved him very much, and would do everything I could to please him so he would have faith in me again. But he never answered my letter and I have not seen him since.

I know now that I made a very bad mistake, and I would like you to tell me how I can get my boy friend back, or, rather, how I can get him to come and see me so that I could tell him in person how sorry I am. Or do you think I should just forget him? I love him so much though, that the thought of having to give him up would practically kill me.

I am 17 and he is 21.—E. M.

Dear E.M.:

Have you written and asked your fellow definitely if he wants to give you a chance to talk with him so that your mixed-up affairs things out between you? If not, then you should. If he doesn't answer you, however, or refuses to see you, then of course all you can do is accept the fact that he is not interested in continuing his friendship with you. After all, I'm sure you must realize that no one, either girl or boy, makes a very satisfactory friend if she or he has no more self-control or maturity than to fly off the handle at any little thing.

If he does ignore or decline your request for a meeting, you can only let the whole thing be an experience which taught you the valuable lesson of not jumping to conclusions before you really know what you are doing, and of being more broad-minded and understanding with the next boy friend.

IDENTIFY FIFTH VICTIM

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—The fifth victim of last Sunday's King George Hotel fire here was identified Thursday as Charles Harrington, a sign pier believed from Eastern Canada. RCMP said they were trying to reach his next-of-kin, possibly in Ottawa or Montreal. The other four killed in the $2,000,000 blaze were previously identified as Mrs. Nina Peters, Alex Magwilo, Thomas Blink and Henry Morgan.

Readers' Friday Column

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION:

When I was a child my mother made delicious flaxseed or Irish moss cookies. She died before I married and with her the recipe for those wonderful cookies. I have searched in vain through many cookbooks for a recipe. . . the cookies were crisp drop ones with finely chopped baked shredded them. Could you perhaps give me a recipe I might try?—Mrs. Roy B.

ANSWER:

I nearly hunted in vain too . . . but I finally got a clue. I have tried these but they come from a very dependable source. SEED COOKIES

(Using anise, caraway or Iiseed.)

One-half cup butter or shortening less 1 tablespoon, 1 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1-3 cup sour milk, about 2 1-4 cups flour, 1-3 teaspoon each soda, salt and vanilla. Almond flavoring is better than vanilla, when liiseed is used. The amount of any of these seeds is optional—use from 1-4 to 3-4 cup, adding most of the seed to the dough, but reserving a few to sprinkle over top. Cream butter well, beat in the sugar until mixture is very creamy then beat in the egg. Sift the flour with the salt and soda and mix in, Add flavoring. Amount of flour depends on your taste. Drop from teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 8 minutes. In some seed cookie recipes the seeds are pounded to a pulp or put through nut grinding knife of food chopper twice I hope this recipe helps.

QUESTION:

. . . have had much success with your recipes . . . could you please print a recipe for Scotch Pancakes? Also a moist chocolate cake?—Mrs. C. D.

ANSWER:

POTATO PANCAKES

Three medium-sized raw potatoes, 1 tablespoon each flour and cream, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt. Grate the pared potatoes directly into the cream and flour and egg and salt. Stir the mixture as you grate to prevent potatoes browning. Cook by spoonfuls in heavy frying pan in hot fat, flattening the cakes a little with the turner when you turn them over.

MOIST CHOCOLATE CAKE

(Fluffy too)

Cream together until light and fluffy 2-3 cup soft shortening and 1 1-2 cups sugar, then beat in 2 unbeaten eggs. Melt 2 1-2 squares (2 1-2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate and stir them in. Sift cake flour and measure 2 1-4 cups and sift it with 1 teaspoon each soda and salt. Stir the flour mixture into the first mixture alternately with 1 1-4 cups butter milk (or sweet milk if you have no sour or buttermilk). Pour into 2 greased layer cake tins or square or oblong pans which have been dusted with flour too. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. Layers require 30 to 35 minutes; square or oblong 40 to 45 minutes.

QUESTION:

. . . last year I used your recipe for sweet pickled pork, but forget how it. . . thanking you, Mrs. R. K.

ANSWER:

SWEET PICKLED PORK

These amounts will "sweeten" 10 lbs. fresh pork. Use hams, shoulders bacon (sides and back), fat back and tongues if desired.

For every 10 lbs. fresh pork weigh out 5 lbs. salt, 1 1-4 lbs. brown sugar, 1 oz. saltpetre. Rub these together well, Lking care that the saltpetre is finely powdered. Dissolve them thoroughly in two gallons boiling water. Let this cool thoroughly.

The pieces of meat to be cured should be trimmed free of all corners and the ends then every surface rubbed with salt. Place it in a cool place overnight. Next day pack it in a clean barrel or clean large earthen jar, with heaviest pieces of meat at bottom, bacons and tongues at top. When first solution is cold pour it over the meat packed in barrel. It should cover the meat at all times. The meat should be weighted down by covering it with a heavy plate or wooden cover weighted down; make sure meat is immersed. If brine shows signs of fermenting during the curing period it should be well old, boiled, cooled, and then poured back over meat. Bacons and tongues will keep from 4 to 6 weeks; lighter hams and shoulders 6 to 8 weeks; heavy hams 8 weeks. After curing they may be washed in warm water then hung in smokehouse and smoked.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMESON

Mark off good-looks liabilities

Take a beauty inventory.

There never was a time when women had so many possibilities for overcoming defects in appearance, for playing up good points, and for camouflaging those that do not qualify. Many industries offer help—the beauty trade, the manufacturers of lovely lingery and smart shoes, etc. All a woman needs to do is to use her head intelligently and cultivate good taste.

With some women, of course, that seems like a pretty big order; but remember that a lot of beautiful women were, not born that way; they cultivate their charms. Look at pictures of some of the movie stars as they were twenty years ago. Flatt Jones, now radiant, despite the added birthdays.

Take inventory of your beauty qualities, those of your own good points, because they can't take care of themselves. Fine complexions are not haunted or changed; they have enemies—harsh winds, strong sunlight, atmospheric dust. Those abundant tresses can suddenly become depleted, so brush them every night, willy-nilly, rain or shine. Unless the scalp is in healthy condition, the growth may lessen. Three minutes of scalp massage every night is a wonderful hair tonic.

Is your hairdo becoming? There is no standardized style at the moment, so you can have a long bob, a short cut, or a betwixt-and-between length. Facial contour and the neck should decide the length. Do you flirt with the idea of having your hair dyed? Be wise; have a temporary rinse to find out if you like it. Once dyed, you're in for it.

Do you keep your eyebrows in perfect order? no little stray shafts outside the fold? Pixie! But don't overdo, there is a state of oblivion. Eyebrow styles are normal again.

Perhaps a few tiny lines have formed around your eyes, Fight 'em when they're small and weak by getting plenty of sleep. Avoid them slightly once a day with a heavy cream, and stop squinting. That's how you get them, don't forget. If you do, you'll have two little intriguing lines between your eyes.

Keep the lip ends lifted. Brighten your face with a pleasing expression.

You'll stay pretty, walk pretty, stand pretty! You must. Not only will it make for graceful motion, but to maintain the fine lines of your figure. Think beauty, work at it, and resp rewards that are priceless.

Last year no less than 9,000 girls graduating from around the important art of home nursing in classes sponsored by the Canadian Red Cross.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECHMAN

Birth announcements are for news, not for ground-shaking

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am to have my second baby soon, and would like to send some informal kind of birth-announcements, because my husband and I have so many relatives and friends in various parts of the country. But yesterday a cousin told me that it is not proper to send birth-announcements except for the first baby, because some people regard a birth-announcement as a hint for a present for the baby. What is your opinion about this?—Lady-in-Waiting.

It is entirely correct to send birth-announcements for Baby Two or Baby Three or Baby —whatever-number, just as it is proper to send announcements of the arrival of Baby One. The idea of sending birth-announcements is to tell relatives and friends the Happy News that they will of course be delighted to receive. And actually there is in these announcements nothing that "obliges" a relative or friend to send a gift. They do as they like about a gift or don't send a gift, or just write a note of congratulation and best wishes.

Don't be a "linger-leger-Lucy"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

It's "no fair" for you and your companion to linger and talk over coffee-and-cigarets when you are lunching or dining in a busy, crowded restaurant. Look to see if there are others waiting for tables and if so, don't take more than your fair share of talking-time. It's really cruel to keep those who have a limited time for each yearnly waiting, desperately waiting as the minutes maddeningly fly by. And remember, too, that your prolonged lingering is depriving the waiter or waitress of another tip, an important item.

Chapter 28

THE BARGAIN

Sallow-faced Judas slouched through the door at the farther end of the red-walled apartment and approached the two elders with graceless steps. He was a red-bearded man with tough, curly hair, thick with ringlets, and his eyes chronically swollen. His straw sandals squeaked on the marble floor as he made a stiff, perfunctory bow to Annas.

"Your name, my son?"

"Judas, son of Simon."

Annas scribbled on a piece of parchment with a reed-pointed pen. His next question was asked with the utmost casualness.

"How long have you been a friend of this Jesus of Capernaum?"

"Jesus of Nazareth, Lord — I have been His friend for three years."

"How did it happen that you, a good man from Kerioth, took up with one of the wild Galileans?"

"I believed in Jesus," replied Judas.

"Then why do you offer to betray Him, now, in His hiding place for the night?"

"It is My Affair"

"Understand me clearly," exclaimed Judas in a voice deepening with indignation. "I am not a common informer. What I do, I do—and why I am My affair and I do not wish Him to come to any harm."

Old priest and young priest remained silent.

"You do not intend any harm to Jesus, do you?" persisted Judas.

"Do you doubt the mercy, the justice, or the wisdom of the judges of Israel?" demanded Caiphas.

"No. I believe in the Sanhedrin as the true judges of the Lord."

"I believe," said Annas acidly, "that you are a revolutionist. Do you know that I could send you to prison?"

"No, Lord Annas! You have no evidence against me."

"I found evidence enough only yesterday against a conspirator called Barabbas! Another fellow trying to stir up trouble and bring us all to ruin. What did you do all these three years with Jesus?"

"I carried the bag; I was His treasurer; that is how much He trusted me."

"Did you have much money to handle?" asked Annas.

"A few pence at our most prosperous time."

"Under His Spell"

"Are you sure Jesus didn't keep some back for Himself?"

"Yes, I am sure of that!" shouted Judas. "How can you—"

"Judas!" snapped Caiphas. "You forget yourself."

Judas stopped his mouth with the palm of his hand; then bowed low.

"I am truly sorry," he muttered. "Please forgive me. I was under His spell—that was it—and now the scales have fallen from my eyes and I see Him as He really is. He charms you, and the thoughts He puts into words sound wonderful. But these are violent times, and He talks soft words. If anybody slaps you on a cheek, turn your head around to be can slap the other one. Give in to everybody. Never resist anybody."

"I think I begin to see," interrupted Annas. "You thought the important thing was for Him to rally our people. Well, He had his chance last Sunday, when He rode into this city and the whole multitude fell at His feet. Why, He could have done anything to that mob that He wanted. What did He want?"

"Nothing. He was preaching some pacifist nonsense about the Kingdom of God. He needs to be placed under arrest—"

"Protective arrest — for His own good?"

"Yes, Lord," agreed Judas.

"Another question," went on Annas in a mocking tone. "Did you ever hear your Jesus attack —the priesthood?"

"A Dangerous Man"

"Lord, He has told more than a dozen parables that would blast you all out of the Temple."

Annas sucked his tooth noisily as he turned blankly toward Caiphas. "Then Jesus is a dangerous man," he grunted. "You

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glodchesky, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a week while I was relieved of my pain and was back on the job for good."

have done well to come to me."

He seized his pen.

"Who are the principal supporters of this fellow?"

"Who are the principal supporters of this fellow?" began to enumerate, Annas wrote down the names of sixteen persons; the eleven other Apostles and Mary, the mother of Jesus; Mary, the wife of Cleophas; Salome, the wife of Zebedee, Mary Magdalene and Joanna, the wife of Chuza, who was Herod's steward. These, Judas declared, together with Mary and Martha of Bethany and their brother Lazarus, formed what might be called the inner group of the followers of Jesus.

"But does He not hobnob also with men of a much higher social class?" asked Annas.

"Why no! While they have not openly avowed their membership, they are strongly sympathetic. They are Joseph of Arimathea and the counsellor Nicodemus."

"Now Judas, one thing more and we shall be finished. I believe you told the high priest that tonight above any other time was the best to take Jesus. Why was that?"

"Because it is the only time He would let you take Him."

"Middle of night."

"He Could Escape"

"No riddle—a simple fact, Lord Annas. Jesus could escape from your guard, disappear before your very eyes if He had a mind to. I saw Him do that when the mob tried to kill Him in His home town of Nazareth. But He expects to be taken tonight."

"And why no miracles tonight?" demanded Annas with sarcasm.

"Because He believes He must die. He keeps saying He must die to save the world. Take Him now—while He is in that mood—and He will not resist you —so you," Judas added with heavy mockery, "will be well off."

For a moment Annas and Caiphas talked together in low tones. Annas suddenly stood up.

"Listen to these special instructions. Get for us their certain plans for where they will spend tonight.

"No harm will come to Him!" reiterated Judas.

"Leave everything to us — and hurry."

"What I do, I must do quickly."

As Judas lifted his head, he heard a click of silver.

"I am not doing this for hire!" he blurted out.

The old man glanced at him witheringly.

"I have had too much experience in life ever to take anything for nothing. Tomorrow you will not come back to me with new demands—you will be paid off now. Thirty pieces of silver!"

The coins clinked in the palm of Judas.

A Visit to Pilate

The conspirators, Annas and Caiphas, knew they had to hurry. Now that the old leader believed in the real danger of the situation, he was far more stirred than Caiphas, although outwardly still calm and lordly. No one knew better than Annas what the consequences would be to him, to his family, to his class, if Jesus prevailed. It would mean the ultimate eclipse of the Temple aristocracy. But Annas was resolved also that the illicit plan must be put through with the utmost appearance of legality. The heart of Annas was elated now: even at his extreme age he relished politics, intrigue, secret action. Obstacles had always hardened the resolve of Annas; in the excitement he forgot his weariness and felt young again. He tasted victory in advance.

It was nightfall when Annas set forth with several of his guard, with torches went before and behind his litter as he was carried through the narrow, crowded streets to the castle of Antonia, where Pontius Pilate stayed when in town.

Annas was well aware how deeply Pilate hated all Jews, avoiding every possible contact with them, even while living among them and governing them, he would certainly not be pleased at this late call by Annas. But this errand was an urgent political consideration, by which the old man knew he could justify the intrusion and hold Pilate's ear long enough.

Annas was in the castle of Antonia less than half an hour, but when he came out, his eyes held the gleam of a man who had won.

"When the case of Jesus comes before Pilate, the Nazarene will die," he was thinking. "And it will be the end of it — He will never be heard of again."

A Hired Mob

By the time Annas reached home, a crowd had gathered before his front door—laborers, hired seamen, shoulders, screamers, flat-shakers, noisy professional pickets who would rail against any person or any cause—for pay. Tonight Caiphas would be their foreman.

Caiphas had worked swiftly. Not only had he assembled these hirelings to sound as if they were the voice of all Judea, howling for blood, he had also assembled a troop of Temple guards, sentinels without weapons.

Presently they would be joined by Roman soldiers with armor and swords, who would give empire authority to the arrest.

"You had best quickly, Caiphas," said Annas.

"Before you realize," replied Caiphas, showing teeth through his beard. "I have sent personal word to every single member of the council, telling them that the Sanhedrin must be prepared to meet tonight and to stay in session until the case of this fellow is disposed of. They will recognize how serious the emergency is in the way I worded the call. Meanwhile, Judas is back."

"Judas?"

"Judas Iscariot, Lord — the man who will take us to Jesus. He has learned exactly where, to lead us."

"Then are you ready?"

"At once!"

MARSH HILL

Harmony Club Hears Fine Talk on 'Time'

MARSH HILL. — Marsh Hill Harmony Club met Friday night, at the school house for their monthly meeting with Mr. and Mrs. Farley Lindenfield as host and hostess.

The president, Allyn Finkle, opened the meeting.

The executive is to make plans for the entertaining of two groups Friday, April 12.

The club voted $10 to the Red Cross drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coulter, program conveners, presented an interesting program using as their theme, "Time". They opened the worship service with the hymn, "Father, Lead me Day by Day".

Mrs. Ivan Clare read the Scripture reading from Ecclesiastes 3:1-11, where the word time is used 30 times.

Mrs. Coulter then presented a paper "The Value of Time", based on the theme "Do unto us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom". Psalm 90:12.

Miss Barbara Brown sang as a solo, "The Beauty Around Us".

Mrs. Coulter then introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Don McKinnon, of Madoc, who won the Junior Farmer Public Speaking contest in Hastings county and won Sib place in the provincial speaking contest.

Mr. McKinnon had chosen as his subject, "Take Time". "In these times of rush and hurry we should take time to be courteous and mannerly". Mr. McKinnon stated that one should take time to be honest, considerate, kind and to be happy. All should take time for leisure and cultivate a hobby; take time to try again; take time to read good books; time for soul culture. Time to give thanks for good homes, and time to be the best or whatever one is.

The members were pleased to have had the opportunity of hearing Mr. McKinnon.

Miss Barbara Brown then favored with a solo "All Through the Night". "There is no Time but Now", by Mrs. Chapman, was read by Mrs. Finkle.

Mrs. Coulter then quoted a poem of Rudyard Kipling and Mrs. E. B. Finkle closed the program.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Finkle recreation conveners, had a short sing-song, hymn-singing games, stunts, mental arithmetic questions.

Mrs. Bartindale read a humorous reading "Mandy Jones Seeks a Job".

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Form Association To Standardize Fur Production

KEMPTVILLE (CP)—Formation of a Rideau District Association to standardize fur production in a large area of eastern Ontario was undertaken Wednesday night by delegates from local trappers councils from nine counties.

The association will standardize stretching and preparation of pelts and market much of their fur jointly through the Ontario Trappers Association in future.

The delegates, representing more than 1,300 trappers who operate in the area east of a line between Gananoque and Arnprior and bounded by the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Rivers, elected George Polley of Easton's Corners as president. Bill Whelan of Kars was elected vice-president and Archie Riddell of Caletta secretary-treasurer of the new association.

Delegates heard expert advice on fur preparation from Taylor Carmichael of Sudbury, fur manager of the Ontario Trappers Association and Con Duchartrone, Toronto trapline expert. Norma Gilbert of Sudbury, secretary of the Ontario association, also attended the meeting.

Mr. Carmichael told the group that muskrats taken in the Rideau area are equal to the best trapped anywhere, and suggested production might be improved by planting wild rice or wild celery in various Rideau areas to provide food. He said one third of the fur taken in Canada is taken in Ontario.

Delegates discussed at some length the problem of disposal of animals caught accidentally while trapping muskrat. Under the present system the mink are seized by the Ontario government and no compensation is given the trapper.

No Casualties In Collision Of Two Vessels

ROTTERDAM (AP) The big Belgian ferry Prince Charles collided with the 6,140-ton British motorship Elantiraat in the English channel today but was reported returning to Ostend, Belgium under her own power. There was no word of any casualties.

First reports had said the Ostend-to-Dover, England, ferry was sinking slowly but later word indicated that the 2,858-ton vessel was remaining afloat.

Dirkwager's shipping agency here reported that a lifeboat already was on the way from Ostend to the Prince Charles. The agency said its report placed the collision about 12 miles north of the coast of France.

Separate Trials To be Requested

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Counsel for one of two Canadians accused of the holdup-slaying of a Buffalo jeweller served notice on the district attorney Wednesday that a separate trial would be requested.

The formal notice for a separate trial for Maurice O'Dell, 26, will be made Friday before State Supreme Court Justice William H. Munson. District attorney John F. Dwyer said he would ask that the motion be denied.

O'Dell and Walter Griffen, 26, both from Hamilton, Ont., are scheduled to go on trial April 13.

They have pleaded innocent to an indictment charging first - degree murder in the shooting of Donald J. Hurd in Hurd's Jewelry store last Dec. 9. They were extradited from Canada to face the charge.

Doom Town is Sacrificed for Science

What effects the possible explosion of an A-bomb will have on the average family is one of the questions U.S. atomic officials are trying to answer in the current series of tests which started with the recent exploding of an A-bomb from a tower in Yucca Basin, near Las Vegas, Nevada. The bomb gushed its ghastly light and killing wallop, equal to 15,000 tons of TNT over Doom Town, a replica of an American community, and turned the pale pre-dawn of the desert into that of a blinding noon. An ugly mushroom cloud then rose up from the centre of the little mock community, sacrificed for science, with its houses, 50 test cows, including one seen above, and realistic-looking mannequins, seen below in the living room of one of the houses constructed well within the danger area. Meticulous care was used in selection of subject matter to be exposed, even to articles of clothing worn by the mannequins. — Central Press Canadian.

Swedish Newsmen Convinced Moscow Has More Snobbery Than Uncommunist Stockholm

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The classless society envisaged by Karl Marx is anything but classless in Moscow today.

Swedish newspaper men who went to the Soviet capital to cover international skating competitions returned convinced that Communist Moscow has more snobbery than uncommunist Stockholm.

Factory and office workers, on the other hand, have started a new fashion of having no better on their bread. Loaves of all kinds cost only a few kopeks. But better cuts 21 rubles (about $4.25 at the official exchange rates) for 2.2 pounds.

Wage $150 Monthly

The average wage of a factory worker is 800 rubles ($150) a month.

What impressed them was the difference between the almost elegant clothes worn by the wives of high officials and the down-at-heel shawl-round-head type of dress of typists and factory girls.

A better quality two-piece costume, they report, costs 1,500 rubles ($375) in Moscow at present and a pair of good shoes 300 rubles ($75).

Only officials of the rank of factory manager and upwards seem to be able to afford their own automobiles.

The best cars, the Zis, are mainly supplied by the state to the higher officials.

Class Distinction Noted

Greater class distinction was also noticed in travel. Every high Soviet official travelling on the Moscow - Leningrad express was given a whole reserved compartment to himself. Other compartments were so full that passengers were sitting on the floor.

A new snobbery is also growing among schoolchildren. Education is theoretically available to all children on the same terms. But here and there "mob" schools are springing up, where the pupils are almost exclusively the children of high army, navy or air force officers, or important bureaucrats. Improved by RedHerpes

The journalists were impressed by the skyscrapers sprouting up here and there in Moscow, but surprised to learn that, with the exception of the new Moscow university building, most of them are intended for new hotels or blocks of luxury apartments. They could not report any visible efforts to provide homes for the more poorly paid workers.

The correspondents found the underground subway trains impressive, efficient and extremely clean.

REDNERSVILLE. — A Canadian Girls in Training group with a membership of ten girls was recently organized at Rednersville. Mrs. T. F. Townsend is the superintendent with Miss Lois Hillman, as assistant leader.

The Rednersville United Church choir members held a "Bachelor's Supper" on Friday last. This was well attended and an Irish program enjoyed. The men in green caps and aprons did a fine business in serving at tables.

Piano solos by Mrs. W. Howell were greatly enjoyed. Vocal solos were given by Miss Marilyn Adams, Mr. C. Hillman and Mr. Gordon Babbit. The "Emerald Sextette" were heard in six numbers.

A pageant "The Pilgrim's Vision" is being prepared for Easter Sunday by the Rednersville United Church choir assisted by eight others taking leading parts. Marjorie Roblin the "Spirit of Easter"; Lois Hillman, Cross Bearer; Sharon Conway, Anchor Bearer; Margaret Anderson, Star Bearer; Elaine Wannahmaker, Shield Bearer; Joyce Foote, Bible Bearer; Marilyn Doxtator, Crown Bearer.

The part of the Pilgrim will be taken by Mr. K. Ward.

Last year 38,724 Canadians, young and old, learned swimming and water safety in 4,925 classes conducted by volunteer instructors.

RAWDON

Mount Pleasant—Rawdon W. M. S. Holds Interesting Meeting

RAWDON, — Mrs. R. R. Bonsteel was hostess on Wednesday last for the regular meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon Women's Missionary Society. There were 18 members, nine visitors and four members of the Baby Band in attendance.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe conducted the opening worship and Miss Ruth Linn officiated at the piano.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave the report and roll call was answered with several items of interest on being words of the Moderator, The Right Rev. A. A. Scott, "If the early Christians had not been convinced that their Master was truly alive, they would not have troubled to write the records which we call the gospels."

The treasurer's report was read and $6.50 has been received in annual fees, $12.65 by envelope and $2.95 loose collection, making a total of $22.10 for two months.

Thanks Expressed

The corresponding secretary read a letter of thanks for the letter of sympathy sent and the assistant supply secretary a note of thanks for the gift of a quilt.

Mrs. Gordon Linn reported on the recent quilting and all were invited to the home of Mrs. Milton Wrightman on the 18th to quilt.

Mrs. Blake Sharpe was appointed delegate to Belleville Presbyterial.

The allocation for 1953 will be $200 as formerly and the missionary for prayer is Miss Henrietta Campbell, missionary at large for the Peace River Presbytery. In the book, "Through Missionary Windows", it is noted that the temperature at "Manning Village", is around 30 degrees below zero in the winter months; so Miss Campbell spends her mornings in her cosy room in the nurse's residence at Battle River Hospital, Here she prepares her Sunday services which includes Manning and Deanwood, her Sunday School, C.G.I.T., and religious instruction, which she gives in the schools. She is also a member of the ministerial association which convenes monthly.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Merrick with Mrs. John Holmes in charge of the Easter program.

Alcoholic Education

The Christian Citizenship secretary brought a message re "Alcoholic Education". The president read a message from "The Stewardship Secretary", based on the theme "Attempt Great Things For God".

Mrs. John Holmes synopsized the study chapter on "Education in Africa". In 1917 in Bailundu Angola, S. T. Miller, hung his portable blackboard in a tree and became the pioneer of education in the Benguela Highlands. Lester Currie at Chisamba and Sanders at Camundongo, opened schools for children in their districts.

The Canadian Missionary, Theodore L. Tucker, vividly describes the eagerness of African young people to secure an education. Dorothy Schauffler portrays the Lauback schools where the natives were taught to read and the motto, "Each one teach one", was put into action. There are various kinds of schools for girls and boys throughout Angola. The Currie Institute for boys at Dondi covers a two-year general course. One half of each day is devoted to agriculture and trades.

Splendid Contribution

In spite of all handicaps, the educational missionaries are making a splendid contribution to the life of the Africans. Over 20,000 children and young people attend our schools in Angola.

A school of elementary grades for children of missionaries is situated at Dondi. These children receive their advanced courses in their own lands.

Mrs. Douglas Campbell read a letter re "The World Day of Prayer in Central Africa".

The program was arranged by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and the devotional period was based on the theme "Go and teach all nations". Mrs. Blake Sharpe read the Bible Lesson.

Mrs. Malcolm Sharpe and Mrs. James Hoard sang "Jesus is Calling To-day". Mrs. Raymond McConnell read a paper on "Fellowship of the Church as a Means of Grace", and closed with the prayer. "That Thy stewards may be faithful". After the service closed Mrs. R. R. Bonsteel led the group in a sing-song of favorite hymns which closed with "Elon's King Shall Reign Victorious".

MELROSE

MELROSE. — Mrs. Pearl Haight is waiting on Mrs. Alex McLaren at her home in Melrose.

The euchre and dance sponsored by the Melrose W.I. on Friday evening was well attended. Nineteen tables were used for cards. The proceeds for food collet amounted to over $40.

Friends were sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. Donald Cross. His condition is much improved as he was released from Belleville Hospital on Saturday.

Mr. Franklin Snider, lately returned from a lengthy stay with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Snider in Louisiana, called on Mrs Alex. McLaren on Sunday afternoon. He later called on Mr. James Sills of the 4th Line.

Mrs. Willett Casey spent last week convalescing at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren. Blaine Casey spent the week with Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren.

Mrs. William McMechan is in Kingston, receiving special treatments on her throat. Friends hope she will soon be able to return with her voice much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubbs and girls were Sunday visitors at the Wesse home.

Members of the Y.P.U. are busy practising their play.

Mrs. Cumbley Sr., of the O.S.D., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cumbley.

COOPER-REMINGTON

Cooper-Remington. —Two carloads of ladies from Cooper W.I., were entertained by Queensboro W.I. at a meet demonstration at Queensboro Orange Hall, on Tuesday. All enjoyed a most delightful luncheon and a social half hour.

Mrs. M. Reynolds, Mrs. George Graham, Mrs. T. Graham, Mrs. H. Rollins and Miss Joan Chapman attended the concert put on by the Trenton Rondesauntes 'n Norwood, Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Hark Rollins, also Mr. and Mrs. Will Rollins, spent Tuesday in Peterborough.

Sorry to report Mrs. Albert Bird is confined to Belleville Hospital. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Lynn Empey, of Madoc, Mrs. Thomas Henry, of Cobourg, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Molly Holmes.

The Cooper Hockey Club held a dance in Queensboro Orange Hall, on Friday night.

GORE

GORE. — The Farm Forum group was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Montgomery for their Monday evening meeting.

Mrs. William Hubbs has returned to her home her after having spent the winter months with her daughter, Mrs. Wragg and family near Brantford. En route home Mrs. Hubbs spent a few days with Mrs. G. French in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Fox, of Wellington, called Monday on his mother, Mrs. D. B. Fox, who is quite ill at her home here. Rev. Townsend was a caller at the same home.

Mr. an dMrs. Hubert Townsend and family, called Sunday afternoon on Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pulver and children.

Miss Audra Brickman s holidaying in Toronto, with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Brickman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown and children, 2nd concession, spent Sunday with Mrs. Will Hubbs and Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs and family.

Mr. Melvin Pulver is attending the spring session of the county council, in Picton, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner spent Friday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Pulver and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Venclief, Centre, on Saturday evening.

JOHNSTOWN

JOHNSTOWN — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush and family were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McMaster of York Road, Trenton.

Several of the people of Johnstown attended the pie social on Wednesday evening at White's Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Warren, of Toronto, over the week-end.

Mr. Will Harry, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with his uncles, Mr. Jim and Ben Harry. Johnstown people are glad to hear that Mr. Ben Harry s home from the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCall and Mr. and Mrs. Leo McCauley, of Wooler, spent Monday evening with their friend, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Silckle.

Mrs. N. Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyers and Eddie were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jden Stickle for supper.

Mrs. Ernest Kennedy and baby, of Toronto, spent a recent afternoon with Mrs. Allan Boate.

The neighbors are getting the wood up for next winter and all the old jobs done before it is time to get at the spring's work.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hess, of Trenton, were guests for supper at Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyers; on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Brooks and Wayne spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brooks, of Frankford.

The Sidney Junior Farmers and Junior Institute held their meeting at the Johnstown school on Thursday, with Miss I. Ness, (home economics) as speaker for the evening, her topic being, "Proper Dress for the Occasion".

The bad wind a week or so ago took the roofing off some of the barns in this neighborhood and the next thing is to get someone who will be kind enough to come and fix them, it is no hard to get some small jobs done. What has happened to our handymen of the past?

Mrs. Allan Boate and children of Bellevrlle, Mrs. Ernest Kennedy and baby, of Toronto, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyers, on Wednesday.

Mrs. W. St. Hilaire is home from Gandhu, where she has been visiting her daughter, Teresa, Mrs. Charles Kurtz.

The changeable weather of the winter has caused a lot of sickness throughout the neighborhood.

The ladies of Johnstown W.A. held a quilting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Harder, on Thursday, and were guests at a lovely dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Lewis, of Foxboro, were visitors on Saturday and support guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harry.

Mrs. Floyd Ketcheson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Terry were Wednesday tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stickle.

Mr. Arnold Meyers' paintings are on display at the Odeon Theatre. There has been much comment on the portrait of Mr. Joe Taft. It is so much like him.

Tito's Visit With Royal Family Sets Precedent

Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia is shown in formal pose with members of the Royal Family during luncheon at Buckingham Palace in London. From left are Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, Duke of Edinburgh and Prince Charles. The luncheon, a formal affair, marked the first time that a reigning monarch has received and broken bread with a Communist head of state.—Central Press Canadian.

Marshal Tito Winds Up Visit Well Pleased With Results Of Talks With British Leaders

LONDON (AP)—Reported well-pleased with results of his defence talks with British leaders, Yugoslav President Tito faced a final round of social functions today as his three days of official visit here neared its end.

Sometime Saturday morning, the anti-Soviet Communist dictator will board a launch and travel down the Thames to join the Yugoslav training ship Galeb for his voyage home.

Although for security reasons no details of Tito's program were disclosed, it was reported he would be a guest of the Queen at Windsor Castle, just outside London, much of today.

Will Attend Dinner

The Yugoslav strong man also arranged to attend a dinner being given for him tonight at the House of Commons by the national executive of the Labor party.

Tito Thursday outlined for Prime Minister Churchill and top British economic and military officials a Yugoslav plan to block Soviet aggression in the eastern Mediterranean.

Although no details were disclosed, informed sources said the plan involved increased British economic aid to Yugoslavia and the supply by Britain of powerful new weapons, including jet planes and heavy tanks, to Tito's military and naval forces.

Makes Statement

After the meeting, the Yugoslav leader told newspaper men:

"We examined the general situation in the world, especially the question of defence against aggression. We reached the same conclusions in greatest accord on how to preserve peace in Europe."

But a Yugoslav source said Tito will have achieved his main purpose if he has convinced British leaders that his country should receive a greater share of Britain's limited supply of arms and aid. Britain already has agreed to give the Balkan country £4,500,000 ($12,600,000) in economic aid for the year ending in June.

Needs Jet Planes

Tito apparently stressed that Yugoslavia's ability to co-operate in defence of the eastern Mediterranean is directly proportional to the help she can get from Britain and the United States. He said his country needed jet planes to match the Soviet-made MiGs now being supplied the Red satellites Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

The wartime guerrilla leader also urged the strengthening of his naval forces with British-supplied vessels, either new or reconditioned, and the supply of heavy tanks and other large arms to give his army greater punch.

The Yugoslav dictator set state cares aside Thursday night to take in the ballet at the Royal Covent Garden Opera House.

Rescue Sixteen When Ship Sinks After Collision

GREAT YARMOUTH, England (Reuters)—Fifteen men and a woman stewardess were rescued today from the 1,965-ton Finnish ship Ioulo which sank in the North Sea after a collision with the 538-ton British steamer Briardene in pea-soup fog.

The ship's cook is missing.

The Briardene, with holes in her bows and taking in water, picked up survivors from the Ioulo, which was on its way to Scotland from Casablanca, North Africa.

Thirteen Finnish crew members were transferred to a lifeboat but the Ioulo's captain, chief engineer and the woman remained aboard the British ship.

Meanwhile, a small freighter, aground on the bar just off the rocky coast of Wales, was in danger of exploding if water reached her 150-ton cargo of raw carbide.

The 332-ton Milborne, a British ship, was straddling a ledge of jagged rocks 200 yards off Rhoscolyn Point.

Her crew had first damped her fires and abandoned ship. But this morning they came back, despite the danger from the explosive cargo.

Canada Does Not Want Big Ships Using Seaway

OTTAWA (CP)—The St. Lawrence seaway will be able to handle more than 99 per cent of the world's shipping but Canada does not want the big ocean ships to use it, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton told Thursday's session.

"The opinion is that, far from getting some of these mammoths, we want legislation to keep them out," the commons external affairs committee was told by the general, Canadian co-chairman of the international joint commission.

Gen. McNaughton was reporting to the committee on the work of the IJC, which regulates the use of Canada-United States boundary waters, and which recently authorized the power development in the Niagara falls area.

His reference to legislation against some ocean shipping apparently dealt with a recently-disclosed move of the federal government to have an inter-departmental committee study the question of excluding non-Canadian shipping from Canada's coastal trade. The 27-foot-deep seaway would open inland waters to bigger ships from other countries.

Gen. McNaughton said the bigger ships have a role of their own in certain trade and were not designed for traversing waterways.

"The general feeling is that, far from wanting them in, we want them out," he said.

He told the committee the best estimate of seaway traffic is 50,000,000 tons a year, of which 30,000,000 would be iron ore. Much of the ore would be heading inland from the new Labrador ore development.

In this connection, he said it is expected ships carrying ores inland carry grain back from the Lakehead. Special vessels were being designed for this.

PICK IRISH FLOWMEN

GRANCE, Republic of Ireland (CP)—Rodger Sheane and Thomas Macdonnel of counties Wicklow and Louth respectively were picked Thursday from 10 of the Republic of Ireland's best flowmen to select the world plowing tests at Cobourg, Ont., next October. Judges said it was the "best tractor plowing we've seen in years."

Canada's Tourist Season Headed For Record Year —Winters

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's tourist industry is headed for another record year in 1953.

That was the forecast of Resources Minister Winters and D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, in a report Thursday to the Senate transport committee headed by Senator W. A. Buchanan (L—Alberta).

They estimated that revenue from the tourist industry last year was between $375,000,000 and $380,000,000 from a record 28,000,000 visitors to Canada.

Mr. Winters said Canadians are showing increased interest in travel within their own country this year. Canada's advertising abroad, through paid ads and "rediscovery" of Canada by the United States, also was paying dividends. Everything pointed to a good year despite attractions abroad such as the coronation.

Committee members expressed some dissatisfaction about the prices for food and accommodation at Canadian hotels and about price and quality of food on the trans-ways.

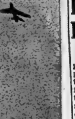
Senator R. B. Horner (PC—Saskatchewan) said the railways and restaurants seem to set the prices for meals by making prices equal amounts at the same time. Further, Senator Horner said, they serve enough roast beef "although the country is out of beef and instead they offered roast veal or "dried up old turkey." The size of a hungry person."

Replying, Mr. Dolan said that complaints are brought to the attention of the railways, restaurant and tourist operators. The Canadian Restaurant Association was doing good work in educating its members the need for good food and service.

Senator Gordon Isnor (L.—Nova Scotia) and Senator Arthur Vien (L—Quebec) questioned Mr. Dolan and Maj.-Gen. H. A. Young, deputy minister, minister, about the effect on the Canadian tourist industry of the devaluation of the US. dollar in relation to Canadian funds.

Gen. Young said fewer than one per cent of the letters received by the tourist bureau were complaints from Americans about finding their dollar less valuable than Canadian money.

The bureau and the tourist bodies tried to get Americans to exchange their money for Canadian funds before coming to Canada. Many hotels posted notices giving the exchange rates.



SWALLOWS ARE BACK

SAN CAPISTRANO, California, Calif. (AP)—The swallows came back to Capistrano on schedule Thursday. Priests and townsfolk turned out to welcome the birds.

Two men who apparently leaped from the rear of the building were among those taken to hospital.

Killed were three men, a woman and a baby.

Jet Age Is Brought to Britain's Toyland

A 47-year-old Southampton businessman, who has been making model airplanes for over 30 years, has brought the jet age to Britain's toyland, and his latest models will be on display at the toy section of the British Industries Fair, to be held in London April 27 to 28. Following up the wartime work he did on rocket research for the services, Joseph Manzour has developed and perfected a featherweight "jet" engine which provides an entirely new method of propulsion, for scale-models and toys. His "jet-ex" engine, really a tiny rocket motor, provides the answer to model aircraft builders who want to reproduce faithful scale models, like one seen above, of modern jet aircraft. — Central Press Canadian.

Chicago Hot:1 Fire Kill: 5, Injures 12

CHICAGO (AP)—Five persons died and a dozen others were injured in a fire which swept the Chestnut Hotel on the north side early today.

Several residents, clad in nightclothes, were carried down ladders at the front and sides of the four-storey building by firemen.

Police to Provide Escort for Those Entering Building

STRATFORD (CP) — Strikers, picketing a Swift Canadian Company hatchery in the south end of the city, were advised by the Stratford police commission Thursday that police would provide escort for non-striking company employees entering and leaving the building.

Letters were sent to company and union officials from the commission.

Strikers said they inferred from the letter that provincial police would be called in to take over strike duty. There was no confirmation of this from commission members.

Police say strikers are not permitted to prevent non-strikers from entering a building. They have the right to picket "peacefully."

Strikers on the picket line told newspaper reporters Thursday night that they expect to be continuing truck tire to remove baby chicks from th hatchery today.

A few thousand chicks were gassed under SPCA supervision on Tuesday because strikers refused to let them be shipped out. The SPCA ordered the company either to feed them or destroy them. There were no facilities for feeding.

SPCA officers visited the plant Thursday to examine new chicks which have hatched. By tonight they will either have to be fed or destroyed.

Strikers said they believed the company was planning to "run the birds out."

Mrs. Mary Power, president of the local 307 of the United Packinghouse Workers of America said that union members worked in the hatchery when a company-union agreement was first reached, and that the hatchery was included in working agreements.

W. D. Sinclair, company manager, denied the right of the union to engage in "violent, illegal picketing."

MECHANICAL MAYOR

WINNIPEG (CP)—A miniature duplicate of Regina's Scarlet Chief is aiding the Red Cross here. The robot, which delivers a short recorded speech, was built by Eric Bennett, an accountant who makes it a hobby of building models.

YOUNG MUSICIANS

REGINA (CP)—A boys' band of 50 members being organized here by the city police force will have a good tutor. Bandmaster is Sgt. C. T. Brown, bandmaster for the RCMP band here.

Cecil B. De Mille Wins First Oscar as 'Greatest Show On Earth' Judged Top Picture

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A happy Hollywood rejoiced today in honoring one of its founding fathers, Cecil B. De Mille, whose "Greatest Show on Earth" became his first Oscar winner in 40 years of epic making.

It was one of the few times Hollywood has honored one of its greats while he was still around to enjoy it.

The movie pioneer, now 72, was the big star of the silver jubilee academy awards Thursday night. A film colony audience cheered wildly in the RKO Pantages Theatre as millions more for the first time saw the ceremony via television.

De Mille's win for "greatest show" as the best picture of 1952 was the night's only surprise. Favorites Shirley Booth and Gary Cooper came through as predicted to take the best actress and best actor awards.

Most Surprised

De Mille, whose 70 pictures previously had won him only millions of dollars at the boxoffice, admitted he was most surprised.

"I thought 'The Quiet Man' or 'High Noon' would get it, he told reporters.

He was happiest for his daughter, Katherine De Mille, who became Cecil first person to have a father and husband win Oscars on the same night.

She is the wife of Anthony Quinn, whose portrayal of a Mexican revolutionary in "Viva Zapata!" won in the best supporting actor class.

Gloria Grahame, also a favorite, was voted best supporting actress for her job as the flighty southern belle of "The Bad and the Beautiful."

Another veteran, John Ford, won the directing award for "The Quiet Man."

Cancels Visit Oscar

Canada's film industry won an Oscar. The national film board's "Neighbors" took first prize in the short documentary film class. The film was produced by Scottish-born Norman McLaren, who joined the NFB in 1939 and now is on loan to the Indian government as a teacher of cartooning and animation drawing at Ahmedabad, India there.

Although "Greatest Show" was a surprise—"High Noon" was the favorite—its win was not wholly unexpected. Many knew that Hollywood has never forgiven itself for letting D. W. Griffith go to his grave unhonored by the academy.

De Mille says "Greatest Show" has grossed $12,000,000 in 11 months.

Standard Going Up

Miss Booth, the blowzy housewife of "Come Back, Little Sheba," stumbled as she walked up stairs at a New York theatre to receive her Oscar from Fredric March. However, she quickly composed herself and said:

"I'm a very happy and very lucky girl. It's been a long climb and I guess this is the peak. But the view has been wonderful all the way."

A veteran of 28 years of Broadway acting, Miss Booth's Oscar was given on her first try at screen making.

Cooper, for 28 years on the side of movie law and order, and a strong favorite, won his second Academy award for playing the righteous marshal of "High Noon." He previously won for "Sergeant York" in 1941.

Vertical-Lift Bridge Draws Disapproval

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal to build a vertical-lift bridge across the St. Lawrence river between Prescott, Ont., and Ogdensburg, N.Y., drew disapproval Thursday before the Commons external affairs committee.

George Fulford (L—Leeds) said the bridge—a multiple-span structure with the vertical lift in the centre—was not in keeping with the idea of the St. Lawrence seaway, which would admit big ships on the river.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian co-chairman of the international joint commission, said the IJC has not yet received an application from the company proposing to build the bridge.

ANDOVER, Eng. (CP)—Derek Sedler, 17, made his first solo flight after only two hours and 19 minutes of flying instruction. Average time is about eight hours.

LONDON (CP)—A rare Canadian postage stamp, the 13-penny black issued in 1851, brought $476 at a stamp collects' auction here.

DYMCHURCH, England (CP)—The 220-year-old inn known as "The Victoria" in this Kent town will be re-named "The Ocean." That was the original name, revealed under the date 1728 when repairs were being made.

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP)—A native of Poland arrested for being drunk and disorderly was fined $2.80 in police court. But he earned $2.94 when he acted as interpreter for a countryman facing a similar charge.

TAMWORTH, England (CP)—Among documents dug up by the clerk's office in this Staffordshire town was an order for $16.80, paid by Tamworth council for "rejoicing" at the Coronation of William and Mary in 1689.

HENDON, England (CP)—Lessons on correct golf swing have priority at Hendon Police College until the summer. Thousands of policemen who will line the route of the royal procession will be instructed how to handle what are expected to be the greatest crowds in London's history.

LONDON (CP)—Captain G. G. Boon, army horseman responsible for the state landaus in the Coronation procession, has located the necessary 10 carriages. They are being reconditioned for the big day June 2.

EDINBURGH (CP)—A member of the Cyclists' Touring Club wearing Victorian knickerbockers will ride an old-style bike from Edinburgh to Yorkshire in August. The ride will follow the route taken in 1878 when the club was founded.

SWADLINCOTE, England (CP)—Officials of this Derbyshire town reduced the seaside rental to a bowling club from $500 to $420, to compensate for a dip in the bowling green. The reduction was caused by subsidence of the ground, fairly common in mining areas.

FELKIRK, England (CP)—Rev. T. Boyard reports record church attendance in this Yorkshire district. The reason is that old folk and those living distant from the church are invited in on a bus donated by a former parishioner.

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (CP)—The centenary of the Londonderry and Lough Swilly Railway will be marked in June by closing the last section of its 100 miles of line and switching to road transport.

Leo Goyer Leads Wellington To Southern Trent Valley Title With 7-5 Win Over Frankford

In a torrid overtime battle, Wellington won the southern section of the Trent Valley Hockey League by defeating Frankford 7-5 at the Belleville Memorial Arena last night. It was a fitting climax to a five-game series that went the limit. Wellington now meets Campbellford for the loop championship.

Leo Goyer, a veteran nearing the end of the trail, sparked the winners to victory before a packed house. It was his two goals in the overtime canto that sewed up the tilt. He had notched an earlier tally to complete the hat trick. Other scorers for Wellington were Gord Graham with two, Johnson and Yorke with singletons. Adams, Twigg, Rankin, Watson and George Graham got the Frankford markers.

Goyer opened the scoring at 2.33 of the first period. Hatfield started the play, passing ahead to Johnson who fired a sizzler at Foshay. The Frankford goalie stopped the drive but it dropped in the line and before he could get untangled Goyer had swept the puck home.

Backhanders Count

Johnson made it 2-0 seven minutes later, shinning a sharp angled backhander on a pass from Hatfield. Watson cut the margin in half with 80 seconds left, taking George Graham's pass and spanking a high backhander which Parks juggled before it dropped behind him.

Frankford tallied three times without a reply in the second session. The first two came in a minute and 45 seconds. Adams got the first, potting a short drive on the edge of the crease after Carey had worked the puck out from the corner.

Twigg sent his club ahead on a shot from a bad angle along the left boards. Carey and Goyer were then a helping hand on the tally. Rankin made it 4-2, moving in from the faceoff at the Wellington blue line, stickhandling past three men and picking the corner on a smoker along the ice.

Gord. Graham took matters into his own hands to bring Wellington even in the third canto. He rallied the first at 1.56, taking Scott's pass and waving his way through the Frankford zone to beat Foshay cleanly. The same pair, aided this time by Hatfield, made it a new ball game 11 minutes later. This time Graham stepped the rubber into the twine from the goalmouth.

Loose Play

Sloppy clearing by Wellington sent Frankford into a 5-4 lead at 16.36. Stephens picked up a loose puck and shot it ahead to George Graham who made no mistake when Parks failed to protect the short side. But only 30 seconds later Yorke deadlocked the count again, taking Goyer's pass and beating Foshay from five feet out.

The overtime was little more than three minutes old when Goyer notched what proved to be the winner. Gord Graham slid the puck to him just inside the Frankford blue line and the redoubtable Leo manoeuvred about before drilling a screened shot past a bewildered Foshay from 20 feet in front. He came back 3 minutes later to put the game out of sight. This time he stole the rubber inside the Wellington line and snapped a high shot into the twine before Foshay could make a move.

Although it was a hard-hitting battle, only eight penalties were billed. Both goalies turned in fine performances in the high-balling action.

The teams:

Wellington — Goal, Parks; defence, Hurst and Yorke; centre, Scott; wings, Graham and Cousins; alternates: Goyer, Johnson, Hatfield, Pettingil, Twigg, Mowatt and Greer.

Frankford — goal, Foshay; defence, Bone and Farmer; centre, Cook; wings, Adams and Carey; alternates—Graham, Rankin, Watson, Stephens, Mills, Pukanchk, Wright, Courtney and Belford.

Referee: George McFaul, Trenton; Dick Fitzpatrick, Belleville.

'Cy' Barriage New President Softball Loop

At an open meeting of the Belleville and District Softball League, the first of the season, Clifford "Cy" Barriage was elected president of the organization in the city council chambers last night. He replaces the 1952 president, Don Lee who officially retired to the office of past president.

Joe Agnew was elected treasurer, replacing Lee Bradshaw and Bill Switzer takes over the post of secretary vacated by "Cy" Barriage. The following is a list of the supporting executives for the coming season: Lloyd "Red" Dorris, Clende Vice, Lee Bradshaw, Gerald McGinnis and Jack Devine. Three other men were appointed to the executive in an advisory capacity with full voting powers, namely Jerry Knott, Harry Rollins and Bill Van Tassel will assume these positions.

Prior to relinquishing the presidency of the loop, Don Lee announced the following are likely team entries into the league this season: Point Anne, Frankford, Wooler, Northern Electric, Bakelite, C.N.R. "A". The past president also noted there is a good possibility for a C.N.R. "A-A" entry. He advised further there is an unknown sponsor available for a Junior team.

Since the city carried off a championship last season, Joe Agnew pointed out there is quite a number of good junior players available. Mr. Agnew added, he felt it would be worth while for some one to sponsor a junior team this season.

Harry Knott who was appointed to the executive of the O.A.S.A. last year is expected to seek nomination again this season. The past president, Don Lee, and the incoming president, "Cy" Barriage were appointed as delegates to the O.A.S.A. at last night's meeting.

Training Camp Briefs

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Ned Garver, a 20-game winner and all-star starter in 1951, finds himself fighting for a regular starting job with the fast-slipping Detroit Tigers.

Arm trouble sidelined the 31-year-old righthander last summer after St. Louis traded him to Detroit. He reports no trace of the miseries this spring, but he's taking it easy in the exhibitions.

"My bad arm is much worse than pitching and getting beat," he said. "Pitching is more fun than sitting on the bench. I had enough sitting last year to last me a lifetime."

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Ferris Fain, the Chicago White Sox' new first baseman, is proving one of the grapefruit league's best batting stars this spring.

The stocky Fain, who won the American League batting title the last two years, has slammed 15 hits in 28 times up for a lusty .535 average.

HAVANA (AP)—Ralph Kiner finally has arrived at the Pittsburgh Pirates training camp after a long-distance argument with general manager Branch Rickey and is ready to take aim on another home run title.

Kiner arrived Thursday night from his Palm Springs, Calif., home and officially signs his new contract today, calling for a reported 20-per-cent reduction of his $80,000 salary of 1952.

The Pirate slugger will attempt to boost his batting average above the .244 he hit during the 1952 season. However, Kiner hit 37 runs last year to tie Hank Sauer of Chicago for the National League title.

Sport in Brief

MONTREAL (CP)—Playoff dates were set Thursday by the National Hockey League, with provisional dates for both series A and B, depending upon which teams finish third and fourth.

Detroit and Montreal have already clinched first and second places. Boston, Chicago and Toronto are still in the hunt for the next two places.

The first-and third-place teams and the second- and fourth-place teams meet in the two series.

The schedule (best-of-seven):

Series A:

If Detroit and Boston meet: At Detroit March 24, 26, April 2, 7; at Boston March 29, 31, April 5.

Players Receives Official Scrolls To Hall of Fame

MONTREAL (CP)—Two of the newest members of the Hockey Hall of Fame were presented with their official scrolls Thursday night during the Toronto Maple Leafs-The presentations were made between the second and third periods to Nels Stewart and Dickie Boon.

Stewart was a member of Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins and New York Americans and until this season held the all-time scoring record of 324 goals. It has been eclipsed by Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens, whose total now is 346. Boone was a member of the old Montreal Wanderers team.

The presentation to Stewart was made by J. B. Garvan of Kingston, home of the Hall of Fame; that to Boone by Captain Jim Sutherland of Kingston, founder of the Hall of Fame.

If Detroit and Chicago: At Detroit March 24, 26, April 2, 7; at Chicago March 29, 31, April 4. Series B:

If Montreal and Boston: At Montreal March 24, 26, April 3, 7; at Boston March 29, 31, April 5.

If Montreal and Chicago: At Montreal March 24, 26, April 2, 7; At Chicago March 29, 31, April 4.

Each club will be allowed to dress 18 players exclusive of goalies.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Boxing Association announced Thursday the suspension of Lauro Salas, former lightweight champion. The NBA said it was taking the action at the request of the Montreal boxing commission. The Montreal commission said Salas failed to fulfill a contract to fight Armand Savoie.

Leafs Remain In NHL Race Defeating Canadiens; Howe Nears Record

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Director

DON McNEVIN

He took the only course available. He saw to it that other people more capable of playing than he, had the opportunity to indulge in their favorite recreation.

Don has spent plenty of money sponsoring teams of all kinds. And he has never grudged a cent. It is his hobby and the cost is secondary. The name of his teams, "Glen Roy", is rapidly becoming a household word in sports circles of this district. His first effort as playing "sugar daddy" for a team, or one of the first, was a church softball team which he entered in the "D" section of the Belleville Softball league a few years ago. Later he formed what is known as the Glen Roy Athletic Club and sponsored a senior softball team that won the city championship and was eliminated by Kingston in the first playdown series.

All Means Box Office

All of which means box office all around that will take care of itself. The defeat of the Bruins left the last two playoff berths wide open, with the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks trailing Boston by two points and third-place Leafs by a similar margin.

The Hawks entertain the Red Wings Saturday night and will have to cope with the dazzling Howe to stand a chance of victory. Meanwhile, the Bruins, still needing a win or a tie to clinch runner-up interval in the Leafs entertain the tall-end New York Rangers.

If Toronto can break its record against Chicago, the Wings' Sunday date with the Canadiens at Detroit should be a natural, with Montreal's Richard trying to preserve his lead.

The Black Hawks, finishing in New York, will be the underdog for a third-place finish ahead of Boston or to survive the Leaf stretch drive depending on Saturday's results. And if the Leafs get past the Rangers their wind-up against the Bruins in Boston could be the best of all.

Leafs Look Their Best

Conn Smythe's club looked its best disposing of Montreal Thursday night. Leafs, playing for Captain Ted Kennedy, who scored the 200th goal of his career, the Leafs swarmed all over the Canadiens.

Sid Smith, hero of Toronto's comeback victory over the Hawks Wednesday, fired the only goal of the first period. Eric Nesterenko and Kennedy made it 3-0 in the second and Richard and Tremblay Harry Watson matched goals in the finale.

Al Detroit, Alex Delvecchio, Tony Leswick and Marcel Bonin shot the Wings into an early lead. Then they concentrated on setting up Howe.

Ted Lindsay ragged the puck till his line-mate was in position to fire his first tally in the second period. Then Johnny Wilson flipped Howe a present for his second marker. Wilson himself provided the sixth tally as the crowd screamed itself hoarse every time Howe handled the puck.

Fleming Mackell was the marksman for the well-beaten Boston crew.

Aussies' Hopes Of Holding Games Fade

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's hopes of holding the 1956 Olympic Games faded almost out of sight Thursday night when Victoria Premier Cain refused to make a request for the state government to finance the building of an Olympic village.

Earlier in the day, Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies had delivered a final ultimatum to the state government, indicating that the Commonwealth would not provide housing or any extra money for construction of an Olympic village.

The housing problem has been the big stumbling block in planning to hold the 1956 games here.

Major Hockey League Season Will be Good to Last Drop As Anything Could Happen

By ED SINCLAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Thanks to Gordie Howe and the battling Toronto Maple Leafs, the National Hockey League season will be good to the last drop of the puck this season.

The Leafs' last-ditch surge toward a playoff spot continued Thursday night as they roared to their second victory in 24 hours, a thumping 4-1 decision over the second-place Montreal Canadiens.

And gallant Gordie, with a hysterical Detroit crowd cheering him on, fired his 48th and 49th goals of the season to lead the first-place Red Wings to a 4-1 victory over Boston Bruins. That left Howe's total goals in which he is equal or surpass Maurice Richard's NHL mark of 50 goals in a single campaign.

All of which means box office all around that will take care of itself. The defeat of the Bruins left the last two playoff berths wide open, with the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks trailing Boston by two points and third-place Leafs by a similar margin.

The Hawks entertain the Red Wings Saturday night and will have to cope with the dazzling Howe to stand a chance of victory. Meanwhile, the Bruins, still needing a win or a tie to clinch runner-up interval in the Leafs entertain the tall-end New York Rangers.

If Toronto can break its record against Chicago, the Wings' Sunday date with the Canadiens at Detroit should be a natural, with Montreal's Richard trying to preserve his lead.

The Black Hawks, finishing in New York, will be the underdog for a third-place finish ahead of Boston or to survive the Leaf stretch drive depending on Saturday's results. And if the Leafs get past the Rangers their wind-up against the Bruins in Boston could be the best of all.

Campbell Ready To Give Idea More Thought

MONTREAL (CP) — A young Montreal lawyer has come up with an idea that could add more scoring punch to the National Hockey League.

Richardson Tillon's "brain-wave" would alter existing straight blue lines into arcs, pointing towards defending goals. Tillon, 33, maintains the virtual moving back of the blueline marks would allow wingmen to go in on an attack approximately 10 feet ahead of a centreman, boosting goal-scoring opportunities and eliminating many offsides.

The plan looks acceptable at first glance, but president Clarence Campbell of the NHL, asked for comment, spotted a weakness.

"My first impression of the plan was that it was very good," he said. "As a matter of fact, it still has a lot of merit.

"But there is also a basic weakness to it as far as offsides are concerned. The curved lines would cause a lot of wrangling on offside calls, because with a wingman carrying the puck and passing to the opposite wing, it is possible a double offside could occur."

Campbell indicated he would give the idea more thought.

Providence Reds Score Six Goals In Second Period

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds scored six goals in the second period to defeat St. Louis Flyers 9-5 in an American Hockey League game Thursday night.

Pete Kapusta and Ray Powell paced the Reds with two goals and two assists each. Carl Boone netted two for the Flyers.

Other tallies for the winners were by Zellio Toppazzini, Al Baccari, Johnny Denis, Ed Kryzanowski and Ken Smith. Additional marksmen for St. Louis were Lou Jankowski, Jake Forbes and Motto McLean.

In the only other game Buffalo Bisons, who are in the cellar, trimmed Syracuse Warriors 4-2.

Cal McKay led Buffalo with two goals. Will Hass, just up from St. Catharines Tigers, and Lorne Davis completed the Bison scoring. Sam Casanato and Bronco Horvath scored for the losers.

Conferences May Bid for Increased Voting Powers

EDMONTON (CP)—A spokesman for Edmonton Eskimos predicted Thursday that the two big football conferences—the Western Interprovincial Union and the Eastern Big Four—will attempt to gain control of the Canadian Rugby Union at the CRU annual meeting here March 27 and 28.

This would be attempted, he said, through a bid for increased voting power and an effort to change the method of selecting CRU officers, particularly the president.

The big conferences now have only four out of nine votes cast in CRU meetings. They can be out-voted by a group of minor leagues, which includes the inactive Western Intercollegiate Football Union.

The WIFU will hold a meeting here March 28 as a preliminary to the CRU conference.

At that meeting, the western clubs will discuss CRU voting power, method of electing CRU officers, increased expense money for the western representative in the Grey Cup final at Toronto, interchange of officials between the West and East, East-West exhibition games and the advisability of appointing a permanent WIFU commissioner.

All Not Well Between Dark, Manager Durocher of Giants

By GAYLE TALBOT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An argument is festering between Leo Durocher, who manages New York Giants, and Alvin Dark, his fielder and team captain, which could lead to something really spectacular.

Unless it is straightened out soon, you could wake up some morning to learn that Dark, who recently signed a two-year contract for more than $30,000 a season after a shakedown holdout, no longer is a member of the Giants. This is no fooling.

Durocher, working on a one-year contract, wants dark to shift from shortstop to second base so Daryl Spencer, a great fielding rookie from Minneapolis, can be installed at short. Durocher said all winter that was his master plan.

Dark at least had implied that he would go along with it.

But up to this point in the exhibition schedule, he has shown no sign of co-operating with Leo.

The blowoff came here Thursday, who had been away two days with the Giants' second team, was told that Dark, a lusty young gazelle around Cleveland Indians, continued to wave at ground balls and had shown no interest in cutting off throws from the outfield.

"Very interesting," Leo commented acidly. "Maybe a little fine here and there is what this ball club needs."

Leo was reminded that Dark is his team captain, and was asked if he would fine such a personality.

"You can bet I'll fine him if I think he isn't giving me all he's got," Durocher said. "He isn't any different from anybody else on this ball club. The reason I appointed him team captain was to give him a little added incentive."

Leo didn't win with Dark at shortstop and Davey Williams at second last year. He thinks he can win if they are established that way, but no fielder of especial note, will permit Spencer to exhibit his talents in the big job at short.

Dark, however, played second a few games, then announced "I'm no Eddie Stanky," and asked Durocher to put him back in his former spot. Stanky, now managing St. Louis Cardinals, was Dark's double play partner on two pennant-winning clubs, Boston Braves in '48 and the Giants in '51.

Did you know that one out of every two students in Canadian elementary and secondary schools is a member of the Junior Red Cross.

Danny Saunders Decisions Lindsay In London Bout

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Danny Saunders of Hamilton, hard-hitting Negro boxer, decisioned Hugh Lindsay of Toronto in the main bout of an amateur boxing card at the Arena Thursday night. They weighed in at 147 pounds.

The five-round 147-pound co-feature between Jimmy Gatz of Toronto, and Joe Hogan, Hamilton, was a standout, Gown rang up a unanimous decision over his opponent, who made a fight of it all the way.

In a 123-pound clash Omar Second Brantford, stopped a real dogwatch brook with Farrell Geise of Hamilton for three rounds before earning a split decision.

Harold Brush of Brantford used his decided weight advantage in a heavyweight scramble to decision Ray Moody of Hamilton. Sam Schaeffer, Hamilton, outpointed Ernie Sier, St. Thomas, and Jim Hartley, Brantford, won from Danny McDonald, Toronto.

No Major Change In Basketball Rules Made

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The fellows who make basketball rules have decided to keep the no-charge-circle "one and one" free-throw regulation until something better comes along.

They acknowledged Thursday that "a lot of people are not satisfied" with the rule but said it would have to do for another year at least.

Thus the national basketball committee of the United States and Canada, which writes the book for colleges, high schools, the Amateur Athletic Union, YMCA and Canadian play, decided against the idea of conferences without making a major change.

"The two and one," adopted a year ago amid considerable misgivings, stipulates that the victim of a common foul gets two chances to make the basket until the last three minutes of the game when he gets two shots with a chance to make both good.

The common foul is one committed not in the act of shooting and until a year ago brought only a one-shot penalty. A foul on a shooter provides two free throws.

Porcupine Wins Eastern Canada Quarter Finals

OTTAWA (CP)—Porcupine Combines Thursday night captured their Eastern Canada junior carnival pre-final playoffs from Eastview St. Charles with a 4-2 victory.

Two goals by Merv Towers helped the Timmins squad clinch the final game of the best-of-three series, which went the limit. The Combines now meet North Sydney Franklins, Maritimes junior champions, in the Eastern Canada semi-finals of the Memorial Cup series.

The other Timmins scorers were Bob McNeil and Pat Piche. Bob Hudson and Junior Presley replied for Eastview.

Powers drew first blood at 11.16 of the second period after a tight defensive opener, banging a three-off pass from Bruce Jones. Don McDonald of Eastview was serving a minor.

McNeil made it 2-0 at 18.11, assisted by Graham Savard, when he slipped the puck past goalie Robbie Sarault.

Piche combined with Bill Cochrane for his marker at 10.40 of the third period, slapping Cochrane's pass between Sarault's legs.

Hudson put Eastview into the running eight minutes later when he golfed a shot from near the blue line into Art Moualley's net. Towers added his second a little more than a minute later, assisted by Jones and Don Donald, followed 18 seconds later by Eastview's final goal. Presley whipped a pass from Sylvia Benoit through a gang-up into the Timmins net.

Porcupine, winner of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior title seven years in a row, kept the upper hand throughout the closely-fought series, winning the first and third games 5-0 and 5-4. Eastview had tied the series each time with scores of 5-1 and 4-0.

Kingston, Toronto Bowlers in Finals For Championship

TORONTO (CP)—A Kingston and a Toronto bowler will battle for the Ontario five pin bowling championship and the $200 first prize at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show Saturday.

Joe Dunphy, Kingston regional champion, ousted Murph Chamberlain of Ottawa and Stanley Mallon eliminated Dominic Scenese, St. Catharines regional champion, in the semi-final round Thursday.

Dunphy bowled a score of 1,264, Chamberlain 1,148. Mallon's total was 1,342 and Scenese marked up 1,221 points.

Dunphy and Mallon will bowl in two shifts Saturday. The loser will get $250.

Record Turnout Expected At Indoor Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — A record turnout is expected today at the Montreal Forum for the seventh running of the Eastern Canada indoor track and field championships.

Most of the attention will be focused on sight crack Canadian track stars from the University of Michigan's highly-touted squad and two 1952 Olympic champions. Nearly 200 athletes have entered the annual Canadian Legion meet.

George Roden, lanky Jamaican who won the 400-metre event at the Olympics and world record-holder for the distance, and Andy Stanfield of New York, 200-metre Olympic champion, are entered in both the 50-yard open and the 300-yard open.

They are likely to find tough competition in the 50-yard open from two Michigan-Canadians — Ross Coates of Hamilton, junior Canadian titleholder, and Walter Sutton of Toronto.

Sutton and Jackie Carroll of Montreal and the University of Michigan are entered in the 880-yard open with a field of 11 others. Carroll is Canada's top quarter-miler.

The impressive Michigan line-up also has John Ernest, Oakville, Ont., a favorite in the legion mile.

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. L. E. Woolley's Toronto Granite rink Thursday won the Wood Trophy, top prize in the second annual Ottawa women's invitational bonspiel. The Toronto crew defeated a rink skipped by Mrs. A. E. Shasbette of Brockville, 9-4.

The Dubuc trophy for two-game winners went to an Ottawa Curling Club rink skipped by Mrs. J. L. Dawson which defeated Mrs. H. W. Mellie of Morrisburg, 8-7.

Mrs. Woolley's rink scored on three ends—a four-ender on the third, two on the fifth and three on the eighth end. Brockville got all its points on six ends. The last was a dead end.

Dutchmen Take One-Game Lead Over Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Thursday night took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 5-2.

The sixth game is in Kitchener Saturday.

Clare Martin spearheaded the Kitchener offensive with two goals and a solid game on defence before he was put out of action in the third period. Charlie Brooker, Maurice Levoque and Don Bauer scored the rest.

Tommy Burlington tallied Owen Sound's first on a mistake assisted on the second by Jaydee McArthur.

Martin had a little trouble more than eight minutes remaining after he was upset from behind by Bill McCosh. Martin appeared to strike his head on the ice as he fell. McCosh was given a charging penalty, his third penalty of the final period.

Just before McComb's time was up, Harry Paulin of the Dutchies was given a minor penalty for high sticking. The two men exchanged punches and Ardy Bellemer and was promptly given a 10-minute misconduct.

Less than a minute later McArthur was fagged for hooking and Mercury captain Tommy Burlington protested so vigorously Bellemer gave him a match misconduct as well. The fans of Burlington and McComb, and the minor penalties for McComb and McArthur were much of the steam from the Owen Sound attack.

Smiths Falls Takes Healthy Lead Over Saint John

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—Smiths Falls Rideaus took a healthy 3-0 lead in games over Saint John Seniors in their Eastern Canada senior hockey semi-finals with a 6-3 victory Thursday night over the Maritime champions.

They knot left the New Brunswick club with the necessity of a comeback on home ice in the best-of-seven-game Allan Cup series. The remaining games will be played in Saint John, starting Monday night.

The Rideaus built up a 4-0 lead Thursday night and were able to coast the rest of the way.

Connie Tudin led coach Hap Dewyre's Rideaus with two goals and an assist.

Cheers Carried Scoring

John Cheyco, who left Smiths Falls for Saint John in mid-season, and Charlie Rogers scored for the visitor scoring. Don Rogers assisted on both scoring plays.

Two Smiths' fans defencemen, Hal Hockburn and John Sheddon, were credited with the victory and the veteran Stu Smith, rounded out the Rideau scoring.

With Smiths Falls controlling most of the play, Beaver goalie Ron Hargrave had his team's lead out player. He blocked 32 scoring threats compared to 23 for Rideau goalie Plumber Craig.

"I'd be did in the series' first game playing with Lou Kiley played the entire game for his Beavers, getting only four minutes' rest in the second period when he sat out two minor penalties.

Tudin Scored First

Tudin scored the first period's only goal, beating Digner in a goalmouth scramble.

In the opening minutes of the second period Rogers and Sheddon added two goals within 41 seconds. Rockburn scored from a faceoff and second after Kiley went off for his first penalty—the only one the game's six penalties that affected the scoring.

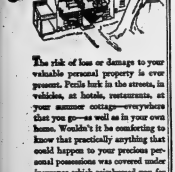
Sheddon scored on a solo rush before Cheyco opened the Saint John scoring on a power play with Rockburn off.

Smith and Tudin put Rideaus further ahead with third-period goals before Knox got the game's final goal. Knox took a pass from Rogers, skated by the defence and picked the corner of Craig's net.

NHL Governors Afford Protection To QSHL Players

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League governors Thursday continued interim recognition and protection of the Quebec Senior Hockey League in its relations with the NHL under what is known as the major series agreement.

This deals with player bids and other rights. The QSHL resigned from the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association in the midst of a dispute between the QAHA and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. The dispute was over playing status of a junior player with Montreal Canadien juniors.



The QSHL maintained it was not involved in the dispute but was threatened with suspension by the QAHA. The senior league promptly suspended all leagues and clubs within the QAHA after having previously suspended the QAHA itself.

The NHL governors reported they are still considering the CAHA's declaration of suspension of the QSHL. The governors unanimously agreed that in the interval the QSHL will be given full protection. The player bids and other rights concerned under the major series agreement.

IVANHOE

W. I. Sponsors Course On Conducting Meetings

IVANHOE—A short course "How to Conduct Meetings", was held at Ivanhoe Township Hall on Friday, sponsored by Ivanhoe W.I. This course was conducted by Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, Aberwood, Ontario.

A few years ago, it could be said that the education services of the Ontario Women's Institute branch offered the rural homemaker every training that a city woman could get at technical school.

With the cultural subjects that have been added in the last few years, the extension services today give the rural woman something in the nature of a university education and the department and local institute both have a say in bringing this education to the people.

Every meeting in the Institute from the regular monthly meetings to meetings held for special groups in branch, district and area, calls for careful preparation—a knowledge of the proper conduct of such meetings (parliamentary procedure) and a survey of all the various types of meetings required for the efficient operation of the organization as a whole was the subject matter of this course presented in interesting manner by Mrs. Hamilton, whose pleasing personality, keen sense of humour and wide knowledge of her subject, made the day profitable to all who were privileged to attend.

Three members of Moira W.I. were present. A pot luck dinner was served at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen and children, of Haliburton, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McMaster.

Mrs. William Scally, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. R. McMaster, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rollins were recent visitors in Watertown, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Borland, of Peterborough, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bray.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benson and Peter were Friday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. John McIntyre.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McMaster spent Friday in Kitchener.

Evangelistic services are being held in the Standard Church, at Ivanhoe, conducted by evangelist, Miss Dorothy Snead.

Ex-Mountie Flees City Life for Western Farm

Greg Campbell had an exciting life during his seven years in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and six in the RCAF overseas, but he found peace and contentment only on a remote ranch near Cowley, Alta. Weary of the superficiality of city life in the east, the Ottawa native (seen above) gave up his job as salesman in Hamilton, Ont., to take up the rugged life of a rancher in the foothills of the Rockies. There were many trials and tribulations at first for Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and their three sons, but plenty of hard work and the generosity of their neighbors put the Campbells at last on road to prosperity and peace of mind. — Central Press Canadian.

South was a declarer at a grand slam. Opening lead—spades that was doubled by east and redoubled by north. The double of slam called for a lead of the first suit bid by dummy; a club from west.

The defend'rs have an ace and ruff on their remaining honor cards in the pack. So, when.. are the 13 tricks coming from? Must be from the little ones that can take the outstanding big ones.

If declarer drew trumps, even one round of them, he is sunk. With so many pieces in each of the side suits his only hope is to ruff as many of them as poss. ible on each side of the table.

So, when west led the club ten, dummy hopped right up with the ace and a diamond trick went to the south kind. This cleared decks for dummy to get stuffs on his diamond tops.

A heart was ruffed in dummy. On ace and queen of diamonds were dumped a club and a heart from south. Dummy then led a club that was ruffed in south and another south heart was ruffed in dummy.

Another club from dummy was ruffed in sotth and another south heart was ruffed in dummy. By this time east was cleaned out of all his c-rds except the original four trumps he held.

Of the three minor cards in dummy, one is led, East must ruff it and south overruffs. Heart jack is ruffed with dummy trump ace. This left east with only two cards, both trumps.

A club from dummy smothered east into 'playing one of his trumps. Whichever he played was overruffed by south. This left south with the top trump to take the final trick.

All cards have uses. Even the deuces.

MARMORA

Sacred Heart Congregation Holds St. Patrick's Concert

MARMORA. — A pleasing program was given in the Sacred Heart Parish Hall on Tuesday evening, marking the congregation's traditional observance of St. Patrick's Day.

Considering the various counterattractions of the evening and the exodus of hockey fans to the Belleville Arena to witness the recently arranged game between Marmora and Campbellford, the attendance was good and the evening was enjoyed by those participating.

Holy Name Choristers

The first part of the program was an entertainment in which all did justice to the part allotted them. It commenced with a medley of Irish songs by the Holy Name Choristers, William Sharpe, Leo Begley, Joseph Murray, E. McNamara, Carl Johnson and Michael Forestell.

Rosemary Brady next executed an Irish jig in truly Irish costume.

James Black gave a mirth-provoking recitation, "Pat's Dilemma".

A skit, "Off to Dublin Town" was put on by Bernadette Warner, Rosemary Brady, Dianne Belanger and Bernadette Augers.

Susan Callery delighted the audience with her rendition of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling".

Next came an instrumental number, "Irish Airs", by the following trio, Charles Brady, saxophone; Mrs. Carl McCoy, piano; and Ford Woodhouse, traps.

In pretty costumes, Mary Lou and Rosemary Brady took part in a novelty tap dance.

Harmonica Solo

Rev. T. G. Scanlan added diversion in contributing a harmonica solo.

The final number was a specialty by "A Gift from Ireland" in which the customary ability, with their customary ability,

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Mr., Mrs. Sprung Entertain 24 Guests To Turkey Dinner

MOUNTAIN VIEW. — Mr. and Mrs. Clark Sprung entertained to a turkey dinner party at Maple Inn on Saturday evening. Covers were laid for 24 guests and the tables had lovely corsages and bouquets of daffodils.

After dinner, Miss Mary Huff played piano selections which everyone enjoyed. Tables were arranged and progressive euchre was played. Favors were awarded for high score to Miss Mary Huff and Hudson Huff.

A contest was put on by the hostess with the awards going to Misses Lillian Sprague and Mildred Hall.

Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Norris Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barker, Mr. and Mrs. William Burkitt, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Doxsee, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Foote, Messrs. Charles Sprague, Hudson and Huff, Misses Lillian Anderson, Lillian Sprague, Mary Huff, Mildred Hall, Noreen Frederick and Elizabeth Jordan.

Mrs. Rose Brawley, Misses Cecile and Verna Black, Jean Cook, Anne Clairmont, Wilma McKinnon and Agnes Peterkin.

The second part of the program was devoted to the showing of a film "Never Take no for an Answer". Parts of the film which centred on an Italian boy and his mule, showed actual scenes in Rome and Assisi.

Mr. C. T. Nicholson was chairman for the evening.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Marmora, Branch No. 227 Canadian Legion, held a successful dance in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening with Jack Grant's orchestra furnishing music.

Mr. Elton Allan is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. Hillard McCarvey, of Belleville, visited relatives here on Wednesday.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—The first day of Spring with most favorable aspects from stars in your chart! You should be well pleased, inwardly happy.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Experts, executives, and general workers take new heart. Today is a great one, full of God's gifts and opportunities. Industry, trades, labor, employer especially sponsored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—About the only ill wind in today's nautical charting is definitism. Mark time thoughtfully. Hold the tongue; it can cause much trouble.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—A good day, if you take head of many advantages now in stars. Meteorologist, navigator, pedlight among top favored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Ask co-operation, get into swing of things. Great day for handling supplies, making contracts, trading, building. So, too, romance.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Explore new ideas in business and other matters. No need for useless risky ventures. Mind others' feelings in your affairs.

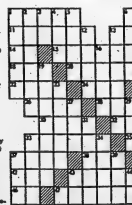
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Many fertile fields open, especially where your instinct and intuition and accuracy are valued. We all have hidden assets we seldom use, bring them out and achieve!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Could be just "the sort of day the doctor ordered." The Scorpio native will exercise restraint will achieve lasting reward, moves forward steadily.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—May be heavy day in spots, and especially if you skip the hard chores to take easy ones first. The steady worker can make some gains.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Today should be in the profitable category with your aid. Excellent planetary vibrations for worthy efforts.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Don't seek just material profits, credit or position. Spiritual benefits, building of character mean far more.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Do what you do well, and with despatch. Have facts; don't act on impulse or someone else's ill- or well-thought reasoning.

YOUR BORN TODAY: Innately idealistic, appreciative of science, mechanical and philosophical knowledge. Likely fond of travel, surely of good times. Should associate with honorably aggressive people. Scorpio, Taurus, Capricorn are progressive alliances. Your nature is somewhat contradictory. While sympathetic, you can occasionally seem artful, too exacting. Birthdate of: Pasquale Amato, great opera singer.

In one six month period last year more than 70,000 persons received more than 105,000 bottles of whole blood and plasma from the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service.

WOOLER

WOOLER—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with Mrs. R. L. Terrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Canliff Hawley, of Lethbridge, Alberta, who have been spending the winter with his sister, Mrs. Elgin McMaster, motored on the return trip on Friday last.

Sympathy goes out to the funeral of Mrs. Ida Bird, which was passed away at her daughter's, Mrs. George Wood.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill is spending a week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hawley.

Mrs. Frythian is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Toronto, whose father-in-law, Mr. George Gasley, passed away on Sunday.

Miss Annie Richards has returned to Mrs. R. L. Bryan's after spending a couple of weeks with friends.

Mrs. Sam Vanhorne of Kingston has been spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Putman.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCall and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fox and sons, spent the week-end in Toronto, attending the Maple Leaf hockey match at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. Grayden Colasa, of Ameliasburg, spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Arthur Dorland.

Mrs. Dean Reid spent the week-end with her son, Mr. John Reid, in Campbellford.

Mr. Jack Reid and his mother, Mrs. Ervan Scott, spent a few days in London with their daughter, Mrs. Ab. Jordon.

Mr. Wayne Tompson and Mr. Jack Reid motored to Kingston and on to Toronto.

Word has been received of the illness of Mrs. Robert Read is still confined to her bed.

A good crowd attended the fashion show put on by the Girls' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian and the Women's Institute.

Sorry to report that Mr. Reg. Crews is still confined to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, as the result of Worker's Accident Insurance, the Anderson's Carting factory, is being born down.

Mrs. Way and Yvonne of Brighton spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Dorland.

Mrs. Reg. Crews and Mrs. Ervan Crews were in Kingston, over the week-end visiting Mr. R. Crews at the Hotel Dieu Hospital. Sympathy is extended to Mr. Crews' family and friends, on the death of their baby.

Search For a Hero

By Thomas Hal Phillips

"English."

"A 98," Wallace said.

"A what!" Papa said.

Wallace yelled, "In French, Papa! In French!"

Papa caught Wallace's shirt. "What in the name of high heaven possessed you to get mixed up with that? You can't even speak English."

"Somebody told him they call signals in French at Tech. Defense against signal stealing."

"Shut up! We know you made 98," Wallace said.

I went closer to him. "No, 98," Wallace sat down again. Papa stood over him. "How could I raise a boy dumb as you are? How could you ever learn the signals—not the plays—just the little old bitty signals? Why'd you do a thing like this?"

"Now, Papa, hush," Wallace said. He began to cry. Papa went to one side of his chair, William to the other; each put an arm around Wallace.

Papa said, "We'll fix it somehow. I'll ask old man Little if he'll fix it."

"He won't, William said.

"We'll, he'll want that principal's contract renewed one of these days, won't he?"

"Yes, but he won't do anything."

"What's the matter with him?" "Integrity," I said. I waited for one of them to tell me to hush. But they didn't. for Wallace seemed to be taking it harder. Naturally I got myself deeper into things. Because I stood up to see anybody cry. So I said, "All right. Miss Brammon's giving a make-up examinary. I'll go and take it for you. She won't know the difference."

* * *

Wallace quit crying and they all stood up. Wallace said, "She can't see and she's always getting us mixed up in class. Why, if he wears my football sweater. . . But what about the others that failed?"

"He means they'll recognize Don," William said.

"Ain't not going to take it. Betty will be all right—if she knows it's for Wallace," I said.

"You could slip her a few answers," Wallace said. Already he was laughing and Papa was smiling and William was about to do one or the other.

IV

Mama came in with her bonnet in one hand and a water bucket full of new English peas in the other. She was very brown, especially her hands; and her eyes were brown, really wonderful eyes, exactly like Wallace's. When I looked at her brown hands, streaked with blue veins, I wondered why she ever did anything for any of us. But I think she wanted only our respect, not our love. I would have said that Mama and Papa didn't love each other, except that I had often heard them, whispering to each other about the most ordinary things. But we all knew she loved her garden.

"Look at these." She held out the bucket of new peas, first toward William, then toward Papa. When she saw Wallace's face she frowned. "What've you all been up to?"

She turned to William. "You'll tell me the truth. Has he been crying!"

"Yes, ma'am."

"What about?"

"Oh, we got to fussing. And he got mad and I got mad."

"And who licked. After all the good news you got, this day ends up in a fight."

"We didn't fight."

"What's the difference? Now you two hug one another's neck right now. You hear me!"

They hugged.

Mama held up the bucket again for all of us to see. "The vines are just clinging full. You never saw the like of peas! And the finest tomatoes I reckon I've ever had."

Papa caught Wallace's arm. "We've got to feed 'em good. A few tomatoes and peas now may make the headlines blacker."

"If the war don't get them," Mama said.

"It's not going to get 'em," Papa said. "You can't shut them in your little book, sister."

"They may change the draft and all," Mama said.

"No," Papa said.

"They'll soon be 20 anyway. They're no need to be blind to things. The last war got their Uncle William. . . ." When she said Uncle William's name she always put an extra syllable into it so that by sound alone I could tell whether she meant Uncle or Uncle William—her brother who had been killed in France in the First World War. "....and William was their age when he left."

"He wanted to go," Papa said. "Well. . ." Mama said the word in a way that settled things at least for her. She took the bucket of peas into the kitchen.

William looked at me. "Don't you let her know you're taking Wallace's exam. Likely as not she'd forget and ask Miss Brammon how much you made for Wallace."

They went out. They never looked back or thought of asking me to go too.

Papa loved a hero; he wanted one of his boys to be a hero the way some men want dollars. Once even my marks at school had been heroic to him; now, it was football. He put Wallace above William because he thought Wallace stood a better chance to bring home the laurels and allow him to say, "You remember the year my boy was All-American, and Ted was playing Alabama . . . ." It was no good, this business of sending boys off to war and getting them killed. Thousands of boys would get killed, but there would only be a handful of All-Americans.

He started at the supper table, and they were talking about the basketball coach who had come that afternoon. "He wanted to see you," Wallace said. "He walked so long and so loud."

"Twenty more minutes and I'da been here," Papa said. "But the main thing's the new ruling. He was positive about that!"

"Was. Ask William."

"He said it had already passed," William said. "Any freshman can play on the varsity if he's good enough. But you know he thought we were 12. I told him we'd be 20 in July."

"What'd you do that for?"

"He asked me."

"What did he say when you told him? Say anything about the draft?"

"He didn't say."

"The war may be over soon," Papa said.

"Soon?" I said. "You ought to read the papers."

* * *

He saw he was trapped, and so he said, "That Hitler's smart. He's like a good spotter in the highest part of the stadium—picking out the weak spots, telling his men where and when. His generals are like good halfbacks, good fullbacks. He's the quarterback." While he talked he put more spoonfuls of sugar in his tea and I seemed unnecessary, but I supposed that was better than his habit of feeding it to his fifty. "Let's talk about something else. How you gonna get to the banquet Saturday night?"

"A schoolbus is going," William said.

Wallace looked at me. "Tell 'em to water, you know who William's going with?"

"Why bring that up?" William said.

"Can't we have a little peace at the table?" Mama said.

"That's what I say," Papa said. "Could I have some tea?" William said.

"Milk."

"No," Papa said. "Milk."

"But just smell it," William said. "The cow got in the wild onions. Just smell it." He held it for Papa to smell.

"If you'd eat some onion before you start to drink it you couldn't tell the difference," Papa said.

V

Just as I went into the living room, the telephone rang. I answered. "It's for you, Papa. It's Mr. Sloane."

"Ah or George?"

"Mr. George." Ah Sloane was the stationmaster; George Sloane, his son, was the section-foreman. One of them usually called Papa when anything went wrong on the tracks.

Papa said a few words then wheeling away from the telephone; he liked excitement. "The trestle broke through with 26. It was loaded with tanks and what all—two flats went through."

"Was anybody hurt?" Mama said.

"I don't know. Army tanks scattered all over Tuscumbia bottom."

"Is Sloane to blame?" Mama said.

"Of course he's to blame. I told him that trestle wouldn't hold.

"You are next in line for section-foreman?" Mama said.

"I reckon I'm next. You finished Wallace? William? You boys go with me. You might could help."

I had got halfway up the stairs, and then I came back down into the living room.

I knew they would not ask me to go, but I wanted them to have no excuse. I stood in the middle of the living room and made all three of them walk past me.

When they were gone, I went upstairs to my room. Anybody who would go a whole year in algebra and nine just one minus sign must be some kind of fool. And there must be some special tag for anybody who would cheat for Wallace. I had never cheated in school. I had never had to—I was going to be valedictorian.

I thought of what Papa had said about the war ending soon, and I remembered what he had said the day France fell. "Who'd you expect to stop the Germans? An old-maidish French army that couldn't stop the Mississippi National Guard!"

Nobody was going to take Meb away from me. I was going to lose her the way I had lost so many other things, most of them —it seemed—because I never had the right words. I thought that if I were away somewhere I would write Meb a letter and say something like:

I knew that I would go to work the next day, as usual, and Meb would be there, as usual. And likely, William and Wallace would help Papa on the tracks. Come Saturday, I would work 18 hours. Around suppertime, Mr. Wilkes would cut off some cheese and take out some crackers and then open some pop. He would spread it all out on a clean piece of wrapping paper and say, "You just eat here tonight. It won't cost you nothing." A few times, when business had been booming most of the day, he would take his knife and open a can of sardines. He always winked at me over those sardines, as if they were a rare treat, when he knew that almost anything else in the store would have pleased me more. But he wasn't stingy all the time. One Christmas I worked the week we were off from school and he gave me $5 extra for a Christmas present. I took it and bought two white shirts for William and Wallace. I always mess everything up when I do something like that. If I had had any sense I would have spent one dollar each on everybody. But what can you buy with $1? And five was all I had, for what I earned would go on the grocery bill—I used to think that someday I was going to run away from home and work and save enough money to come back and pay the grocery bill completely, for once. But anyway, I bought the two white shirts, and Christmas morning I took them into William's and Wallace's room. Wallace asked, "What did you buy Papa?"

Three Of Family Burned To Death In Car Collision

Two Others Severely Hurt In Crash Near Newmarket

NEWMARKET (CP)—Three persons were killed and two injured when two automobiles collided and burned near this town 15 miles north of Toronto Friday night.

Mrs. Alice Robinson, her son Hawke and his wife Anne, all of Newmarket, were burned to death after the accident on Highway 11. Alan Aistrus and Peter Panek, both 20, Toronto, were taken to hospital with serious burns after being pulled unconscious from the wreckage of their car by a passing motor bit.

Saved For $10

Jim Russell of Newmarket, an eyewitness, said the Robinson car had slowed for a left turn into the laneway of Mrs. Robinson's Invicarra Farm home when a second car crashed into it from behind, tossing the Robinson car 100 feet down the highway and turning it over. Both cars caught fire.

Mr. Russell, 31, said his wife Edith, an expectant mother, watched as the Robinson family car but couldn't reach the people trapped inside because of the flames. Then he went to the other car and pulled the two men out.

Mrs. Robinson, 56, formerly from a Florida vacation Friday afternoon. She was the widow of Dr. E. H. Robinson.

Oscar-Winning Movie Never Played in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's only Oscar-winning movie in this year's academy awards has never played in Canada.

"Neighbors," a short symbolic film with unusual camera techniques, was produced by Norman McLaren of the national film board and rejected by Canadian movie houses as "not very good."

It has been seen both in the U.S. and Britain and a spokesman for Columbia Pictures, distributors of the film said:

"How that it's won the award everybody is after it."

Canadian-Born Union Leader Said Communist

NEW YORK (AP) — A Canadian-born transport workers' leader was yanked from a collective bargaining table Friday and sent to Ellis Island on a deportation warrant alleging he belonged to the Communist party.

Gordon A. Barrageher, 48, a native of Toronto, was arrested in Patchogue, N.Y., where he was in the midst of negotiations in a 42-day bus strike.

Barrageher, chief negotiator for local 252 of the CIO Transport Workers Union, is past president of the local, which covers Long Island's Nassau and Suffolk counties, from 1947 to 1951.

Immigration agents called him from the bargaining table and read their warrant to him.

Later a reporter asked him if he were indeed a member of the Communist party.

"Nonsense," he replied.

In Washington, Attorney General Herbert Brownell said he had ordered Barrageher held without bail.

Britain Pledge Of Support Goes Back With Tito

LONDON (AP)—Marshal Tito ended a historic visit to Britain today and left for Yugoslavia with a British pledge to stand by his Communist Balkan state in resisting aggression.

The Red dictator who broke with Stalin and in 1948 stood coldly stiffly at attention as the London port's launch Nore drew away from Yugoslav warship. He wore full uniform with a light grey coat with gold lapels.

Foreign Secretary Eden, in final marshal tribute, was present to bid him adieu. A naval guard of honor presented arms as Tito stepped from his bullet-proof limousine and moved toward the launch.

Down the Thames at Greenwich Tito was to transfer to the Yugoslav naval training ship Galeb Seagull for his sea voyage to Yugoslavia.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Skies continue cloudy in southern Ontario during the night as a blanket of clear weather over northern sections of the province. Cloudiness will extend during the day and temperatures rise rapidly as the winds increase, and shift to a southerly quarter. A developing storm centre over Nebraska will move northeastward to the vicinity of Sioux Lookout by Sunday morning. Rain ahead of the centre has been spotty but will become more continuous over Northern Ontario this afternoon and tonight. Rain to the southern portion of the province will be limited to a few widely scattered showers.

ENTIRE FAMILY OF 10 KILLED IN CAR CRASH

New Jersey Tragedy One Of Worst on Record

WASHINGTON, N. J. (AP)—A 33-year-old dairy farmer and seven members of his family lost their lives in a head-on highway crash Friday night as they were on their way to do the weekly shopping.

Their 1953 sedan was crumpled in a collision with a trailer truck on two-lane route.

State police said it was one of the worst traffic accidents in the history of New Jersey.

Killed outright were Clarence Matlock, who operated a 50-cow dairy farm on Naval Silver Lake, N. J., his wife, Alma; three daughters, Esther, 10, Joan, 8, and Rosemary, 2; a son, Clarence, Jr., 3, his mother, Elizabeth, 75, and his two sisters Grace, 48, and Mary, 50.

Another son, Raymond, the only member of the family taken from the wreck, died in hospital in early this morning—on his eighth birthday.

Two men in the truck escaped uninjured. They were the driver, John Sacramino, 30, and Lawrence Butler.

Sacramino, dazed and horror-stricken, was hooked at state police barracks here on a criminal charge for causing death by auto.

Butler told police his truck was following a string of cars ahead on the highway when the coal truck in its front began to swerve over to the right shoulder of the road.

Then they saw the car coming straight at them. Butler said that Sacramino pulled across the left lane in order to avoid the car, but failed to avoid the collision.

Butler also pulled for the same shoulder, Butler reported, and the vehicles collided.

Anton in Zapotocky New President Of Czechoslovakia

VIENNA (AP) — Antonin Zapotocky, 68-year-old former Nazi concentration camp trusty wanted by the Italian police for criminal, today became the new Communist president of Czechoslovakia.

Zapotocky was unanimously elected by 300 members of the rubber-stamp Czech Parliament to succeed 56-year-old Klement Gottwald, who died a week ago today after returning to Prague from Stalin's funeral.

Zapotocky had been premier of Czechoslovakia since after the Communists seized power in a bloodless revolution in 1948.

Italian authorities said that his past as premier will be taken over by Communist Premier Nenni.

Zapotocky, a life-long revolutionary and leader of the Czechoslovak's trade union federation, was sworn in as president 15 minutes after the vote by the Parliament.

"I swear that I will work for the welfare of the people of the Czechoslovak republic and that I will obey the laws and preserve the constitution of the republic," he pledged in the oath of office given by the Prague radio.

Gottwald, once a stonecutter, thus becomes the fourth president of the Czech republic, founded in 1918 after the collapse of the Austro-Hungarian empire. His predecessor was Edvard Benes. Masaryk served as first president until his death in 1937. He was succeeded by Benes who was pushed out by Gottwald after the Prague coup in 1948.

Report East German 'Air Police' Responsible for Plane Incidents

BERLIN (AP)—A report reached Berlin from the Soviet zone today that the jet fighters which shot down a British bomber March 12 were piloted by Germans.

The Spandauer Volksblatt, a conservative Berlin newspaper, said it had learned of the report from East German sources.

Allied airmen have been unable to either confirm or deny that the Russians are using East German pilots in Communist "air police" in flying the MiG-15s.

Until now, Western quarters have learned only that the fledgling "air police" force of the zone had grown to about 5,000 men and women doing ground crew service and certain duties at airfields.

The Spandauer newspaper said the city of Magdeburg buzzed with talk of the incident, started by two German women employed at the Magdeburg airfield. It said the two women identified as Dorothy Richi and Gerda Stoltz, were abruptly dismissed from their duties in the air base for discussing it publicly.

The newspaper said in a dispatch datelined Magdeburg that the women were told on duty on the day in question in the tower. They know that shortly after noon five fighter planes of the MiG-15 model had taken off from a patrol along the zonal border. They were piloted by Germans, among them former Luftwaffe fighter pilot Guenther Lehmann.

"When the planes landed after their flight, Helene Dietrich accompanied by another girl went over to mission as stenographer assistant to the field.

"Lehmann seem to have shot (a plane) down," she said later to her colleagues, including Wehrmacht Roland Clarke (Vera), Wellington; son brother, Emerson Stewart, Oshawa.

There were no eye witnesses to the fatality. The driver told the police that he swerved out to avoid Mills. Transport stopped around vehicles double parked on the road. The damage to the front of the car was estimated at $400.

Cabinet Minister Challenges PC's to Make Political Issue Of Govt. Policy on Television

OTTAWA (CP)—A cabinet minister has challenged the Progressive Conservative party to make a political issue out of the government's policy on television.

The challenge came from Revenue Minister McCann, who reports to Parliament for the CBC.

Dr. McCann said Friday in the Commons he has no apology to offer for government policy in setting that the CBC shall maintain control in the larger cities with private TV stations allowed to operate where the CBC does not.

The policy of George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, he said, seemed to be that private interests should be allowed stations in the large centres to get the big-paying advertising and all the gravy while the people get 25 per cent of Canada paid the shot.

Dr. McCann said he hoped that if Mr. Drew wanted to make a political issue with his own future in "in the not too far distant future —well he had better review it because I am sure that the best of the summer is going to sweat a lot of water out of that particular policy."

Mr. Drew interjected to say that at no time has he communicated such a policy.

Two exchange occurred as the Commons established a committee to review CBC affairs.

Dr. McCann said the Liberals have been constant in their policy on television, which Opposition party "vacillated from year to year." Mr. Drew, he said, was going to "get back on the bandwagon" because he realized people supported CBC ownership. But he was only half on the bandwagon.

Mr. Drew was then interjected out of radio broadcasting but not for public support of television.

"He wants to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds at the same time," Mr. McCann said.

Elsewhere in the debate Rodney Adamson (PC-Welland) said he agrees with J. W. Noseworthy (CCF-York South) who said private television owners would not give broadcast time to those with opinions contrary to their own.

Mr. Adamson said CKEY in Toronto gave time to Communists. Yet its owner was Jack Kent Cooke, a "rabid" whose opinions are farther from the ideologies of the Labor-Progressive party than any man I know in Canada."

Preliminary study of tax proposals in the 1953-54 budget were completed. Members gave first reading to bills giving effect to the changes, including the 10-per-cent income tax cut and the three-per-cent cut in corporation taxes.

Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, announced that the budgetary provision to allow full-time university students to be claimed as dependents for income tax purposes was being widened to include full-time students at all schools. This will include technical, theological and commercial.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, Solon E. Low, Social Credit leader, and others urged a widening of the list of drugs whose cost is deductible for income tax purposes. Mr. Low said vitamin E, used in the treatment of heart disease, should be included. Mr. Lesage said the list could be widened later.

Donald Fleming-(PC-Toronto Eglinton)-said that a child, such as a cripple, should be deductible as a legitimate medical expense.

Dr. Charles (SC-Kootenay East) said the percentage of net income tax payable by corporations and the income tax purposes should be put on a graduated scale according to the ability to pay. Only in this way come man should be able to deduct more than a fixed amount.

At the night sitting Watson Mac-Naught, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Sinclair, announced that an inter-departmental committee has been established to study Canada's territorial waters, set at a limit of three miles.

He spoke as the members gave final approval to a measure providing a number of amendments to an act to protect coastal fisheries.

The amendments measure also gives final approval increases the scale of compensation for death or injury to merchant seamen under the Merchant Seamen Compensation Act.

Young Trenton Housewife Killed Instantly When Pinned Between Sign Post and Car

TRENTON, (Special) — The mother of five small children was killed instantly here last night pinned between a steel sign post and the front of a hard top convertible car on the north side of the car Everett 'Duke' Terry of Trenton, is being held by police pending further investigation.

Mrs. Kenneth Sherwood, 24, and her husband intended crossing the street to bowl at the alleys on the south side of Dundas Street East. She was struck as she jumped back out of the path of the car as passed under the sign. Her husband also saw the car coming and jumped ahead saving himself. The-young woman was knocked down when the car came against the sign post in front of McCrodden's service station. The car has been impounded back to release the shattered body.

A young woman passenger in Terry's car, Junita Craddock, suffered a fractured collar bone and bruises to the shoulder and cuts on the face. Her condition was not considered serious at the hospital, where she was treated.

Mrs. Wannamaker, the former Dorothy Stewart of Wellington, was the mother of Gail, 6; Jeffery, 5; Linda, four, and Nell, two years old. Her husband is a well known Trenton bowler and softball player.

Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stewart of Wellington, six sisters, Mrs. Harry Hass (Hazel), of Marysville, Mrs. Harry Weismund, (Irene), Wellington; Mrs. George Mossop, (Dorothy), Belleville; Mrs. Archie Moxam (Stella), Maynooth; Mrs. Wes Vanalstine, (Velma), Wellington; Mrs. Roland Clarke (Vera), Wellington; one brother, Emerson Stewart, Oshawa.

There were no eye witnesses to the fatality. The driver told the police that he swerved out to avoid Mills. Transport stopped around vehicles double parked on the road. The damage to the front of the car was estimated at $400.

KILLED BY CAR

TRENTON (CP)—A 24-year-old mother of five died Friday night when struck by an auto while she was crossing the street on her way to bowl. Witnesses said that Mrs. Ken Wannamaker was knocked down when the car swerved from the other side of the road. Her husband was not injured.

Mayor Whitton Wins Her Point Before Committee

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa kept legislative committee on the run Friday of their seats Thursday with a blistering attack on the city's land speculators and exploiters.

Miss Whitton appeared before a private bills committee to back Ottawa's application for a special Parliamentary act to govern the 1,100 unit Manor Park housing development, controversial subdivision and future housing plans in the city.

The mayor, asserting that the city council was not communism, won the committee's approval. The act is expected to be passed in a little more than a formality.

Miss Whitton said the city didn't want a court inquiry, which is authorized by provincial law, but a special committee of experts appointed by the province to check up on all the subdivision projects in the city.

She said the Manor Park development probably would be a "good buy," but there were others promoted by speculators. She mentioned Hunt Club Park which a man bought a large tract of land for $600 an acre.

The purchase was made during an election and he succeeded in selling $35,000 worth of water-works improvements done on the property, Miss Whitton charged. The wise would have been used for $6,000 worth of improvements a few weeks later the land was sold for $6,000 an acre.

RATIFY REPARATIONS

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany and Israel Friday her agreement to pay $822,000,000 reparations to Israel for Nazi persecution of the Jews. Israel is to give the Jewish material claims conference a share totalling $107,000,000. Parliament's final approval was completed with a unanimous vote in the Upper House, the Bundesrat. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Heuss signed the agreement and the accompanying ratification papers.

BEVERAGE ROOMS MAY SUPPLY FULL COURSE MEALS

TORONTO (CP) — Beverage rooms will be able to serve full course meals under an amendment to the Liquor Licence Act introduced Friday in the Ontario legislature. Present regulations permit only sandwiches to be served to beer-drinking patrons.

The amendment permits the liquor control board of Ontario to grant a dining room licence to the holder of a public house licence without having the establishment reclassified as a tavern. Public houses, under present laws, may not be given a dining room li-

G. Arthur Welsh, provincial secretary and chairman of the LCBO, said many beverage room operators had expressed a desire to serve meals with beer, and he and Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the liquor control board, agreed the change would be desirable.

To Call Conference

George Challies, minister without portfolio and vice-chairman of the Ontario Municipal Association said the commission will call a conference of municipalities to be attended by the 30 Lawrence seaway "at the earliest opportunity." The conference will discuss problems and lives of the affected areas to express their views and to learn details of hydro's plan.

He said that the election of President Eisenhower in the United States had brought new seaway hopes to Canada because it is impossible to predict when the project will begin. But Canada is going ahead with work for the power phase of the project.

Even if the project were started at once, the province would have a power shortage by 1957 unless additional generating stations were built, Mr. Challies said.

"It is the intention of the provincial government and the commission that the whole area involved in the Lawrence seaway development will be restored with improved municipal services and improved roads by the closest co-operation between provincial and municipal agencies."

The commission was determined "to preserve municipal autonomy as far as possible."

Mr. Welsh also brought up the question of the seaway when the department's estimates were approved.

Estimates Tabled

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott tabled in the Commons Friday supplementary estimates totalling $32,348,000 to cover operating loss of the agricultural prices support board. The loss resulted from government purchases of surplus grain. Canadian meat exports were banned due to an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Second largest amount in the supplementary was $25,000,000 for it represented a government contribution to the Canadian International portion of the civil service superannuation account. Another was $333,713 for the area for a grant to the superannuation fund.

Police Cordon Surrounds School As Delinquent Girls Begin Rioting

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP)—The trio-ridden Los Guilocos school for delinquent girls quieted to an uneasy tenseness today, but Homer Stark, California youth authority director, called the situation a potential powderkeg.

Police kept an all-night cordon around the school grounds, after 100 girls rioted for 3½ hours.

Stark had received approval from the governor to call out the guard at the alert a company of National Guard troops in case of an emergency. But they have not been ordered on to the school grounds yet.

Police said the 100 "teen-age girls, who are still uncontrolled, are being penned on by a group of ringleaders. Many are armed with knives and broken glass, police said.

School officials commented that the present group of a hundred delinquents may have incited the riot.

Stark attributed part of the trouble to "elements of hatred that resulted in Los Angeles' 'teen-age riot' last summer." Some of the girls were transferred to Los Guilocos early in the year.

The first riot broke out at dinner time Thursday when the girls, breaking windows, overturning tables and ripping window screens, made a break for freedom. They were all captured within hours.

Another riot broke out when two didn't participate in the riot were threatened by ringleaders, school authorities said.

In the second flareup the 15 girls broke out of a maximum security compound just after noon Friday. They smashed windows with their fists, protected by sweaters, and armed themselves with pieces of broken glass from the kitchen.

Other girls broke out in groups of two and three each, but were captured.

35 U.S. Airmen, Heading For Duty In Far East, Killed

Airliner Crashes, Explodes Near Oakland, California

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Thirty-five persons, most of them United States airmen heading for duty in the Far East, were killed when a four-engine transport plane crashed and exploded in a ball of fire south of here Friday night a few minutes after receiving clearance for a landing at Oakland airport.

The plane, a Douglas Air Lines DC-4 on charter from the U.S. Air Force, struck a hill near Decoto, 20 miles south of here near the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay. Decoto is in the area of California's worst air disaster—50 killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane under similar circumstances Aug. 24, 1951. That plane, too, was about to land.

No Survivors

Alameda county sheriff's Capt. Richard E. Condon at the scene of the Transocean crash said there were no survivors. The plane, on a flight from a Roswell, N.M., base, carried 30 airmen and five crew members.

Eyewitnesses said the aircraft, flying through a drizzle of rain, smashed into the hill, broke into bits and burst into flames.

Mrs. Henry Andrade, who lives only 300 yards from the crash scene, said she heard a crash and then a series of explosions. She ran a store in the residential place as she could.

"I was met with their clothes on fire, some on the ground, some trying to get out and moaning, falling back into the flames."

Could See Burning Bodies

Alameda county sheriff's officers said bodies could be seen burning within the portion of the plane that still remained intact. The wreckage of the plane was scattered over a quarter-mile radius in the soft, newly-plowed field where it fell.

The civilian crew included two stewardesses. The 30 airmen were from the Military Air Transport Service. The air force said the airmen were going to various maintenance specialists en route to the Far East for a tour of duty with a bomber unit.

A rumor that the DC-4 might be carrying "secret" cargo was quickly denied by the air force.

Little was left of the plane when the flames subsided, but one large section of the tail and rear fuselage remained, a charred-white against the dark, wet fields.

Armed Bandit Secures $3,200 From Bookkeeper

MONTREAL (CP) — An armed bandit held up a girl bookkeeper at the Canadian Bronze Company Friday and escaped with an estimated $3,200 in cash in broad daylight.

The holdup was carried out on the sixth floor of a Five Street building. The bandit fled down stairs leading to the street and disappeared. Three company employees who chased him for three blocks. Later he was found in a taxicab parked as she stepped from the elevator. The man overtook her and snatched the bag holding the money and cheques.

Malenkov Quits Key Secretary Post in Party

BY THOMAS F. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov, new chief of the Soviet government, has resigned his post as secretary of the Russian Communist party's powerful secretariat, headed by former Ukrainian party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, takes over.

Pravda, the party's newspaper, said a plenary session of the central committee accepted Malenkov's request to resign.

The Pravda announcement made it clear that the 53-year-old Khrushchev, who gained a reputation for firm policies in the Ukraine, will devote more time to the task of administering the party. He will operate under the leadership of Malenkov, who is the party's practicdium, which is still headed by Malenkov.

The new set-up will allow Malenkov to concentrate on the leadership of the party and it appeared this formal post—held for many years by Joseph Stalin—had been abolished for some time.

Two other members of the new streamlined secretariat were listed today—probably in order of decreasing importance—as Mikhail Suslov, a former party leader in the North Caucasus and Lithuanian republic and recently editor-in-chief of Pravda.

Peter Pospelov, former Pravda editor who last headed the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute as a leading theoretician of the Red party, and Dmitri Shatalin, recently a candidate to the secretariat.

Joseph Ivanov, veteran party worker and former deputy chief of Pravda.

Today's shakeup in the party secretariat was the third within six months. Georgi Malenkov was elected in October and a decree by the M.V.D. in mid-December announced March 6 transferred four members to other posts. They were L. I. Brezhnev, M. G. Ignatov, N. Pegov and P. K. Ponomarenko.

Denied Motion

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—State Supreme Court Justice William H. Hamlin denied Friday a motion for a separate trial by Maurice O'Dell and Elton Cole, accused of the holdup-slaying of a Buffalo jeweler.

Cole, 31, and Walter F. Griffen, 32, also of Hamilton, are on the sixth floor of a Five Street building. The bandit fled down stairs leading to the street and disappeared. Three company employees who chased him for three blocks. Later he was found in a taxicab parked as she stepped from the elevator. The man overtook her and snatched the bag holding the money and cheques.

Sales, Ad Club Donates Writing Set to Class

As a gesture of interest in community projects and the field of adult education, the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club donated handsome pen and pencil set to the T.M.C.A. public speaking class. This set will be awarded to the person in the class whom the other participants deem has made the greatest progress in his or her ability to speak before a group.

The public speaking course started on the fifteenth of January and will terminate on the sixteenth of April. Many people in the group have had an opportunity to speak five and six times and the progress made by them has been remarkable. Individuals who were almost panic-stricken by nervousness the first evening are now putting themselves forward in a comfortable position of the participants have testified to the value of the course. Many have expressed their marked improvement in controlling themselves in people, in their daily tasks.

The program committee of the Y.M.C.A. has in store a rating study sheet to the present class, for determining the effectiveness of the course and to ascertain whether this series of lectures and practice sessions should be repeated next Fall.

MRS. MARGARET JANE DAWSON

Mrs. Margaret Jane Dawson, R. R. 1 Carrying Place Ameliasburg township, died Friday evening at Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 67th year.

Born in Ontario, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cooley and during his active years had farmed in the 2nd concession. He retired in 1938 and went to live with his son in Indiana. He was a member of the United Church. His wife, the former Emma Ann Taggart, predeceased him in 1935.

Surviving is one son, Thurlow, Roy B., of West Lafayette, Indiana, and one daughter, Mrs. Leo (Evelyn) Osterwis, of New York City. There are two brothers, Edmund B. Cooley of Belleville, and Saleros C. Cooley of Thurlow township.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MARGARET JANE DAWSON

(Ameliasburg Township)

In failing health for some time

R.C.A.F., Ottawa, and Thomas, Ottawa.

There are two brothers, William Tompkins, of Belleville, and Norman Tompkins of Regina, Sask., and one sister, Mrs. Ada Goldsmith, of Belleville.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

SUFFERS BROKEN LEG

HAMILTON — Mrs. Agnes Pi, of Brantford suffered a broken right leg Friday when he was tossed to the floor by the shock of concrete. He was working on a downtown Grantham Avenue hospital authorities Friday night described his condition as "fairly good."

Social Service Secretary Heard At Y's Mens Club

"What makes us tick" was the title of an address given to the Belleville Y's Men's Club at the regular weekly meeting. The speaker was the Rev. F. C. Berry, Associate Secretary of Evangelism and Social Service for the United Church of Canada.

"I venture to say that the greatest advance in the next 50 years will be in the realm of the psychic and mental fields; in the understanding of man," was Mr. Berry's opening thought. "The new frontiers of human understanding and understanding humans will be in the fields of Psychic Research, Psychosomatic medicine, Telepathy and Surgery," he added.

"There is no doubt about the existence of a force, power or controlling mind which works upon our brains," he continued, "for it has been scientifically established in these four areas." He illustrated his points with a number of well known to scientists and religious leaders, including some observations made by Dr. Carl Jung, world famous Canadian brain specialist.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. D. R. Dafoe in the absence of Mr. W. T. Hutchinson. Club president K. L. Littlejohn presented Mr. Berry with a gift on behalf of all present.

Definite Swing to Grass Silage Threshermen Told by Speaker

The economical and nutritional values of grass silage as compared with many other classes of feed for cattle were outlined to members of the Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen and Power Farmers at their 27th. annual convention held Friday at Tobe's Country Gardens at Roslemore.

Speaker was C. R. Johnston of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. He said there was a definite swing by farmers in grass silage with about 20 per cent of the tonnage stored now being of this variety.

Returning to silo types, Mr. Johnston said trench silos were to be preferred over the conventional type. Not only were they easier and cheaper to construct but they were easier to fill and therefore with less hand tramping.

With about 75 members present the convention got underway with an executive meeting following a 6.30 p.m. dinner at noon. President Theodore Cooney welcomed the members. Films Shown.

Doug Dolman, division sales manager for Ford of Canada, ended the meeting, his talk being followed by the showing of films demonstrating the latest in power equipment. These prizes were donated by Ivor May, John Deere dealer.

Approximately 300 turned out for a turkey banquet held in the Centennial Hall, Wellington, by Mt. Pleasant (Rawdon) ladies. The banquet speaker was J. D. Thomas, of the Imperial Oil of Ottawa, director of the World's Plowing Association.

Mr. Thomas stressed the importance of soil conservation and the necessity of greater food production to help feed starving millions in famine stricken countries.

Oscar Merrick, R.R. 2, Stirling, was named president, with Robert McAdam, Peterborough, and H. S. Collins, Colborne, as vice-president. Goldie McIlwyr of Stirling, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Executive committee members are James Reynolds, Foxboro; Frank Tucker and Horace Knight, R.R. 3, Belleville.

Directors are Fred Robinson, Corbyville; Laurier Kennedy, Thomasburg; Roy Sills, Holloway; W. W. Dowson, Petersburough; Ross Brownbridge, Brighton, and T. A. Cooney, Harold.

Malan's Govt. Seeks Mandate At Elections to Establish 'Sovereignty of Parliament'

BY ASTLEY HAWKINS

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's Nationalist government, thwarted by appeal court decisions involving some of its most controversial legislation, is seeking a mandate at next month's polls to change general elections to establish "the sovereignty of Parliament."

Malan's Nationalists, if they are returned to power, say they want to clear up a constitutional tangle by making parliamentary acts immune from the testing rights of the courts.

The issue has developed in legal interpretations of the Statute of Westminster and the South African constitution, arises from the Nationalist government's unsuccessful efforts to put male colored (mixed blood) voters in Cape province on a separate roll with white voters.

The "Cape colored," as they are known, now number some three hundred thousand and mostly residing in Cape province, South Africa's smallest province, have the right to vote for "colored" community in Cape provinces Senate and for MPs with the white population on the common electoral roll. This system was established in the Union's other three provinces—Natal, the Transvaal and the Orange Free State.

Sought Switch

Pursuing their general policy of "separate development" the Nationalists sought to abolish this system by combination with complete segregation and separation for all colored people. In 1951 the Malan Nationalist government sought to switch the Cape colored voters to a separate colored roll in 1951 by passing the Separate Representation of Voters Act.

Under the act, the "Cape colored" would elect four Europeans to electing a few white parliamentary representatives to the Senate.

This would have placed them on a similar basis to the African natives of Cape province, who also possess traditional voting rights under the Cape colonial constitution of 1833, but limited by educational and property qualifications.

Under the Native Representation Act of 1935, native voters in Cape province elect three European members of the South African assembly and two members of the Cape provincial council.

But after the Separate Representation of Voters Act was passed, four "colored" voters successfully challenged its validity on the ground that it violated the "entrenched" clauses of the South African constitution, which require a two-thirds majority at a joint session of both houses for amendment.

The South African constitution was made law by the British Parliament's South Africa Act of 1910 which embodies it.

Challenge Rejected

When the voters' act was first tested in a lower court the challenge was rejected on the grounds of a 1937 appeal court ruling that the Statute of Westminster, West-minister, South African courts have no power to question the validity of an act of the South African Parliament.

From failure in the lower court, the four "colored" voters won a victory when decided in the appeal court.

Deciding to accept this setback, the Nationalist government then passed the High Court of Parliament act designed to give Parliament power to reverse appeal court decisions in constitutional matters if necessary.

The proceedings brought by the same four "colored" voters resulted in this measure also being declared invalid by the courts.

Malan and his colleagues accordingly interpret defeats, but have since repeatedly expressed their determination to find a way of putting Parliament above the courts so that the "peoples will" can prevail.

Political observers here, though believing the Nationalists' chances in the elections, do not expect them to get a two-thirds majority of the total House of Assembly. Without that they are wondering how another Nationalist government can execute a "mandate" or achieve its objectives if it resorts to such methods as "packing" the courts.

BEVERAGE ROOMS

He said there existed, along with apathy, active opposition to civil defence preparation. He added:

"We know we were going to have an emergency of sort, but we have to contend with an active opposition. I will leave it to your imagination to guess where the active opposition comes from. It is active and strong. Yet the civil defence organization will prove to be the greatest boon to our citizens in the next war."

Mr. Dolman said there would be a change in the hours of sale affecting beverage rooms in Ontario, but that was a matter for the licence board. Present hours are from noon until 6.30 p.m. and from 8 p.m. until midnight.

The government has long favored a policy of encouraging the serving of food where liquor is sold at the theory that there is likely to be less drunkenness.

Another amendment to the act creates two new types of licences for clubs. Mr. Welsh said that difficulties arise when clubs apply for licences since they must advertise that they are applying for it which gives rise to the mistaken idea that they are open to the public.

The new types of licences are a club licence for dining and consumption of liquor with or without meals in an establishment classified as a club and a club licence (restricted) for sale and consumption of beer and wine without meals in an establishment classified as a club.

Frequency conversion by the hydro commission was discussed both in the House and in committee.

Mr. Challies told the House that research by the hydro and close co-operation between the commission and manufacturers of electrical appliances is expected to save many millions of dollars in the over-all cost of frequency standardization.

He said that about 825,000,000 will be saved through the use of dual frequency refrigerators and other equipment and the introduction of new techniques in the changeover of house meters.

Mr. Sawdon, Toronto Canadian Comstock, major contractor in the frequency conversion program, had been paid $4,861,297 in fees to the end of 1952. Total cost, of which Ontario pays 50 per cent, is $85,343,027.

Answering critics who have claimed extravagance in the hydro advertising and public relations, Mr. Saunders said the commission's advertising budget had gone down steadily from $417,013 in 1947 to $38,732 last year. He said that the public relations budget last year was $630,000—the only year the figure for that department is available.

Off Set Showers Increase Safety Factor at 'Y'

Both shower rooms, which have been renovated, are now equipped with the latest style of Y.M.C.A. showers. Because the taps are to one side instead of directly under the shower head, the maximum possible safeguard against scalding has been provided. Anyone over can now stand safely to one side of the stream of water until he has adjusted the water temperature to his liking. He can thus evade an initial blast of very hot or cold water.

The shower rooms have been finished off with Bakelite ceilings, white ceramic tile floor and white glazed tile walls, creating an atmosphere of bright cleanliness. Each room has also been equipped with an exhaust fan to draw off moisture and steam and insure a freshness at all times.

The locker rooms have been floored with mastic tile and have been partially refinished by the Y's Men's Club. The total result is that the Y.M.C.A. is now equipped with locker and shower rooms such as are a delight to members and visitors.

Much more could be done to enhance these facilities once funds were available. Nevertheless the ongoing policy of cleanliness and hygienic conditions has been achieved.

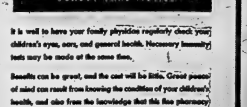
Maple Syrup Still Holding At $5.50 Gallon

Egg prices dropped four cents on the local produce market today with vendors asking 50c for firsts and 46c for selected grades. Prices reached a peak last week when 65c per dozen was asked.

There was a small offering of fowl with farmers asking 30c for chickens and 50c per lb. for mature birds.

On the outside market, maple syrup held at $5.50 per gallon with quart lots selling at $1.25. Farmers said the sap run was spotty with the slight drop at night being sufficient only for a two or three hour sap run the following morning. Quality of sap, however, was said to be good.

Spys, McIntosh and Delicious apples ranged from 75c to 90c per basket for top grade. Talman Sweets were 75c and Snows 55c.



Potatoes held at $2.50 per bag, with 10-lb. bags at 45c. Winter vegetable prices remained at previous levels.

One farmer offered shoats at $19 each.

Mixed wood, in stove lengths, was $18 per cord.

Fresh Lake Ontario smelts sold at 35c per lb.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

My Faith Looks Up To Thee

My faith looks up to Thee,
Thou Lamb of Calvary,
Savior divine!
Now hear me while I pray;
Take all my guilt away;
O let me from this day
Be wholly Thine!

May Thy rich grace impart
Strength to my fainting heart,
My zeal inspire;
As Thou hast died for me,
O may my love to Thee
Pure, warm and changeless be
A living fire.

While life's dark maze I tread
And griefs around me spread,
Be Thou my Guide;
Bid darkness turn to day;
Wipe sorrow's tears away,
Nor let me ever stray
From Thee aside.

When ends life's transient dream;
When death's cold, sullen stream
Shall o'er me roll;
Blest Savior, then, in love,
Fear and distress remove;
O bear me safe above,
A ransomed soul!

Lowell Mason, the composer, was browsing about in a Boston bookstall one day when he met a young friend, Ray Palmer. "I'm making a new booklet of hymns and tunes," Mason confided. "Won't you contribute a poem that I can set to music for the collection?" Palmer thumbed through a notebook which he had been carrying about with him for more than two years. He found a page on which he had penciled some scribbled stanzas, tore it out, and handed it to his composer friend. Mason pocketed the poem— the first copy of "My Faith Looks Up To Thee" — without realizing it. Later, in the quiet of his study, he was so inspired by it that he wrote the now famous tune, "Olivet," which has become as widely known as so popular as the hymn itself.

When the two friends met again a few days afterward, Mason greeted the poem enthusiastically. "You may live many years and do many good things," he told Palmer, "but I think you will be best known to posterity as the author of 'My Faith Looks Up to Thee.'"

Palmer, who later became a prominent Congregational clergyman, was only 22 when he wrote the hymn which has been accepted as an American classic for more than a century. He had been reading a poem by Augustine in stanzas which described a penitent sinner before the cross. The description left his soul deeply and he made an English translation. Then, put it aside. In his spiritual peril, he began to add stanzas of his own, interpreting the emotions of the supplicant. For the time being, the poet himself became the penitent sinner and his verses gave expression to his own spiritual experience at the moment.

The young hymnist had no idea, as he went along with his immortal hymn. Years later, he declared that he wrote without effort, that the poetry seemed to give expression to a full heart. Each stanza, however, was penned with tender emotion and as he wrote he sang the last one,

"Blest Savior, then, in love,
Fear and distrust remove;
O bear me safe above,
A ransomed soul!"

he finished his task in tears.

Dr. Palmer's entire life was characterized by an abiding faith in Christ. Only a few hours before he was called home, in faint sentences of his family heard him repeating the closing stanzas of another of his hymns, which he said to have been his favorite:

"When death these mortal eyes shall seal,
And still this throbbing heart,
The rending veil shall Thee reveal,
All glorious as Thou art."

Electric Eel Aids Research

A. W. HASLETT

(Is a B.B.C. Talk Describing the Electric Eel Gives up its Secrets to Aid Science)

An electric eel of three to four feet in length can give a shock of 600 volts, powerful enough to kill, and, with a good contact at each end, can knock a horse. It comes from South America. There is also a fish called the Torpedo that flourishes round the Mediterranean coast of Europe that can give a shock of about forty volts, and the electric eel-fish that is found in the Nile.

Certainly, the electric eel puts up a surprising enough performance. I suppose if one were to ask nine people out of ten why anyone should take an interest in electric fish, that would be the sort of answer that they would give. However, there is a second and different kind of answer that was quoted long ago by Charles Darwin: namely that there is a connection between the electric organs of these fish — which are the source of the shock — and normal muscles. That is still a good reason for taking an interest in electric fish; in their own special and highly developed form they show some of the same properties that we use in our muscles.

That being so, you would not expect that an electric eel would produce very large voltage from a single step. It does not. That 600-volts shock is the result of some 6,000 batteries of plates arranged in series. About five-sixths of its length is electric organ, so that practically the whole fish is one large and highly specialized device for giving an electric shock.

• • • •

For the shock to be effective the whole battery system must discharge at once, or very nearly. And in spite of its three to four feet length, that is all but true in the electric eel. The discharge of a single plate, on its own, takes about one-thousandth of a second: a millisecond, as I shall call it. The discharge of the whole 6,000 batteries over a distance of several feet is completed in about twice that time, so that the spread in time between the firing of the first plate and the last must be also about one millisecond. You may say that is the last difficulty? An eel must have a nervous system, as we have. All that is necessary is that a nerve signal should be sent out by the brain, and each of the 6,000 batteries will then go off in the same way that many of our own muscular movements must be closely coordinated.

But it is not so easy as all that. Though a nerve impulse is very fast, it still takes time to get from nerve cell to nerve cell. In man the spinal cord of an eel, the rate of transmission is between 130 and 150 feet per second — that is to 100 miles an hour for the quicker fibres. From that you will find that even at the highest speed there must be a difference of twenty millionths between the time that a nerve impulse, starting at the head, would reach the front and rear of the eel. That is not all: the overall difference is only one millisecond.

How does the eel do it? We have heard the answer from Professor A. V. Hill of the College de France in Paris. Fessard has been working on the electric eel in the Institute of Biophysics, Rio de Janeiro, of which the Director is Professor Chagas. And he has given a lecture about it in London. There are several factors that contribute to that final close timing. In the first place, activity does not begin near the head, as one might have expected, and spread outwards to the tail. It begins near the tail, rather than the head, and spreads in both directions. One reason for that is that there are differences in the ease or difficulty with which different batteries can be stimulated to release their charge.

• • • •

A second possibility is the use of delay-circuits, as would be the first thought of any electronic engineer if confronted with a similar problem. Measurements have been made of the actual delay which takes place at each of four nerve relays. It turns out that the biggest delay is in the relay serving the front part of the electric organ, and the shortest in the relay serving the tail. The difference is more than two milliseconds, and is in the right direction. There is also a third source of help which comes from the shape of the fish. The electric organ is thinner towards the tail than near the head; so less time is needed for impulses from the spinal cord outwards.

Adding up all these factors, it turns out that out of the original discrepancy of some nineteen milliseconds, there remain less than two milliseconds that are still to be explained. That final two milliseconds can be reasonably accounted for by possible small differences in the times at which individual nerve cells become active in the first place.

It would be absurd, of course, to draw any far-reaching conclusions from a single highly specialized case. But it would be equally absurd to deny any wider relevance to this one example of co-ordination in timing. Nature is probably the whole body, that has been almost fully worked out. Whether for the stalking of prey, or the making of top-spin drives at tennis, the answer every form of life derives advantage from the development of greater precision of timing. It just happens that an animal in which the fish electric organ is exceptionally easy to study in detail than one in which conditions are less favourable, and therefore movement, possibly in many parts of the body.

The same advantage may apply, too, in various other kinds of ex-

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

RIG AND BLACK

Stories have been the main source of our information about ravens. We read that they bode evil, that several could tell that they may live to the ripe old age of 20, 40 or even 80 years. But few Canadians actually come in contact with them — that is to know them as one is here. Avoiding cultivation, they have gradually dropped back farther and farther from the busy world, so that although in the days of our forefathers these great, sombre-looking birds were a common sight, now lumberjacks are the people with the best chance of getting acquainted with them. Also, in general appearance they so resemble crows that a mere glance is not enough to detect the difference.

Distinguishing Marks

None the less, there are several distinguishing marks. A raven is much larger, in fact by 5 inches, making it the biggest perching bird of North America. But size can be deceptive, because distance is hard to judge, and is not important part. Seldom can a sufficiently close view be had to see the ragged feathers on a raven's throat, or the wedge-shaped tail.

At the season when young crows are about, a raven's hoarse croaking, instead of cawing, is not apt to be remarked on, their voices being so similar. The big, black bird, however, makes many other sounds, even some gurgling notes that are said to sound like bells.

Possibly the best way to differentiate between these two species is to watch their actions in the air. The raven's manner of flight is more dignified, yet more varied than the crow's. It flaps and sores by turns as do certain hawks, and when sailing its wings are held out flat rather than up in a V. Acrobatic, aerial stunts are also in the raven's repertoire.

The raven prefers animal to vegetable matter, and food most often obtained, such as refuse, dead game, and the eggs and young of other birds. It is not particularly quick pursuit, as are hawks and owls, but when possible catches squirrels and small rabbits. Ravens living by the sea watch out for anything edible that may be left on beaches at low tide, and have learned to drop shellfish from a height to break them open.

CHALLENGE OF WELFARE

At one of their meetings in Toronto last week leaders of The Health League of Canada found themselves up against the troublesome challenge of multiplying health and welfare fund appeals.

Norman Ewart, executive secretary of the Canadian Congress of Labor, suggested that the league should serve as a national screening and accrediting body in this field. "We seem to be getting a society for almost every disease," he declared. "I expect there will be a toothache society next." The people of Canada are being asked for money for such a wide variety of causes that no particular individual can assess their worth.

It seems to me that organizations are competing with one another for the public's dollars. People are being worried to death by appeals for one thing and another.

There is meat in this, whether we like to admit it or not. Such accrediting bodies are needed. People are worried, confused often intimidated today by appeals for support by campaigns for money to support charitable institutions and research. But this is only a part of it. The overwhelming majority of causes are worthy causes—not only worthy, but inspiring. If the community were to be suddenly bereft of them a severe and even disastrous wound would be inflicted on our social structure. We also need the most care would have to depend on any help that might come their way. Neglected and stricken children, aged people, and those who are physically battered would have a familiar and protective cloak torn away from them. When people need blood transfusions in a hospital or on the battlefield; when a flood or a fire strikes, or when disease disrupts a home—what will replace the splendid organizations that now do so much to help and restore hope?

Right Mr. Ewart struck a cogent key. There is confusion, and there is sometimes resentment. The answer, or one of the reasons, is not hard to uncover. People are paying enormous amounts of taxes to the government for what is called social welfare, and still those who are in the most desperate straits find themselves quite outside the realm of that bounty. This is the result of the inadequacy of the welfare state; it leaves the most deserving beyond its borders, depending on the voluntary donations of those who pay for their fellow's shortcomings.

There is something wrong with this picture. Not that government should take over what these organizations are doing, for such work would then not be carried out nearly as well or as successfully. Mr. Dowd has asked a question. It is a significant and challenging one. It cannot be answered by describing the fine groups that depend on its funds. Perhaps it is the ultimate tragedy if confusion over what is worthy and what might not be, hurt those in real need. It is simply that mathematical government "welfare" paid for as much as it costs today still leaves so many helpless and dependent on private charity.

TITO AND MAGNA CARTA

It would be interesting to know, reflects the Hamilton Spectator, what thoughts went through the mind of President Tito when he visited the British Museum looking at the ancient parchment which begins, in stilted medieval Latin manuscript: "John, by the grace of God, King of England, Lord of Ireland, Duke of Normandy and Aquitaine, and Count of Anjou: To the archbishops, bishops, abbots, earls, barons, justices, sheriffs, reeves, ministers, and to all bailiffs, and faithful subjects greetings. Know that We, by divine impulse, and for the salvation of Our soul, and the souls of Our ancestors and Our heirs and for the exaltation of Our kingdom . . . grant . . . by this Our present charter, confirmed on behalf of Ourselves and Our heirs forever . . ."

Magna Carta was perhaps not quite the bill of rights which some historians have thought it to be; it was perhaps not the original guarantee of habeas corpus, trial by jury and the right of Parliament to control the purse strings. But not even the most latter-day cynics have claimed, only a bowing by King John to the selfish demands of his barons. It was a true charter of reform—Britain's first such charter—and it has a sacred place in the history of the English-speaking world.

It was perhaps only by chance that on that June day of 1215 when the barons met at Runnymede and Oxford, Robert Fitzwalter, John the Constable of Chester and the West, William d'Albigny, Fulk Fitz Warin, William de Montecute, and the rest came before the King with their feudal grievances, not without anger, in the most English of all parts of the English countryside; but it was magnificently symbolic chance.

Runnymede is between Staines and Windsor, and it is likely that even then, 738 years ago, that reach of the Thames Valley had the look of calm and order which it wears today.

Calm, order—and, from them, justice. Of these, Magna Carta was the first and one of the very few written down. It was the first step that they have survived but in the individual hearts and the collective soul of all English-speaking people. They have survived in the heart of the farmer tending his cattle in the same Thames Valley, and in the hearts of other men over half the world's surface. They live on in the wheat fields of Kansas, the sheep stations of Australia, the factories of Hamilton.

Perhaps Tito, the dictator, looking at the crinkled parchment in its case, felt the aura—to him the foreign aura—radiating from it. If he did, and if some of that emanation lodged in his heart, his country will be the better for it.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
(Copyright, 1953, Edgar A. Guest)

A PLEA

Let me remember through the day
To play the friend whene'er I may.

Let me be glad that I can bear
My portion of the load of care.
Let me in honor earn the right
To rest in sweet content at night.

Let me remember, where I go,
To radiate what man can know;
Let me press on, nor leave behind
For those who follow me to find.
One sign of hatred or of blame
To sour my labor or my name.

Keep me from envy free, I pray,
Of all who tread a smoother way.
Teach me to use what I possess
Of gold and joy and happiness
Without one discontented sigh
That other men have more than I.

Let remember that I may
Perform some needed task today;
May, with the little I possess,
Brighten the life of one who's less,
And through this day of joy
Be worthy of the gift of life.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 21, 1933.

Miss Nora Truesgil was home from Toronto to spend the week-end.

More blackbirds have arrived and have taken over their headquarters in the maple trees on the upper section of Moira Street west and adjoining streets.

Bucks of crows have invaded Holton's grove and a few robins have been reported as being in various parts of the city.

Mr. William Liddle has been re-engaged as professional coach at the Belleville Country Club.

Miss Marion Dennis of Kingston is visiting relatives here.

Mr. Charles Bowen was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club yesterday and he gave a very interesting and informative talk on Egypt.

30 YEARS AGO

March 21, 1923

The following have been appointed members of the Belleville Parks Board: William Rogers, F.J. Power, Charles Dafoe, C. J. Symons, R. E. Colling and C. Paster.

Belleville Lodge No. 1004, Loyal Order of Moose recently installed the following officers: Dictator, G. Mossman; vice dictator, M. Reid; prelate, P. T. Rose; secretary, A. E. Cole.

At the close of the lodge a banquet was served at which J. H. Deshane presided. The host of the new societies was proposed by W. Reid and responded to by Dr. Cronk.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stokes of Tweed celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding on March 19th and they received the congratulations and good wishes of many friends. Their sons, Mr. George H. Stokes and Mr. A. F. Stokes and their families were present at the happy event.

40 YEARS AGO

March 21, 1913

Mr. Alex Milne of Toronto is here to spend Easter with friends.

Mr. Archie Sales spent Good Friday with friends in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Yeex will spend Easter with friends in Bowmanville.

Mrs. James Malpas is spending a few days with friends in Perth.

Mr. Joseph Bannan of Hastings is visiting his sister, Mrs. George Warham, West Bridge Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dusenberry will spend Easter with the latter's sister, Mrs. R. Gibbard, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Roughton of Kingston will spend Easter here with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Barrows, Bridge Street east.

Mrs. Robert Bell and daughter of Montreal are here to spend the Easter vacation with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Draycott, North Front Street.

50 YEARS AGO

March 21, 1903

If the city council intends to lay any new macadam sidewalks as an experiment, a start might well be made on the south side of Bridge Street east in front of Col. Brown's residence, southeast corner of Bridge and Victoria Streets. During the greater part of the year this walk from William Street to Ann Street, is in a disgraceful condition.

Mrs. F. E. Fraser, barrister, went to Toronto today.

Mr. S. Slater is spending a few days in Millbrook.

Mr. Charles T. Richmore of Toronto spent Sunday here with friends.

Mr. George Ketcheson left today for Western Canada where he will remain for some time.

Mrs. Fred H. Rous of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, is a welcome visitor to the city.

Mr. George J. Johnson will leave next week for Rossburn, Manitoba.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Tracy have returned home after spending a few days in Kingston.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It was a humbling experience recently for The Packsack to be invited to speak before hundreds of miles of Louisiana, New Mexico and other southern states. Not only were thousands of trees not one of which I knew the name of, but there were plows with extraordinary long needles, a food long or money times with strange unpronounced names, and were trees that looked like willows that were evergreen, some that looked like oaks, but were not like oaks, a whole world of trees that were absolute strangers. Yet fellow-citizens of the same continent with me.

But when I began questioning the natives of the country for the names of the trees, and found they knew the names of them all, I then, it I caused me to reflect on how few people in my own country know more than two or three trees by name—pine, birch, maple, maybe willow, elm. Interest in such things as trees, flowers, birds and even animals is mainly a possibly confined to a very small section of the people anywhere, even in countries where these things was wished upon me scene.

by my father: he had it from his father: it happened to be one of those small knowledges or fancies that appeal to families, as it appeared to him, and has come down the points of a horse, or the names of the parts of the carpenter's chest. As Will Rogers said: "We are all ignorant, only on different subjects."

There was one tree, an evergreen, that looked like a cloud of mist. Its leaves were far more delicate than pine. Ten people natives, gave me ten different names for it—tamarack, red cedar, hackamaysky, blue pine, spruce tree, and so forth. I decided to accept nobody's word, but to write to the U.S. government agricultural department section for a list of tree publications and left a book of publications (that will remove that feeling of humiliation which comes to a traveller who prides himself on a little knowledge of his own and finds he knows nothing at another land.

Most people are content to look at scenery and enjoy it. It is a pleasure that I have known by name the names of all the props in the scene.

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

The British government plans to cut the cost of running its departments by some $50 million dollars, Canada should send Ab-bott overseas to find out how it is done.

Nomad Americans

(Wall Street Journal)

A growing clan of nomad Americans is living by choice in homes on wheels.

All told, an estimated 1,850,000 people — about as many as live in Detroit — now call a trailer home. Their residences number about 850,000. Before World War II, less than 100,000 trailers were in use.

Factories poured out some 35,-000 of the homes in the boom year of 1952, or 25 per cent more than the 27,000 made in 1951. Before World War II, the industry had a comparatively good year if 15,000 units were sold.

Last year's total was a bit under the record 25,000 in 1948. Significantly, though, over 70,000 of the portable houses turned out in 1948 were less than 30 feet long. Only 14,000 of these smaller models were manufactured in 1952.

Bidding getting bigger, trailers are getting fancier. Practically all are now made with complete bathrooms. Against the more than 10 per cent only three years ago. They contain a widening array of household appliances from air-conditioners to garbage disposal units. Some boast two bedrooms.

Getting A New Name

(Time Magazine)

The petitioner, a plump, and solemn Negro, wanted to change his name. Peaceful Heard, he felt, was not suitable nomenclature for a follower of Father Divine (God Almighty). But Municipal Judge Curtis Bok, who heard the case in Philadelphia's Court of Common Pleas, was sympathetic.

Peaceful Heart might not be such a bad appellation, said the Judge: "The human mind . . . is a curious thing. Many young girls babies Patience, Prudence, Peace, Faith, Hope, Charity, Tolerance, preserved and even Charity. Many names from abroad escape entirely their meaning when they are translated. Thus, we have Sensitive Plant, Forget-me-not, Bachelor's Buttons, Bleeding Heart, Maidenhair, Jack-in-the-pulpit, Goldilocks, Ramsbottom and Pigwiddie. Nor should we overlook the Negro who rounded out an even dozen children with names, but when the 13th unexpectedly appeared, he was resolutely named Ultimus Agitor. Perhaps the best name but distressing case of Franklin Delano Roosevelt Hitler, who found court to be known hereafter as Harry Smith."

In reaching his decision, the learned judge remarked that his own name, one of Philadelphia's most distinguished. "Not even this court should escape Miss Bok," he observed. "The writer of this opinion shares along with that name that reduces etymologically to Politic Goat. Finally, Politic Goat legalized the name of Peaceful Heart, establishing a precedent which Miss Elizabethan court followed when it changed the name of Miss Bok to Miss Chalkie Dawkins to Sweete Love.

Churchill And Laski

(Ottawa Journal)

A book just off the press,—the "Holmes-Laski Letters" — shows how Churchill and Laski lived and writing to Mr. Justice Holmes, famous U.S. jurist and philosopher, that he found "wild delight in Churchill's knowledge, and Laski's cleverness." Yet he has never had a half hour's quiet reading of Laski's life."

Interesting it might be to have Churchill's opinion of Laski. Incidentally, it is not unlikely it could be shown that the two men have met.

Because according to A. A. Berle, formerly U.S. Assistant Secretary of State, and now Professor of Law at Columbia (the review of the book in the New York Times) Laski had a habit of writing to Holmes in rather tactless way about his contacts with "the great and near-great." Thus, after Laski had been in Harvard for the London School of Economics: "Laski's letters grew more and more brilliant (this was Laski at his worst). Laski's analyses of interviews and happenings in British politics are wonderfully acute and full of what happened, as even his friends well knew.

"Laski's stories often gained in the telling. Indeed at times Holmes himself hinted to friends writes Mr. Justic Frankfurter in his introduction, that Laski's facts understatement; and even Holmes wrote, 'It is hard not to suspect you for embroidering'."

He Helped Seafarers

(Galt Reporter)

This year the world, and especially the seafaring world, will mark the centenary of the appointment in old London of Samuel Plimsoll.

To Plimsoll the world owes the most important of the basic regulations safeguarding the men who go down to the sea in ships.

It was he, more than anybody, moved from Sheffield to London, established himself as a coal merchant, and launched his great work by first seeking election to parliament.

Already he had given much thought to the loss of life resulting from the use of unseaworthy and overloaded ships and from the lack of safety devices for seamen his crusade.

Plimsoll's first policy did not result in election; but Derby sent him to the House of Commons in 1868.

This gave Plimsoll his opportunity, and in due course British law authorized the use of the load line, or Plimsoll Mark.

It is a circle with an horizontal line drawn to it, carried on both sides of all British ships, and indicating the maximum submergence consistent with safety.

Backed by drastic penalties for non-observance, the Plimsoll Mark practically ended the overloading of British ships, and from the sea immeasurably safer for British seamen and, paved the way for similar safeguards in other countries.

Iron Curtains In the Sky?

(London Times)

Hansard will not tell us whether the Minister of Supply, in answering Mr. Bevan's appeal to select committee to deal with interplanetary travel, consulted the Astronomer Royal. But future historians may be curious to know what advice he gave. We can Sandys remarked that the trouble is that what we are sufficient at the moment to occupy governments.

Suppose that even as he spoke some pioneer was planting the Union Jack on the nose of the man in the moon or the Stars and Stripes on the planet Mercury's electricity. Canada has already embarked in its flying saucers on the conquest of space. Russia cannot little planet which—so far—is free from our travels. Such fantasies may seem to belong to the comics for which journeying Mr. Bevan and the rest of us pay a weekly experience. But, alas, he cannot be dismissed.

Most of us would be quite content to leave the planets revolving mysteriously at their safe astronomical distances. Heavenly bodies keep their place, inspire the poets happy and give innocent employment to the makers of giant telescopes. There is everything to be said for leaving well alone. The view of them and little to suggest that they would improve in close.

The detached, relentless curiosity of the scientist always displaces these human reflections as the astronomer's. And the boardroom boys always seek to win in the end.

How strongly self-contained the world was when jokes about the moon being made of green cheese were still fresh and only a few physical mariners thought of reaching for moonbeams. Mankind is trusting themselves to oceans and to the unknown ocean.

Then, cynically grey beards from Byzantium to Bristol would regard to scorn the idea of the globe being shaped like an orange. Had the comics been able to interpret the scientists, no doubt, have featured a boyish Columbus setting sail for the Antarctic long before real sailors were getting far from the sight of land.

How calmly the inter-planetary boys contemplate the menace that they are going to be welcomed by the men in the moon, that nature, but nothing new on them also. Even the most optimistic of them will be a pretty long way to go without the assurance of a landing permit.

But the possibility of a Martian or Senator McCarren or Wilson celestial Iron Curtain cannot be altogether ruled out.

Roughest Game?

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

A game called baiserla, played by Indians in a remote area of Panama, is said to be the world's roughest. Its general object is to incapacitate an opponent by slugging him on the legs with a stick. Sometimes, however, the players fellows on skates, change that pole for a hockey stick, and the game is hockey, modern style, will give Canada a run for its money any day.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

SHOTS COME HIGH IN THE DEEP SOUTH

For three years I have suffered with tic douloureux. I have had all sorts of treatments, everything but alcohol injections or cutting the nerve root in the head which one doctor proposed. Now a specialist says injections of B12 will do the trick. Injections will cost ten dollars each and I must have at least two of them, for how long he cannot tell. Is there any other way to get the effect of B12? (A. E. R.)

Well, I haven't heard whether any philanthropist has added it to toothpaste, incorporated it in cough drops or fortified bread with it. But if you would reject the idea as absurd, I'll mention one other way you can get every effect you can possibly get from "shots" of vitamin B12, at a cost of a nickle a day.

When taking vitamin B12 for pernicious it is advisable to take folic acid along with it. If not essential for the action of B12, folic acid at least enhances the effect of tic vitamin.

The correspondent does not ask whether I recommend vitamin B12 for tic douloureux. Truth is that I don't know. All I know is that it can do no harm to give it a try, and that it might bring the poor fellow some relief.

In a piece about tic douloureux such remedies?

released for publication last August 27, I mentioned that in some cases careful examination by the dentist, including X-ray examination, may reveal an impacted, unerupted molar tooth, which should be surgically removed as a possible cause of the tic. In the same piece I said that in some cases of tic douloureux sufferers have obtained complete relief even in other partial relief by exhaling twenty drops of trichloroethylene three times a day. Of course this is available only by your own doctor's prescription. I forgot to say anything about the "specialist" who would soak the customer $10 a "shot" for perhaps 20 cents' worth of medicine. It sounds as though medicine in some parts of the deep south have converted to business, and a shady business at that.

I want to reassure A.S.H. and any other readers who may be interested in vitamin B12 that there is no scientific or convincing evidence that it is in any way more effective by injection than when taken by mouth.

Unless you can get $8 worth of satisfaction looking down your nose at your poor neighbors who can't afford to go to the phoney specialist for B12 injections, I'll tell me, why be victimized by such rackets?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WONDER, CREATION

Each year my amazement at the working of the human body grows. Lastly of all, God created human life, and I take added pride in what man has been able to achieve.

I still wonder over the human body with a wonder born of thousands of miles over the air, or on wires, of the human brain that is man's genius for he has only begun to tap the latent possibilities of his moments. The automobile, five years from now, will probably be one of the curios of the past. Planes look antique — so anxious is man to improve on the present.

Take the reason of man, and his creative ability has brought about revual objects in the night sky about which we have only the talk of an old Greek poet lived, longer than ever before, thanks to man's discoveries of those things that another his healthy life. Each one of us is truly a wonder creation, marvelously gifted. Gladly should we live and serve, and daily should be gratitude to God, our Creator, for all that we enjoy, for no matter what our sorrows and disappointments, blessings are ever about us.

And his creative ability has been matched by astounding character. I stand before any one of our great symphonies, and I marvel with wonder and I take added pride in what man has been able to achieve.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DEATH COMES TO A FULPIT

On a pleasant Sunday morning this past summer, I attended a church service at a famous campground auditorium. For years I had been the scene of many inspiring religious convocations. On the morning I attended, there were about 200 persons seated in the auditorium which could comfortably accommodate 1500. Only two persons in the congregation appeared to be between the ages of fifteen and thirty. The minister preached in a manner on an academic theme and negler came within a mile of the problems of all of us sinners who were seated in the pews.

The plain truth of the matter is that among certain ministers today, and in certain branches of the Christian Church, there is a total disregard of any attempt to modate the teachings of the Bible to modern problems of secular thought that all regard for the plain teachings of the gospel has vanished. Preachers who still believe that the New Testament of the New Testament are eagerly listened to; the words of Jesus are considered to be the hard backs of empty pews.

Sermons have only glints of inspiration in the service referred to above. The hymns that about them a joyful evangelistic lilt. Twelve children on the platform sang an anthem and did it well that the heart of everyone was touched. It was beautiful to hear Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings hast thou ordained strength out of the mouths of the preacher.

The extended thumb is a notable feature of the Quebec landscape, but it is not unique to the city. For some reason, there seems to be more people seeking a lift around Quebec than in other communities.

G. Anderson Pays Official Masonic Visit

Madoc — Rt. Wor. Bro. W. Jerald Anderson, D.D.G.M., Prince Edward District, paid his official visit to Madoc Lodge, No. 48, A.F. and A.M., on Monday evening and was received by a guest served by members of the Eastern Star.

Following dinner the members were called to order by Wor. Bro. Thomas Lloyd, who proposed the toast to the Queen and the Craft. The toast to the visiting brethren was proposed by Kel. Kincaid, and later replied to in the lodge room by Wor. Bro. Herb. Reed, Worshipful Master of Moira Lodge, Belleville; Wor. Bro. Frank Walker, district secretary (and Rev. Bro. Tyson of Ivanhoe.

Rt. Wor. Bro. A. V. Gaebel proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge, responded to by D.D.G.M. W. Jerald Anderson.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Bro. Charles Johnson and responded to by Mrs. Margaret Derry, W.M., O.E.S.

The Eastern warden's toast brought this part of the evening to a close.

The brethren then adjourned to the lodge room where the second degree was conferred by Wor. Bro. Lloyd and his officers.

Mrs. Hedley Henderson, of Montreal, is visiting her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Wiptlock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Casey, of Belleville, were Sunday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Percy Brownson and family.

Mrs. Wm. Bateman and Mrs. George Duffin attended the training day for Girl Guides and Brownie leaders held in Belleville on Saturday.

FRANKFORD

Frankford — The Catholic Women's League met on Tuesday, recently sponsored a most successful series of social activities at home circles, at the home of Mrs. P. O'Brien.

New Closed Garbage Trucks Help Keep Belleville Clean

Three new garbage trucks, two of them covered models, have been purchased by Smith and Sons, local garbage collectors. The covered trucks are the latest models and will do much in assisting to keep city streets clean. Shown in the picture are Walter T. Elliott, Elliott Motors, J. Farley Parnell, salesman, and Morley Smith.

"Help keep Belleville clean" is the motto and general appeal of Smith and Sons, local garbage collectors, who with the purchase of two new closed garbage trucks is doing his part to do just that.

"We are doing all we can to keep Belleville's streets clean. Our trucks are covered and we have gone over them and now it is up to the public to do its share," stated Morley Smith says.

One of the ways householders can assist in this campaign is to have covers for their garbage cans and make sure that they are used.

According to Mr. Smith the percentage of local householders who have garbage cans with covers is so small that it is hardly worth mentioning. In fact by actual count in one section of the city only five out of 65 cans had lids. This percentage may not hold throughout the city but it is a fair indication of the lack of garbage can covers.

Wrongly Blamed

Mr. Smith noted the [illegible] collector is blamed for a lot of debris littering the streets when this collector is not actually his fault. "With covered trucks, how can the garbage collector be to blame?" he asks. "Actually it is the open cans which allow dogs to get into the garbage and upset the pails and the wind blows loose bits of paper that cannot be kept in the cans."

Cost of the Trouble

The new garbage trucks purchased by Mr. Smith are the most modern in the business. They are Wood Vendi-packers, holding 21 cubic yards of garbage. A low open bucket on the rear of the trucks allows easy dumping of cans without high lifting. When full the bucket is dumped automatically and at the same time the garbage is packed in the van, giving it added capacity.

Careful of Cans

Even the life of the householders' garbage cans is taken into consideration by the manufacturers as the edge of the dumping bucket is lined with rubber, minimizing damage to cans as they are dumped.

The two special closed garbage trucks and a third open style were sold to Mr. Smith by Elliott Motors, local dealer for Pontiac and Buick and G.M.C. Trucks.

This is Mr. Smith's first year as garbage collector in Belleville, but the name Smith is an old one in local cartage business.

Morley's father, the late Fred Smith, for many years operated a horse delivery in the city and was the first in the city to purchase one of those new fangled gasoline operated trucks. That was away back in 1913.

Since then the firm has become truck-minded, with 33 being operated at the present time, due to the city and the balance on the highway.

Congratulations

Queen Victoria H-S Association Holds Successful Children's Fair

Last evening Queen Victoria School, Pine Street, was "a fair". Gaily colored garlands of balloons stretched from wall to wall across the spacious hall, while a long white streamer bore the picture of Mr. and Mrs. Stork proudly with stuffed collar and a smiling mouth whose corners would never turn down; a little girl with ballerina dress and long legged doll; and all sundry that this was the "Children's Fair", sponsored by the Home and School Association.

There were fish ponds upstairs, one for the girls and one for the boys, decorated in appropriate designs, one of fish, with a few cotton Shannette leaves and clay pipes, the other with an aquarium and its tropical fish with waving tails. The girls' was in charge of Mrs. B. Morgan, and the boys' of Mrs. H. Jones. A moving picture show, under the direction of Mrs. R. Bateman, had a large booth run by Mrs. B. Davidson; television in the main auditorium, installed by courtesy of Mr. V. White, especially for the occasion, and in the lobby, where the well-patronized soft drink booth, the tea concession, the large, generous hot dogs which were so avidly consumed by the hungry patrons, corners bore tell-tale evidences of the disappearing dogs with their bones and bowls of water. These booths were run by Messrs. N. Hickson, Miller and Mr. Lysecki and their assistants, respectively.

Delicious Candies

Not forgetting the finer delights was the booth of candies, in charge of Mrs. R. Smith and Mrs. E. Kowal, assisted by Meadames J. Kingsley, Hall, Bateman, Young. Here, eager elder patrons as well as the youthful, were given delicious candies containing the telephone containers of delicious fudge, chocolate; delicious little eye-catching marshmallow men with cute, comic antics; dainty cups filled with maple creams, plain and nut-topped; Turkish delights and the like were also filled to overflowing with the sweets; and boxes of chocolates as well as fruit drops, white cream candy, and numerous other delights, all added to the alluring display.

On the table elephant table it was a heterogeneous mixture of items, toys ranging from a sewing tank with bristling guns; glass goblets in both white and many shades; plates of all, a fat tomato kettle for tomato juice; vases of many varieties; lamp tops and plastic dishes; a peanut pepper mill and salt shaker; glass candle candle holders; Aunt Jemina and Rastus salt and pepper pair; copper-colored candle sticks; clothes hangers; jewel case; a little watch; steel tape; picture thermometers; and many framed pictures. In short, everything to meet every taste, if not every need of both of children as well as adults.

Adjoining this Arabian Nights booth was that of plants, which included trailing ivies, geraniums, pretty foliage, cactus, begonias, tiny pots or baby'ikers, and then next to this were books, and books, and a huge pile of magazines of older vintage all neatly tied in rolls. In charge of all were Meadames T. Colden, R. Keenan, L. Robinson, N. O'Neill and M. Matthews, with Mrs. C. Powell as convener.

Tiny Home-Creative Display

In another room was one of the finest displays of home-cooking that has been in Belleville for many years. Here, behind the tables were arranged in the form of a house, with a white appliance of bunnies in pink skirting the whole. Beginning with a three layer cake in white icing and topped with a large Peter Rabbit in the centre, and embroidered bolding an umbrella, a work of art were "cakes" of all sizes, large, small, tasty, raspberry and cocoanut cream; cup cakes looking like tiny cakes with white icing and icings in pink, green, yellow, chocolate, and a sweet dainty topped with blanched almonds, others sprinkled with colorful decorettes, macaroons; macaroons; Chinese chews; shortbreads, gold-en-brown, delicious and delicate, chocolate, and white. There were also sugar cookies and a sweet-dainty topped with luscious maraschino cherries; pies of berry, apple, raisin, with a crispy crust chews; date loaves, butterfly cookies, tarts, fruit tarts, were gingerbread men with currant eyes; brownies; nut bars; orange cakes, coconut cakes, cooing soft icings; sugar sprinkled doughnuts; cookies of all kinds and cookies of every size, shape and description. Each of these delectable delicacies were: Mrs. W. Soule, convener; Mrs. K. Rowe, co-convener, assisted by Meadames A. Davis, D. Taylor, W. St. Pierre, A. Gilroy and Miss M. Bateman. This room was a veritable beehive, only that the hive interested the hungry hordes of bees in search of the honey confections.

Then were to judge of the success of this children's fair, the happy goldfish, how alone would add an affirmative answer. Much credit is due the general chairman, Mrs. C. Sagry and to Mrs. G. A. Bradford and her assistants for the splendid decorations, and to all those who worked behind the scenes, giving of their time and talents.

Cards for Scrapbook

Mrs. S. Kirkey suggested that the members, or anyone interested, save colored picture Christmas, Valentine or Easter cards to be made up book forms later in the year and distributed among the children in hospitals.

A message of cheer will be sent to the charter W.I. member, Mrs. George Lacey, who is ill.

The property committee, Mrs. W. H. Cooke and Mrs. R. Ward, will replenish the lacking dishes and glassware before the closing year. Mrs. P. Bronson thanked the members for the intended loan of the dishes for Achievement Day held in the community hall.

Provincial president, Mrs. Purcell, sent a letter in regards to the conference in Guelph, May 1 and 8. Two delegates were elected to attend. Mrs. S. McMurray, secretary, and president Mrs. P. Bronson. Miss I. Ness, home economics, wished to remind the Stirling Branch of the Training School for the Leaders of the Girls' Club to be held April 11th, in the kitchen of St. Paul's United Church. Stirling. The subject being "The Supper Club."

Program

Mrs. Arthur Gordanier presided for the program. Mrs. R. Wilson played the W.I. patriotic song, with Mrs. Vernon Matthews playing the accompaniment. Mrs. George Saries gave a humorous Irish reading in two parts, "The Birth of a Baby" and "Wake". Mrs. C. West gave a reading related to the address given by Mrs. Bentley, president of North Hastings W.I. The motto for home and country "We will be loyal up to if we are to be good W.I. members.

Also gathering of women. Canadian women will participate in this world event —a pin especially made for this event.

Coronation Day

On June 2nd. Queen Elizabeth will be crowned. The ceremonies, festivities, possibilities, which will be her duty to carry out to build and preserve a still higher, nobler and greater people those who work together must put into action from neighborliness regardless of color and creed. You and your likes and dislikes must be forgotten, to be agreeable with your neighbors. That is the spirit needed in which to make things of differences right. The same sky, sun and moon is above all, whether at home or away. Peace cannot be made with the Russian until first people live peaceably with their neighbors.

Mrs. L. Rodgers gave a reading entitled "Be a Farmer, Coronation Day."

West Hastings Report

Mrs. Harry Coulter, delegate to the Federation of Agriculture conference, held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, compiled a report for the West Hastings district, of which she was sent to represent. Being unavoidably unable to attend the Stirling W.I. meeting, Mrs. A. Gordanier read the report.

Mrs. H. Rodgers gave a reading "What is Canada Worth to You?" Mrs. George Saries put on a "Plaiting" contest with Mrs. Frank McFeet judge.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee and a social hour followed.

Mrs. George Meggison voiced the appreciation of the members to the program and lunch committee and also to the splendid report by Mrs. H. Coulter of Foxboro.

TRINITY W.A.

Madoc — Trinity Women's Association held its open meeting at the home of Mrs. James Kincaid on Tuesday afternoon, with an attendance of 19 members and six visitors.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Lane, Mrs. F. Fleming read regular business and the minutes. It was decided to send two quilts to Mrs. Lane, a donation to the W.A. to the supply convener. The president, Mrs. Tainter, announced the study and ant items that were also dealt with.

Mrs. P. H. Naylor had charge of the worship service. In view of the approaching Easter season she chose as her theme, "Joy," using hymns that were played or appeared in the Bible 117 times, as well as many other words, poems, prayer and other words all leading up to the word "joy". Mrs. Naylor read some poems, "Everyday a Prayer," by Marguerite Harmon Bro, and two by E. Wheeler Wilcox, "Tell Used Me Meanly," and "Free As Air"; she closed with a prayer by a quaint prayer that is hanging on the outside of the cathedral door on the cathedral in Chester, England.

Mrs. Tanner took charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. V. Kenbury, who read a story, "No Joy Act Growing Old." Mrs. Adams sang an Irish song, "Sweet Vale of Avoca". Mrs. L. McCoy a reading, "Going to Church on Sunday". Mrs. W. McCoy a humorous story, "Stir Constantly," and Mrs. Naylor reading two poems by Jennie Pincock, "The Hymn of Algonquin Park" and "Gifts of Hastings," which concluded a pleasant afternoon spent by W.A. members and friends.

Women of The Moose

On Thursday evening the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 455, held its first meeting of the month in the Moose hall with Sr. Regt. Mary Poole presiding.

Balloting on two candidates with the ballot favorable took place. The new members will join the defending circle at the next meeting.

The "welcome" letter was read by Recorder Nellie Scrymgour from Mrs. O. Shaw, secretary of the White Cane Club, thanking all members of the W.O.T.M. for the delightful supper and good time they had enjoyed. Also from Margaret Wright thanking members for the hockey game presented to Clarence and also thanks for the banquet served to the White Cane Club. Thank-you notes were received from co-workers Downers and McMorran Places and cards received while it.

Entertainment

To celebrate St. Patrick's Day, convener Kathleen Donovan had a fine entertainment with dancing and refreshments, for which a collection was taken.

Two Talented Dancers

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Bobbie Burke, who introduced two talented young dancers, Diana Mansfield and Barbara Thrasher, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Alan Lowe, Port Colborne and St. Thomas received encores. Part of their total talent income from one hospital plan last year, according to figures set out. Other hospital insurance plans have contributed substantially to hospital income as well.

Cheap Dessert

Most men like citrus fruits. Now that good large grapefruit can be bought for about 5c each, use them for dessert when you want to save on food costs. Grapefruit makes an individual dessert for 5c.

If you want to fancy them up, drop a teaspoon of brown sugar or maple syrup on the grapefruit halves and broil them for a few minutes in the oven, to serve hot.

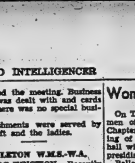
Medical Insurance



Private hospital payment plans are playing a very big part in the financing of pay-patients in our Canadian hospitals. Hospitals in areas like Brantford, Toronto, Belleville, Kingston, Ottawa, Port Colborne and St. Thomas received more than 50% of their total patient income from one hospital plan last year, according to figures set out. Other hospital insurance plans have contributed substantially to hospital income as well.

attendance. Presiding over the meeting was Mrs. Margaret MacLaurig, the president.

The opening reading was given by Mrs. Clayton Carter, Corinthians 1-13; Scripture Lesson by Mrs. William Quay, Theme "A Working Christian", each man's work examined and examined as a member of the church one must continue to search his mind and heart as he seeks, in his work to live up to the standard which Christ taught.

In the business period communications cards and letters were read and dealt with. The next Aid meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William Armstrong's.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harvey Scott and Mrs. Nelson Burshaw Sr.

Here's second and effective advice about colds.

No matter how you try to stop or shorten a cold, the first thing to do—before you do anything else—is to take Aspirin.

You should do this because a cold is almost invariably accompanied by muscular aches and pains—and a headache, feverish feeling. And for your own good, you need a medication that will relieve these distressing symptoms—relieve them quickly.

One reason Aspirin tablets bring this relief is that they're ready to go to work with amazing speed . . . actually start disintegrating almost instantly.

So don't experiment with a cold. Use Aspirin. And for extra drug therapy due to colds, gargle 3 times daily with 3 Aspirin tablets dissolved in ½ of a glass of water.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Says she has a handicap— but she's picked the wrong one

"I am 15 years old and have a handicap."

This is the first sentence of a letter I have just read. Naturally, I expected the second sentence to tell me of some great misfortune which was ruining this girl's life.

The second sentence, however, was this: "I wear glasses and my looks are ruined."

Now whenever any of us has a problem for which we are trying to find the cause, we often tend to blame the trouble on some little thing with which it actually has nothing to do. And that is exactly what this teen-ager has done, as the rest of her letter makes plain:

"No matter where I go, no boy ever gives me a second glance. If she would, I've never been dated, and I am very shy.

"Every girl I go out with has a date every night in the week. My mother often tells me to stay home in the evening, but, since I can't dance, I stay home. None of my screwed around."

You see? The real trouble with this youngster is that she is full of self-conscious, and feels ill at ease with people. And—again, she blames the whole thing on the very insignificant fact that she wears glasses.

To dispose of the glasses matter first, let's admit right away that nobody is ever very happy about having to wear them. But at the same time, there's no reason in the world why anyone has to look "awful" with them.

Modern glasses come in every kinds, styles and colors, and the right one is for us a lot of different ones and that will be the most becoming. Believe it or not, it can even happen that the glasses can make a girl look cute!

Not Looks, But Personality

And certainly glasses have nothing whatever to do with whether a girl is popular or unpopular. It's not looks, but personality, that turns the trick here. If a girl is fun to be with, if she can do well the things other boys and girls like to do, if she has a sunny disposition and a ready laugh, if she is friendly and an interesting conversationalist, everyone will love her, and she'll have friends wherever she goes. That's what popularity is made of, and there isn't a single ingredient that every girl can't achieve.

So now let's see how this particular girl can take herself in hand and tackle the real cause of her definite plight, which is neither her glasses nor her looks, but her shyness and self-consciousness.

In the first place, I suspect her inferiority feelings have kept her from taking any real part in school activities. She's probably been too bashful to make any move to do so, preferring to keep out of things so she won't draw attention to herself. This she ought to remedy at once, by looking over all the different things that go on at school, and picking out one or two of them which she might enjoy. Then let her get busy and make herself good at whatever activities she has chosen.

Suppose she wants to go to the school dances. Suppose? Of course she wants to go! But she says she doesn't know how to dance.

Well, what's to prevent her from becoming a good dancer? Perhaps her mother would let her take some dancing lessons. If not, then she might ask some good dancer among the girl friends to teach her. If she feels shy about doing this, let her remember that most people, whether young or old, feel flattered when asked for help. The implication is that the person who asks admires their skill and looks up to them, and this naturally makes them feel friendly toward that person and ready to give the requested help. Suppose, again, that our girl would like to play hockey, or basketball, or some other sport. If she doesn't know how already, she can certainly learn, and if she knows how, but isn't too good at it, she can practice till she becomes really good.

Perhaps there is some hobby club at school or in her community which interests her—photography, jewelry making, weaving or whatever. Let her join such a group and not only learn something new but gain a lot of new friends, besides. There is no quicker way to make friends than to have a common interest with others in a group.

The point is, that to have good times with your contemporaries, you must do the things they do; and if you don't know how, you must learn. For knowing how to do things brings self-confidence, and self-confidence always chases away self-consciousness. Moreover, to have the same interests others have, and to share in their activities and enthusiasms, sometimes risk a little scepticism. Usually he likes the results. I'm thankful that he is as willing as he is to try.—Mrs. G. D.

ANSWER:

Don't be shocked as you do it sick the blood—its highly important nutritional ingredient. Never drain it in cold water though—this soaks out the blood. Cracked under cold is better than white but not half as good as whole wheat. If your family eats whole wheat cereal and added wheat germ you can feel comfortable in serving them cracked wheat bread. Whole wheat bread contains almost every essential mineral and some of the important vitamins absolutely essential to good health.

LIVER LOAF

(Popular and good.)

Gently brown 1 lb. beef liver in shortening or oil until set. Put it through food chopper with 1-3 lb. pork sausage meat, following then through the chopper with three slices bread, 1-2 cup celery, 1 onion and celery. Mix together with 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 eggs. Press into greased loaf pan, and if desired top with 2 slices of bacon. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. This is good served with stewed tomatoes or tomatoes and baked potatoes in jackets. A very economical meat loaf.

Mrs. Mrs. G. D. continued next week—probably Monday.

FOXBORO

FOXBORO. — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lahey and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lahey and family, were guests, recently of Mrs. W. D. Lahey.

The many friends of Mrs. Murney Reynolds will be pleased to learn that she has sufficiently gained in health to return home from the General Hospital, Kingston.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker, nee Rhoda Slaughter, who were married on Saturday in the United Church by the Rev. R. Hall.

Mrs. Ferne Spencer, Mr. Carl Spencer and friends of Toronto, and Mrs. Gerrard Shoniker and son, of Belleville, were Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hodgen's home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weese, of Melrose, spent a day recently at Mr. Reginald Hollinger's home.

A "Mother and Daughter" Banquet was sponsored by the Young People's Society evening in the Sunday School rooms. Mrs. and Mrs. William Hodges spent Tuesday at Mr. Everette York's, Gilead.

There was a large attendance in the United Church on Sunday evening when the pastor delivered an inspiring message. Special music was contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Grant and Miss Leslie, of West Huntingdon.

All are experiencing springlike weather and the song of the birds is again heard.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant and Miss Leslie were Sunday guests at the parsonage.

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION:

I am a regular reader of your recipes but the one I want I wasn't in. I would print again: Suet Puddings. It never turns out like my mother used to make it. —A. F. M.

ANSWER:

Of course it warmed my heart to have such a wonderful response to the column I wrote on Suet Puddings back in January. But, my sweet, if you are interested in it, would you mind clipping this right now? It would save me a lot of time and you a lot of stamps.

BOILED BEEFSTEAK PUDDINGS

(Quantities to serve 4-5)

Trim 1½ lbs. chuck or lb. skirt or flank steak or shank beef, 1-2 lb. beef suet or pork kidneys, 2 large onions chopped, 2 small potatoes chopped, salt, pepper, herbs. Cut meat into about ½-inch cubes—removing veinous portions from kidneys and soak the suet in cold water to cover while you prepare the meat. Combine in bowl, finely crumbled suet, 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Add enough cold water—enough to make a stiffish dough. Divide into four portions and roll each portion out thinly into a round about 8 or 9 inches in diameter, and 1-4 inch thick.

Put a quarter of the meat mixture out of the water, let it drain a little then place in the centre on the pastry. Add a quarter of the chopped onion, potato, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Wrap in pastry by folding edge end or dough over filling and moistening the edges to seal them. Fold outside edges over again and seal firmly. Wrap each pudding in large clean square of cotton cloth or parchment paper about 18 by 24 inches. Tie with string. Repeat for remaining several times over by length with string or heavy thread. Put wrapped puddings into a large kettle of boiling water. Cover. Boil gently 2 1-2 hours, making sure that puddings are immersed in water throughout.

To serve lift puddings from water with long-handled spoons. Hang over to drain. Unwrap carefully and serve in crusty crust. Cut strings, roll out of cloth and deftly transfer to serving plates. When they are slit at top by Lovely's gravy over-flows and courses down onto the plate. These are an entire main course.

QUESTION:

. . . the low cost and nutritious ideas you have been printing are an answer to a prayer. . . I clipped the dinner menus. Were those luncheon menus? . . . would like the recipes for liver loaf, creamed tuna (could also be used for), raisin bread pudding, barbecued shoulder of pork. . . liver was always a problem to me until I found in one of my cookbooks where to pour boiling water over and let stand a few minutes. My husband never liked it before but now I roll it in flour, salt and pepper and then fry it in bacon drippings. . . is cracked wheat cereal enough, or should it be added in your standards. . . my husband is not one for meat loaves, but your recipes are so good I mean that you always have things to talk about together and on which to build friendship.

Here, then, are a lot of suggestions for this teen-ager. How well she succeeds in solving her problems depends entirely on her own initiative.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A grace-note to the bride-to-be.

Here's a loving and thoughtful gesture for you to make to your bridegroom's mother and father: Just as soon as you receive your wedding invitations from the engravers, enclose a few of them in their envelopes, inside and outside envelopes, then enclose them in larger envelope and address this envelope to your bridegroom's mother and father. They will cherish your sweet thought of them, and treasure the invitations as keepsakes, mementoes of The Great Day. A note with this might read something like this: "For you two dear people. . . . your Son and I wanted to have the very first invitations to our wedding sent to you. So here are some for you to have and to hold with a fervent hope to you both from both of us. It is, and always will be, our dear wish to make Dad and you feel the invitations mean happiness to you, as well as to us!"

Individual wedding invitations should be mailed to: groom's mother and father to each wedding attendant

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the groom's two brothers and his sister live at the home of his parents, should they each receive a formal wedding invitation? (One brother is to be best man, and the sister is the one of the bridesmaids.)

2. Should every wedding attendant receive a formal wedding invitation?—Bride-to-be.

1. Yes. Each brother and the sister should be sent an individual formal wedding invitation.

. . . mailed at the time all the other invitations are mailed.

2. Yes. These invitations too are to be mailed at the time all other invitations are mailed.

Correct form of name for woman's printed letter-paper

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

With the increasing use of the practical and so-useful letterhead paper, I have several different ways. For example, sometimes an unmarried woman uses Mary Davis, sometimes Miss Mary Davis, sometimes a married woman uses Mrs. Arthur Kent, sometimes Margaret Kent, or Margaret Smith Kent, printed with Mrs. Margaret Kent?).

Now my address card I want to order a large supply of this useful paper. She is unmarried. I am married, is there some absolutely definite rule that would guide us in ordering the correct form of our names on this printed letter-paper?

Yes. There is a most definite rule about the correct form of a lady's name on this printed or utility letter-paper. . . her name should be in the form correctly used when addressing an envelope to her. That is, if she is unmarried, Miss Mary Davis, the correct form of name for her postal address. (Not 'Mary Davis, no title.) If she is married, she should use Mrs. Arthur Kent, (incidentally, a widow should use Mrs. George Foster. A divorcee never should use Mrs. Robinson Smith, her surname prefixed to her ex-husband's surname; or if she wishes to indicate her first name, 'Elizabeth, let's say, she may use Mrs. E. Robinson Smith.)

'Colette' Conducts Column In La Presse for Fifty Years

By CHRISTINE SIROIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—For 30 years now, thousands of French-speaking Canadians have turned to a daily column in Canada's largest French-language newspaper for guidance in matters of romance, family life, etiquette, even dress.

The column is written by a silver-haired spinster of 77, known to her readers as "Colette." She is also "Colette" to the staff of La Presse who see her arrive twice a week with batches of handwritten copy. Her real name is Edouardina Lasage.

Colette, who gives her readers advice in line with their upbringing, joined La Presse in 1905 and began to write her column, "Le Courrier de Colette."

Strict Adviser

Question took to the direct and firm advice of this young daughter of a French-Canadian farmer, educated in the village convent by nuns.

From girls in 200 French-speaking Canadian and readers from many parts of the world write in every week to ask her opinion on personal problems.

A 17-year-old girl wrote: "I have two brothers. They tell my mother not to let me go out when I want to. I only go out four or five times a week, always with others, are not 25 pocket money."

Colette's answer: "When can a young girl of only five nights a week avoid losing the taste of a normal existence in a well-organized home? Tell your mother: You lack healthy and clear direction."

Another girl asked whether she should go to Montreal to find a job.

"Don't seek adventure; you will only lose some feathers' and make your mother weep," wrote Colette.

Devout Catholic

Colette, a devout Roman Catholic, thinks that divorce is evil and the word "divorce" but the word "separation" appears in connection with marital quarrels. Of course there is no question of remarriage in such cases, for the Church forbidden by the church.

Her mother was never straight-laced and old-fashioned but to her fans it is a sound as the Sunday sermon of the parish priest.

For the last 20 years Colette has been living in Outremont in her own urban home where she lives with her widowed unmarried sisters and a brother.

Peering through spectacles she writes her column in longhand and then takes it personally to the one linotyper who can read her copy.

Some women fans feel Colette sides with the men in marital and love matters. They would probably be surprised to know she is a strict-looking elderly woman with grey eyes and a deeply-wrinkled face.

Other Criticism

Others think Colette is encroaching on the fields of religion and medicine in interfering with parental authority.

Colette answers: "Why should a poor housewife, or a young woman, who has no answer to their problems, be prevented from seeking advice under pseudonyms from an impartial person who may help them find a solution?"

A widow once told Colette that people should settle their own affairs.

"True," Colette answered. "But some people lack the confidence to solve difficulties which frighten them. These people are my clients."

The Standard Wakefitter

How to fall wakefitter; let the fat cells fall where they may. Make up your mind right now, if you are inclined to have a crush on the bathroom scales, that the measurement of your waistline must not be taken on an extra inch. Practise girth control. You can do it easily enough, and suffer no hardship; if you rise in a little muscle-toning exercise, you will feel better.

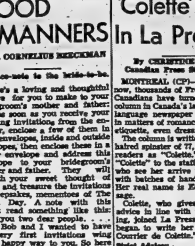
A pretty figure is worth preserving. There is many a wouldbe-loving heavyweight who suffers remorse because she didn't start a war against adipose tissue when it first assailed her. Early is the word! A few little fat cells can't fight back. But when they increase in numbers—ah, then my friend, you are in for a battle.

A trim waistline is normal; it is precisely what it should be. Young women who have never worn corsets, but have built their own corsets of strong, resilient muscles, have flat tummies, and that nice backward tilt of the hips.

The mid-section starts on a program of expansion when the muscles have no exercise, when posture is slouchy, and when the many things the table are overindulged.

Let us suppose that, some fine day, you find it difficult to zip up your skirt or frock. A Swoon-ing! Enough! All those nice cream puffs you have been eating! Those lazy, stay-in-the-house days when you never stretched your legs to even mail a letter. You are going to pay with the loss of your girlish figure, unless you do something.

A curb on fattening foods by including fats, sweets and starches—and ten minutes of muscle-toning will turn the trick. Flexing movements, throwing the upper part of the body forward and back, keeping the legs rigid and breathing deeply—all will make those extra inches waste away.



Here is an exercise that strengthens muscles from lower ribs to thighs:

Lie flat on your back in bed, hands under the buttocks for support. Lift your legs slowly. Higher, higher, higher. Keep lifting until you are fairly standing on the back of your neck. Lower the legs slowly, keeping them stretched as far as you can.

Ten or fifteen lifts, then relax, take several deep breaths and sit it again. This is good fun. You won't mind doing it once you have started and get interested.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

THE AGONY IN THE GARDEN

An interpretation of the Rembrandt etching (about 1657) from the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Chapter 29

THE DARK GARDEN.

It was well after nine o'clock and quite dark when Judas, ready for his traitorous job, entered through the back gate of the house of Annas and descended to the alley. Loitering before the steps was the posse of the Temple guards, though hidden to carry arms, they had picked up staves and cudgels, standing off from them were the six Roman soldiers with an officer; they carried lanterns, and torches, clubs, and staves.

Judas turned his back on them, walking around a corner into a ragged and poisonous-smelling little street. Not a sound was heard, except the shuffling of feet of the men, the clank of armor, and the lonely howl of some faraway dog. The course they followed was zig-zag; a series of short, sharp detours; the streets were all rough and full of holes so the marchers made haste slowly.

Pale in the light of harvest stars loomed the Temple; then around a last reeking corner they came to a narrow archway on the southeastern angle of the Temple wall and began the hazardous descent of a flight of old stone steps falling sharply from the upper city to a locked gate below.

At this ancient portal, the Roman soldier talked with the gatekeeper. On a promise of scourging, the terrified gatekeeper agreed to keep his gate open and his mouth closed.

The Soldier's Grumble

Meanwhile the imperial soldiers, facing the wall, grumbled to one another.

Why this crawling through the dark in force to catch one man? They had heard tales about their quarry. Reports said the Nazarene possessed mysterious power; He could walk on the sea, the winds of heaven performed His bidding, and once He had fed forty thousand hungry people with one basket of loaves and fishes and everybody had a belly-full. This wonder-worker and all His familiars were said to lie hidden in some dark garden outside the city wall. What might He be doing even now in that garden? Witchcraft? Spells, conjurations, devil praying? Why must they be sent after such a magician in the dark? Would not daylight have done as well?

Judas heard them talking among themselves and quietly approved them. Jesus had never harmed anyone. He was not the sorcerer. The disciple reassured them, coaxed them to follow him as he led the way toward the Mount of Olives.

But the soldiers continued to grumble—they were brave men, but who would not be anxious about a fugitive with such powers as these?

Well, Judas assured them they need not fear Him tonight. Jesus, he reported, was actually waiting for them to come and get Him in a farmyard, called by some the Garden of Gethsemane.

What were they doing in the Garden? Judas did not know. It did not matter anyway, he expostulated, again and again, as he trudged beside them. The silver coins in his bag made a soft, jingling noise as he walked. And Judas sighed heavily as he led the long and mincing column of men who swung their flaming torches and walked like women, not to stumble over the roots.

In the Garden

Presently Judas called shortly and lifted his hand, and they halted at a high edge, which served as a wall that completely enclosed the area.

A little doorlike opening had been cut in the hedge that otherwise completely enclosed the olive garden. Judas waved back the guards while he leaned in and peered.

Where were the eleven and the Master? Dimly, Judas began to make them out. That vast hunk of man sprawled on the grass, his head on a rolled-up cloak, was surely Peter, snoring. The slim form yonder by the pavilion platform was John, also deep in slumber. Other dark smudges under the trees were unrecognizable, but Judas counted eleven, all asleep. Their leader was invisible.

Judas would have entered then and brought the guards with him, but he was stopped by the sound of a familiar voice at prayer. He stood listening. Somewhere off in the deeper foliage there, Jesus of Nazareth was on his knees, and Judas could hear the suffering voice:

"My Father! If it be possible, let this cup pass from me!"

The nostrils of Judas twisted in disdain.

"Afraid!" he murmured. "He is afraid! He is praying to be let off—to escape—"

But Jesus was not done with His prayer.

"Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou will."

A Resentful Judas

Then Judas was startled because of that double wishing prayer to God; that ambivalence in Gethsemane. The Master wanted life, yet if the Father to whom He prayed insisted, knowing what was best, then He would obediently take death. The contradiction stirred a deep resentment in the listening Judas. This humbleness was unbecoming to a man. At the altar, from ancient times, the people had struck the best bargain they could. Do this for me and I will do that for you, O God!

The silence after the prayer was touched by a low swishing sound as by a trailing garment brushing the grass. Out of the dark and walking by starlight the white figure of Jesus appeared, moving toward a sleeping disciple. Judas could see Him clearly now—tall, robed, walking barefoot across the chilly field. Jesus bent over the snoring man.

"Peter! What! Could you not watch one hour with Me? Watch you and pray that you enter not into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing but the flesh is weak . . . Sleep, now, and take rest. It is enough! The hour is come! Look, the Son of Man shall be betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise up. Let us go. He that will destroy Me is at hand."

Then He reached forward His foot and with the bare toes gently jogged Peter's shoulder.

"It is enough, Peter. The hour has come." Jesus said simply.

Peter scrambled to his feet and bared his knife.

"How Is the Time"

Judas waited for no more. He laid a hard, damp hand on the wrist of the leader of the band, and whispered:

"Now is the time! Let us go in and take Him. You will know Him sure—He will be the one I will kiss!"

The sound of rough voices and the clank of steel, the sight of the fires, brought all the drowsy disciples to their feet. They blinked at the frightening torch-lit scene, shining with the cold brilliance of armor and swords.

Judas strode forward until he stood directly in front of Jesus.

"Hail, Master!"

Jesus moved toward Judas and seized him by the shoulders. Then the arms of Christ drew Judas to Him and the disciple kissed the Master on the cheek. At the signal, the Roman soldiers came forward, weapons in hand. But Jesus did not at once let Judas go. He held him tightly, His cheek laid against the tough ringlets, eyes lifted, as if asking a favor of the invisible. Then at last He released him, and as Judas stood back, the prisoner brought His hands together and held them out as He approached the Roman captain.

That was more than the panic-stricken Peter could bear. The knife he had toyed with at the supper table gleamed in his hand —a knife with a blade five inches long, for gutting fish. This uplifted the stalwart Peter sprang at the officer; there was a moment's chance, a disorderly struggle, and then the ironic voice of Jesus:

"Peter, Peter, put up your sword!"

And Peter's fishing knife fell at his feet.

Left Alone

A little soldiery from the Temple scurried forward with a handful of ropes and began to tie the wrists of Jesus. That action was like a wrench to all the other disciples, who had been watching in startled dismay.

This sudden invasion of men in armor and others armed with cudgels and staves filled them with fright. The torches burned like small new worlds flung in a dark universe. Voices rose in brawling question. Peter and all the others were overwhelmed with fear for their own safety. Stampeded, like wild creatures, they scampered off into the night. One, wrapped only in a linen cloth, was seized by a guard, but he tore himself free, leaving the garment in the soldier's hands; naked, he vanished among the trees. Leaping the hedges and running as fast as legs would carry them, they left Jesus, the captive, alone.

PICTON Film Council Presents Three Fine Films

PICTON. — An interesting meeting of Picton Film Council was held on Monday evening at the Library. Mr. Ron Ward of the National Film Board presented three fine films among these was "Our Family Tree", a historical film showing the growth and development of Canada from the days of the early explorers up to the present time. A film made for the Department of Health called "Shyness", showed three children, in one classroom handicapped by lack of confidence in themselves. The home conditions that developed this lack of confidence were demonstrated and also the "cure" brought about in each case by a psychiatrist.

Interesting Discussion

Mr. Ward led an interesting discussion on this thought-provoking picture.

The third film was in color and showed "The Trade Fair" in Toronto where merchandise from many countries is exhibited and sold each year.

The president, Mr. Don Bird, was in the chair. Miss Kathleen Keech gave the reports. More than 400 had attended Picton's first film festival and the sum of $38 was the net amount realized from the silver collection taken that evening after the deduction of all expenses.

Dr. and Mrs. Mark C. Goodwin of Peterborough, are enjoying a vacation in South America.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffer, of Oshawa, spent the week-end with Misses Edith and Reta Heffernan, Main Street.

Mr. Hilton McCartney and Mr. Arthur McKenna, of the Bay of Quinte Insurance Company, left on Monday to spend four days in Toronto, where they will attend an insurance convention.

B.C. Tourist Bureau Draws Many Visitors With Lure Of Easily Accessible Winter Sports

By PETER MURRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Boosters of Vancouver's "Evergreen Playground" have started plugging something new for them—snow.

Careful to remark that the snow falls only on nearby mountains, the tourist bureau is drawing many visitors to the city with the lure of easily accessible winter sports.

The three peaks of Hollyburn, Grouse and Seymour mountains across Burrard Inlet will receive more than 130,000 visits between them this year during the December-to-May season. Chair lifts on Grouse and Hollyburn and a government - maintained highway on Seymour have brought skiing within an hour's journey of downtown Vancouver.

Record Length

The Grouse chair lift, in two sections, is 8,200 feet long and is described as "the world's longest metropolitan chair lift." It was completed in January, 1951.

The three mountains are about 4,000 feet in elevation and have an average snow depth of eight to 10 feet. Some of the best skiing comes in late April and May when a warm sun melts the overnight crust, making for ideal snow conditions.

Ski lessons sponsored by two city newspapers are attracting people of all ages and walks of life. It is not uncommon to see a kindergarten-age tot skimming down a slope alongside a 60-year-old.

A little harder to reach but offering unparalleled alpine scenery is Garibaldi park, some 35 miles from Vancouver. Still in the development stage, this 80-square-mile park land is destined to rival some of the finest resorts in the Rockies.

Highway Planned

At present the only means of getting there is by boat, bus, motor coach and a two-mile ski trek. A proposed new highway along Howe Sound to Squamish would bring the skiing grounds within a two-hour drive of Vancouver.

Garibaldi development has been pioneered by two Norwegian immigrants, Ottar and Emil Brandvold and Ottar's wife, Joan. This hardy trio, beginning in 1941, has built a log chalet capable of accommodating 32 people.

The Brandvolds eventually plan a series of mountain huts dotting the area which would permit easy one-day trips from cabin to cabin in the alpine playground.

Most of the terrain around Diamond Head, where the lodge is situated, is above the timber line, giving long, unhindered ski runs on treeless slopes. From the "saddle" there is a 1½ mile-long run to the lodge.

The Brandvolds maintain that only government indifference is preventing them from opening up the full potentialities of the park. But they can't complain of any lack of co-operation from the public. Garibaldi, 46 citizens loaned $100 each, interest free, on the purchase of their new snowmobile.

FRANKFORD

United Church 3M Club Sponsor Video-Ettes

FRANKFORD— If, after Wednesday, April 8, you have a ringing in your ears, and you find your doctor annoyingly indifferent to your case, the chances are that you will have been in the vicinity of Frankford Community Hall at the same time as Art and Mabel Guinness, husband and wife team, known theatrically as the Video-ettes. This celebrated team will be appearing on that date, under the sponsorship of the United Church 3M Club.

The Video-ettes are so highly distinctive that they are without serious competition in the business of entertainment. "The only entertainment of its kind in North America" is the proud boast of Art Guinness, formerly of Victoria, B.C. and his wife, the former Mabel Brown, of Victoria. Audiences from Mexico to Alaska, and from Pacific to Atlantic have agreed enthusiastically.

Swiss Bell Ringers

The Video-ettes are Swiss Bell Ringers, although frankly, neither has ever been in Switzerland. The history of bell ringing, indicates that the art originated in Switzerland, thus the reference "Swiss" Bell Ringers.

Besides producing amazing musical sounds from their collection of tuned handbells, the Video-ettes can also amaze by enticing other on harmony, pick up the bells, ring them the required number of times, and replace them in the exact spot from where they were taken. The clapper inside the bells is specially constructed so that it will remain clear from the sides after hitting a single definite note. The bells are actually made in Germany, not Switzerland. The Video-ettes value their bells highly, because they cannot be replaced, as the factory which made them now lies behind the Iron curtain.

Art and Mabel Guinness originally took to entertaining during the depression years. They produced their own radio program in the early 30's, at which time they played chiefly orthodox instruments. Their desire to feature something new and striking led them to their variety of novelty instruments. To be appreciated fully, the Video-ettes had to be seen as well as heard, so they drifted from radio entertainment into the visual concert field.

The advent of the last war saw them extensively engaged in entertaining troops at military locations.

Singing Team

Featured jointly with the Video-ettes, is the singing team of Howard and Betty Mawson, who have been extensively engaged in radio and concert work in the East.

Unlike other concert artists, they two have a versatility and style of their own. Their artistry is not limited to any type of music. They excel in the operettas, right down the line to catchy folk tunes.

They have taken active parts in operatic societies. As in the past years, they were again featured as leading artists with the Eaton Operatic Society in Toronto. This season they specialized in the works of Gilbert and Sullivan. They have also been actively engaged with the Toronto Light Opera Association of which Howard Mawson is president.

Those who like the good old hoons and folk tunes will certainly have an opportunity to hear them, along with old standards and humorous duets, not to leave out some of their special interesting selections from popular operas.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Evangelistic Services

West Huntingdon—The special evangelistic meetings which are being held on the West Huntingdon Thomasburg circuit are being well attended; the first meeting was held on Sunday evening in the United Church here. Rev. W. Pace, of Tweed United Church, was the special minister, and brought an impressive message.

Rev. R. Norman was in charge on Monday night and Rev. W. Tyson, of Ivanhoe, gave a fine sermon on the subject, "The Love of God."

On Wednesday evening the Salvation Army group under the leadership of Lieutenants Peterson and Brown, and the Sinclair band, had charge of the service.

The following meetings will be held in the Moira and Thomasburg churches. Mr. and Mrs. J. Lalmon and Mrs. Grant assisted with the singing.

Those from here who attended the funeral services for Mrs. John Kingston, of Tweed, on Wednesday afternoon included Mr. and Mrs. Barton Haggerty, Mr. Frank Ashley, Mr. George Ashley and Sarah and Arthur Wilson.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr were, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Maxwell, of Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brummell and son of Massassaga; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McKeown, Gerald and Carol of Foxboro and Mr. and Mrs. E. Brummell, Eleanor and Beth, of Norwood.

A large number of the W.M.S. ladies from here attended the W.M.S. meeting and dinner at Eggleton on Wednesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Tyson and family, of Ivanhoe, were Friday evening guests at Mr. H. R. Burke's home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett and Marilyn spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Fiddle of Stirling.

Mr. Goldie McIntyre is busy making the last minute plans for the 27th annual convention of Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and Power farmers, to be held on Friday at Tabe's County Gardens. A committee from here plan to attend.

Constable Glen Wilson, of Barrie, spent Monday and Tuesday, the guest of his father, Mr. Foster Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sarles were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gunning of Belawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ontario—
Let your member know you want YELLOW margarine!

Public Reaction Has Been Terrific!

All across Ontario thousands and thousands of letters have been rolling in, expressing opposition to the margarine color ban and to Bill No. 71. As fast as they can be sorted, they are being delivered to Members in the Ontario Legislature.

Members of the Legislature have now had time to realize the full implications of Bill 71, and they are deeply concerned. We are certain they will make a wise decision.

BUT — YOU'LL STILL HAVE TO COLOR YOUR MARGARINE YOURSELF!

Yes, the law of the land still forbids you buying colored margarine. Mixing color into margarine serves no useful purpose except to annoy and irritate the busy housewife!

Many men in Ontario Legislature are against the ridiculous margarine color ban. Undoubtedly a majority are against it! They can be encouraged to act if they know the public is behind them!

It's Time to Lift the Color Ban on Margarine!

Next week the colored margarine question may come up for debate in the Ontario Legislature. Let us hope it will be a free debate cutting across party lines. NOW IS THE TIME TO LET YOUR MEMBER KNOW YOU ARE BEHIND HIM! Let him know you support his view that it should be legal to buy colored margarine.

YOU Can Make the Democratic Way Work!

Ontario is today overwhelmingly an industrial province; 86% of our families live in cities, towns and small villages. The latest Gallup survey shows 73% — that means 3 out of every 4 people in Ontario — think margarine should be made the same color as butter.

Let the Government know that the vast voting public — the millions of margarine users in cities, towns and on farms in Ontario — want their margarine yellow.

You can show the members of the Legislature that they have wholehearted public support in lifting a nuisance law which forces hundreds of thousands of consumers to do a messy, time-wasting color mixing job.

Act today — if the members of the Legislature see you are behind them you could have yellow margarine next week!

Two N.H.L. Playoff Berths In Doubt At Final Week-End Of Season

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"SPRING, SHE'S HERE!"

With hockey rounding the turn into the stretch, and what a turn it is, the sun riding high in the heavens; the boys casting wistful eyes at attic-stored fishing gear, and the dew worms getting itchy snouts, thoughts of the gang down sports alley are turning to the summer variety.

Already softball and baseball organizations have held forth at annual meetings. The Eastern Ontario Football Association held their annual confab here last night. Kids are playing marbles on the street, parking their hockey gear near nearby buildings. Yachtsmen of the city have been readying for summer activities for some time now. And judging by the glances of moon-eyed maids and calf-eyed youth the ole spring fever is getting in some early licks.

The ice is out of the Moira. The pike are running in the creeks and rivers. Smelt will be schooling up Lake Ontario inlets soon. Seed catalogues are in the mail. Sports shops are featuring fishing tackle. Spring arrived officially at 8.20 yesterday afternoon, but don't tell Ole Man Winter short. The old geezer might pull a double cross and sweep down in all his frustrated fury some of these mild spring-like evenings.

Speaking of baseball something of a definite nature regarding the senior "B" variety should be forthcoming at the meeting of the Border League scheduled for Kingston tomorrow afternoon. It is expected representatives of Watertown, Ogdensburg, another American centre, Kingston, Belleville and possibly Brockville or Smith's Falls or both will sit around the conclave table. The success of the inaugural get-together last Sunday in Watertown augurs well for the future of the new loop.

According to word from Peterborough, for the first time in years the Littlest City will not be represented in senior baseball this season. A number of veterans are hanging up their gloves and the baseball people up Otonabee way will concentrate their activities on a junior team. The Petes, after all, were more or less "out in the cold" as far as senior baseball was concerned in the past season, what with the Central Ontario Baseball League suspending activities for a year, at least, and Oshawa playing in the Intercounty loop. It would be a matter of exhibition games, with a bye into OBA playdowns or entry in a Toronto loop. Apparently the Petes don't want any part of such goings-on.

And back to the hockey marathon. We enter the seventh month of its activities on All Fools' Day and imagine only approximately $10 shopping days till Christmas.

The Black Hawks, flushed with their initial success over the Dixie Flashers on Wednesday night, trek to the Toronto suburb's lonesome pine in search of their second victory. The Hawks displayed superiority over their smaller, much smaller foes the other night and they are highly confident they can take the second from Flash. Unlikely once get Saints' youngsters. The teams are back here Monday night and in Dixie Wednesday. They're here the following Saturday, then back again the next Monday. If a seventh game is necessary, which is extremely doubtful, it will be played in Belleville the next Wednesday since the Hawks won the toss which decided the venue of the final game.

Meanwhile the warm weather has raised old bob with natural ice rinks and the boys from the surrounding district figure are settling their various championships in Memorial Arena. Last night the Tamworth-Bancroft squads settled their titular argument and on Thursday night the finals of the Trent Valley League open in Walter Gerow's igloo. Prince Edward teams may settle their issues here.

PROUD YOUNGSTER

One of the proudest puck-chasing youngsters in the city the other day was Sherman Brant, bespectacled forward of the Junior Hawks. The young fellow was presented with a cup a game against the Dixie Flashers in Wednesday night's game, slashed home a goal that marked his first since joining the junior squad. The contact came on a rebound-like pass from a corner and Brant didn't hesitate. He teed off like a golfer and blasted the biscuit past the Dixie goalie.

He was all smiles when he went to the dressing room. "Gosh," he grinned, "I got my first goal."

He couldn't have been happier had someone handed him a bushel of twenty-dollar gold pieces.

In fact the third line of the Hawks, consisting of Brant, Ray Hernderson and Tom Casey, turned in a sparkling effort. And if they maintain this brand of hockey it may be the answer to Coach Barrett's prayers. The trio did a swell job of penalty-killing besides providing depth to the team. They were responsible for a couple of goals with Hernderson's lone dash to score being one of the prettiest of the night.

Atmosphere Cleared Between Dark and Durocher of Giants

By GAYLE TALBOT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The atmosphere has been cleared and New York Giants almost surely will be a better baseball team because of the lurid events of the last 24 hours.

Alvin Dark, the team's captain and manager, is angry at having been accused of giving his manager, Leo Durocher, something less than 100 per cent co-operation in Leo's attempt to convert him into a second-baseman, but he will get over that.

Durocher has brought things into the open and has, without actually putting it into so many words, let Dark know that he expects him to get in there and play the game. So the hill, whether at shortstop or second base.

Friday's press conference at which which Dark expressed fuming indignation at the suggestion he had not given second base a real try in two exhibition games and was not extending himself since being sent back to short, was purely an accident. It was a fortunate one, too.

Durocher had told reporters he would be available at noon to announce his pitchers for the next two or three games. This reporter with two others called upon Dark to get his side of the controversy believed to be going on between him and his manager.

Upon learning that Leo was about to hold a meeting, Dark bolted from the room. He was in Durocher's suite within 15 seconds, demanding to know what was what. Leo at first expressed reluctance to air the matter before Dark. But he got it all and a great deal more.

Dark had been loafing—and expressed the firm conviction that his field leader would give him 100 per cent co-operation wherever he was asked to play.

After getting a rather pointed "or else" Leo asked the assembled press to tell Dark its thoughts. This was done, and the air-mate quickly became heated. Dark said the charges had been denied, and that nothing he or Durocher might say now could overtake the original suggestion that he had flagged it.

Asked if he believed he could play second in the event Durocher decided to place his prize rookie, Daryl Spencer, at short, Dark gave it some thought before replying:

"Yes, I think I can. In fact, it looks to me like a sort job."

Bruins, Hawks and Leafs Forced to Fight for Third, Fourth Spots Down to Wire

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

IF...

A word that spells the hopes of two National Hockey League playoff contenders this week-end.

Two playoff spots are up for the taking and three teams fight for them tonight and Sunday. Of the six remaining games, five will decide in two nights what 304 couldn't in the space of five months.

Detroit Red Wings have clinched top spot and Montreal Canadiens have nailed down second place. But Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs are forced to fight for third and fourth positions. They each have two games to prove themselves, but one must lose and ...

New York Rangers are definitely out of the post-scheduled play, but the Broadway Blues can cause a heartache or two.

As it now stands Boston is in third place, Chicago fourth and Leafs fifth. The statistical picture:

	W	L	T	P	A	Pts.
Boston	27	25	13	149	128	67
Chicago	27	28	15	162	171	63
Toronto	25	30	13	147	166	63

The week-end game picture:

Saturday—New York at Toronto, Boston at Montreal, Detroit at Chicago.

Sunday—Toronto at Boston, Montreal at Detroit, Chicago at New York.

The "if" picture:

Boston can clinch a playoff berth if it ties either of its two games.

If Chicago can earn three points on the 52nd and 60th—Leafs are out.

If Boston loses both, Chicago loses one and wins one or ties two and Leafs win two, the three would be tied, in points, for third place. That would be Bruins and Leafs who would have 27 victories each. Third and fourth places would then be decided by the team that scored most goals during the season. Bruins lead 178 to 166.

If Bruins earn one point, the last playoff position would be filled either by Leafs or Chicago. If the Hawks take both and Leafs win one, Leafs are in on victories. If the Hawks win one or tie two, Toronto would have to win both games to tie Hawks in points. Leafs then would make it on the basis of having more victories. If Chicago ties one and Leafs win both, Leafs make it by a point. Again if Chicago ties one and Leafs lose one and tie one, both would be deadlocked in points. Leafs would be in on victories. If Chicago loses both and Leafs tie both, the two would be tied in both points and victories and the team scoring most goals over the season would be Stanley Cup contenders. A win by the Hawks and a loss by Toronto eliminates the Leafs.

And if it is too confusing to follow, basically the picture is that any one of the three teams could end up in third or fourth place and anyone could be eliminated. Sunday night will tell.

Trotters Win 5th Basketball Title in Row

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Trotters Friday night won their fifth consecutive Ontario junior basketball title, defeating Welland Lutherans 83-21. The win gave them the two-game, total-point series 134-61. Trotters won the first game 72-42 in Welland.

Helena Sulikowski chalked up 18 points, giving her a total of 42 for the series. Rose Sahadick scored 14 and Mary Lee, 13. Betty Fuller, who scored 18 for Welland last Saturday, was top scorer for the losers with seven. Donna Lewis was second best for Welland with five points.

Trotters now try for their fifth consecutive Dominion championship against the winner of the Montreal-Cornwall series.

Tony De Spirito Rolling Toward New World Mark

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—Tony DeSpirito, the 17-year-old jockey who booted home a world record total of 390 winners last year, is off to a flying start in his quest to beat that mark.

The youngster is continuing as a full-fledged jockey the blistering pace which enabled him to break Walter Miller's 46-year-old record of 388.

Irked by critics who attributed much of his success to his weight allowance as an apprentice jockey last year, DeSpirito has set his sights on 400 winners or more this year.

The little guy from Lawrence, Mass., is well on his way to achieving his goal. He has rolled up one victory at Tropical Park, 41 at Sunshine Park and 18 at Lincoln Downs for a total of 60 winners.

A year ago this time, DeSpirito had 10 winners.

Johnny Bratton K.O.'s Bobby Jones In Fifth Round

NEW YORK (AP)—Hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago came from behind Friday night to knock out Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., in 2:32 of the fifth round of a welterweight bout at Madison Square Garden. Bratton weighed 149, Jones 152.

A 17-to-five favorite, the flashy 25-year-old Bratton was taking a good licking until he nailed his clever rival midway in the fifth with a smashing right to the jaw. Another right wobbled the former California middleweight champion.

Although he was dazed, Jones climbed back at his keyed-up opponent. That was his undoing.

Bratton clipped him with a terrific left hook to the jaw and Jones fell on his back. He staggered to his feet as referee Ray Miller counted 10 and then sagged against the ropes.

Tamworth Takes H-A League Title

Tamworth Friday night won the right to advance in the O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns by defeating Bancroft 4-3 at the Memorial Arena to take the championship of the Hastings - Addington League. It was Tamworth's fourth win against two defeats and a tie in the best four-of-seven series.

It was a fast, clean, exciting tussle before a 1,371 roaring fans. Tamworth led 4-1 at the end of the second period, but Bancroft came back to almost pull the game out of the fire with a pair of tallies in the third canto. Coz, Marshall, Wease and McDonald scored for Tamworth, while Brough, Delyea and Pilgrim lit the light for the losers.

Favorites Come Through In Montreal Track Meet; No Records Broken

Crack University of Michigan Runners, All Canadian Boys, Win Most of Major Events

MONTREAL (CP)—As expected, the favorites captured the feature events Friday night at the seventh running of the Canadian Legion's annual Eastern Canada Indoor track and field championships.

There were no world records shattered, but the field of nearly 300 athletes gave a small forum crowd 3,000—a "run" for their money.

Most of the individual and relay champ runners, all Canadian boys, faced well fast competition in the Legion mile, two-mile open, one-mile relay, 1,000-yard open and one-mile junior.

The two 1952 Olympic champions entered in the meet—third successive year the event has carried title recognition for Canada—made a clean came through with wins.

Only One Record Broken

Only one "open" record was broken—the provincial open and the Canadian native mark of 2:32.2 for the one mile relay, set in 1951 by the University of Toronto, was beaten by the University of Michigan squad, which ran the course in 3:29.4.

Another Canadian native mark was also two provincial relay records were bettered and one meet record was broken and another equalled.

Michigan's John Ross captured the Legion mile with a record time of 4:17.8, compared with the previous Canadian native mark of 4:19.7. The Oakville, Ont., boy finished far ahead of Montreal's Jack Alexander and Notre Dame of Notre University, and Mel Crawford, University of Toronto.

Champion Wins

Andy Stanfield of New York, 200-metre Olympic champion, won the 50-yard dash open event in 5.4 seconds, one-tenth second slower than the meet record. Ross Coates of Hamilton was second and Walter (Pete) Bolton of Toronto, another Michigan runner, was third.

Lenny George Rhodes of Jamaica, Olympic 400-metre champ, took the 300-yard open, but not before there was a close call by Jackie Carroll of Verdun, Que., and Ik at Mich. It was so close at the finish that both were clocked in the same time, 30.1.

Cornwall Collegiate won the highest team aggregate in points scored in the junior and intermediate, won the Canadian Legion Trophy. The team scored 12 points to 30 for East York Collegiate, Toronto. University of Michigan's junior-class runners were third with 15 points.

Heats in Afternoon

Heats were run off in the afternoon in several of the Saturday classifications, but the major events were left to the evening.

Michigan's distance runner, George Lynch of Toronto, won the two-mile open in 9:53.4, finishing far ahead of Fred Gumpel, Montreal track and field.

Michigan scored again when Geoff Dooley of Montreal, captured the 1,000-yard open with a time of 2:25.1, breaking the provincial native record of 2:27. Another Michigan athlete, Ron Wallingford, won the one-mile junior in 4:36.2.

East York track club, Toronto, with a time of 1:08.4 broke the meet record of 1:08.8 in winning the women's open four-lap relay.

Rosella Thorne, Montreal Olympic and a member of Canada's 1952 Olympic team, won the final of the women's 50-yard open in 6.3. Team - mate Carol White equalled the meet record of 6.3 for the junior women's 50-yard dash final.

McGill University's Laird Sloan broke the provincial native mark of 1:03.4 for the 600-yard juvenile run, doing the course in 1:03.2.

Other Events

50-yard high hurdles, Stan Dixon, Montreal, 7.0; 50-yard dash midget, John Sloan, Cornwall, 6.1; 50-yard dash juvenile, Joe Forcina, Toronto; 50-yard Tom Carr, 5.7; 35-yard dash Junior, Gordon Hickey, Cornwall, 3.7; 300-yard run midget, Ellis Barclay, Cornwall, 1:06.8; 600 run juvenile, Dick Hamilton, University of Toronto, 1:01.8; junior women's relay, Montreal Mercury A. C., 2:12.4; 50-yard dash lady, Montreal Westward, 1:12.9, and high school relay, Hawkesbury, Ont., 3:51.2.

Other point scorers for Cornwall Collegiate, team trophy winners, were: Ellis Barclay, third in 300-yard midget; Gordon Hickey, fourth in 35-yard dash; Ron Wallingford, fourth in the 2-50 high hurdles.

Hec Lalonde Scores Goal As Black Hawks Win

GALT (CP)—Galt Black Hawks fired four goals in the third period to defeat Stratford Indoors 5-4 and win Michael's 5-1 and tie their best-of-seven semi-finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series 3-1.

The third game will be played in Toronto Sunday.

Kenny Wharram paced Galt's third-period assault with two goals. Minnie Menard scored Galt's first goal in the second period and another in the final. Hec Lalonde scored the other. Bill Dineen contested for the Irish.

The first period was scoreless and in the second period each team scored once.

The statistics ruled with an iron hand, meting out 19 penalties.

After Menard scored the opener, Dineen tied it up. The tie-breaker came at the six-minute mark of the final when Lalonde flashed the light. Wharram added his two in a row and Menard sank the fifth.

Bryson Reid Midgets Win City Championship

Bryson Reid Service Station midgets won the city midget hockey league championship Thursday night by defeating Moose Lodge 5-1 at the Memorial Arena. The winners took the total goals two-game series 8-2.

Bobby Hull led the winners with four goals and an assist, with Paul White scoring the other tally. Jack Gill contributed an assist. Fredericks got the lone Moose Lodge goal on a pass from Hagerman.

Sudbury Wolves Take Three-Game Lead in Playoff

SUDBURY (CP)—Sudbury Wolves blanked Rouyn Flashes 5-0 Friday night and virtually sewed up their best-of-seven finals of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series. The Wolves lead the series 3-0.

Another victory for the Wolves tonight would send them into the Ontario finals against either Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen or Owen Sound Mercurys.

Friday night's victory was goalie

Andy Anderson's first shutout of the season. Players and fans mobbed him after the game.

George Defelice was the sparkling for Sudbury with three goals. Nick Tomiak and Gord Healie each tallied one.

The Wolves scored twice in each of the first and second periods and added the odd one in the closing frame.

If the Wolves win the series, it will mark Sudbury's first NOHA championship since the Sudbury Wood Pigers turned the trick in the 1944-45 season.

Friday night's game may have been marred by the services of forward Ghislain Guimond, who was helped off the ice unconscious in the final minutes after being taken out by Wolves' rearguard Bobby McLean-Ian. Extent of his injuries was not immediately determined.

Bavasi of Dodgers Rushes To Miami to Probe Reports Of Morale Problem in Ranks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers today sent vice-president Buzzie Bavasi to Miami to investigate reports of a serious morale problem arising from the talk of President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers said at Vero Beach:

"I can't believe such a serious situation exists as no player has complained to Bavasi, (Preacher) Roe and (Carl) Erskine will only join Fresco and Charlie (Dressen) in Miami and if there is anything more to this than the usual spring 'pooch' we will deal with the situation here." Thomson is vice-president in charge of the farm system.

Dressen Reported Silent

The reports, published in the New York Daily News and New York Herald Tribune, said resentment was growing among the Dodger players over the benching of Billy Cox, last year's regular third baseman, and Dressen's continued experiments to find a new third baseman.

The latest move by Dressen was to shift Robinson, normally a second baseman, to third base Wednesday.

Jim Gilliam, a Negro under contract to Montreal, replaced Robinson as second baseman. The rookie has fielded sensationally in spring games.

Dick Young of the Daily News quoted Dressen as saying:

"This ain't worth a damn. That's the way I feel about it."

Manager Chet Cox said he hadn't talked about the situation but added:

"I'd feel a lot better if Dressen talked to me about it."

Thomson Not Surprised

Thomson, playing baseball I played where the manager told me and he didn't have to explain it to me. As far as that goes there is no reason now to believe Cox isn't the MVP leader in 1953 as an experiment. I think Robinson can play third and Gilliam is a better fielder than Robinson. If he can do it we will have a .300 hitter at third base.

Cox hit .259 for the Dodgers last year.

Roger Kahn of the Herald Tribune said the morale problem created by the switch of Robinson to third "is delicate now and may become worse."

"When Gilliam moved to second and Robinson to third, resentment grew," he added.

It Isn't Always Luck

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Seizmar Tables)

We had been given orders, say fishing partner and I, by our wives to be home at a certain, definite time. Ordinarily we don't pay much heed to such admonitions but this time there was a dinner party scheduled and, in the interests of domestic peace, we dared not be late.

It never fails, when my social secretary and self-appointed general manager sets a deadline, something always happens to make me wish she hadn't. This time was no exception.

Dutifully we had quit bass-bug fishing in advance of our normal hour, packed our gear in the car, and started toward home. Our road led across a bridge over the North Branch of the Susquehanna River. When we came to that bridge, a sight met our eyes which I shall never forget.

Flying over the river was a tremendous hatch of giant May flies. They were coming in the air like snow and when they rested on the surface of the water they were gobbled by hungry fish. Every fish, I believe, in that large pool was rising itself with these large insects.

Fly-rod Man's Dream

That is the sort of thing that a fly-rod man dreams about during the long winter evenings. Here it was, actually happening, and we had a dinner engagement. Sorrowfully we stood there on the bridge and watched those tremendous bass rise and take May flies, leaving huge swirls behind them.

Much to our surprise, only one fisherman was on the pool. This fellow was midstream in a boat, drifting down through the long pool. A minnow pail hung over the side and steel fish-rods stuck out over the gunwales.

We watched him for perhaps fifteen minutes, dragging those ineffectual baits down over the river bottom. At the conclusion he took them. As I say, every fish was busy at the surface. Yet there he sat, drifting along, fishing deep baits in the approved North Branch style, and paying no attention to the activity about him.

"He'll probably sell them," remarked my friend, "that the fishing in this river is getting worse by the day. No bass left. Then he'll write a letter to the Fish Commission, raising hell about the stocking program."

Of course the fishing reports come in giving the data on a creel census on this lake or that one, here and there about the condition of this or that one. Sometimes conservation commissions are making systematic daily checks on the catches from certain waters.

Get Information

In addition to supplying the commission in question with valuable information on supply and demand, these tallies point out definite, discernible facts. Almost without exception, a very high percentage of the fish taken from the watery course study is produced by a surprisingly low percentage of the total number of anglers.

In other words, the good fishermen — the fellows who are both experienced and observant—catch most of the fish.

When my son was a little fellow, too small to cast a fast rod, we used to fish the upper Delaware of New York State with bait. A small boy should not be left alone on the water as I grew up bass-bug fishing when he was with me and we fished bait in the same boat together.

On the day I have in mind we drove to the Schoolhouse Pool, only to find it occupied by four fishermen. Somewhat disappointed, we sat on the high bank and watched these fellows fish.

They were standing about twenty feet apart, two on one side of the stream and two on the other, just below the riffle. Now and then one of them would lift his rod, inspect his bait, and then plop it back in again, directly in front of him. None of them was caught anything while we watched.

Seeing that they were actually using only a small fraction of the fishable water, I walked down to the bank and asked them if they would quit if we fished the lower water.

"Go right ahead," said one, "we got all the river we need, right here in front of us."

The boat stayed on that side of the river while I walked upstream, crossed at the head of the riffle, and came down the far bank. We cast our baits out to midstream and allowed them to drift with the slow current, pulling quietly along with them as they drifted. When the baits reached bottom they were picked up and recast.

Rainbow Catch

Before we had gone one hundred yards downstream we had picked up four nice bass between us. At the lower end of the pool each of us caught one more. Not wanting any fish for dinner, we released them and when we caught them. This met with emphatic disapproval on the part of the four men upstream.

As we walked up the bank toward the car, one of the four fishermen couldn't stand the pressure of curiosity.

"Hey, kid," he said to Dick, "What's bait you're using?"

Dick held up his baited hook for inspection.

"Helgramite" exclaimed his questioner. "Fine, good." Good! That's what we're usin'."

Fortunately Dick had the good sense to remain mother of the crew.

The more I see of fish and fishermen, and fishing methods contrasted, the more I am convinced that "fisherman's luck" has very little to do with the size of an angler's catch. Oh, once in a while an outright dub will come in with a basketful, but more often the reverse is apt to be the case.

Fishing, when you come right down to it, is a complex sport. Much more than most sports, it rarely does a day pass that I do not pick up some new item of fishing lore.

"Fisherman's Luck? Well, there may be such a thing, but long ago I learned not to depend upon it. A good many years of experience has convinced me that it is a poor substitute for knowing how.

Too Much Cunning

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—World pro champion Jack Kramer had too much court cunning Friday night for Australian Frank Sedgman and lengthened his coast-to-coast tour lodge to 22 to 20.

Kramer won the first set but rallied to score a 6-8, 6-4, 6-4 victory.

Pancho Segura won from Ken McGregor 6-4, 6-2 in the opener.

Canada's Newest Track Star Charming Girl

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty-year-old Mary MacDonald, Canada's newest track star, is fleet of foot, charming of manner and as fresh-mine as they come.

A Canadian—and probably a world—record, 6.8 seconds for 60 yards. You can just tell when you are. My coach told me I gained about a yard right at the beginning and naturally in a 60-yard sprint to get away to a good start means a lot of everything.

Mary, who runs for the East York Track and Field Club and is rather an unassuming girl, is keyed up by comments of sports writers such as:

"The East York flier will beat Fanny Blankers-Koen at the class of the United States."

The young five-foot-six, 126-pound sprinter makes some of her own clothes, but says she really has no time for hobbies or much else besides track work.

She trains three nights a week. It takes her an hour to get to the club, and that's after working all day as a stenographer with an insurance company.

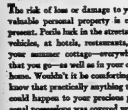
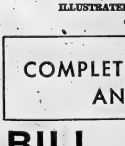
George Agar Raps Home 300th Goal Of Hockey Career

By THE CANADIAN PRESS



George Agar rapped home the 300th goal of his professional hockey career Friday night to give Calgary Stampeders a 2-2 Western Hockey League tie with Edmonton Flyers. He joined Maurice Richard of the National Hockey League and Wingy Johnston of the WHL as the only active players to hit the 300 mark.

Enio Sclisizzi fired the other Calgary goal. Rod Polle and Ray Hannigan counted for the Flyers.



Seattle Bombers edged Vancouver Canucks 5-4 when Ces Cuns and Lorne Nadeau notching goals for the Bombers and Walt Atanas the Canucks' Vancouver marksman.

Victoria Cougars thumped New Westminster Royals 8-3. Reg Abbott tallied three goals for the winners. Jim Bartman notched two with Andy Hebenton, Ed Mazur and Fleet Geegan adding singles. Ken Ullrich, Ollie Donohue, Glen Boyer, Gordie Fashoway, Don Slater and Jackie Hamilton connected for the Royals.

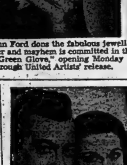
AT THE McCARTHY — Star Glenn Ford does the fabulous jewelled gauntlet because of which murder and mayhem is committed in the baffling suspense drama, "The Green Glove," opening Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, through United Artists' release.



C. C. O. Wins Trophy

MONTREAL (CP)—Cornwall Collegiate Friday night won the Canadian Legion Trophy at the Eastern Canada indoor track and field championships, an award that goes to the highest team aggregate in points for events of classes junior and under.

Cornwall scored 32 points to 20 for East York Collegiate, Toronto. University of Michigan's junior-class runners amassed 15 to take third.

NAVIGATION OPENED

GODERICH (CP)—The navigation season was officially opened in this Lake Huron port Friday when the tug Meaney left for Lion's Head after assisting in moving the winter fleet and acting as an ice-breaker.

AT THE BELLE — Jeanne Crain and Dale Robertson in "Because You're Mine," Metro Musical Romance in the Technicolor Technique, with Appearances by Lauritz Melchior and Nicholas Conte, Broadway musical hit "King and I" and James Whitmore. Lauritz sings "The Lord's Prayer" in this new film, and Jerry Lewis and Martin, South creation, are added attractions.

AT THE CAPITOL — Intrigue with a pleasure neckline highlights Columbia Pictures' "Assignment Paris" starring Dana Andrews and Marta Toren, above, and George Sanders and Audrey Totter, at the Capitol Theatre starting Monday. On the same program a spirited comedy behind the iron curtain "No Time for Flowers". Both hits are first showings.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

"Little Egypt" also "State Dept. File No. 649"

After Minor Watson, a tobacco magnate, consents to subsidize a nonexistent Nile reclamation project, partners-in-crime Mark Stevens and Steven Geray, a fake pasha, are only too happy to co-operate with his desire to transplant a street of old Cairo to the Chicago World's Fair. Rhonda Fleming, a dancer in love with Stevens, poses as an Egyptian princess and gets in on the Chicago act. The fair, about to flop, is saved by a hootchy-kootchy number in Rhonda's repertoire, but a subsequent court hearing for indecency womasks the impostors and reveals the nefariousness afoot. However, it proves a publicity windfall for Watson's tobacco company, and he hands over $100,000—which winds up in the hands of the irate Egyptian government, while Stevens in addition to a desire to go straight, gets Rhonda.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 22, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—If you would exercise a dominant good influence over others, think well of the high principles that must necessarily form your moral background.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Great philosophers, churchmen have given us all the ideals of the Golden Rule by which we can save our souls and lead outstanding lives. Are you doing your part?

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—To keep usefully busy should be the aim of every healthy mind and body. Heed warnings of ineptitude and laziness. And pray.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—If your day is free from usual workaday duties, then practice the art of relaxing mind and body. Refreshing one's energy is as important as using it well.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Decisions must not be mere spontaneous movements of the mind, but rational choices taken into consideration all circumstances, knowledge and experiences. Think carefully.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Remember the Golden Rule? How often do we analyze its meaning? And practice its precept. Today we can do so as a start. First, attend church.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Note Aries and Cancer. Your vibrations today hold similar tendencies. Spread a little joy in Libra's fine manner. And don't let anyone discourage you.

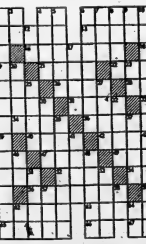
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—There are many forms of timidity; some are not admirable. Stop alternating yourself, thus arousing lack of confidence and weakness.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Sentimentality, emotionalism, and their cohorts are to be roundly rebuked this day. Press for the will to do good. Look to prayer.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Make no excuses, alibis. These harmful time-stealing habits are not natural to the Capricorn nature. Plan, think ahead.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — There are many ways and means available, choosing the right ones being the important matter. Today serves a good time element for searching, investigation. And prayer.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Enjoy children, they enliven the spirits. Don't neglect spiritual values, start with church, of course.



YOU BORN TODAY: Many talents could entail in many fields. Pisces can be tauntingly sensitive. Timidity and weakness can upset a progressive, career, too. Don't worry about health, but sensibly protect it. Think about your aptitudes more seriously. Birthdate of: Sir Anthony Van Dyck, Flemish painter; Joan Crawford actress; Chico Marx, actor-pianist.

Did you know that you are represented in Japan and Korea by trained and specially selected and trained Red Cross workers serving in hospitals, recreation centres and even in field dressing stations.

CAMPBELLFORD

Area Board Offers Equity in School For $40,000

Campbellford — At a meeting of the East Northumberland High School Area Board, the chief item of business was the question of selling the septic tank to the Brighton school building by the High School Area Board, to the village of Brighton.

A motion, which had been previously passed to pay Brighton $97,000 for the village's equity in the building was defeated.

Wesley Down, of Brighton township, introduced negotiation, with the Brighton public school board from the beginning. He claimed that a new high school at Brighton to accommodate 300 pupils would cost area taxpayers 2.34 mills for 30 years, and a 400-pupil school 2.77 mills, whereas if Brighton village built a public school it would require 4.5 mills, based on a 50 per cent provincial grant. He also said that if Brighton purchased the equity the High School Area Board held in the school, it would only cost about 1.34 mills.

Questioned Figures

D. H. Meyers, of the Campbellford Public School Board, said it would not be in keeping with the Department of Education's policy to close a school. He questioned the figures on the purchase and remodeling of the Brighton school for high school purposes, and felt the figure would be about 9 mills and that a new public school in Brighton would cost about $200,000 or about 8 mills to the village.

After a recess, a motion by Fred Spence, of Colborne, and R. J. Ross, of Brighton, that the board locate a site for a new high school to take care of students from Brighton and surrounding school sections and offer the board's site to the Brighton school to the village for $40,000 was withdrawn.

It was moved by Wesley Down and seconded by N. N. Haggarty (township of Murray) that a new high school be built in Brighton to accommodate all or as many pupils as the Department of Education will allow, from the school section now sending pupils to Colborne, Woodcr and Brighton high schools and that the board offer their equity in the present Brighton high school building to the village for $40,000. The motion carried.

Fred Spence, of Colborne, the three Campbellford representatives and the Seymour township representative voted against the motion.

The East Northumberland High School Area Board comprises representatives from the town of Campbellford, the villages of Brighton, Wooler and Warkworth, and the townships of Seymour, Cramahe, Brighton, Murray and Percy.

Grants Totalling $10,075 Made by County Council

Picton—Grants totalling $10,075 were made by Prince Edward County Council in session here yesterday. These included $1,000 to the Quinte-St. Lawrence Home for the Blind to be erected at Kingston; $1,000 to Hastings and Prince Edward Regional Office to assist in the writing of a history of the regiment; $1,500 to Prince Edward Association of Agriculture; smaller grants were, $250 each to Wellington, Consecon, Picton and Milford libraries; $300 to the Sunday Farmers; $250 each to Demorestville and Milford Fairs; $200 to Ruffs Island Bridge Association; $150 to Prince Edward Crop Improvement Association; $200 to St. John Ambulance; $50 to Prince Edward Cheesemakers' Association; $400 to the National Institute for the Blind, for maintenance; $400 to the Red Cross; $75 to Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce for out of Outlet Beach; the Salvation Army was given $600 for relief fund, $500 for Receiving Homes and $400 for Red Seal campaign.

Will Not Contribute

Council decided to continue its efforts to secure a bridge connecting Green Point and Deseronto and that a letter to that effect was read from Senator W. A. Fraser, stating that the federal government will not contribute to the cost of the causeway as requested. The Province has agreed to bear 80 per cent of the cost of the causeway.

A delegation from Ameliasburg asked that a ferry service be run between Rednersville and Carrying Place be paved by the county. Council decided to give government aid in taking this over as a development project at a alternative No. 2 highway.

A new bridge is to be erected across the Outlet river, connecting with the beach road built a few years ago.

After visiting the County hospital, council endorsed the proposal to raise funds for the erection of a fifty-bed institution.

The Canadian National Railways sought to purchase a right of way across part of the farm owned by the County Home. The sum of $1,000 was offered. The railway spur will run from the present line east of Picton to a point on the High shore road where the Bethlehem Steel Co. will ship iron ore mined at Marmora. This was referred to the County Solicitor.

Endorse Resolution

Council endorsed a resolution asking the Provincial government to pass the bill in regards to the use of edible oil products. Councilmen pointed out that substitutes would affect the dairy industry, and in reducing the cattle population would result in reduced conservation of the

MARMORA

Citizens Approve Artificial Ice In Village Arena

Marmora (Special)—In one of the most enthusiastic meetings held here in many years, residents of Marmora and the surrounding district voted Thursday evening in favor of the installation of artificial ice in the local arena.

Of the 850 persons who packed the town hall, 100 per cent were in favor of the project. Prior to the meeting, more than 90 per cent of the 600 employees of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company added great stimulus to the project by offering to contribute one day's pay each for a total of almost $4,000.

The meeting was held by the Marmora District Memorial Park Association under the chairmanship of William Shannon. Several members of the community arose to support the effort. Among those were Reeves Melville Wells, Marmora village; Reeve Irwin McCoy, Marmora and Lake township; William Barlow, clerk of Rawdon township and Jack Kincaid, county warden of Madoc.

Figures on the feasibility and maintenance of the project were presented by Alex Brymner, manager of the local branch of the Dominion Bank, Harold Olsen, personnel manager of Bethlehem Iron Mines, and Bruce MacKenzie, Deloro. The publicity committee, who spoke for Ralph Walsh, general manager of Deloro Smelting and Refining, who was unable to attend.

About 35 members of local organizations expressed their backing of the project. Speaking for the two local unions, Pat Berrand and Percy Grey, Sr., expressed the enthusiastic support of their membership, particularly in view of its value to the youth of the district.

The addition of artificial ice to the Marmora Arena is expected to cost $25,000. Generous donations were started by a number of merchants of Marmora signifying the support that can be expected from surrounding communities.

Last year Canadian children working through the organization of the Junior Red Cross raised more than $157,000 for their Welfare Fund and Handicapped and Crippled Children's Fund.

Search For a Hero

By Thomas Hal Phillips

I said, "Nothing."

He said, "I think we ought to give him three shirts, hard as he works for all of us."

I jerked the shirt from Wallace and ran downstairs and out to the woodpile and chopped myself all-over off. At noon I came by Meb's house, which seemed then like a small, strange church in the middle of nowhere—a wood fire, a Christmas tree, plenty of holly with full red berries. We had a glass of wine together.

"Tell me what you got for Christmas," she said.

"Oh, not much."

"What did your mother give you?"

"A scarf."

"And your father?"

"A tie."

"Wallace and William?"

"A pair of gloves."

Her face clouded, I thought she had sensed that I was making up lies. But then she smiled and went to the mantel. "Here's something for you. In France, it would not be polite for you to open it here. But open it."

• • •

While I unwrapped the package she said, "At home, in France, they give presents on the first of January."

I opened the box to a pair of suede gloves. "I can't take these," I said.

"I'll give them to William and get you something else."

"It's all right. But when I can't take anything because I didn't get you anything."

"No, you mean you have a pair."

"I don't have a pair."

"That was how I came to tell her the truth, finally. "I was sorry that I had told her, because it sounded as if I didn't want her to give anything to William.

VI

Before I went to bed I told Mama I wouldn't take the team for Wallace. Sometime just before midnight the door to my room opened and the light went on. I sat up in bed. My first thought was that somebody had been killed on the trestle. Then I was fully awake and my mind pulled things together.

"What's all this about changing your mind?" William said. Wallace was behind him.

"There's not a lot to it. I just changed it."

"Then changed it back again."

"Why should I care whether Wallace graduates?"

"You infernal widdy-wagger, you William said.

We tied up, and I got it across the nose before Wallace came between us.

"He sure enough won't take it now," Wallace said.

Mama came running up the stairs in her nightgown. When she saw that my nose was bleeding she threw her hands over her eyes and screamed.

"Give me your handkerchief," I said to William. "I want my blood to be on something you own." He gave it to me—nothing less threw it.

Mama sank down on my bed and began to cry. "To think . . . just to think I'd raise a boy that would come to this heathen practice in my own house. She began to cry so hard that I couldn't understand what she was saying.

Wallace said, "Aw, Mama, it's only his nose."

In half a minute she dried her eyes on the sleeve of her nightgown and looked up at us. "What's your daddy taking so long about? I want him to get a hold of you two."

Wallace said, "He's in the yard talking to Uncle Richard."

"I don't know," Wallace said. "But Uncle Richard had 10 sacks of sugar on one of the cars that went through the trestle."

I said, "Ha . . . ha. Ain't that sad."

"It's a whole thousand pounds," Wallace said.

I said, "The straw that broke the camel's back, 1000 pounds of sugar. Now he can sue the railroad and get ceiling price about half what he gave, I'll bet. All the little fishes in the ocean can have a picnic tomorrow."

"That's not so funny," William said.

I threw his handkerchief back to him. He said, "Don't get fresh with me. I'll fix that nose again."

Mama got up and began to call Papa. There was no answer and she went downstairs calling: "Benford! Benford! You come up here to these boys. I tell you right now I'm going to give up. I'll just pack up and leave. . ."

"Watch him look wild," William said.

"You big-eared . . ."

Wallace shoved me against the wall. "Don't you all start again. Don't will come across and leave him alone."

"No, he won't," William said. "He's just that stubborn."

We could hear steps on the stairs, then heavy breathing. Uncle Richard was with Papa. He always asked such exact details about our lives (like how much each of us weighed), though I think he never remembered anything except our middle names.

Uncle Richard's eyes took us all in, then rested on my face. "Whew! Who biffed you on the nose?"

I nodded toward William. Uncle Richard turned and looked at him. "You the big kingfish around here now?"

"He was acting smart," William said.

"Well, he is smart. He's the big valedict at the school." He looked up and down Wallace. "You not aclared up in this?"

"Sure," I said. "He started it."

"Put the beans on the table," Wallace Deering. Did you?"

"He went back on his promise —Don did."

"Donald David; did you or did you not go back on your promise?"

"I did."

"That's the way to talk it. If you broke your verbal contract, don't crawfish about it. Now, Wallace Deering, would you tell us exactly the terms of the contract."

"I flunked Miss Brammon's exam. And I'm not going to graduate, so. . ."

"You mean I'm going to get that underwear graduation present back?"

• • •

"Well. There's a make-up exam Saturday. Don said he'd take it for me because Miss Brammon she can't see good and can't tell us apart. Tonight he runt back, and William. . ."

"Hold it. All I want now is the terms of the contract. Have you stated that fully?"

"Yessir."

"Dismissed. Step back and let that next gentlemen take the stand." William moved forward two ar three steps. "Now, William Deering, to the very best of your knowledge, has the contract been fully and correctly stated, without error?"

"Yessir."

"There were no other provisions?"

"Nossir."

"Was this gentleman to my right provoked any money, property, or otherwise valuable good for his services?"

"Nossir."

"Dismissed." Uncle Richard stood up. "In as much as Donald David Meadows was not offered nor promised a just wage for his services, the court holds the contract null and void. Court adjourned, and I've got to go home."

VII

None of us moved until we heard the front door close. Then Wallace said, "Why didn't you say you wanted a price?"

"Cut out all this foolishness," Papa said. "You treat a man like a thief and he'll be one. What's come over you, Don?"

"Nothing."

"What are you acting this way for—meanness or show or money or what?"

"I just don't aim to take Wallace's exam."

"Are you trying to tell me what you'll do and won't do?"

"Nossir. I'm trying to tell Wallace."

"I'd like to get it straight that I'm still the boss around here—you understand that?"

"Yessir."

"And as long as you sleep under my roof and put your feet under my table, I've got some say-so over you. Is that straight?"

"Yessir."

"All right. I don't want to hear another word from any one of you. Saturday morning, William can work for you at the store while you take the exam. Is that clear to you, William?"

"Yessir."

"And you, Wallace. You stay in the house Saturday morning. I don't want you prancing around on the streets where everybody can see you. Is that clear to you?"

"Yessir."

He looked at me. "Now does that state-ment suit you?"

"Nossir."

For half a minute Papa couldn't say anything. Then his lips quivered a little like the body of a goldfish when you thrust your hand against the bowl. "What sort of man over Nineteen years old and can't hear a word I say. It's not as if I'm asking for good reasons. You've got plenty of sense. You want me to beat you like you was a mule?" He came over and caught my arm. "You started this business of taking it, and you're going to take it. Now say 'yessir' or I'll make anybody would ordinary common sense."

I didn't answer, and he slapped me with the back of his hand. I was rather glad he did, for it seemed to settle a hundred matters between me and I don't know what. But before he could slap me again William said, "Papa, Papa, there's no need of that."

Papa turned and hurried to the door. I got up and saw them looking back at me. "I won't work my heart out for somebody that has no respect for me or my mother. You'd better find you another place to hang your hat. His eyes looked as if he might cry.

"I will, if you want me to."

"I want you to."

William pushed Papa and Wallace toward the stairs, and closed the door. Then he opened the door and said, "I wonder sometimes just how much of any kind of sense you got—you've spoiled everything for Wallace. Are you trying to see that he works on the railroad this winter instead of going to school?"

"If you had very much of some kind of sense, you'd know that he doesn't need that credit in French. At least, he can enroll at Tech with 15 credits of the right kind."

• • •

The next morning I went to the filling station to wait for the bus to Jamestown. I stood inside so that Papa would not see me as he went to work. Then a kind of panic came over me. I did not have a penny. How'd I get up enough courage to ask Mr. Young (who ran the station, though Mr. Hart owned it) if he would loan me 50 cents for a round-trip bus ticket. He said, "Mark Willis is going right now. I get him to take you." He turned and called, "Hey, Mark. This boy wants to ride to town with you." I got into the cab of the big truck, which had no windshield and no doors, but I didn't mind whether it had a cab, so long as we got away before Papa came along.

When we had gone two or three miles, Mark Willis said, "You one of Benford Meadows's boys?"

"Yessir."

"I recognized you by the favor. seen your brothers play lots of ball. You don't play ball, do you?"

"Nossir."

"It's all right, but I'm allus afraid my boy's gonna come up with something broke. You-all not old enough for the Army?"

"I'm 18."

"My boy—oldest one—is 17. I keep a-hoping this thing'll be over before Jim's time comes. I reckon he's no better'n none of the rest, but nobody's anxious to see their own folks go. Ain't that right?"

"Yessir."

"I come to see all the boys going off . . looks like the men ought to do it. But we're now the men. I got nine kids. Jim's the oldest. What can a man like me do? Bonnie's the fifth. I picked on Hatchie, and allus made no more'n a hand-to-mouth living. I feel like I want to pitch in and help where it counts—but who's gonna take care of my family?"

When we reached Corinth, he finally by the court of appeal and the taxing officer."

Mr. Carson said that where a claim is to be made against the unsatisfied judgment fund, the case must go to trial. No settlement can be made out of court and in many instances persons must be added as defendants who would not normally be sued.

"The result . . . is that trials last longer and costs are necessarily increased."

MARMORA

'The Holy Bible For Common Folk' Talk at H-S Assoc.

Marmora — The monthly meeting of Marmora Home and School Association was held in the public school on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. Roy Frost, was in the chair and there was a fine attendance of members.

The financial statement, which was most satisfactory, was received. A letter of thanks from Mrs. James Heath to the executive was read regarding the serving of refreshments at the February meeting of the Women Teachers' Federation of Ontario.

The president announced that Men's Night would be held in April with men taking over the offices for the evening. She also mentioned the shortage of cups and saucers for use in the lunch period and invited a cup and saucer shower for the April meeting.

James Sproul, as convener of the nominating committee, asked that forms to be received by members be filled out and turned in by the specified date.

The president mentioned representation of the association at the convention to be held next month in Toronto. Failing the offer of any other member to be delegate, Mrs. M. Kourl, last year's delegate, would go again.

Mothers of scholars of Grade VI will provide and serve refreshments at the next meeting.

Attention was drawn to the camp being held in June for the training of Home and School leaders.

Guest Speaker

W. J. Cottrell introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Rev. R. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D., who gave an illustrated talk on "The Holy Bible for Common Folk." He was thanked for his splendid talk by the president. Humorous readings of parents and grandparents was taken by Principal E. C. Prentice with the rooms taught by Mr. Tremblay and Mrs. J. Heath dividing the honors.

The funds of the association were somewhat increased as Mr. R. G. McKenzie auctioned some cooking, canned fruits and pickles, creating an excitement.

Concluding the program was a spelling match, conducted by Mrs. J. Heath, with the assistance of Mrs. E. Manchester.

Refreshments and a social half hour were enjoyed by all.

Treasurer Issues Statement On Charges Made

TORONTO (CP)—C. F. H. Carson, treasurer of the Law Society of Upper Canada, said Thursday that the cases involved the unsatisfied judgment fund lawyers do not receive costs except those awarded by the court and fixed by the taxing officer.

Mr. Carson issued a statement in reply to charges made Wednesday in the legislature by W. M. Nickle, Progressive Conservative member for Kingston.

Mr. Nickle, a lawyer and son of a former attorney-general, said "greedy lawyers" are "milking" the unsatisfied judgment fund by charging exorbitant fees in car accident cases. It is being done to such an extent, he said, that lawyers referred to the fund as the "Santa Claus fund."

In his statement, Mr. Carson said: "Mr. Nickle referred to a case in which judgment was recovered for $5,000 and the costs awarded amounted to $899.31. This was a case which there were two trials and two appeals and the costs awarded were determined

1959 Japanese Repatriates Home From Red China

Stranded Since the End Of the Second World War

BY JIM BECKER

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—A second repatriation ship, Takasagu Maru, arrives today from Shanghai with 1,959 Japanese nationals stranded in China since the end of the Second World War.

The first group of 2,000 men, women and children, arrived in a pelting rain early today from Chinkang, Manchuria, aboard the Koan Maru.

By mid-summer, some 25,000 Japanese—some held as long as 16 years—are scheduled to be returned from China.

Heard Conflicting Stories

Swarms of reporters who boarded the Koan Maru heard conflicting stories of life in Communist China.

Some Japanese wept for joy at the sight of their homeland. Others defiantly spouted red propaganda.

However, Mayor Tasuo Sagano of Maiuru said the passengers were the most orderly group yet to arrive at this huge repatriation centre from a Communist country.

More than 600,000 Japanese from Red China, the Soviet Union, Nationalist China and Korea have been repatriated through this former Japanese naval base since the end of the Second World War.

Tight Security Measures

Tight security measures for occasions—especially in the case of repatriates from Russia—the returnees stage all-down strikes or stormy demonstrations, shouting slogans and singing Red hymns.

The demonstrators were encouraged by hundreds of Japanese Communists in this city—a stronghold of the Japanese Communist party.

The group which left today's Red group was different and "for the first time, I feel free," Hiroshi Begawa spoi in my heart for my returning countrymen."

Rain Adds to Confusion

The driving rain added to the confusion of Koan Maru's arrival. Some repatriates had brought fresh Others glowered, close-mouthed. A few shouted and pushed the only two Americans in the press party.

Some described Red China as a land of misery, ruled by fear and driven at pistol point to work in Communist factories.

Almost all of the repatriates said Red China's people hate living a successful war against germs and flies.

Some said the Communists taught them that South Korea invaded North Korea and that U. N. troops are waging germ warfare in Korea. They blamed the U. S. for the breakdown of truce talks.

Held Study Groups

But the repatriates said they acquired these beliefs in study groups which the Red Chinese set up in their camp districts. Housewives held meetings of their own.

Several suggested belief that fewer than half of the repatriates had absorbed Red teachings.

The Japanese are being repatriated under an agreement signed by the Japanese Red Cross and two Japanese Communist-front organizations. The Red Cross asked to negotiate with these groups when it proposed the repatriation.

Family Cat Finds Way Back Home 1,500 Miles Under Snow

CAGE, Okla. (AP) — Meowrrr ! The S. A. Woods family saw a vaguely familiar streak of tawny fur into their yard and stared. Was this Tommy?

It was.

The family feline had hiked, or perhaps ridden, the cowcatcher of a freight train 1,500 miles from California, a distance of 1,500 miles.

Of course it could have been a stray who just happened to look like Tommy. Just about all cats answered to his name was no problem. Tommy was a variegated ball of fluff which still retained a trace of its bright yellow coat would have had to average more than 33 1-3 miles a month during his 15-month absence to walk the distance. That's more than two miles a day, without the aid of a compass.

But the Woods clan checked. When Tommy was a kitten he had suffered a broken right hip. A physical check revealed this animal had the scar.

Woods still wouldn't believe It. He called the woman in California who was supposed to be taking care of Tommy. She said the cat had disappeared a few days after she was put into the mail some days ago. Woods and his family were in Oklahoma. They had moved there from Gage, but decided they preferred their Oklahoma farm.

Woods was firm with his children. Tommy would stay in California. They just had to take their arrangements were made to leave Tommy in good hands and the Woods drove back to the Sooner state.

But they hadn't checked with Tommy.

When the cat disappeared the new owners made a thorough search, decided he had been killed, and didn't write Woods fearing the children might take it too hard. Then Tommy showed up and the children had all but forgotten their pet. Then:

"Meowrrr!!!"

These Dollars But Inflated But in Flight

SEATTLE (AP)—A trouble-shooting crew cut down its 100th or so kite of 1953 from a power line today and found concrete proof of the soaring dollar.

Six silver dollars had been used as weights on the kite's tail.

The young owner, Dick Fiits, 12, didn't see anything strange about it. He got 'em back, didn't he? And they were all I had for weights."

Heart Ailments Killed 1,321 In Ontario in Feb.

TORONTO (CP)—Heart disease was the leading cause of death in Ontario during February.

A provincial report on vital statistics showed that heart disease claimed 1,321 victims during February, more than the total for the next three leading causes combined.

Cancer was responsible for 327 deaths, other organic diseases killed 197 persons and violent and accidental deaths were fourth with 187.

UAW to Tighten Communist Ban

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Leaders of the CIO United Auto Workers readied a new weapon today aimed at ousting any Communists or sympathizers within the union's 1,350,000 membership.

A constitutional amendment prepared for presentation to the UAW's international convention would make it easier to prove a member is a Communist and thus ineligible to hold office in the union.

The auto workers was one of the first to bar Communists—Nazis and Fascists, too—from its offices. But has found it difficult to prove, under the present provision, that any particular member is a Communist or subservient to the party.

Furious Conductor Shouts at Audience

MANCHESTER, Eng. (CP) — Conductor Sir John Barbirolli stopped the music Sunday night when he got fed up with applauding too soon.

He turned on the spectators, furiously waving his baton, and shouted: "Shut up; Shut up!"

He then took the Halle orchestra back over the final four bars which the applause had drowned out.

1,000 CANADIANS HEAD FOR KOREA FOR DUTY TOUR

Will Replace 1st Batt. Of Royal 22nd Regt.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than 1,000 Canadian soldiers today were travelling across Canada by train headed for a one-year tour of duty with the 25th brigade in Korea.

With official and family quarantine ringing in their ears, they left training camps at Valcartier, Que., and Petawawa, Ont., during the weekend for a west coast embarkation point.

"You will do well," Said Defence Minister Claxton to the 3rd battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, which will replace the regiment's 1st battalion.

At Petawawa the 81st Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, and 23rd infantry workshop of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers paraded before Maj.-Gen. H. A. Sparling, acting chief of general staff. He told the men he is confident they will uphold the reputation gained by Canadian troops in Korea.

Mrs. Claxton gave the Royal 22nd men—both French- and English-speaking officers and men from many provinces—that they were "an example of the unity of the people of Canada."

"You will come back a short time from now, with a much greater reputation earned in action," he said.

About 60 of the infantry battalion are returning to action in Korea for the second time. The unit is commanded by Lt.-Col. J. G. (Tony) Spence.

The first Field Artillery Regiment which left Petawawa is commanded by Lt.-Col. W. H. Storrie, 40, of Hranford, Ont. The infantry workshop unit is led by Maj. V. V. Bethel, 36, of Winnipeg.

Mr. Claxton praised the Royal 22nd battalion for being the first Canadian unit to go overseas at full strength since the end of the war.

A sudden attack of appendicitis, however, put the 81st Field Regiment without its quartermaster, Capt. Noel Hall of Fredericton, N. B., and Picton, Ont., was successfully operated on and will be sent to Korea later when he recovers.

Urges Widening Divorce Grounds

TORONTO (CP)—The idea that a marriage has ceased to exist when the partners are not living together was suggested Sunday by Hugh Cartwright of Kingston as the basis of a reformed divorce law.

Speaking to the Diveree Reform Association, which later changed its name to the Marriage Law Reform Association, Mr. Cartwright said he supported the principle for a specific period should be the sole grounds for divorce in Canada.

He said he thought divorce laws should be placed within the jurisdiction of the provinces. If this were done, it might be possible to have a divorce law similar to the English law of 1937, which recognized desertion for three years grounds for divorce.

In Canada, adultery is the sole grounds for divorce, except in Nova Scotia, where cruelty also is accepted.

White Rulers Tighten Grip On South Africa to Meet Challenge of Negro Millions

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—White rulers are tightening their grip on the key British African territories south of the Sahara in the face of challenges by Negro millions.

Fear, suspicion and often death, stalk South, Central and East Africa. For the white voters or these countries, hard decisions are imminent.

South Africans vote April 15 in a general election to settle whether Prime Minister Daniel Malan's government will get a new five-year mandate to carry on a bold but stern policy of race separation.

Malan pictures the choice for the ruling South African as this: continued dominance of non-whites, or extinction.

Decide on April 9

Southern Rhodesians decide April 9 in a referendum whether to join a project for a Central African Federation with the colony of Northern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Nyasaland.

Rhodesian spokesmen say privately that CAF—sponsored by the British government—in time would become a pro-British bastion in British Africa, as are Australia and South Africa may have northwards.

East African governments must choose between using purely military power to crush Mau Mau terrorism, means to restore peace to the fertile Kenyan farmlands where Mau Mau tribesmen are terrorizing the colonists.

Governments in some of these regions have taken on wide new powers to crush any show of political dissent, or open resistance.

Can Proclaim Emergency

The Malan government supported by the main opposition party got parliamentary authority to suspend most South African laws whenever "public safety" demands it. It now has the authority to proclaim a state of emergency, withdraw civil rights, ban newspapers, set up concentration camps, confiscate property and flog and jail passive resisters and their supporters.

Since 1951, Justice Minister C. R. Swart has more than doubled the size of the country's police force. The South African police force. An estimated 20,000 men now has the job of hunting down elements considered subversive under broad terms of an act outlawing communism.

In the Rhodesias and Nyasaland, civil authorities are standing by to deal with any demonstrations against CAF that may come from the 6,000,000 Negroes.

Rank Troops in Kenya

Britain rushed two battalions of infantry to Kenya this month to help local authorities cope with Mau Mau.

This secret society of Negro terrorists, vowed to drive the whites out of the country, was said to be stockpiling arms from farmlands into crowded towns.

Disorder and instability in Africa south of the Sahara have doubtedly weakens Western interest in the area, as a bulwark against Communism. For those vast tracts of land, immense, lumbiands, mountains and deserts, where 3,000,000 whites rule more than 160,000,000 blacks, form more than a manpower reservoir.

They have forth such minerals as manganese, diamonds, copper, gold, thorium, vanadium and uranium.

What's more, should the Allies fight a third war, South Africa would be an essential refueling station and workshop.

British Press Urges Western World to Take Cautious Nibble Of New Peace Bait by Russia

LONDON (AP) — All sections of the British press today urge the Western world to take a cautious nibble at the new peace bait held out by Soviet Russia.

The general tone of editorials in newspapers of the political right, left, and centre is: "What can we lose?"

"The final hope of the world," says the Conservative Daily Telegraph, "lies in a sensible arrangement between the East and West, even if friendship cannot be achieved.

We must welcome talking peace before we can assume peace.

"The West has nothing to lose by meeting these gestures halfway and has a reasonable chance of success."

The Liberal, middle-of-the-road News Chronicle says: "Anything may merely be trying to head off Soviet set-backs in the West, but at a time of uncertainty in the Soviet Union caused by the death of Joseph Stalin, it is right.

"We are not warmongers, and we have no illusions about Russia. We can not even doubt where our policy must lie. It must be to encourage every Soviet proposal for peace. It must be to explore with all necessary caution every new proposition offered."

The Socialist Daily Herald comments:

"So great is the longing for peace among the people of the world that there is a natural eagerness to look for a change in Soviet policy.

"But it is not necessary for us to rely on guesswork. The real chance for diplomatic action, if such exists, can be put to a test. Now and then we have had a chance to talk to the initiative.

"The most obvious course would be to seek a fresh negotiation over four-power conference on that subject proved abortive last year. But why should the effort not now be renewed?"

The ultra-Conservative Yorkshire Post says real hopes that Russia may seek some kind of peaceful understanding with the West. It says:

"The first question to ask is whether the new Soviet manifestations is in the Russian interest. The answer must be that it is assuredly is.

"For years the Russian people have been hard driven. It is certain that the pace is beginning to tell.

"It is also certain that virtually every Russian family has suffered cruel losses during the war and that the fear of a new war is the embracing emotion over the Soviet Union.

"Any check revealed this animal had the cash and four.

40,000 Fail To See Zoo's New Arrival

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty thousand visitors flowed through the Bronx zoo Sunday but neither they nor the zoo attendants noticed the day's most important event.

A doe gave birth to a fawn of the "Pere David" variety, a rare kind originally smuggled out of China by a French missionary, Father David, in 1865.

Several hours later the fawn was born an attendant noticed it.

Seek Injunction To Save Chicks

TORONTO (CP)—An injunction brought by the Swift Canadian Company of Stratford is scheduled to take place here today over whether the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO) can picket during the company's non-union hatchery.

The hearing involves 500,000 chicks which are due shortly to break from their shells in the company's Stratford hatchery.

Some 60 of the company's packing-house employees, members of the unions' Local 307, struck March 5 for higher wages. They began to picket the Swift hatchery which is located in the same packing house and which employs non-union workers.

Their picketing made it impossible for company employees to get to their jobs and the hatchery was closed last week in the building. Sixteen thousand eggs destroyed and another 18,000 distributed to Stratford-district farmers.

The company's motion for an injunction against the hatchery workers was based on its contention that, since the union is not certified to represent the hatchery employees, its picketing of the building is illegal.

COMPLETE WITH GHOST

LENHAM, England (CP)—"Attractions" of a 15th-century house on sale here for £7,500 include two ghosts—a monk and a little old woman—and a spectral party of 17th century gay blades driving a coach and four.

RENT CONTROLS MAY BE OFF BY MARCH 2, 1954

Select Committee Makes New Recommendation

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario legislature committee today recommended the government discontinue all rent controls by March 2, 1954.

The recommendation enables the government to prepare legislation during the current session. If it is passed, the question of rent control will be left to the municipalities.

The select committee voted 4 to 1 in favor of the move. T. D. Thompson (PC—Grey-Bruce), was the single dissenter. Mayor A. J. Reaume of Windsor, Liberal member for Essex north, was absent.

Committee chairman C. G. MacOdrum, Progressive - Conservative member for Leeds, said decontrol would probably result in a slight increase, followed by a levelling off of rents.

Mr. Thomas said the province was better equipped to handle rent control machinery. After the meeting he said he had no prior knowledge of the government's intention of dropping rent control.

Expected Decision

"I'm very much opposed to it," he said. "It's undesireable to have such legislation without representations. The provincial government is taking it out of the field and it doesn't care if some municipalities take over or not."

Only 218 of the 538 municipalities in the province still have controls, but the list includes almost all of the larger centres.

Mr. MacOdrum said the decision, supported by representations interposed from the belief that decontrols would stimulate housing without any adverse effect on rents. Experience in Detroit had shown little change in rents when controls were lifted, he said.

Favors Changeover

Liberal Member Cecile, also a member of the committee, said more accommodation became available in his city of Hawkesbury when controls were lifted.

Mr. MacOdrum said municipal councils would have sufficient time by March, 1954, to get their own organizations if they wished to retain controls.

2,500 African Tribesmen Held After One Raid

NAIROBI, Kenya, (Reuters)—More than 2,500 African tribesmen were arrested in one raid Sunday by hundreds of troops and police armed with rifles and the shanty town of Pumwani.

The operation was one of the biggest mass raids during the Mau Mau emergency, which began two years ago.

Pumwani is a slum area where robberies and tribesmen were arrested.

Police, including Europeans, looting and robberies at Pumwani in the last few months has terrorized the teeming two-mile square area where an estimated 15,000 people live.

The entire area was sealed off by barbed wire and police, supported by radio cars, spread through narrow streets and alleyways, to arrest a number of Mau Mau terrorist leaders and thugs were believed to be hiding.

Pretty Colleens Begin Drawing Tickets For Grand National Chase on Saturday

DUBLIN (AP)—A huge melon of $4,202,746 will be cut up in Irish sweepstakes prizes, it was disclosed today as pretty colleens began drawing lucky tickets for the big annual hospital benefit.

The lottery, biggest in the years, provides for 12 first prizes of $140,000 each.

One of the first tickets drawn, on the Horse Yonder Hill, was held by Harry Wagner of New York city.

With the records of the last quarter-century as a guide, authorities expect some 60 per cent of the prize money to go into American pockets.

The biggest comes on the winners of the British Grand National horse racing classic at Aintree, England, next Saturday.

For three days the pretty Irish girls in nurses uniforms have been mixing up the more than 3,000,000 tickets sold from the Dublin and Africa to Times Square and on Australian farms.

The sweepstakes is supervised by the Irish government and the net profits—about 25 per cent of the total take—going to Irish hospitals.

Approximately 2,000 lucky ticketholders stand to win anywhere from $28 to the big $140,000 prize.

Since the sweeps started in 1930, more than $12,000,000 have been handed out in prizes.

The favorite in the Grand National this year is Lucky Dome, with Early Mist and Whispering Steel ranked high.

Prizes can go to the holders of tickets on any of the 24 entrants in the race, whether they run or not. The original favorite, Teal, was put a third in the list might be good for as much as $500.

Having Babies Mar. 14 Habit, Three in Row

CINCINNATI (CP)—Reporters didn't find out about it until Sunday, but Mrs. Reva Harvey may claim a new sort of record.

The 37-year-old housewife is to leave today with her newest baby.

Nothing unusual about that—except that its her third child in three years, and all have been born in March 14.

All three children were delivered by caesarean section.

Mrs. Harvey and her husband Clarence, also have another child, Patricia, 10, who was born before Mrs. Harvey got the March 14 habit.

Three Prisoners Killed Trying To Break Jail

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Three prisoners died here Sunday in a fiery struggle to break out of the Tarrant County jail.

"We're going for blood and death," Sheriff Lon Evans Jr. quoted the self-chosen leader of seven desperate convicts as they fled their cells.

Minutes later the jailbreak-gunfight and two others were fatally shot and a fourth seriously wounded by a shotgun blast. Two escaped and two emptied two pistols into them.

The bloody jailbreak was an unsuccessful re-enactment of a daring escape Feb. 18 from the same jail of 30 prisoners, including Floyd Hill, Alcatraz parole breaker, only two of whom fled.

Three of those in Sunday's attempt had been recaptured after the February break.

Killed instantly by chief turnkey W. J. Fouse was Bobby Baker, 18, indicted for armed robbery. Lloyd Lockhart, 21, and Charles Eldridge and Baker's confederate in the earlier break, died minutes later.

Sheriff Evans, a World War I sniper, also was fatally wounded.

BUDDING FUN MAKER

The role of clown is by far the most difficult and exacting type of entertainment. Last evening the Children's Fair at Queen Victoria School was highlighted by Billie Foster, a 14-year-old, whose superb personification of "Mr. Clown," thrilled both old and young alike, keeping the large assembly in gales of laughter.

WILL NAME MEMBERS IN NEAR FUTURE

Two "other ranks" members will represent the 9th Anti Tank Regiment, RCA (AL) at the Coronation this year, it was announced over the week-end. The two reserve army members will join up the Canadian contingent and will go into special training for the event in April.

Major Everett S. Fairman, regimental second-in-command, said today the members will be named in the immediate future.

Warning Period Has Expired Says Dog Catcher

The warning period is over and from here in the life of a dog is going to be tough in Belleville.

This was stated today by city dog catcher Charles Thorn, who said that no more warnings will be given for dogs running at large.

"I am tired of complaining dogs upsetting garbage pails and digging up lawns," the dog catcher stated. "From here in all dogs found running at large will be picked up and owners will receive a summons."

The dog catcher noted that a city by-law calls for all dogs to be tied or kept on a leash.

At the same time Mr. Thorn urged dog owners to get their dog tags at the city hall. Sales of dog licenses show that the tags have been slow, it was stated.

Muskrat Season In this District Opened Friday

The general concensus of muskrat trappers that the "run" will be over before they can begin operations, has resulted in approximately one-fifth of the number of licenses issued last year, being sold to the present moment.

In some parts of the district early disappearance of ice has suggested that muskrat are in number; or trappers asked for an earlier opening date. Lord and Forest officials, however, said that difficulty in localizing areas and the necessity of centered on short notice were the main reasons for making the original season opened March 20.

The majority of inland waters are ice covered and trappers in the main seemed satisfied with the present dates.

3-Month Period Of Fine Weather Is Predicted

A three-month period of fine weather is in store if the prophecy of a local weather prognosticator holds true.

Eddie Thomas, local tobacconist, quoted a farmer friend, who claims that the weather experienced during the first three days of the beginning of the season controls the weather for the three-month period.

He says this was borne out the time of the winter spiders in December, when during the first three days of the month the weather was very mild with only a trace of snow. An exceptionally mild winter was experienced with very little snow.

If the same holds true for the spring equinox we will be in for a very pleasant spring.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States dollar was at a discount of 1 29-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon Friday. Friday's noon rate was 96 5-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.76 5-16 against $2.76¾.

Man Offers Body As Shield Is Badly Burned

SHARON, Ont. (CP)—A man who firemen fighting a farm blaze here Saturday was credited with saving at least one life was burned as drums exploded.

Georg Green of nearby Holt and fired burns to the back, legs and head, and is in hospital with severe shock.

Fireman Lieut. John Gibson of Newmarket said:

"I owe my life to that man. I was facing right into the place where the barrel of stove oil exploded. There were about 25 of us close to it but Green took the full force in his back."

He explained that Green shielded him with his body while the fireman climbed a boss on the flames which destroyed a back kitchen and wood shed on the farm of Ken Pinder. The blast threw the two men 25 feet and Green's clothes caught fire.

Sharon is 31 miles north of Toronto.

Report of Blast Near Big Bridge Is Investigated

GRAND ISLAND, N.Y. (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard, the Niagara Falls fire department and police of two counties Sunday night investigated a report of an "explosion" near the North Grand Island bridge over the Niagara River.

No one was able to say what had happened.

The bridge connects Grand Island with the city of Niagara Falls.

Joseph Pisiere, who lives near the river in Niagara Falls, said he heard two loud noises, the first louder than the second. He said a bright light illuminated the neighborhood.

Pisiere said he saw debris floating in the water afterward.

Authorities checked all airports in the area, but no airplanes were reported missing.

Contemplate Sickness Benefits Through Jobless Insurance

By JOHN LEKLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Extension of unemployment insurance to provide limited coverage for sickness may be launched by the government at the current session of Parliament.

Insurance benefit payments now are paid only to unemployed workers available for jobs, but a plan now being studied would extend payments to persons who become ill after being put out of work for reasons other than illness.

The proposal would not extend the existing period of benefit payments, which can run up to a maximum of a year. Neither would it provide coverage for persons becoming sick while at work.

A major aspect of the plan is that it would not involve increases to the contributions made by employers and employees to the unemployment insurance fund. Government officials said the $58,000,000 fund can stand any drain that would result from the scheme.

The proposals have not been placed before cabinet, it was learned, but is still under study by officials of the unemployment insurance commission and other interested departments. It has been understood to have reached the point where a series of tentative amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act have been drafted.

The move would represent a compromise with the views of organized labor, which for some time has been pressing the government for straight unemployment insurance benefits for workers who leave the job because of sickness.

Informed quarters said there is no chance of this bigger change in the unemployment insurance setup this session, various reasons. One is that it is regarded as verging on health insurance—which the government is studying separately—and another is that it would require an amendment to the British North America Act with the consent of the provinces.

Even on the limited proposal, officials said, there is still no certainty that it is strictly within the government's power. It would be amended originally for the passage of the Unemployment Insurance Act. This point is under study by government legal experts.

However, there appeared to be an inclination on the part of labor minister Mitchell to draft the plan can be put through cabinet in time for introduction at this session—to try it out and take it to the voters' challenges. If it cannot be done at this session, there would be time for consultations with the provinces where a series of tentative amend-later.

Bugler at Nine Kingston Man, 32, Is Youngest RSM

PETAWAWA, Ont. (CP) — A 32-year-old soldier who went into uniform at the tender age of nine is the regimental sergeant-major of the 81st Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, which left camp here Saturday bound for Korea.

He is E. Fournier, a native of Kingston, Ont., is the youngest RSM in the Royal Canadian Army today.

His mother was a bugler in the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Years later he was his paratrooper's wings as senior non-commissioned officer in the famed 1st light paratroop battery of the RCHA.

His prowess as a crack parachute square perfectionist is widespread. For the 1953 visit of Princess Elizabeth to Canada, he trained a trivservice guard of honor for the city of Winnipeg.

His wife, the former Margaret MacDonald, also comes from Kingston. They have two children. His father, Lieut.-Col. Fournier of Kingston is a retired veteran of 20 years' service in the permanent army.

X-Ray Assists In Identifying Wanted Robber

NEW YORK (CP)—An X-ray taken by a dentist before his patient robbed him was used by police to identify the robber.

They arrested Thomas Rivers, 22, Sunday on charges of assault and attempted robbery.

Police said that at least four dentists found themselves looking down the barrel of a gun before they finished examining Rivera's teeth. The robberies netted $400.

However, in one case, they said, Rivers made the mistake of permitting the dentist to make an x-ray of his teeth before the robbery.

They found Rivers from a key chain lost in a scuffle during one of the robberies, then made positive identification by the x-ray.

Boat Enthusiasts Seen Tuning Up Crafts on River

TRENTON, (Special)—Signs of summer.

Yesterday boat racing enthusiasts were out on the river for their first tune-up trials of the season.

Ted coakcrriey, Bayfax is at the dock here being refitted for summer schedule. The carrier which tied-up here during the winter months for fire fire on April 18, with Captain Bob McKeen at the wheel.

Particular grass fire eliminated the sky north of the golf course last night attracting crowds of people to see. The fire was checked by the town fire department but allowed to burn out because there was nothing in the path of the flames to damage.

Golfers from Belleville and Trenton unofficially opened the golfing season here Sunday. The ladies among the first to take to the course were: Mrs. Alex Wilfather, Mrs. Walter of Kingston, Mrs. Jim Uttley and Mrs. Harold Bird.

Male hardies - Included: Fred Goldberg, Clarence Burley, Bill Irving, E. Ayres, Jack of Trenton and Hank Ryan and Garfield Anderson of Belleville.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ryan of Murphy Street, were visited over the week-end by relatives from Prescott, Ont., Mr. Edith Scott, Richard Scott, Mr. and Mrs. "Zek" Hardisty and daughter Linda.

Messrs. Cyril Holland and Mike Girard of Belleville visited relatives in Trenton during the week-end.

BANCROFT SOLDIER ON SURVEY PARTY

Cpl. E. L. Tanner, Bancroft, is one of a Canadian Army group of soldier-surveyors who will chart still-unmapped regions of Canada this summer Army Headquarters has announced. The men take to the field in widely scattered areas some time in May.

Residents Enjoy Beautiful Spring Day on Sunday

It looks from here as though the March lamb will definitely get a twist in the Lion's tail. Weather over the week-end was all that could be desired to usher in the official season of Winter-weary citizens revelled in temperatures of 59 degrees on Sunday. Today it is slightly less.

Warm zephyrs started the fishing and "green thumb" bugs working. Motorists took advantage of the ideal weather and the highway did a roaring traffic, figuratively, as well as literally, from almost dawn till dark.

The weather will be cooler tomorrow, according to the weatherman, but nothing to be worried about.

Some of the fair sex took the opportunity to don their new spring toggery just in case the weather decided to usher in a little winter for the annual Easter parade. Proud Easter bud its color as maidens and matrons flashed the new garb.

Down Napanee way two young boys took spring by the forelock and splashed in the water to their hip happiness in the Napanee river. The fact they were in their "birthday suit" didn't appear to bother them much, albeit they spied a few of the fair spectators came their way.

The feathered birdies inhabitants are arriving. A robin that makes its nest in a tree on a Campbell St. residence is back right on the dot Saturday afternoon. For the past few years it has taken up its summer residence on March 21st, and this year marked the third straight appearance shortly after 4 p.m.

The "little harbingers" also here and it is expected the swallows will make their appearance within the next day or so.

Tulips are pushing green snouts through the thawing earth and it won't be long before the crocus announces its arrival.

Looks like "Spring has come."

POLICE BLOTTER

Property damage amounting to approximately $400 resulted Saturday night in two cars crash at the intersection of Bridge Street and Highland Avenue.

Clifford Kestrick, Trenton, was driving east through the town and stopped for the stop sign, when his car was struck by a westbound car driven by Harold Mack, Sidney Street. Keck's car was damaged to the extent of about $125 while it will cost about $250 to repair the Detrick auto.

Leo Carr, 54, 152 Dundas Street, East, alighted from a taxi on a public street in front of the vehicle was struck on the leg by a passing truck.

Mrs. Ashton of Trenton, was struck by a bicycle on Upper Church Street. She suffered a bruised ankle and was taken to hospital for first aid treatment and allowed to go home.

A number of family quarrels came to the attention of officers over the week-end. As result of one quarrel a 17-year-old man was taken to hospital after reportedly drinking some lysol. His condition today was reported as satisfactory.

City Delegation To Meet Officials Respecting Bridge

A delegation from Belleville city council will seek a hearing with Ontario Premier Leslie Frost and Highways Minister George Doucett regarding construction of the new Moira bridge across the mouth of the Moira River at the Canadian Pacific Railways bridge.

Alderman Robert Temple as chairman of the city traffic committee, said that W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P., would arrange this meeting some time after the present session of parliament closes. Included in the delegation from Belleville would be Mayor A. M. Hulz, Alderman Temple and possibly the city engineer.

Need for another bridge across the Moira, linking east and west Dundas Streets, has been recognized for many years as many years as a means of reducing the traffic congestion in the downtown area. All through traffic on Dundas Street, Trenton through the city could be routed over such a bridge.

The local traffic committee at a meeting held last week recommended that parking on the north side of Queen Street between Front and William, and the east side of George St. from Bridge to Victoria.

All recommendations for no parking were made with the view of making the streets more available for fire fighting equipment.

Parking meters were recommended moved from the west side of Pinnacle St. immediately north of Bridge St. to the northerly limits of the Bell Telephone Co. building. This would permit two lanes of traffic to approach Bridge St. Parking meters would be utilized by placing them in front of the old fireball on Front Street.

Quebec Police Suspect Murder as Skull Found

QUEBEC (CP)Provincial police investigating the discovery of a man's skull Saturday in woods north of Quebec City hinted today there may have been foul play in his death.

Under the carried marks which indicated the man's head may have been struck by a blunt instrument, police today refused to estimated the unidentified man was in his late 30's when he died several months ago.

Volley Ball Champs At St. Mikes Given Ken Colling Trophy

The regular monthly meeting of St. Michael's High School P.T.A. was held in the school auditorium on Monday evening, with the president, Mr. H. O'Neill in the chair.

After the opening by the Very Rev. Dean Garvin, the president introduced Mr. Ken Colling, who presented the Ken Colling memorial trophy to the St. Michael's high school team as volley ball champions of the Central Ontario district. Mr. Bisland congratulated the boys and wished them success in the tournament in Hamilton on Saturday.

On behalf of the team, Doug Foley received the trophy and expressed appreciation to Mr. Bisland.

An interesting panel discussion on the booklet, "Safe at Home," was conducted by Sister Teresa and Mr. H. Brown and several members expressed their opinion on the best way to make a happy, safe home for children, so that they can go from it and take their place in the world as good citizens of the church and state.

It was decided that the P.T.A. sponsor a bus to take the boys to Hamilton for the volley ball tournament on Saturday and also a bus for girls, who went to Kingston on Thursday.

Sister Teresa and Mr. O'Neill were appointed delegates to the Easter convention of Parent-Teacher Association in Toronto.

Two Passengers Disappear After Taxi Crashes

A local taxi with two passengers aboard wound up on its top in a cemetery Saturday night when the vehicle went out of control, ripped through the graveyard fence and tipped over four gravestones.

Driver of the taxi, Bert Storey, 164 Ann Street, Trenton Memorial Hospital with a lacerated ear and neck injuries, but his two passengers have not yet been located.

Storey was returning to Belleville from Trenton, when at White's cemetery, east of the air station, his car went out of control. It ripped out a 30-foot section of the graveyard fence, then did a end-over flip, and landed on its top. Four gravestones were tipped over and smashed. The car was a complete wreck.

Two soldiers riding in a bus said they pulled two passengers out of the overturned taxi, while a policeman, the lawyers, pulled the driver out. When police got to the scene the passengers had disappeared. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constables McNutt and Fullerton.

WE SHOULD KNOW, THESE DIFFERENCES

At a time when many understandable words have lost their real meanings, it is a sad fact that many of us who believe in the difference between the free democratic way of life are apt to be rather vague about it if we are taxed to define democracy. This vagueness is more to be regretted when we have on the Communists completely distort all the meanings which have been associated with the word since it blossomed from the seeds of individual freedom centuries ago.

It was with this in mind that the directors of the American Association of University Women recently set out the contrasting definitions between democracy and totalitarianism. With the need for attacking communism on the broadest possible scale there is first a need of understanding what we are for, and what we are against.

The Journal of the Association sets it out in these terms: "The problem we face is not simple but the basic issue is clear. If we are to hold fast to our most cherished values as a free people we must preserve both freedom and nationhood. If we do not, the totalitarian means to fight communism or fascism is a threat to freedom and democracy. We are against it. The differences between democracy and totalitarian values are clear. Let us list some of them":

Democracy stands for:	Totalitarianism stands for:
Importance of the individual	Will of the people
Freedom of thought	Ideal of integrity
Free press and radio	Freedom of opposition
Recognition of the right of non-conformists	Trust in education
Citizens free to read and listen	The search for truth
Individual action	Parties based on differing concepts and secret ballot
Officials accountable to the people	The open door
Presumption of innocence until proved guilty	Right of accused to know charges and accuser
Right of appeal to courts	Change by education and persuasion
Co-operation among nations

Totalitarianism stands for:
Supreme importance of the state
Will of the "leader"
Thought control
Any means to gain the end
Controlled press and radio
Ruthless liquidation of opposition
Denunciation and character assassination of non-conformists
Trust in propaganda
Citizens forbidden to read and listen
The teachings of the "big lie"
The "party line"
Controlled single party ballot
Official acceptance of the party
Secret police and secret trials
Assumption of guilt without trial
Accused held without knowledge of charges or accuser
Infiltration and boring from within Revolution by force, intimidation and liquidation
World conquest by force.

MEETING THE TAX DEADLINE

For the average Canadian who is concerned with making out his annual income tax return this annual chore is no great headache. In most cases, the wage and salary deductions at the source cover the amount of the tax and might even bring a refund. The American citizen in the same income category finds the income tax deadline brings a complicated problem in accounting, but it also brings many relief exemptions unheard of in Canada.

In the United States the basic taxing principle is that you do not pay tax on any part of your income which has been taken out previously in taxes of various kinds. This means that residence taxes, sales taxes, automobile taxes, gasoline taxes, liquor and tobacco taxes may be deducted.

The individual is also allowed to claim exemption for certain expenses in the maintenance of his position in business. Lawyers, who have a so-called "secular" worker's faced with greater expense than the man in overalls, yet the latter may make as much or more than the white-collar employee, find exemptions are permitted.

Entertainment expenses are also permitted on a much more liberal and more widely-applicable scale than in Canada.

It is understandable then that for weeks before the April 30 deadline the average American is in a frenzied scramble, comparing notes with friends and discovering new ways of piling up the exemption total. Naturally this situation provides a field day for the tax expert, genuine or alleged, and there are apparently to be found everywhere at this time. Most people seek them out, and for the very good reason that they have nothing to lose. Even the fee paid to the expert is deductible as a tax-incurred expense.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1953, Edgar A. Guest)

MYSELF

I have to live with myself and so
I want to be fit for myself to know.
I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye.
I don't want to stand, with the setting sun,
And hate myself for the things I've done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf
A lot of secrets about myself,
And fool myself, as I come and go,
Into thinking that nobody else will know
The kind of a man I really am.
I don't want to dress up myself in sham.

I want to go out with my head held high,
I want to deserve all men's respect;
But here is the struggle for fame and self
I want to be able to like myself.
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I never can hide myself from me;
I see what others may never see;
I know what others may never know
I never can fool myself, and so,
Whatever happens, I want to be
Self-respecting and conscience free.

Here is an interesting item from our file copy of this date 1872: "John Shaver, of Belleville, has been awarded $32,200 by the British and American Claims Commission, now sitting in Washington for the settlement of American fortresses in the early part of the late rebellion. The claim entered was for $100,000 damages." The solicitor was Mr. A. Diamond of this town."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is literally shocking to come back to Canadian driving and traffic conditions after a few weeks in the western and southern states. Those of us who have a poor opinion of American driving manners as a result of visiting the northern border cities are in for a profound surprise when we go a little deeper into the United States.

The first criterion is, of course, the car horn. You can travel for days in Louisiana, Texas or New Mexico without ever hearing a horn blow. Nobody ever rushes up behind you and scolds you out of the way with quaky blasts. It is not the exception but the rule to have drivers slow down and courteously wave you across when you are attempting a left-hand turn. Lest you might think that I am basing this impression on experiences as a tourist, wearing a foreign license plate on my car, I should mention that I'm a resident of Texas with a Texas license I was driving. Could it be that everybody down there is just naturally respectful to Texans?

I think not. There was a sort of leisure, a mannerly bearing on the part of everybody, from the big car drivers down to the colored boys driving pick-ups, which I found positively eerie. No scene it commanded it. For I was told the truth, which is the reason for the matter that it is the police who have absolute control of the traffic problem; and no alderman or commissioner or any politician at all. Their job is one of attending with the strict application of the traffic regulations. In Tucson, Arizona, for example, they erect right down the middle of every street, within a few blocks of schools, a set of vertical markers which, when you touch them, reduce speed to fifteen miles an hour. Stop for children crossing."

And that's all there is to it. Tucson has not the slightest trace of that high respect we have for aldermen who, among other things, have no authority for them. School zones or no school hours, Sundays and week days, they all look alike and one of these fifteen mile markers, you slow to fifteen. And if there are children crossing, you stop. Just plain stop! And the minimum fine for reducing a fifteen mile is $25! more if you went much faster than fifteen. And I am told there isn't a politician in the state who would risk the public uproar if he tried to meddle with this iron rule.

What they have realized, down south, is that there are several things besides motor cars and trucks in the world. Up here, we have still not developed to them, think they are the world's wonder, and get big ideas the minute we step into a car, on a definite shock to cause back to the room, when, we must give place of our Canadian driving manners.

Watch Your Language

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Mont Pollick, the British MP who left the Indie Parliament and out is distinguished chiefly for seeking a spelling reform in the English language, has introduced another bill at Westminster on this subject. The bill is intended to meet the problem of "backward reading" in Britain. It was estimated in a recent report of the Minister of Education that 30 per cent of the children who were 15 years of age in 1945 were in this category.

Under the bill an investigation would be made of simplified English spelling to see whether it could help children to read properly without prescribing their return to existing spelling later on in life.

Mr. Pollick argued that few things are in greater need of reform than English spelling. He found weak spots everywhere. A few examples will do. The word "double" for instance. What is the "b" doing there? The word comes from the Latin "duplus." But somewhere along the line the "b" has crept in. So the same category is "trouble."

Mr. Pollick brings his spelling reform project up in the British House from time to time as opportunity offers. Some months ago there was a debate on naval estimates, and he pointed out that was that a simplification of spelling would aid naval signalling.

At the time Mr. Pollick named "receipt" as a very bad offender. "Receipt" they, but not deceit and conceipt? Better still, how about pronouncing "guide" as "gyde" together! The "b" in "doubt" deserved a similar fate.

But Z. K. Hampton, Foster Avenue, will celebrate tomorrow the 90th anniversary of her birth. She is in good health and possesses all her faculties, being able to read and read. She has resided on Foster Ave., just south of Bridge St., since 1876.

Getting Notices

(Ottawa Journal)

Time was when in order to get a Canadian item in the U.S. press somebody among us had to go and have quintuplets.

The UK news was not much better. Apart from the London Times the Manchester Guardian and the London Daily Telegraph a Canadian item in a British newspaper was as rare as a horse and buggy in Bond Street.

All that has changed. Impossible today to pick up an American or UK newspaper or magazine or weekly review without shrieking headlines or some sort of a piece about Canada.

Right now on our desk are two major examples: "Canada, the Expanding Economy" in the famous London Economist, and "What's Going on in Canada" which is the first of three articles in the equally famous Saturday Evening Post. Both pieces, the British and the publication in which they appear, are excellent factual presentations, undoubtedly, are good for Canada.

It's not entirely without danger.

Most of us are familiar with the provincial football player who is too inclined to judge himself by his press clippings and discovers too late on the playing field that this system of self-appraisal can be wrong.

That can happen to a country, too. Canadians could read so much about themselves and their country in magazines and papers to leave their heads turned and their feet planted on something which would not be good.

And, to tell the truth, we are not quite as rich or as footloose or as powerful as our publicity not quite as rich or as footloose or as powerful as our publicity agents are trying to make out. We have great resources, a great deal of wealth in waters and earth, but there is much to be done before we can become relatively distribute them, and there are some difficulties and problems even which we are not lacking to do well, if indeed we are tackling them at all.

Finally it takes more to build a truly great nation than riches in soil or sea. If we forget this last, then all the great expansive publicity in all the publications of the earth will save us from being lost.

Lady, Here's A Seat

(London Times)

A sturdy little boy, carrying the day's bag in his satchel, was protesting recently in public against the bad manners of grown-ups who push him aside in the queue when he is sent out to shop for his mother. He was the kind of mountain scenery. Mankind was never adequately inspired as when it made a cathedral; a thing as simple and specious as a statue in the first glance, and, on close examination, as lively and interesting as a forest in spring.

Perhaps it was from the forests that men first gained their inspiration for the building of cathedrals! Certainly, there are tree spires in great forests, especially in California, that make me feel I am in a cathedral as I look down upon them from above. To a very great extent, I always feel myself in a cathedral when I contemplate the tree-tops of the forest—God's wonderful outdoor cathedrals.

How tragic has been the wounding of Europe's matchless cathedrals during our own great and abject. Just wanton destruction. How thankful we are that some of them escape and destruction. I love to see simple folk kneeling before them out of a cathedral. A few moments of prayer and meditation there in silence often transform an entire day—perhaps a lifetime!

I wouldn't want to live in a house that resembled either their spires, or steeples, pointing to the blue sky by day and a studded canopy of stars by night. Type them out and the free world would be at an end!

Cure For Snoring

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

At long last someone has come forward with a cure for snoring! If it works it will liberate many lives from the misery to insomnia caused by a husband who snorts and gurgles in his sleep.

The cure is a kind of neck strap, wrapped and distorted by a mouthful bandage, may be carried and wives may be able to relax into blissful sleep after years of nocturnal agitation and of peacefully sleeping spouse.

Dr. Harold Ellis Barnes, former professor of medicine at the Mayo Clinic, thinks the space for breathing at the base of the tongue needs to be well open, full of free air, for quiet breathing.

To accomplish this he does not propose surgery but the mere placing of the bandage under the back of the neck so that the head tilts back.

Failing a checkrein to keep the head back is also suggested. This is a strap attached to a soft headband around the head and one around the chest directly under the armpits. Joining these two bands so that the head is held back, the checkrein runs from the corsdant nocturne of the unrefreshed.

Perhaps in Dr. Alvarez's proposal will be found the solution that will mean undisturbed slumber for the other party to the matrimonial partnership.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

THE CASE OF THE CARELESS CONDUCTOR

Newspaper writer who purports to be informing people about sex says a passenger who rode for hours in a railroad car that was not warm enough "caught cold," owing to lowered resistance in consequence of a recent illness. The passenger sued the railroad, and the judge granted passenger's claim in full. The judge said a conductor ought to know that his cars should be kept warm, etc., etc.

That is humorous, if true.

From the very beginning the story, which a reader takes at face me, is farcial. The passenger was reading a newspaper and everything was fine and dandy until, all of a sudden, he "sneezed three times in quick succession." That reminds me. Some one told me the other day that if I were not so unorthodox and so fond of teaching things that are not accepted by the majority of physicians . . .

And then there's a warning to use a powerful antiseptic gargle or spray as soon as possible after you get your feet wet or feel a draft—or find yourself near some one who coughs or sneezes a lot.

It is like the man who achieved prosperous success by sheer perseverance, hard work, thrift and the untimely demise of a rich uncle.

Now, when I sneeze vigorously two or more times I think "Sum, there goes whatever irritant started the reflex from my nose."

CATHEDRALS

There is something awe inspiring about the building of cathedral. For nearly twenty years I have looked down upon them from my high office. I paid additional rent—against the advice of others—to get a view of the waters of the earth, but there is much to be seen above from the point of view of widely distribute them, and there are some difficulties and problems even which we are not lacking to do well, if indeed we are tackling them at all.

Finally it takes more to build a truly great nation than riches in soil or sea. If we forget this last, then all the great expansive publicity in all the publications of the earth will save us from being lost.

I agree with Henry Ward Beecher who once said that you couldn't build a church too beautiful. The grandeur of a great church is an illustration of the beauty of God's creation and Father. In one of his books (Finland "Voyage") Robert Louis Stevenson said this: "I find I never weary of great churches. It is my favorite kind of mountain scenery. Mankind was never adequately inspired as when it made a cathedral; a thing as simple and specious as a statue in the first glance, and, on close examination, as lively and interesting as a forest in spring."

Perhaps it was from the forests that men first gained their inspiration for the building of cathedrals! Certainly, there are tree spires in great forests, especially in California, that make me feel I am in a cathedral as I look down upon them from above. To a very great extent, I always feel myself in a cathedral when I contemplate the tree-tops of the forest—God's wonderful outdoor cathedrals.

How tragic has been the wounding of Europe's matchless cathedrals during our own great and abject. Just wanton destruction. How thankful we are that some of them escape and destruction. I love to see simple folk kneeling before them out of a cathedral. A few moments of prayer and meditation there in silence often transform an entire day—perhaps a lifetime!

I wouldn't want to live in a house that resembled either their spires, or steeples, pointing to the blue sky by day and a studded canopy of stars by night. Type them out and the free world would be at an end!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HOW MUCH BETTER?

In the constellation of Andromeda, there has been a new star discovered by the wife of policemen. It sometimes shows in a jam. Every one is agreed that these children are the most wonderful in the world who are in the pure and mellow, the courtesy and courtesy are incalculable. If no body in the one camp was over 50 and nobody in the other camp 50 all would be well. Unfortunately the width of one's waist and the narrow and frontier clashes between nations.

They can be watched any day in buses and trains. The well-dressed woman who will give place in deference to the lusty veteran workman. Or the courtesy and good reasons for knowing that life begins at 40. Or the courtesy of children who allow a comedy for two characters, swaying and seeking for balance, to pass without laughter by an amused audience that is considerate of the old people.

The really old are sometimes touchy on this matter. Invalids crossed themselves at all the afternoon in the comfort of a club armchair, they may not look forward and aggrieved, in a carriage full of tired and resentful work's workers. There was a resources-ful old reprobate in an overcrowded workman's train who deliberately dug a shawl from the bottom of his capacious trunk and wore it in the dining saloon to shame some inconsiderate youngster sit ter another into letting him get a quick seat for lunch.

But the general entry to be disciplined when those up to whom they look for help in life don't bother. But the old school will argue, the old school will argue, that they do not heard—seen rising and lifted its cap and heard murmuring respectful invitation.

Russians Systematically Denuding Austria of Wealth In Oil and Other Commodities

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—The way under Russia refuses to get out of Austria. Under Soviet occupation, the Russians are systematically denuding the country of its oil wealth—and are snatching its silk stockings and pencils for Russian women and children.

This is a key reason why hundreds of four-power meetings to try to get a state treaty for Austria always have failed.

The Russians plainly are out to take the last shirt of the eastern part of the country—their occupation zone. Two more years and the Russians will have taken the last drop of oil. Since 1945, they have stolen, plundered or cheated Austria out of $1,000,000,000.

U. S. Gives Aid

Meanwhile, the United States has had to give Austria $1,418,000,000 in various aid. If it hadn't, the Allies last week would have collapsed under the Soviet heel.

The Russian robbery of Austria is all-encompassing. Not only do the Soviets take most of the output of 300 factories, but they run a huge illegal black market that nets tremendous profits. On top of that, they supervise a big East - West business that brings in vital war goods for the Soviet bloc.

Income Far Lower

The Soviet exploitation has had this effect: production is way above what it was in 1938, but the average Austrian's income is far lower, he has to pay in taxes for it at the Russian table set.

This is how Russia's colonial empire in Austria works:

From 1945 to 1946, Soviet brigades carried off vast quantities of Austrian machinery, raw materials, textiles and vehicles as war booty. Then they declared they had a right to 70 factories and 120 agricultural properties plus the shipping of the Danube Steamship Company because these were "German assets" — meaning plants which the Nazis had seized before the Russians got to them.

Since then, Russian managers have been running these seized properties. Under them are 80,000 Austrian employees. The plants total one-fifth of Austria's industrial wealth.

Manufacture Everything

These plants manufacture everything from steel, products and bridges to silk stockings, fish and wine. Seventy per cent of their output is shipped eastward.

Most of the plants must sell their products at a mark-up of only four per cent above costs. This means that managers cannot afford even adequate maintenance and must borrow from the Soviet military bank to prevent deterioration. The result is that Russia's oil and steel plant not in debt up to at least 40 per cent of its book value. In time, the plants will become outright Russian property.

Greatest single object of exploitation is Austria's oil. Since 1945, thousands of Austrian workers under Soviet experts have extracted 12,000,000 tons from the Zisterndorf fields north of Vienna. Of this, Russia and her East European satellites have taken 7,000,000 tons.

Caterpillars Expected

FORT FRANCES, (CP)—The international border area around Fort Frances and International Falls, Minn., is preparing for the heaviest infestation of tent caterpillars ever seen in the district.

Conference on control of the pest are planned next week for Littlerock and Northome, Minn., arranged by the Minnesota division of plant industry.

Eugene A. Jamrock of Littlefork, of the Minnesota entomology office, predicted the invasion will begin within eight weeks.

Cab Calloway Wins Applause In Straight Acting Role

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—Cab Calloway is a long, tall man who seems to have been built in seventeen sections like a wandering railroad, each section making a turn in an opposite direction when there is a change of mood in a musical score.

And he has just switched onto another line, now he has side-tracked his customary orchestra, and is again winning the applause of Broadway audiences with his performance in a straight acting role in the return of the musical play "Porgy and Bess" to the Ziegfeld theatre.

In the role of Sportin' Life, a charming but scandalous figure who peddles narcotics to the residents of Catfish Row in Charleston, S.C., Calloway melds perfectly into a role that at times is not unlike the performances he gave when he was directing his "Hi-de-ho" concerts.

"Playing Sportin' Life now, and giving up direction of my orchestra, (which is still playing) isn't just a whim of mine," he said. "When Dubose Heyward wrote the original libretto of 'Porgy and Bess' and George Gershwin composed the music, it was their idea that I would play that part.

"I wanted to do it, but at that time I was committed to bookings with my orchestra so far in advance of the date that 'Porgy and Bess' was scheduled to go into rehearsals that I just could not walk out on the orchestra.

"When the revival of the show happily came along just at a time when I could get free myself

The Cab also explained how he developed his renowned "Hi-de-ho" style singing.

"I was hooked with my orchestra one night and a friend of mine came up to me and asked if I thought I could do a new song of his for a tryout that night in the club," Calloway explained. "I gave the music to the orchestra and put the lyrics in my pocket.

"When I signalled for the orchestra to start playing the number, I couldn't find the bit of paper with the lyrics. . . . So I just started doing the "Hi-de-ho" and the song went over great. I don't think my song writing friend liked it, but the song was a hit."

Three Suspects Held

TORONTO (CP) — Police picked up three suspects Friday within minutes after Capt. Reginald Bevington of the fire department was robbed of $234, Earlier reports placed the amount stolen as high as $7,000.

Jack Howse, 25; Edward Turner, 25, and Percy Wells, 40, all of Toronto, were charged with the robbery and being armed with an offensive weapon.

HOLDUP, SLAYING

CHICAGO (AP)—Five masked men shot and slugged their way to $15,000 in a brazen stockyards holdup Friday in which one man was slain. Five other persons, including a woman, were injured in the getaway. The dead man was Theodore Zotkowski, 42, chief of the private police of Libby McNeill and Libby Food Products Company.

New year of Baha'i Calendar Observed

The Baha'i community of Belleville celebrated the Feast of Naw-Ruz by a buffet luncheon on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rogw White. This feast is held annually to celebrate the New Year of the Baha'i calendar.

The guest speaker, Miss W. I. Harvey of Ottawa, a member of the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of Canada, pointed out that the date of Naw-Ruz coincides with the vernal equinox and the beginning of a new year in the realm of the seasons and went on the say that, as the coming of the warm winds and showers of spring bring a new burst of physical energy to the earth, so the coming of a new prophet brings a new spiritual energy to mankind.

"In the cycle of civilization," said Miss Harvey, "when true religion has been forgotten by man and the world is a winter wasteland of ignorance, prejudice and superstition, the prophet appears and creates a new spiritual civilization springtime has dawned, mankind is uplifted and civilization advances as a result of his teachings."

"Baha'u'llah, the prophet of the Baha'i World Faith, came with a message of unity to a war-torn world," said Miss Harvey. "He taught that the spiritual regeneration of the individual must result in the spiritual regeneration of society. As Moses brought the laws which led to an organized tribal society and Christ brought the love that leads to happy personal relationships, so Baha'u'llah brings the teachings and the blueprint for a world civilization."

"The Baha'i calendar," explained Miss Harvey, "is composed of 19 months of 19 days each all of which are named after the attributes of God. We have, therefore, the months of Splendor, Beauty, Light, Mercy, Perfection, and so on, and four or five intercalary days which are a period of spiritual rededication of faith."

Hostess at the New-Ruz Feast, Mrs. Helen White, served a delicious luncheon. The table was attractively arranged with roses, photographs of the Baha'i House of Worship and greetings cards from Baha'i communities across Canada.

Mr. Robert Cretney introduced the speaker and closed the feast with the reading of prayers.

B.P. Women's Club Hears Resume of Work Accomplished

At the recent dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club of the city, the yearly table decorations were prepared by the pupils of Miss Lillian Hart at Queen Elizabeth School.

Mrs. Edna Embury was chosen as representative of the club on the committee of Canadian Conveners Association.

Mrs. Isabel Wallbridge was appointed club representative to the committee of Equal Pay for Equal Work.

Eve Doolittle, Emblem convener, showed a number of pins and seals which are available with the club emblem. These are for sale to any member of the B. & P.W.

Resume of Work Done

Isabel Wallbridge gave a resume of the work done by the committee on Jury Service for Women in the province. On February 10, 124 meetings at 49 different towns had been held and a minimum of 2,067 people had heard about this important phase of women in public life.

Simone McFadden gave brief outline of the work done regarding the Anti-Discrimination Bill which is now in the federal house. The women of Canada feel that the word "sex" should appear along with race and creed.

The city council has been honored on several occasions by visits from some of the members. Florence Fitzgerald and Isabel Wallbridge plan to go to the next council meeting.

Members who have been sewing and knitting for the Children's Aid project brought in their finished articles and took home more wool and flannelette.

Letters of protest have been sent to the two provincial parliament members regarding the exhibits on hill.

The head table won the game of musical charades based on Irish airs.

A profitable and enjoyable auction sale brought the evening to a close. Florence Fitzgerald, as auctioneer, provided a merry time and a substantial sum was added to the treasury.

Royal Journey Film Enjoyed by Brookdale Farm Forum

A film showing of "The Royal Journey," sponsored by the Brookdale Farm Forum, had an attendance of over 90 when shown in Moneypenny school last Thursday night.

Mr. Morley Sine acted as chairman for the evening and a varied program of readings and music was presented by the pupils and teacher, Mrs. Clare. Miss Rhea Rose, music supervisor, was at the piano.

After the pictures, the farm forum ladies had a treat of candy and popcorn for all.

1,000 British Debutantes Brushing up on Social Graces

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—In a year of royal pageant and homage, about 1,000 British debutantes are brushing up on the social graces in the hope of becoming debutante of Coronation Year.

It's an important title any year, resulting generally in the lucky girl being feted, dined and dated by eligible bachelors who escort the girl to balls and parties, starting with Queen Charlotte's ball, May 13. This year, obviously, it will be an honor more keenly sought than ever.

Actually, there is no official debut-of-the-year title. But toward the end of nearly every season there is one young woman whose good looks, charm and photogenic qualities have singled her out for the honor, by general assent.

Early Favorite

One of the early favorites for laurels this year is Mary MacDonald Buchanan, younger daughter of Major Reginald MacDonald - Buchanan, senior steward of the jockey club.

Mary's mother inherited from her father £3,000,000 and the famous Woolavington racing stud and string of horses. Mrs. MacDonald-Buchanan won the Derby with Owen Tudor in 1941, and 17-year-old Mary, with the polish of a Paris finishing school, already loves horse racing and is a good horsewoman.

The eldest girl with a captivating personality and no desire for a career is 18-year-old Gillian Cecil, daughter of Lady Mary Burghley. She comes from her family home in Berkshire to a London house near Hyde Park Gardens for the London season.

Her wardrobe for this year's festivities includes 12 evening dresses priced from £25 to £100 apiece, three cocktail dresses, two suits, three afternoon dresses and six cotton frocks. With matching accessories, costs rise to around £500.

Add to this the cost of a "coming-out" dance with an average charge of £3 a head without drinks, and you have the reason many 1953 debutantes are having a joint party with a friend. Miss Cecil shared her dance at one of the richest West End hotels June 9 with a school friend, Lady Mary Lindesay-Bethune.

Vivacious Caroline Clive, granddaughter of Brig.-Gen. William Darell and one of the prettiest of this year's debutantes, will have at least 200 people at the dance she is sharing with her cousin, Charmaine Schroder. Miss Clive will be 18 in May and has already taken a year's citizen and arts course that ends in April.

Lady Jennifer Bernard, 17-year-old daughter of the Earl of Bandon, hopes to "do" the season on a £400 budget. She is designing and making many of her evening and cocktail dresses. She also loves cooking, has a cordon bleu diploma, and will no doubt be helping cook in the kitchen to prepare for her "coming-out" dance July 4.

Holloway St. W.A. Presents Member With Gift

The regular monthly meeting of the W.A. of Holloway Street United Church was held in the Sunday School auditorium, on Thursday evening.

The president, Mrs. Smith, opened the meeting. The Evening group led the worship service which consisted of a hymn, prayer, a short meditation and a reading.

Mrs. Smith took charge of the business period. Following this, Mrs. Beer, one of the older members, who had recently celebrated her sixtieth wedding anniversary, was presented with a gift by Mrs. A. Campbell on behalf of the W.A.

Mrs. Jardine of Flower Lane, gave an interesting talk and demonstration on the care and arrangement of cut flowers.

Following the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the Evening group.

Alpha Lambda Beta Sigma Phi Plans Black-Gold Ball

The regular meeting of the Alpha Lambda Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority was held in the home of Mrs. A. Watkin, Vice-president, Mrs. R. Miller, occupied the chair, in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. Lennox.

The major topic of the business session was the coming Black and Gold Ball, being held at the Club Commodore. Dance convener, Mrs. C. Phillips, gave a brief resume of plans and preparations being made for the coming affair.

It was unanimously agreed that crayon books be prepared and sent to the children's ward of the hospital through the generosity of the school class of Mrs. B. Warren.

Miss B. Monteith, one of the speakers for the evening, gave an interesting and informative talk on "Color in the Garden". The second speaker, Mrs. S. Wood, also gave an equally delightful talk on "Nature's Lavender Days".

The vice-president, Mrs. R. Miller, welcomed two out-of-town guests for the evening, Mrs. J. Shepherd and Mrs. D. Chant.

At the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served by hostesses Mrs. J. Lewis and Mrs. B. Warren.

Celebrates Her 90th Birthday

Mrs. A. D. Runnalls of Springbrook, was honored on March 13, on the occasion of her 90th birthday.

A program arranged by her only daughter, Mrs. John Dafoe, Frankford, opened with the singing of "Happy Birthday," followed by "What a Friend we Have in Jesus". Two great granddaughters, Gay and Carol Bonisteel, of Brighton, sang, "It is No Secret What God Can Do". Mrs. Harold Bonisteel then gave a reading "Finding Mother's Glasses."

Mrs. Runnalls reminisced on the past for the benefit of those present and gave a history of the Cooney family. Bountiful refreshments complete with birthday cake, were served.

Mrs. Runnalls thanked her guests for their wishes and also expressed her pleasure at the number of cards she received.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.M.S.

The March meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Scott, with an attendance of 12.

The president, Mrs. Morgan, presided, using the worship service in the Missionary Monthly, the theme for the month being "The Fellowship of the Church as a Means of Grace". Mrs. John English read the Scriptural meditation taken from Ephesians 4.

A moment of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. J. Hines, deceased member recently. Prayers were offered for a member who was ill and for Miss Beanie M. Cairns, of Japan, missionary for prayer. Mrs. Eugene Badgley, Mrs. Ross Bonisteel, stewardship. Mrs. E. Pascoe gave a reading on community friendship, asking that the W.M.S do what it can to help the older members of the community enjoy the remnants of life.

During the business period, Mrs. Eugene Badgley, and Miss Beatrice McFarlane were appointed to attend the Presbyterial in Holloway St. United Church on March 25th. Mrs. Jack McFarlane was appointed as delegate for the Baby Band. Mrs. Charles Bates expressed the thanks for card received.

A solo by Mrs. Bruce Sherman, entitled "My Best Friend," was enjoyed. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Charles Bates, Sr.

Miss M. Bailey acted as group leader and presented the last two chapters of the study book, "Along African Trails." She was assisted by Mrs. Roy Badgley, Mrs. L. W. Scott and Mrs. Eugene Badgley.

Rev. L. W. Scott closed the meeting after which the hostess served refreshments.

ST. ANDREW'S M. C.

Marmora — St. Andrew's Mission Club held a meeting on March 12th. at the home of Mrs. L. McGinnis, the vice-president, Mrs. R. Lowery, being in the worship service following the theme "Enlistment."

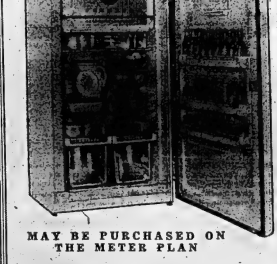
The resurrection as related in St. Mark's Gospel was then read, followed by prayer and responsive thanks. The thought of hope and the need for more help was conveyed in the story concerning the three women who came to the sepulchre that first Easter Day.

A beautiful piano solo, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," was played by Barbara Mellkjohn.

Guest was Angela.

The president, Dorothy Airhart, took charge of the business which she introduced with the personal reading of an interesting story relating to the observance of Easter in Angola, Africa. She mentioned how the natives take their food and also belongings on the long trek to spend the week-end in rejoicing at the mission church.

Mrs. James Heath told about the Red Cross Tractor which was donated by an Alberta church to Angola natives for the purpose of increasing the cultivation of soya beans needed to make milk for the children. Mrs. Barker closed the meeting.



Two contests, "Women of the Bible" and "The Human Body", supervised by Dorothy Airhart, proved enjoyable to all.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Embarrassed by her friend's behavior in public

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been a widow for a year and a half and am terribly lonesome, so for the past two months I have been going out with a man who was a good friend of my husband's. He is a wonderful man and a friend until we go to a night club. Then, after he has had something to drink, he becomes loud and boisterous, and somehasses me by making wisecracks to women.

He says it doesn't mean a thing, and that there is nothing wrong with the way he acts because he is just having clean fun and a good time, but I don't real mad about it. Is it wrong for him to act that way, or am I idiotic in objecting to it? I have been foolish to feel so bad about it? I really like him a lot.—E. L. W.

Dear E.L.W.:

I think it is perfectly natural that you should feel embarrassed and shamefaced when you are out with a man who behaves as this one does. While one could hardly say that his actions are "anything wrong", it is certainly in extremely bad taste, and any self-respecting woman like yourself could hardly be expected to overlook, under such circumstances.

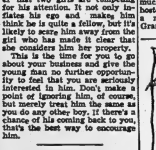
I think the best way out of the situation would be to extend your circle of acquaintances so that your wouldn't be dependent on one man alone for your social life. It would be a big mistake for you to build up hopes of marrying this particular one, because in a few months he would change his ways; and, if you were married to him, you would almost certainly find yourself frequently embarrassed when you were out together.

If you wish to continue seeing him, however, suggest that you keep away from places where he is likely to make exhibitions of himself. But I urge you to interest yourself in community activities, where you would have no opportunity to make more friends.

Two girls compete for a boy friend

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 15, and have been going with a boy the same age. I have grown very fond of him, and he seemed to be very serious about me.



A few weeks ago, when we were at a party together, he happened to meet one of my girl friends, and they seemed to fall for each other right away. It made me feel very bad, and afterward I told this girl what I thought of her for trying to make up to my boy friend. Later, I found out that she had told him what I said, and now I am afraid he doesn't feel so friendly toward me. While we have run into each other at school and other places, he never has much to say to me any more and he has never asked me for another date.

What do you think I should do?—Priscilla W.

Dear Priscilla:

It's too bad you made the mistake of getting whatever you did to your girl friend. There's always the chance of having such remarks repeated, as they were, and there's nothing more unfortunate than for a boy to discover that two girls are competing for his attention. It not only inflates his ego and makes him think he is quite a fellow, but it's likely to scare him away from the girl who has made it clear that she considers him her property.

This is the time for you to go about your business and give the boy as much or as little opportunity to feel that you are seriously interested in him. Don't make a point or ignoring him, of course, but merely treat him the same as you do any other boy. If there's a chance of his coming back to you, that's the best way to encourage him.

Found Relief From SCIATIC PAIN

"I began to suffer with a dull, continuous ache in my left hip which slowed me down," writes Mr. Geo. F. MacGregor, 1604 Bloor Ave., Vancouver. "Then I got a sharp pain in my back day or night. One day when my leg was so painful I could hardly get about, a stranger stopped me. He had once suffered much the same thing until he tried Templeton's T-R-C's. He recommended T-R-C's to me. I wish I could thank him, for in 6 short times T-R-C's gave me heaped-for relief from my sciatic pain."

It's Satisfying Work

By MARY MOORE

To some observers, sitting at a desk, isolated and alone, pounding on a typewriter, trying to answer perplexing questions seems like a tedious job.

That's what I do—but it isn't tedious, or lonesome or isolated, for one send of my long desk is buried in letters from you, all of which are cheery and full of praise and good works.

While I know I am running late with my answers to you, like Old Engine 99, and send the mail aids to the pile, when I open them I know your letters will be interesting and fun to read. That is not only reward enough, but it is enough to make me claim that I have one of the most satisfying jobs that exists. And for it, a big thank you to you.

I'm a new bride and need Mother's Celery Dish which I promised because of its virtues (1) economy, (2) flavor, (3) meatlessness (for Lent).

I have tried it and try to finish off my answer to Mrs. C. D., while I'm in the mood of absurdity on Saturday last.

MOTHER'S CELERY DISH

Wash and cut up enough outer celery stalks and leaves to measure 8 cupfuls. Cook in 2 cups of cup water and boil, covered, until barely tender. Drain and measure the liquid. Make it up to 2 cups with rich milk and a little cream if you can spare it. Add 12 2-inch square soda crackers crushed fine with a rolled, and 1 cup mild or strong grated cheese. Gently mix, turn into buttered baking dish, seasoning with sprinklings of salt and pepper, and another ½ teaspoon dry mustard, as you put it in the dish. Dot with a little butter and sprinkle with a little extra cheese if you like. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until bubbling and brown.

CREAMED SALMON OR TUNA

For a main supper dish to serve 4 make 2 cups white sauce by mixing 3½ tablespoons flour with 4 tablespoons melted butter and ½ teaspoon salt, then stirring in 2½ cups whole milk. (If hard milk is preheated stirring time is cut down.) Stir until thick. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 2 cups flaked, canned or cooked salmon or tuna. Heat through in top of double boiler.

Variations: (1) Tuna may substitute 1 cup either sauted sliced mushrooms or drained canned peas for 1 cup of the fish. (2) Shrimp, crab or lobster may be used instead of salmon or tuna. (3) To make this dish richer you may use cream instead of some of the milk, and stir in 2 egg yolks 1 minute before serving. (4) You may add 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and ½ cup chopped parsley without making any other changes.

GREEN BREAD PUDDING

Two cups of soft breadcrumbs or cubes, 4 cups whole milk (or 2 cups evaporated milk diluted with 2 cups water or 1 cup (4 oz.) skim milk powder mixed with 3½ cups water), ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 or 3 tablespoons melted butter, ½ to ¾ cup raisins. Scald the milk and pour it over the bread or cubes to it. Beat the eggs, then the sugar, salt and spices into them, then gradually stir them into the milk-bread mix. Add vanilla, nutmeg and butter and raisins. Turn into buttered large baking dish, set in large pan containing warm water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour or 1¼ hours or until set.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

She shouldn't feel hurt at not being introduced

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was invited to a large tea in the home of a friend or mine. Being a society event and quite important thag I am, As I entered the ballroom guests were leaving. The hostess greeted me, then turned to say good-bye to them. She did not introduce me to them.

I felt somewhat hurt, slighted. Wasn't she impolite not to introduce me?—Jennifer.

No, she was not a bit impolite. And I think your self-consciousness about a possible difference in your and her "social positions" is making you a bit unfair to her. Please don't nurse any feeling of being hurt or slighted. As a matter of fact, the arriving guess need not be introduced to a guest or guests who are taking their leave . . . unless there is some special reason to make this introduction. For example, if perchance an arriving and a departing guest have heard much about each other from the hostess, she might say, "Oh, just a minute . . . Betty . . . Betty Grant. . . . Betty, this is Beatrice Thompson. I'm sorry this is such a hasty meeting, but we must plan for a longer meeting soon."

He shouldn't pay "blind date" expenses

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm wondering about a question of "blind date" etiquette. I'm in college, our Prom is to be soon, and my best girl is to be on a date with her parents at that time. My roommate's girl has decided, at my suggestion, her best friend to be my partner. Don't you think I should pay the travelling expenses of my "blind date"?—Bill M.

No. You can bet it for granted that your "blind date" expects to pay her travelling expenses, as the other guests do.

Today's courtesy tip—don't overstay your welcome

The guest every hostess dreads . . . the one who doesn't know when to go home . . . may be brimming over with charm and personality, but, even so, your welcome (or hosts') is bound to be deeply grateful if you also have the grace to terminate your visit at a reasonable hour. Perhaps you may be able to sleep late in the morning . . . but remember that today most people have to get up.

Bride-to-be wants to write her formal wedding invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a special problem about my wedding invitations. My wedding is to be very small; the ceremony is to take place in church and the reception in our house. I am to wear formal bridal attire, the groom and his attendants are to wear formal daytime attire (cutaway coats, striped trousers, and so forth), and all other plans are on the side of formality. I would like to send invitations worded accordingly, because about thirty of our fifty guests are either strangers to me, or else I know them very little. Would it be at all proper for me to write the invitations by hand, although formally worded? I have never seen this done, but I have a very good handwriting (I've often been told it is a very distinguished handwriting against everyone my pride!) and I'd like to write them on large plain white cards. Do you approve!—Anita S.

I entirely approve! As a matter of fact, invitations written by hand in the third person are absolutely correct and entitled with "distinguished handwriting," on plain white cards of good size and good stock, the lines carefully spaced as in engraved wedding invitations, they can have a very fine appearance. However, I suggest that, for such a wedding before your mother, as hostess of the wedding, or you in her name, write personal notes of invitation to your relatives and intimate friends.

Ex-servicemen and his fiancee to be married by justice of the peace, . . then to have church wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother, who has been in the service for four years, now is to be married in May. Because he and his fiancee are of different faiths, they don't want a church wedding. They are to be married by a justice of the peace. They want to have a reception after the ceremony, and we are wondering if would be proper also to send invitations to their relatives and friends just for the reception.—E.

Yes, indeed. It is entirely proper, and quite often the plan, to have the marriage ceremony private, just for the families and friends to the reception only. The invitations are, of course, given by the family of the bride-to-be . . . and for an informal gathering or relatives and friends, it is proper to give the invitations verbally or by telephone or by informal notes.

OTTAWA (CP)—Victor Goodfellow, 53, a crippled taxi dispatcher, was severely burned Sunday when he was trapped in an upstairs bedroom of his burning home. Rescued by three firemen, he was taken to hospital where he was reported in critical condition. Goodfellow is a brother of Ebbie Goodfellow, coach of the National Hockey League champion Detroit Hawks last season. The fire caused about $5,000 damage.

RESCUES 7 CHILDREN

DRESDEN, Ont. (CP)—George Canton rescued seven children from the burning home of Eugene Bigley Saturday. Mr. Canton, Mr. Isceburg dry cleaning plant employee, broke in through the house, rushed in and gathered up the children, including a baby in a carriage. The oldest was 10. The children, alone at the time, did not know the home was on fire. Their parents had been away visiting relatives.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Thai troublesome acne.

Blackheads and pimples are the despair of many teen-agers, and other adults. Few people, at some time in their lives, have not been embarrassed by these horrid little visitors. The face is the commonest location, although they not infrequently appear on the shoulders and back. When pimples are numerous they cause mental suffering and heartache. A young person can become so self-conscious and miserable that he or she will avoid all social activities.

The child should have the best medical attention available, no matter what financial sacrifices the family must make. There is no single sure-cure for acne, but it can be greatly helped by the treatments of a doctor who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp. Sometimes the trouble will clear up in a few months; if the pustules have been long established, however, treatment has to be continued for some time.

While it is true that a child may outgrow this affliction, which usually occurs at the age of thirteen or fourteen, it is not safe to rely on this hope. It can continue for years. No chances should be taken; too much mental anguish is involved.

The trouble usually starts with an oily skin, enlarged pores and blackheads. As the skin gets rougher, the walls of the pores, bacteria enter and pustules result. Some people develop acne caused by pus-producing germs acting on excessively oil-filled pores.

"Something should be done in the early stages. Soap must be used freely twice a day, not just with a washcloth, but by friction with the fingertips so that the lather will be pressed into the flesh. Some specialists recommend shaving soap, as it lathers quickly. All of the soap should be removed by a warm water rinsing, after which the moist complexion should be applied to soften the pore deposits. After a drying, then a solution of boric acid—one teaspoonful of powdered boric acid dissolved in a cup of warm water. Let it dry on.

Blackheads must not be pressed out with the fingers; there is a chance of bruising the skin with the nails, causing scars. A comedone extractor, purchased at the druggists, will remove them gently.

Diet is important. All rich foods, like sauces and pastries, should be avoided. Any creamy foods should be avoided from the milk, the child drinks, and butter and cheese limited. Three raw fruits at the soda fountain should be deleted from the day's activities.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

Chapter 20
THE PRISONER

As he walked for the prisoner to be caught and brought before him, Annas, the most powerful man in Israel, felt depressed. He ready he foresaw certain trouble, no matter how many "mentals" they exterminated, the broad of the people continued to crave the need for salvation.

The old man glared hopelessly around his grand salon and then rising from his stool, walked slowly toward the steps of his dais. Wearily he mounted the platform and sat in the imposing chair, as the door was flung open and the captain of the guard stood at attention before Annas.

"Lord," he said, "we have done as you commanded. We have taken the man prisoner. Behold Him at the door — Jesus of Nazareth!"

The prisoner was shoved forward at first, in a circle of light from the hanging candelabrum. He came in full sight of Annas.

The political boss of Jerusalem was instantaneously jolted at the first sight of the captured Jesus. He blinked and looked again. No outer detail seemed important — this tall, fettered man in the white robe had not, to date, what was it in Him that was so jolting, like to a blow over the face? Annas looked at the prisoner's luxuriant brown hair and unkempt beard, at His peasants and mechanics so worn about the head, late and while turban fell at the side, as did most of the hair. It was at that place and at that time, down to the shoulders and over the brow; and as did His fellows Jesus fa:' :d His turban under the chin with a cord. But the sharp eyes of the old politician did notice that the blue fringe on the four corners of His robe was one piece and without a seam. The garment had been given to Jesus by one of those women along the way who had been grateful for His message. That night His was also wearing a blue tallith, the four-cornered mantle over His shoulders; at its four corners were blue fringes.

A Quality of Power

By the looks of Him He was just an ordinary man with sandals dusty from long tramping on the open road. Yet Annas sensed, nevertheless, that this prisoner was not ordinary at all but most extraordinary. How was that? Power that reveals a able quality of separateness and power which Annas himself never felt in Jesus? Where did it reside, and how did it visibly express itself?

Was it in the bright glory of His large eyes, set at wide apart like His mother's? Some inner energy of concentration looked out of those large and patient and unfailingly interested eyes, of one to whom God was an overpoweringly intimate and personal experience. They spoke of an intimate understanding of the nearness and goodness of the heavenly Father; a kind of unendurable ecstacy prolon g ed through life. It was as one who knew, moment by moment, this deep and rich experience, that Jesus walked into the red-walled room of the house of Annas; as one who felt no humiliation, though His wrists were bound with leather cords that cut into His flesh.

Feeling himself in the presence of a mystery, Annas presently declined to take any stock of it and fastened his gaze approvingly on the bound wrists of Jesus, but even so he was already aware of an unmanly sensation that you cannot tie up infinity with a string.

The prisoner looked around calmly. All these men, hirelings, hilwrs, judges, believed that the Lord God Almighty, the God of Israel, of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, was really a glorified member of their caste; the inconvenited, slave-owning, sage-foreseeing aristocrats represented Jehovah. As Jesus regarded Annas and Caiphas in that moment, He seemed to say:

"Joseph died, but you are the high priest of the Temple and you and your sons inherit the lucrative sanction the oppression of the poor; you have helped the people to forget the eighth-century prophets; I would call the people back to listen once more to the thunder of those voices."

There was in Jesus no glad glance of His from the face of Joseph Caiphas back to the face of Annas. Annas and Caiphas in that moment, His seemed to say:

Saliva Test For Drinking Is Successful

TORONTO, (CP) — A saliva test for drinking—in which a suspect chews on wax, spits in a jar and has his saliva tested—helped Friday to convict a Toronto man or driving with ability impaired.

It was believed to be the first time in Canada that the test, developed by Dr. Ward Smith at the University of Toronto, has been used in evidence.

Gordon K. Conroy, 35, was convicted. A test on his saliva showed two parts of alcohol per 1,000, which Dr. Smith said indicated Conroy was in no condition to drive.

BURT'S

Birthday Supper

Burt's—Members of the local Women's Association served their annual birthday supper on Thursday evening in the Allisonville hall.

Tables were attractively arranged and an abundance of food served.

Mr. Jim Corradi pianist, delighted his listeners with musical selections throughout the evening.

Proceeds were around $100. The occasion marked the 27th anniversary of the organization. Rev. Poulter ably supplied as chairman.

Barr's M.S.

The March meeting of the Mission Band was held at the school on Friday afternoon. Recreation period was taken up with a lively bird discussion and display of members bird scrapbooks which were handed in to their leader to be shown at the Presbyterial.

This being the season when people are more than usually bird conscious every member had noted some bird mostly robins, kildeer, crane, red-winged blackbird, crows and pigeons were also seen.

The worship period was longer than usual taken from Matt. 27 portraying the arrest, circumlocution and burial of the Lord Jesus with Philip Edwards, Wayne Sobis, Eleanor Clarke, Donna Parks and Paul Squire taking part.

A fine piece of art work done by Peter Diggins age 8, of the crucifixion, was shown and is worthy of special mention. Donna Parks closed this portion of the meeting with prayer.

Three thank-you letters from shut-ins were read. The card receipts totalling $41.10 were turned in. Offering was taken by Keith McQuoid. Thank offering envelopes were given members for Palm Sunday service. Music for the same service was discussed.

Wild Melee Marks Jr. Game

MONTREAL (CP) Fans, officials and players teamed up at the Forum Sunday night to stage one of the wildest battles in the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association's history as Montreal Canadiens edged Quebec Citadelles 3-1 for their first victory in the final playdowns.

It was Claude Vinet's winning goal with eight seconds remaining in the third period that started the hassle. Quebec players, led by coach Phil Watson argued strongly that the puck had not crossed the Citadelles goal-line.

This resulted in a melee involving Watson, players and fans.

The Clic now lead the best-of-nine series 2-1.

As the game ended, several Quebec players stormed officials and defenceman Gerard Houle offered referee Sibbey Munday his hockey stick, indicating the official played for Montreal during the game.

Meanwhile, the crowd of more than 4,000 persons booed and hooted.

Apparently irked by rifts from spectators, Watson jumped into the stands and tangled with one. Several of his players joined him in the stoutest.

Seeing this, hundreds of fans screamed from their seats and charged across the ice to the Quebec bench. The lights were immediately doused and a body of ushers managed to halt the uprising.

Seattle Victors Over Cougars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Joe Bell's goal with only 13 seconds to play gave Seattle Bombers an 8-7 victory over Victoria Cougars Sunday night and moved them into fifth place in the Western Hockey League standings as the regular season ended.

Saskatoon Quakers finished on top, followed by Vancouver Canucks, five points back, Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Flyers. New Westminster took sixth, the last playoff spot.

Vancouver nipped New Westminster 3-1 Saturday while Edmonton defeated Calgary 5-2 and Seattle blanked Tacoma Rockets 3-0.

New Westminster opens a best-of-seven series at Saskatoon Thursday, with the second game to be played on the same ice Saturday. Vancouver and Seattle begin a best-of-five series at Vancouver Tuesday. The second game will be at Vancouver Friday and the third at Seattle next Sunday.

Calgary and Edmonton collide in another best-of-five series starting Tuesday at Calgary. The second game will be on the same ice Thursday.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — Division "B" of the Frankford Bowling League saw action twice this week, making up a postponed night of January 30, in addition to the regular league night. On Tuesday night, Selbourne Sharpe's Karseless Kids, season long cellar-dwellers, knocked off Milford Macaulay's league-leading Aristocrats in three games, while Earl Rogers' Merry Macs were dropping seven points to Elmer Rogers' Screwballs. Highlight of the evening was Mervin Dafoe's contributing, which earned him a membership to the 300 Club. Mervin is a member of the Karseless Kids.

On Friday evening, Elmer Rogers' Screwballs climbed into a first place tie with Aristocrats, by taking Milford Macaulay's team for five points. Earl Rogers' Merry Macs climbed back into a contending position, by taking seven points from Selbourne Sharpe's Karseless Kids. Helen Yder joined the 300 Club to become the second girl in Division "B" this year to gain that distinction.

Aristocrats 107; Screwballs 107; Merry Macs 102, Karseless Kids 76.

How many ways do they serve you?
Guess again!
All of these people serve you in useful ways through their jobs. But, like people in all walks of life, they may also be helping you in certain important unseen ways.
Take your postman, for instance. He may have helped to build your home through his ownership of life insurance. It's possible — because the money of thousands of life insurance policyholders is invested for them in building throughout the nation.
In the same way your milkman, lawyer or nurse may have helped build new highways, waterworks, schools, power plants or other essential public works in your community. For there are millions of people in these and many other occupations whose invested life insurance money works these ways for everyone's benefit.
And — who knows — perhaps your job too was created by these life insurance policyholders' dollars, invested to develop new businesses and industries.
Even your health may benefit because so many people own life insurance. Several medical research projects, supported wholly or in part by life insurance companies, are now seeking ways of checking diseases and prolonging life for all.
So anyone who owns life insurance —including probably you—does more than provide financial security for his family. He also serves his fellow-citizens in all these useful ways!

Chicago Black Hawks Win National League Playoff Berth; Leafs Are Out

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CERVER, Sports Editor

SIMCOE, Ont.—Highlight of the 34th. convention of the Ontario Baseball Association held in this "heart of the tobacco country" Friday and Saturday, apart from the decision to separate the "professional tare from the amateur wheat" was the severe criticism handed Canadian baseball men by Billy Rarell, former shortstop star of the Detroit Tigers, who guest-spoakered the banquet Saturday afternoon.

Billy didn't pull his verbal punches and told the boys it was about time they let "broken down warhorses of the American teams stay in their own country, and use Canadians."

"You've lost your shirt and paste several times and I hope you lose them again, this time with the underwear attached," Bill fired. We'll go into more detail about his address in tomorrow's column.

The story of the convention and what it did appears in another page. You'll get all the official dope from it. The boys did establish a new series which encompasses the Intercounty League alone. The Belleville Baseball Association was welcomed with open arms. It was affiliated with the parent body and in the classification. This department, who represented the BBA told the convention the set-up in this neck of the woods.

Aside to junior team officials in Belleville: Bill Campbell of Oshawa, said the Motor City has a new junior squad drawn from Detroit's trash and would be interested in a junior set-up with Peterborough and Belleville, with a possible entry from Port Hope, Cobourg or another lakeside town.

There was rather an amusing note when the question of delegates' votes came up. The Western Counties Baseball Association, through its president, Jim Marnell, demanded a vote "for every team entered. We won 14 championships last year and for such should have stronger representation. If not we will join with the Intercounty League and form our own organization."

The stuff is a yearly gag tossed in the face of the OBA early but time is backfired. Jim Blakely, of the Intercounty leaped to his feet and said if the Western Association wanted to go on their own, 'Go ahead!' The Intercounty will stay as put. This was seconded by the one and only Tory Greer, of Wingham.

The president of the Lakeshore Baseball League, who had extended an invitation for the association to hold its annual in his district, withdrew the offer following the decision of Archie Stirling in the proxy position. He felt the new president should have the 1953 confab in his own district and there it will be held, possibly at Chatham.

Rode that "slow train to Arkansas" from Hamilton in this pretty spring weather for seven and twenty minutes over 43 miles and we, the lone passenger, wound up playing cribbage with the conductor between lengthy stops. We passed the same woodchuck eleven times. Note to Quentin Costello: We visited Max Waters, E. of M. manager here, who sends his regards, also to the Kinsmen Club. We bottomed-upped at the Phoenix Club and "Tip" Tennessee, Hamilton Spectator behind the party via long distance telephone. Maurice Giraldin, manager of the Governor Hotel, here, sends his regards to Vernon Geyer. Held they were football pals with the Cobourg Collegiate Ghosts a while back.

ALL EVEN!

And back home, any ideas that may have been harbored in this village to the extent the junior Black Hawks would take Dixie Flashers in four straight games in this quarter-Finals junior "B" five-out series, were nicely dispelled on Saturday night. The youngsters, whom the Hawks more or less decisively trounced 7-1-in their first meeting showed complete reversal of form as did the Hawks themselves in Dixie and the result was we also came out on the short end of a three-nothing score. Reports from up thataway say the Hawks were clobbered but plenty and that the kids from Dixie were good value for their win.

But tonight is another night and the teams go at it again in Memorial Arena. The Hawks aren't feeling any too good over that 3-0 shellacking they received and fully intend to take a game enough in the series when the teams clash this evening. The powerful, little team from Dixie' have "got the feel" of the Memorial Arena and it could be that the Hawks will develop into one of those hasbeen stars that should characterize playoffs of any kind. In any event, the metropolitan area sextet know their Belleville foes are not invincible and tonight's caper should be one for the books.

GOOD TRY!

Jack Doran's St. Michael's High School volleyball team came home from the all-Ontario tournament in Hamilton defeated but proud losers. They won two victories over the Essex and Thorold High Schools, but bowed to Collingwood, last year's champions in the final series of the "3" playoffs. St. Mikes gave a fine account of itself and were worthy representatives of the COSSA. This is their second year as champions of the Bay of Quinte district. Doran said the game system was a two-of-three idea with 15-point games instead of two-game affairs of 21 points. This, he felt, was a little strenuous as all teams showed signs of fatigue by the time their series was completed.

Grab Fourth Place With Wins Over Detroit Wings, Rangers; 2nd Victory Killed Leaf Hopes

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Before the season they were called the bums.

After a few weeks of play they were the wonder team.

Later, they were showing their habit of slipping.

But Sunday night Chicago Black Hawks came through in top form and last spot in the National Hockey League playoffs. It is the first year that the Hawks, piloted by Freshman coach Sid Abel, have had a crack at the Stanley Cup in seven years.

While Chicago slid into the lucrative post-season play, the ax fell on Toronto Maple Leafs. They failed to gain a playoff position for the second time in 22 years.

The last Stanley Cup play the Leafs sat out—in 1946—was the last year Chicago broke into the money series.

Several weeks ago Detroit Red Wings were assured of finishing atop the standings for the fifth straight year. A date with Montreal Canadiens clinched second place.

But there was a wild scramble down to the wire for the last two playoff berths.

Before Saturday night's games the race for berth Nos. 3 and 4 looked like this:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Boston	27	28	13	149	168	67
Chicago	25	28	15	162	171	65
Toronto	25	28	13	146	151	63

That night's results: Toronto 5, New York 0; Boston 2, Montreal 1; Chicago 4, Detroit 3. Toronto clinched third place and Toronto beat its arch-rivals Sunday, also. To take fourth place all Chicago had to do was beat Detroit.

With only the last games to play, the race for fourth spot shaped up like this:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Chicago	26	28	15	166	174	67
Toronto	26	28	13	153	156	65

Sunday night's scores: Chicago 4, Detroit 3; Toronto 5, Boston 1; Montreal 1, Detroit 1.

Toronto's hopes going into Sunday night's game were pinned on a Leaf victory coupled with a Chicago loss. Chief would have tied the clubs with 67 points each, but Toronto would have been awarded the playoff position on a games-won basis.

The Chicago victory kept Abel's playoff record perfect. As a player for 12 years with Detroit, he was a big factor in the Wings' entering the playoffs every year. Abel inherited an anything but promising club when he took over from Eddie Gerard midway. The team finished last in 1952 and was largely made up of castoffs from other clubs.

But the club, much to the surprise of everybody, started off in first place for the first few months. The Hawks dropped back a little as the season progressed, but they finished close enough to cop a valuable playoff spot.

Chicago had to come from behind in downing Detroit Saturday night. Two of Chicago's goals, including the winner, were notched by Bill Mosienko, an old hand around the Hawk camp. Other Chicago goals were scored by Gus Bodnar and Jim Peters. Alex Delvecchio, Marcel Pronovost and Metro Prystai scored for the wings.

George Gee scored the winner at New York Sunday night when the score was tied 1-1. With the Rangers down, Gerry Couture added the Hawks' third tally, Jim Henry scored Chicago's fourth early in the game. Defenceman Allan Stanley notched the lone tally for fall-end New York.

Toronto's hopes were buoyed with a 5-0 victory over New York Saturday night in what turned out to be the last game of the season in Toronto. Tod Sloan paced the Leafs with two goals and Sid Smith, Ron Stewart and Harry Watson counted once each.

Sunday night the Leafs bowed out of the 1952-53 season with a 3-1 victory over the Bruins in Boston. Sloan, Bob Hassard and Smith scored in the second period for the Leafs. Pentti Lund scored Boston's goal in the first session.

Fleming Mackell, a former Leaf playing with Boston, had much of Boston's scoring of late, notched the goal for the Bruins Saturday night that gave them third place and a 3-1 victory over the Canadiens in Montreal. Veteran Milt Schmidt counted for the Bruins in the first period. Bert Olmstead was penalized later in that session by Paul Meger.

Montreal and the Red Wings played to a 1-1 tie at Detroit Sunday night. Metro Prystai registered for Detroit and then Ernie Dussault equalized it.

Gordie Howe, star Detroit right-winger, failed to score his 50th goal of the season, falling one short of the record held by Maurice Richard of Montreal. However, the big forward finished the season on top of the point, goal and assists departments.

Detroit meets Boston and Montreal tangles with Chicago in the best-of-seven semi-finals for the Stanley Cup. The Detroit-Boston series starts in Detroit Tuesday night while at the same time the Hawks meet the Canadiens in Montreal.

Carruthers KO's Vic Toweel

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Jimmy Carruthers of Australia knocked out Vic Toweel of South Africa at 29 seconds of the 10th round Saturday night to retain the world bantamweight boxing title he won from Toweel last November.

The Australian demonstrated that Carruthers' first-round knockout in their first meeting was no fluke.

Toweel hinted that he is considering retiring from the ring at the age of 25.

"I am burnt up," he said. "I just ran out of gas, and it was physically impossible for me to continue."

He indicated he would have a conference with his father and trainer, Mike Toweel, to decide his ring future.

Carruthers, a 5-to-4 favorite in the scheduled 15-round bout, disappointed the crowd of 30,000 in Bantam Brand stadium who came hoping to see Toweel win. Toweel got even for the Nov. 15 beating.

Carruthers weighed 117 pounds, 14 ounces; Toweel 117 pounds, nine ounces.

Only a brief time it seemed the South African might make it as he staged a short-lived rally in the middle rounds. His fans supporters stopped cheering in the ninth round when Carruthers caught him with a smashing left to the jaw.

After that it was just a question of time.

'Money Broker' Takes Rich Derby

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Money Broker, a 15-to-1 shot in a field of 17 speedy three-year-olds, won the $100,000 added Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park Saturday, beating Blaze by a neck in a driving finish.

Spring Hill Farm's Jamie K and Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Blaze established in a dead heat for third in the 1 1-16 mile feature.

Money Broker, owned by Ed Grosfield and Alex Grixson, Detroit automobile dealers, ran the distance in 1:53 4-5 under jockey Eddie Arcaro and paid a handsome $33.80, $13.70 and $6.50.

Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War, the public favorite at 3 to 1, finished eighth.

No Racial Trouble With Dodgers Says Robinson

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jackie Robinson spoke out Sunday about his shift from second to third base, denying reports of racial tension and dissension on the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"What's good for the Dodgers is good for Robinson," he commented. "If the kid (Junior Gilliam) can hit .275, I think our club will be stronger with him on second base. He can get balls that I can't reach any more—maybe two or three years ago but no more. After all, I've only got a couple years left. If I have to move I'd rather play third than first."

As for racial trouble on the Dodgers, Robinson had this to say:

"If we have racial trouble on our ball club, then the rest of the country should have the same thing. It just isn't so. Not with the kind of fellows we have on this team."

Barrie Flyers Trounce Marlies 6-2 As St. Michaels Triumph Over Galt

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The penalty box in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens was well-heated during the week-end's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A activity. But the netting in the goals also took a test for although in the two games 106 minutes in penalties were handed out, 17 goals were scored.

Saturday's game accounted for 54 minutes in penalties and eight goals as Barrie Flyers took a 4-3 lead in their best-of-nine semi-finals with Toronto Marlboros by downing the Pukes 6-2. The Flyers' victory broke a jinx in that until Saturday's game, neither Barrie nor Toronto was able to win on visiting ice. Tonight and one victory only to clinch the series and the next game is scheduled for Barrie Wednesday.

St. Michael's College and Galt Black Hawks drew fewer penalties and stored more goals Sunday as the Collegians downed the Hawks 6-3 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-finals. There were 52 minutes in penalties Sunday but six majors for fighting accounted for 30 minutes.

Marlies took a 1-0 lead in the first on Chuck Bucas' counter but before the period ended Johnny Martan tallied once and Skip Teal notched a pair to send the Flyers into a 2-1 lead. Teal scored his third and fourth markers in the second and third periods. Orv Tessier brought down the curtain on the Flyers' scoring in the final, three minutes before Parker MacDonald notched the Dukes' second.

Sunday, captain Bill Dineen set a goal-a-period clip to lead the Irish to their second playoff win against the Hawks. Rightwinger Paul Knox who had scored three goals in each of St. Michael's last two home games before Sunday, notched two and just missed getting his third on about three occasions. Butch Ratchford tallied the other for the Collegians.

The Hawks did all their scoring in the first and at the end of the period they had a 3-3 tie with St. Michael's. Hec Lalonde, Ed Sievewright and Jim McBurney shared the Galt output.

Fourth game of the series is slated for Galt Tuesday.

Dixie Flashers Even Series With 3-0 Victory Over Junior Black Hawks

Hard-Checking System Pays Off for Flash Hollett Squad; Score Singles in Each Period

By JOSH GOODFELLOW

Dixie Flashers defeated Belleville Black Hawks 3-0 in Dixie Saturday and evened the best-of-seven quarter final best-of-seven junior "B" playoff series at one-all.

The result marked a complete reversal of form for the boys from the Hawks area who dropped the first game of the series here to the Hawks last Wednesday night, by the score of 5-3 at Memorial Arena for the third game of the playdown session.

Mitchell, Ballard and Bissonnette tallied for the winners, who deserved the victory. They checked the Hawks from the start and held back for the breaks. Don Barclay, who played a spectacular game, had no chance on the three shots that beat him. The Hawks missed Archie Stocco, hard-hitting baby faced defenceman, who was benched with the flu. However, his replacement, "Cukee" Baker, was an adequate fill-in both on defence and on the forward wall.

Score Early

It took Dixie just 2.27 of the first session to get the initial tally. Bill Reynolds was mainly responsible for this one, drilling one from 36 feet out. Don Mitchell, standing at the edge of the crease, managed to get his stick on it and deflect it past Barclay.

The Hawks pressed back and Halstead almost sank a pass from Hull after the latter had made a great rush. At the point, Herminston crashed into the boards and injured his left knee. He was carried off the ice and was through the rest of the night.

Halstead was penalized for tripping as the second period got under way and Hawks had to be good while he was away. Thornton and Jacklin both had good chances but were beaten by Clements from close in.

It wasn't until the 18.43 mark that Dixie added to their margin. Behind the Hawks net, Ballard's pass from Payne and slapping a shoulder along the line dropped the corner behind Barclay.

The Hawks tried to open the game to their style of play in the third period but the Dixie crew kept up its relentless checking. Hull and Jacklin both had fine chances but were stymied by the goalmouth.

Boncardo added the third goal for Dixie at 16.40. Bruce Webster made the play for this tally and by the time he got the puck to Boncardo, the left winger's shot found the target.

Draws Misconduct

The Hawks tried hard to get back in contention but found the kitty-bar-the-door tactics of Dixie's gang too tough to crack. Harvey Green drew a match misconduct penalty for questioning a questionable call by the referees and Manager Bill Cook followed him to the dressing room after the final horn. Followers of the officials a deep grimace with each shoot-in remarks.

Dixie definitely was a better club on the night's play. Their close checking throttled all but two of the Hawkmen, Hull and Therrien. Hull, despite the painful handicap of a charley-horse, was still three strides faster than any other man on the ice. Therrien, another speedster, managed to escape his custodian often to be dangerous when he played well, as did Gover. Barclay had to be good or the result would have been more embarrassing.

The teams:

Belleville—Goal, Barclay; defence, Green and Herminston; centre, Halstead; wings, Jacklin and Hull; alternates, Jones, Therrien, Gilmore, Brant, Casey, Hermiston, Goyer, Baker and Russell.

Dixie—Goal, Clements; defence, Bain and Henry; centre, Reynolds; wings, V. Webster and Bellegherm; alternates, Blake, Boncardo, B. Webster, Gordeneer, Reynolds, Belford, Copeland, Gibb, Courtney, Bain, Bissinall, Henry and Mitchell.

Referees — Kirkpatrick and Townes, Hamilton.

St. Michael's Edged In High School Volleyball Series

HAMILTON (CP)—St. Thomas Collegiate Institute remained undefeated Saturday to win the Ontario high school volleyball championship.

It was the third time in the 23 class and six in the B division.

Second in A class was Orillia with a 5-1 record, footing only St. Thomas. Toronto Central Tech was third with a 4-2 showing in round-robin play.

Second in B class was Collingwood, suffering one defeat in five games. Ridgeway was third with 3-2. Bedford, St. Michael's and Listowel had a 1-4 showing. Thorold was winless.

Kitchener-Waterloo YMCA won the Southwestern Ontario intermediate volleyball crown, piling up defeated in a four-game round-robin against teams from Hamilton YMCA and Galt.

Kitchener won the right to represent Southwestern Ontario in finals in April against teams from Northern Ontario and district and Northern Ontario.

Oshawa Whips Kingston 5-3

Oshawa, March 23 — Oshawa Smith, Truckmen took a 3-1 lead in their Eastern Canada best-of-seven play-off series here Saturday night by defeating Kingston Canadiens, 5-3, before 2,800 fans. Fifth game of the series will be played in Kingston on Monday night.

The game was a close checking affair, emphasis being on defensive faceoffs throughout. The teams were deadlocked after the initial period with Don McNeill scoring for Oshawa and Parisi replying for the visitors.

In the second, Kingston put up their biggest threat as they checked Don Calvanese into the box two-thirds of the period. The homesters rallied for one goal apiece by Ken Sanders and McNeil's second of the night to take a lead which they never relinquished. Gerow scored earlier in the period to keep the Canadiens within the hunt.

In the final twenty, Oshawa scored a quick counter by Jodd Wilson and then sat back and nursed their lead.

McGregor managed to break around the defence and beat goalie Ross Brooks with a sharp drive that never left the ice. Oshawa then went two up as Samolenko tallied his second of the night on a pass from McNeil to beat goalie Johnston, who played a stridout game.

Commercial League Starts Playoffs

The Men's Commercial Bowling League completed their regular schedule Friday night, and will commence the playoffs next week at the Bowl-O-Drome.

The only seven point winners of the night were Wood Sales over Alemite, while Welding Gases, Stephens-Adamson and Soaiks scored 5 to 2 wins over Goodyear, Quinte Distributors and Pat's Barber Shop.

The high triple of the season was rolled by Ron Saylor with an 823, while Ken Peacock came up with the high single of 361.

Other good scores were made by K. Peacock 782, J. Doran 772, A. Hamilton 768, R. Adams 766, K. Kells 680 (310), M. Peoples 631 (309).

The honors for rolling the High Average of the league go to Ron Saylor with the impressive 232 average.

The high triple of the year was rolled by Cliff Anderson with a nice 948, and Art Wilkins up with the high single of 385 to top the individual efforts.

The final league standing after Friday night's bowling:

Pat's Barber Shop	137
Soaiks	131
Quinte Distributors	121
Welding Gases	119
Gourleys	109
Hay Sales	105

Alemite	38

OHA Adopts New Major Series At Annual Confab in Simcoe

A. E. Stirling of Chatham Saturday was elected president of the Ontario Baseball Association for 1953 at the organization's annual meeting held in Simcoe Friday and Saturday.

He succeeds W. F. Nickel of Stratford, who announced his retirement during the meeting, and declined to stand for re-election.

C. G. Riddell of Milton was elected first vice-president. The two-year post, second vice-president, and James Millman of Lindsay, third vice-president.

The executive: F. Bradley, Hamilton; J. Least, Port Erie; H. McMullen, Milford and A. Walker, Oshawa.

New Series

The association established a new series for the top-drawer senior teams, to be known as the Major series. Although any team may enter this new city or locality in which the playoffs run to the finals, it must have been a bona-fide member of the OBA locality in which it plays by Jan. 15, and he must have been a resident of Ontario or Canada for one year prior to Jan. 15.

A player must advance to the Major series for three games, for which his team will receive $10 each. He plays more than three games he must sign for the Major series and will not be allowed to revert to a lower classification that season. The Major team which wins the player signs must reimburse the senior club an additional $30.

Any club with a population of 30,000 or more must enter either the major or senior "A" series.

Following a lengthy discussion on the minor leagues, the delegates voted in favor of home-and-home series to declare champions in the "B," "C" and "D" groups where time permits. Otherwise, playoffs will be based on the tournament system.

A recommendation that all protests be disposed of within five days of the time the secretary receives the complete protest was approved.

Many other additions or amendments to the constitution, as well as several suggestions to the incoming executive, were tabled during the two-day meeting.

Reviewing the year's activities, Nickel said 1952 was a very reasonably good year." He called for closer consideration of the minors in the hope of finding "some means of improving the financial position of the minor clubs and thus themselves."

Treasurer Merrill Blank reported that the OBA operated with a profit of $400 during 1952.

The Stirling Trophy for the outstanding coach in the province was presented to Cecil Morrison of Petrolia, who handled five teams during the year and won championships in peewee "B" and intermediate divisions.

Kitchener-Waterloo 'Dutchies' Win First Senior Hockey Championship

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's been a quarter of a century since any Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen fan has been as proud as he is today. The Dutchmen won their first Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship in 25 years Saturday when they defeated Barrie Sonnys 6-3 in Kitchener. The victory gave them the best-of-seven-series 4-2.

Sharp Defence

In Sudbury Kitchener's rivals for the Eastern Canada senior finals in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Bruce Flashes 10-6. The Wolves breezed through their best-of-seven series 4-1 in three straight games.

The pattern of the windup in Kitchener was written in the first period when Kitchener scored the first goal for the first time in the six-game series. Mercurys made it count. Bill Sharp of Kitchener took a 2-1 lead before the period ended. They added another in the second and wrapped it up with two more in the third.

Art Hood, Howie Lee, Jack McKenzie, Doug Verity and Don Bauer played the Dutchmen. Buck Forslund tallied for the Mercs.

Drones Miss Tourney Chance

Thirteen more pins and the Belleville Bowl-O-Drones would have qualified for a berth in the all-Ontario five-pin bowling championships being held in Toronto next March 30-31.

The Drones went to Kingston on Saturday and competed with teams from that city and district to decide two representative teams of the district for the tournament.

Kingston Circle Greys topped the tournament with an aggregate score of 6119; Kingston Spitfires finished second with 5783 and Belleville Drones third with 5778. The scores represent five games.

Playing for the Drones were Ken Saylor (1084); Jim McKenzie (1254); Henry Beline (1179); Vince Sagriff (1072) and Art Aikin (1183).

'Hec' May Go To Europe

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Wilson, manager of Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league, said Sunday that two players will be chosen from Galt's team to make a tour of Europe with the parent Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

Wilson said manager declined to name the players but close observers are of the opinion that the two will be selected from among Ken Wharram, Minnis Menard, Ed Litzenberger and Jim McKenny. Galt is playing Toronto St. Michael's in the OHA Junior A semi-finals.

Tri-Bells Whip Livvies 85-66 For Court Title

TORONTO (CP)—Noxtown Tri-Bells Saturday night won the Southern Ontario senior basketball championship with an 85-66 victory over the 1952 Canadian champions, Tillsonburg Livingstons.

It was the second straight victory for the Noxtown club. They took the first game 79-73 in Tillsonburg last Saturday. They now meet Sault Ste. Marie for the Ontario championship.

The best-of-three series will be played on the Sault April 2, 3, and 4.

Bill Coulthard led the Livingston scoring with 17 points and Harry Wade and Woody Campbell sank 16 points each. Glenn Pettigrew paced the winners with 17 points.

The Livingstons were outclassed by the hard-checking Noxtowners. The Tillsonburg team trailed 18-14 early in the first quarter but as the session ended the Livvies had a two-point lead. From there on it was Tri-Bells' game. Toronto turned on the pressure in the second quarter and led 43-36 at the half. They built up a 59-49 lead at the three-quarter mark and increased it to 80 in the fourth and had it cut to only one point at the final whistle.

The Livingstons picked up 32 free points and the 17 field goals. The Bells counted 29 field goals and 27 free shots.

Flash Fire Kills Five Horses In Stable at Jamaica Track

BY TED REISER

NEW YORK (AP) — At least five race horses were dead today from a flash fire which swept a stable area last night at Jamaica race track, the third fire at a New York track and 10th in the United States since last May.

Firemen kept the blaze from spreading to other barns housing about 500 thoroughbreds getting ready for the track's April 1 opening. They could find only five charred carcasses Sunday night in the ruins of Barn 32.

Owner Paul Tecotzke reported the loss of Sign Here, Fair Self and Brave Irish, and trainer Larry Sprigle said Asses Master Star and Ruby also was missing. And Tecotzke Kinsley of the Bonnie Stable said Michea, a full-brother to the stakes-winning Bonnie Michele, a two-year-old filly and two-year-old also were missing.

Flames fed First Night Tecotzke, which won his only start in impressive fashion at Saratoga last year, appeared to be the most valuable horse lost as the flames roared in a 100-foot-high column, visible for 20 miles. A $16,700 purchase at a yearling, he had been conditioned for the $10,000-added Youthful Stakes April 29, one of the track's major two-year-old tests.

Among those saved was Intent, twice winner of the rich San Juan Capistrano Handicap and a front racing around the track all alone in the dark, their stalls, screaming.

Intent and four others, Fleeting Owl, Last Round, High Chief and Beshadar, raced wildly about the barn before fire reached a stall from fire. Last Round had been nominated for the Paumonok Handicap, track's opening-day feature race.

Track officials estimated the loss of the barn at $30,000 and the horses were valued at another $30,000.

Another well-known horse which survived the blaze was Count Turf, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1951. The horse was led to safety from a nearby stable. Only two other horses were in Count Turf's barn, but 18 others were due in today.

Firemen prepared to sift through the ruins of Barn 32, situated near the backstretch, for more carcasses. Two lead ponies also were reported destroyed, but the remains of only one could be found.

One of the other local fires at Belmont Park on May 19, 1941, broke out on the eve of the fall meeting, and Belmont Park also had a fire in June 26 just after the close of the spring meeting.

George Gundy, chief of the track's detective detail, said there was no evidence that any suspicious circumstances about the fire.

Stable hands tried to open all the stall doors and bring the horses to safety, but many fled in panic. Other steeds, however, fulfilled their stalls, screaming.

Sudbury Wolves Northern Champs

SUDBURY (CP)—Sudbury Wolves Saturday night captured the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship by blanking Rouyn Flashes 10-0 to win the best-of-seven final series in three straight games. They won the others 6-2, 6-1 and 5-0.

The Sudbury Wolves, undefeated in 11 straight play-off games against Northern Ontario Hockey Association, North Bay Trappers and Rouyn, now meet Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Ontario Hockey Association Senior A champions. In the Eastern Canada semi-finals.

Saturday night's victory marked the first time the Sudbury team has won the Sudbury since 1945.

Sparkplugs in the goal-getting were Bill Sharp, Malcolm Hood and Nick Tomiuk with two apiece. Other marksmen were Andy Milne, Red Barrett, Tatter McLellan, Gordie Heale, Marty Burton and Gerard Jenkins.

The outclassed Rouyn club, coached by Frank Selke, trailed 4-0 at the first intermission and 5-0 at the end of the second period.

The game also marked the second straight shutout for Sudbury goalie Andy Anderson. He allowed only three Rouyn goals against him in the two games. It was Anderson's second perfect game of the season.

Digby Heads East. Ontario Soccer Groups

A meeting of the Eastern Ontario Football League was held in Batawa on Friday evening with representatives from seven of the Eastern Ontario district football associations being present.

Considerable interest was evident in the league this season, with every possibility of more teams operating in the league this season.

It was decided that where a new club could not accept membership in the league before April 1, Sunday fixtures be scheduled according to the date and record places.

April 11 was set as the latest date for entry applications to be received and it was proposed to schedule the first game of the 1953 season for Sunday, May 3rd in April.

Digby of Belleville was re-elected president of the league, Jim Craig of Peterborough, vice-president and Fred Jones of Belleville, league secretary.

On Saturday evening, 1952 league champions, Peterborough UEW were hosts to the annual league banquet at the Kawartha Club in Peterborough which was a most enjoyable affair and was much appreciated by all in attendance.

By The Kibitzer

The holdup in bridge is not a one-man job. Declarer can pull it nor either defender can. For the benefit of beginners, a simple example is chosen to show how it works. This is the deal:

NORTH
♠ 8 4 2
♥ 9 5 4
♦ 6 5
♣ K Q J 9 8 3

WEST
♠ J 10 9 7
♥ 10 7 4 2
♦ Q 10 3
♣ 10 5

EAST
♠ K 6 5 3
♥ Q J 8
♦ K J 9 7
♣ A 7 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q 6
♥ A K 6 3
♦ A K 8 4
♣ 6 4

The bidding goes like this:

South	North
1 H	2 C
2 D	3 C
3 NT	Pass

It so happens that a contract of five clubs is easy to make with the loss of only one trump and a spade. Whereas, it is easy to defeat three no-trump if opponents are careful.

With the top cards south held he would suspect that the only big cards in dummy are in clubs. But he is not aware of the fact that dummy will be so barren of entries. Even though he suspects it he is willing to take a chance on three no-trump being made.

The opening lead from west was a spade, the only suit not bid. With a sequence in that suit, west led the top (jack). South caught this with the queen and needed eight more tricks.

He has five of these with clocher, four tops in the red suits and the ace of spades. The other three he needs must come from the club suit in dummy. His plan is to get them from there, if he can.

What is to stop him? Only the outstanding ace of clubs. Push out that club ace and dummy clubs will bring in more tricks than is needed, provided, however, dummy can be entered to cash the clubs.

This can be prevented only by the opponent who holds the club ace. All this opponent has to do is refuse to win a trick with his ace until south is out of, clubs; hold up the ace for a round or two.

Kill the dummy.

Riding School Operator Died By Own Hand

BARRIE (CP) — George Mason, 56-year-old Toronto riding school operator whose body was found near here Thursday, died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds authorities reported Friday night.

Coroner Dr. E. G. Turnbull, of Barrie, said no inquest would be held.

He made the announcement after he had received the report of provincial pathologist Dr. Fred Jaffe, of Toronto, who performed an autopsy.

Mason's body was found by his son-in-law, Tom Donnelly, with a shotgun lying across his body. Earlier police speculated that Mason might have been a victim of foul play.

TWO DIE OF SMALLPOX

TODMORDEN, England (AP)—Health officials took emergency measures Saturday to halt a threatened spread of smallpox which already has cost two lives in this central England textile town. More than 100 persons believed to have had contact with the victims were vaccinated. Five cases have been confirmed in Todmorden. Another confirmed case was reported in Oldham about 12 miles away.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Millions of TV viewers Thursday night saw what an academy award event is really like—a little long, a little dull, and at times exciting.

The laughs and dullness came from the steady processing of awards. Each year—the academy seems to find new reasons for stringing out Oscars. Not even the wit of Bob Hope as master of ceremonies could relieve the dullness for the general public.

But Oscar night is always exciting too. The thrills come when the major awards are handed out. Even when the winners are generally predicted, as Shirley Booth and Gary Cooper were this year, it is still thrilling to learn the real news.

The big surprise came with the naming of "The Greatest Show on Earth" as the best picture. No one expected that. The Cecil B. De Mille circus film was greatly enjoyed by all audiences, but the other nominees were more artistic jobs. As with last year's surprise winner, "An American in Paris," the Oscar went to the most entertaining film of the year, not the most artistic.

Star of the arrival festivities was an unidentified woman who stepped from her car and dropped a stiletto high heel under her dress She calmly picked it up and placed it in the car while the 2,500 onlooking fans howled.

Joan Crawford, sole star nominee to appear at the Hollywood show, appeared flustered, although she claimed she had no idea of winning. She said she had bet Shirley Booth $20 that Miss Booth would win.

Vivien Leigh, the other top winner last year, was scheduled to hand the award to the best actor. She left here for England Wednesday night after suffering a nervous breakdown.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

Appearing with Lanza is Doretta Morrow (of the famed Broadway musical hit "King and I") James Whitmore and Paula Corday. Lanza sings "The Lord's Prayer" in this new film. A Tom & Jerry Cartoon and Pete Smith creation are added attractions.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

"Little Egypt" also "State Dept. File No. 649"

After Minor Watson, a tobacco magnate, consents to subsidize a nonexistent Nile reclamation project, partners-in-crime Mark Stevens and Steven Geray, a fake pasha, are only too happy to co-operate with his desire to transplant a street of old Cairo to the Chicago World's Fair. Rhonda Fleming, a dancer in love with Stevens, poses as an Egyptian princess and gets in on the clinker act. The fair, about to flop, is saved by a bootchy-kootchy number in Rhonda's repertoire, but a subsequent court hearing for indecency unmasks the impostors and ends the nefariousness afoot. However, it proves a publicity windfall for Watson's tobacco company, and he hands over $100,000—which winds up in the hands of the Irate Egyptian government, while Stevens in addition to a desire to go straight, gets Rhonda.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—General headway promised by existing vibrations. Proper order, accuracy, energy will count most.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—A careless word or move could cause needless irritation. A word to the wise should suffice.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—May be that you have only routine matters, interests that at first look ordinary. Check carefully before decisions, however; and for hidden uncertainties.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Friendly period for a friendly tempo which means one that does not drive too hard causing tension, fatigue. But don't lag.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Your mental planets in unusual configurations today, but other aspects suggest precisions. Smiles are important.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Prospects more encouraging than you realize, also hidden advantages. It is up to you to do with what you have that will count, then.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Be advised against aimless arguments. They upset others, defeat intelligent effort.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Your personality is going to play a vital part in this day's auspicious activities. Your family affairs favored.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—These days are not for idling or mooning over anything. Keen thought and real action required.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—A short cut for the little things may save you much trouble and errors in the long run. Be rightly painstaking, not fussy.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Have care in reports, business commitments, home duties. Sound determination, mobility of mind are in urgent demand.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Have in mind long-range benefits; careful preparations. Slow-but-sure movements and accuracy are tiptop necessities.

YOU BORN TODAY: Be easier on your own and others' disposition. Be independent, assertively, fewer irons in the fire at one time. That's if you are the familier Aries native. Discrimination, perseverance, foresight, versatility are out standing. Aries folks have reached top success, and often quick time. Birthdate of many noted poets and travellers.

Itch...Itch...I Was Nearly Crazy

Terrible Case of Itching, Burning Scaled By D. D. Prescription positively relieved pain and itch—stopped scratching, made scaly irritation clear. Soothe itch-tortured skin with cooling, greaseless, stainless D.D.D. Prescription. Ask your druggist for D.D.D. PRESCRIPTION

Did you know that emergency assistance, medical and clothing aid for needy Canadian veterans and their dependents, not eligible for assistance from any other agency, are supplied by the Canadian Red Cross Society.

SILENT STEERSMAN

OSLO, Norway (CP)—A new-type automatic pilot has been installed on three fishing vessels at Egersund. The push-button steering device maintains a predetermined course as long as necessary.

"Goo whiz, oh man, it's great." Cried the brand new heire "I couldn't have done better, In the classified!"

SHANNONVILLE

Dr. McVicker Addresses Home-School Assoc.

Shannonville — The Home and School Association held its monthly meeting Monday evening, with Mrs. Kilburn acting as chairman, as president Gerald Dafoe was called from the village on business.

Mrs. Helen Louis was appointed as corresponding committee for the remainder of the season as Mrs. Ruth Stoliker has been unable to attend meetings due to illness in the amily.

A social evening was arranged for the children in place of the sleighing party; the party will be held in the form of a party on Friday, March 27th. Treats for the children are being arranged by the social convenors.

Mrs. Ray Sagre, Mrs. Carman Brant, Mrs. Mavis Hill and Mrs. Helen Spencer will convene the euchre parties during March.

Mrs. Dorothy Sword reported the association has 56 members.

Founders' Day collection was taken and the evening adjourned.

Dr. McVicker was the guest speaker for the evening, his subject being "The New Born Days to School Age", also "Lunches at School." The most interesting and the parents present learned a good many pointers. The Association thanked him for his appreciation to Dr. McVicker for his kindness in speaking to the evening with the Home and School Association.

A euchre was held on March 20 and also every second Friday throughout the season.

PICTON

Picton — The condition of Mr. Edgar Hill, proprietor of Picton Gaol, who has been seriously ill, is somewhat improved.

Mrs. Harry Rawlins and Misses Eileen and Peggy Rawlins, of Kingston, are spending the week to spend two months with relatives in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Birks (Lillian Carter) are reported to have purchased the property of Mr. Cuptain) Christie, on Bridge St.

The St. Patrick's concert, presented in St. Gregory's hall under the auspices of the parish P.W.R.U. — Catholic Association, supplied a program with something to please everyone. We all know there are two classes of Irish, the tall, wistful, yearning Irish and the devil-may-care Irish, who are as quick with the shillelagh as they are with a smile and a dance. For the former there was the old fashioned Irish songs that strike an unswering chord in so many hearts. For the latter there was Roy O'Leary and "Sweet Molly Malone", regular and vocal by Mr. Cook; Irish dance by Barbara King; McKeman's Band; by Fred Roby, instrumental chorus and comedy number by Mike Finnegan and Jack Fraser, and the jigs by Elmer Gerow and Elizabeth Williams, brought down the house.

Mrs. Bennie was called on the stage and presented with a bouquet of spring flowers in appreciation of the help given by her husband, Mr. Andrew Bennie, in arranging the program.

Friend Mr. Fred Fournis is ill at his home on Lake St.

PROBE FIRE DEATHS

GRAVENHURST (CP)—An inquest has been ordered into the deaths of two children, husband and death in their home near here Friday night. The children were Virginia Engil, 18 months, and Monica Engil, four months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Engil.

FAMILIAR SIGHT

CRAWLEY, England (CP)—London women who moved to this new town in Sussex missed the "barrow boys." London's famed merchants on wheels. Council now plans to build an open market with street stalls.

Why We Say--

Our modern toll highways are usually called turnpikes. The name is derived from the gates or bars which once controlled the roads. Each gate was numbered and the toll was paid . . . After payment an attendant would turn the gate . . . to let the traveler pass.

New Steel Process Brightens Labrador Future

A great future is in sight for Labrador's iron fields with the development of a process by which waterpower can be used to convert iron to steel. Preliminary surveys of Labrador's waterpower show a potential almost enough to supply all of Canada. Labrador's deposits of iron are described as "unlimited" by engineers who expect new discoveries to be made as prospecting continues. — Central Press Canadian.

Pilot Rescued from Inferno of Blazing Plane

An arrow points to U.S. Airman Richard D. Donovan, clad in asbestos suit, making his way to the cockpit of a shattered Corsair fighter plane to rescue the unconscious pilot. The plane was wrecked when it landed aboard the aircraft carrier Oriskany off Korea with a live bomb dangling below the wing. The pilot was trapped in the cockpit by parachute harness. Pilot E. L. Kummer was removed despite fire and exploding ammunition. — Central Press Canadian.

Pay Envelope Of $4,900 Taken By Drug Addict

TORONTO. (CP) — A man who said he was "a drug addict and in earnest" Friday held up Harold L. Clark of the National Fur Manufacturing Company and got away with a pay envelope containing $4,900.

Clark said he had parked on Jarvis street south of King Street in downtown Toronto and was returning to his office with the pay when a man of about 28 or 30 got into the car, pulled a gun and demanded the pay envelope.

He was clean shaven, wore a brown fedora, blue overcoat and had the look of an addict, Clark told police.

Central Spot Could be Used For Executions

OTTAWA (CP)—Provinces would be allowed to execute convicted killers at a central spot under a proposed amendment to the Criminal Code, the Commons criminal law department was told Friday.

A. A. Moffat, justice department law officer, said the revision was drafted because of protests in recent years against the stipulation that executions must be carried out in the prison where the convicted man has been confined.

A new clause in the bill amending the Criminal Code says only that sentence of death is to be carried out "within the walls of a prison." That would leave provincial authorities, who administer the Criminal Code, free to nominate any prison within provincial boundaries as a place of execution.

Two Children Burned to Death At Gravenhurst

GRAVENHURST (CP) — Two small children were burned to death Friday night in a log cabin four miles south of here, before their parents, visiting neighbors across the road, could reach them.

The children were Claudia, four months and Virginia, 18 months, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Engli, recent immigrants from England.

The Englis and another child had been away only a short time when they saw their small log house on fire. They ran back to the house, about one mile from No. 11 highway, but were unable to get inside to reach the children.

Neither the neighbors nor the Englis were able to check the fire.

Search For a Hero

By Thomas Hal Phillips

I had not thought of joining the navy—I figured the Navy didn't do much fighting — but while I idled in that long hall s chief had two yeomen opened the Navy Hous. . I was tired of waiting, and I followed the chief and his men. I answered a few questions: age, education, and the standard list. Then I said, "I want to go today."

The chief said, "What's your hurry? You stole something?"

"I don't want to wait around home—not even one day."

The chief scratched around at his neck. "You got written permission from your folks?"

"Nossir."

"You've got to have that. We can do everything else I guess. Then you go home and get your papers all signed and be back here at 8 o'clock. I am going to strain a point and get you on tonight's draft for New Orleans and—and you'd better make a good sailor."

If I was going to join, I wanted to join whole-hog, and make sure I got into the real war. If I got killed, maybe it would be a glorious death, heroic anyway. If I didn't get killed, I could talk about the battle at so-and-so while Wallace and William and Papa talked about the game with so-and-so.

I said, "Could you put me into the amphibious forces?"

The chief looked funny. "We don't put you nowhere. You'll go to New Orleans and then likely to the Lakes or to Diego. But wherever you end up at, you won't have no trouble getting into the amphibs—you might have some trouble getting out."

Within an hour a drummer picked me up. I smiled with the feeling that The Immense Design was pleased. I thought how difficult it would be to explain why I was smiling, how one small movement of the face went back for years and seemed to touch everything I had ever known.

* * *

When I got home, only Wallace was there, in the living room, his feet propped on a chair, and his French book in his lap, asleep. He turned his whole body around to look at me.

"I thought the French business was all settled," I said.

"I might as well try it once more. It can't hurt. What are you doing away from the store?"

"I haven't been to the store today. I've been to the city — and am now a 99 per cent member of the United States Navy. Soon at Papa and Mama sign this paper, I'll be whole-hog and long-gone."

I showed him the paper.

"What if Papa don't give over!"

"That would be tough."

"What will you give me to take it to him? He's working on the treasile."

"What's your price?"

"Sixty-five on that exam tomorrow."

"I can't trade. I'm on tonight's draft for New Orleans. I have to be in Corinth by eight."

"It's going to cost you. But I'll guarantee the signature."

"How?"

"Because I know a way, and I'll use it. If anybody can get it, you know you can. The price will be—let me see—a few minutes I know that someone was standing behind me. I turned and there was Mama standing behind me.

"You halfway scared me. You sounded for all the world like your Uncle Williesm. Did you eat at the store?"

"I wasn't at the store. I was in Corinth."

"For Mr. Wilkes!"

"For myself. I've joined the Navy."

"Well . . . what on earth? Because you're mad at your daddy, that's it. The same thing happened 20-odd year ago; a fuss with Benford and your Uncle Williesm was off to the war. You can't tell me history don't repeat itself. You're not coming back—I know that. You're walking in Williesm's shoes, and mark my words—you'll die in Pershing."

"Maybe they'll send me to the Pacific."

"It's all the same."

"Wallace has gone now for Papa to sign the papers — you're supposed to sign them too."

* * *

I sat at the cook-table while Mama brought out a dish of string beans, cooked with bacon, and a plate of corn muffins and a giant fruit jar of buttermilk. Then Wallace came running into the house. He threw the paper on the table and said, "Signed and sealed, together."

I handed it to Mama, and Wallace gave her my pen. She dried her hands on her apron and signed without reading or saying a word.

"Thank you, Mama."

"You're welcome." She did not look up; she was carefully scraping the eye of a large potato.

"Thank you, Wallace."

"Just remember the trade."

"Where are you going now?" Mama said. I wondered how she knew I was about to leave the house.

I'll say goodbye to Meb and a few others. I'm leaving at 6.30."

"Tonight?" A few peelings slipped from her lap. I picked them up for her.

"Yes, ma'am."

"And your last meal in this house nothing but muffins and beans."

"And buttermilk," Wallace said.

I went to the gift shop and watched Meb, trying to please Miss Audie Himes with some piece of costume jewelry, maybe a pink-and-gold pendant for somebody. Meb saw me but she made no sign of recognition. I thought there was no doubt that Miss Audie wanted the jewelry for less than the price marked; they said she took out her telephone when Papa, through Congressman Lambert, got the post office salary away from her — not an easy thing to do, since she had given half the money to build a new church when the old one burned down. She was one to make people choose sides; usually they liked her very much but they disliked her.

She bought whatever it was she held in her hand and left. Meb shook my head at Meb.

"Oh, I feel sorry for her," Meb said. "She has everything, and nothing to do—except feed those dogs, and she doesn't have to do that."

"Yes, I feel sorry for the rich too. Money is such a burden."

"I was nice to her, wasn't I? Mother likes her very much. She thinks there's nobody like Miss Audie."

"Is your mother here?"

"No, why?"

"I came to tell you something."

"I already know. I saw Wallace."

I held her hands on the counter. Mine were damp and left their print. "I'm going tonight."

"He told me that too."

"Are you still got in love with anything?"

"I've always been in love with something . . . You should have known that ages ago."

"I knew that much . . . Aw, I wish I hadn't come up here. Nobody every told anybody goodby properly. Anyway, I never did. . . . I let go of her hands. I could feel the wall coming between us; I would soon be speaking into emptiness. All the times we had even so, much as laughed together would be caught beyond the wall, and I would not be able to hear the slightest echo of it. I thought: If there is a showdown between me and William, he will win, because he has always won; Wallace is so good-looking he is almost a joke, but William isn't a joke.

"Do you know how I feel" Meb said.

"No," I shook my head.

"Sometimes back home it would be walking along those gray, narrow, cobblestoned streets, coming from school—in winter it would already be dark when I got out of the lycee. I would be afraid—maybe a door would open and swallow me. But usually I'd meet an old woman coming from the market, a beautiful loaf of bread cradled in her black satchel. I never watched anything except the bread, because it seemed like the bread had saved me. The rest of the way I wouldn't be afraid . . ."

She seemed so much older than I, removed, like her mother saying, "The Germans and the French don't hate each other; maybe fear, envy, jealousy, but not hate, because the French are still playing Beethoven and Mozart and Wagner and Schumann, and the Germans are still reading Hugo and Balzac and Moliere and Flaubert and Racine—or will be, again."

"I'm going now, Meb. I'm not saying anything right." I backed to the door.

"I'm not saying anything right, either."

"Goodby . . ." And I was gone. In my room—when I had packed I could not decide whether I wanted to leave before Papa and William came home. One minute I would think: I am going now; the next minute I would be searching my room to see what I had left undone.

I was still sitting on the bed when I heard Papa and William enter the living room. With hat in hand I went downstairs. Papa looked me over carefully. "What kind of stunt are you trying to pull?"

"No kind."

"Go on. You'll be back by midnight. The idea of going off at 6 o'clock at night to join the Navy."

"No, he means it," William said. "He always means it."

"Where's Wallace?" Papa said.

"I don't know." Mama said. "I'll look. I thought he went to the smokehouse." She left and Papa turned to me.

He said, "Wallace made like to me it was a joke. You two have cheated and tricked me."

"Why did you sign it!" William said.

I love it back to me, Don. You can think about the Navy a year from now. Wallace and William'll be off at school. That's enough."

"You won't miss me. The only thing you'll miss is what I'd pay on the grocery bill."

His face got red, and I could almost see his jaws spread, like an adder. I was sorry I had made him so mad. "You'll not get away with my signature."

I dropped my bag and backed toward the mantel.

"I'm going to take that paper." He started toward me slowly. I backed until my shoulder touched the mantel.

I stopped and took the poker into my hands. He stopped. I was trembling. "You're my daddy and all . . . but you put a hand on me and this is coming down on your head. Maybe I am a fool, and don't have a lot of things you and your other sons have —

We don't like each other, I guess —and , you'd better leave it at that—" He wasn't red now, and he was still. " I couldn't see William, but I don't think he had moved."

Brilliant Blast As Second Test Made in Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A brilliant atomic explosion was touched off on the Nevada desert this morning with 21 aircraft—including 12 intercontinental B - 36 bombers—flying on various missions overhead.

The United States atomic energy commission's announcement said this was the first time such a large number of aircraft had participated in a test.

The AEC said today's blast was fired from a 300-foot tower on the Nevada proving ground 75 miles from here. There was no hint of the planes' missions.

Today's shot appeared much brighter here than the one that opened the 1953 spring series last Tuesday. And its coral-tinted cloud, which divided as it rose, seemed to exceed much faster.

The AEC did not disclose the energy of today's blast or describe the type of device being tested.

But the sound of the explosion, which takes about seven minutes to reach this resort-gambling centre, was loud as last week's. This was apparently due to atmospheric conditions.

Brig.-Gen. William Bullock, director of an army manoeuvre in which 1,500 troops were stationed in foxholes 4,000 yards from ground zero, reported there were no casualties.

The AEC said animals, including pigs and rabbits, were exposed to the blast for a study of biomedical effects.

The army also stationed sheep at varying distances from ground zero and announced the troops will get a look at the animals when it is safe to enter the area, so soldiers can see what happens to living things and fully protected.

Chicks Taken Out Of Struck Plant On Court's Order

STRATFORD (CP)—More baby chicks, 16,000 of them, were removed without incident today from the strike-bound Swift Canadian hatchery here.

Only four pickets of the striking Local 304 of United Packinghouse Workers (CIO), were on hand as company trucks left the buildings. They stood by while the trucks passed.

Today's evacuation of birds was the fourth since the plant closed for March 6.

Friday, city police escorted the company trucks through picket lines as near violence broke out with the arrest of 10 men by uniformed officers in an attempt to halt the walkout. One woman picketer was injured.

Sunday night, 14,000 more chicks were whisked through picket lines while another batch of birds were taken out yesterday. Drivers did not interfere.

In a hearing at Osgoode Hall in Toronto Monday, Chief Justice J.C. McRuer ruled that picketers must not interfere with the evacuation of many more chicks from the hatchery.

THE WEATHER
TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The rain which occurred Monday in advance of another air, has pushed slowly across eastern Ontario. Colder temperatures spread into northern regions as a disturbance in northwestern Ontario moved eastward.

A new disturbance developed in Manitoba and is moving rapidly northward today. This disturbance will cause the rain to continue in the eastern regions of Ontario and southern Quebec today.

Temperatures across Ontario will drop to normal in a westerly flow of cooler air. A few snowflurries will accompany the cooler air are expected tonight in western regions.

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Four anti-Communist Czechs—one a woman—slugged the radio operator and grabbed control at gunpoint of the "Freedom Airliner," which sought refuge Monday night at the big American air base here.

U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant today disclosed first details of the daring dash of the Czechoslovak airline C-47 which crashed through the iron Curtain with 20 persons aboard.

The pilot and three fellow conspirators planned to land the craft until American authorities had assured them they would be granted asylum, Dr. Conant said. A total of six asked today to be accepted as political refugees.

An official statement said the flight couple and "some of the passengers" planned the escape. They requested political asylum immediately upon landing.

U. S. officials indicated that genuine refugees would be allowed to remain but others would be sent back to their Communist-ruled homelands.

The C-47 airliner carried four crew members and 25 passengers. It was flying from Prague to Brno, inside Czechoslovakia, when the chief pilot made the successful dash for the U. S. zone of Germany.

Plane Guided Down

U. S. radar sighted the airliner as it approached the West German frontier. It was guided to Germany for nearly 200 miles. American radio instructions helped it down on the U. S. Air Force runway at the big Frankfurt air base.

Unofficial reports said some of those aboard the plane were not seeking political asylum.

The dash to freedom occurred just 13 days after three Czechoslovak Air Force men escaped to Allied-occupied Austria in an old Messerschmitt.

The airliner now is in the custody of the U. S. Air Force and presumably will be returned to Czechoslovak National Airways.

Conferred With Staff

U. S. High Commissioner James B. Conant conferred this morning with his staff at his headquarters near Bonn but no news official statement was released.

Buys Napanee Paper

NAPANEE (AP)—The Napanee Beaver, one of Ontario's oldest newspapers, was purchased today by I. Earl Horrison of Napanee.

The paper was established in 1870 and until now, has been in the Templeton family continuously.

Napanee is 22 miles east of Belleville.

Repatriated Woman Says Russians Massacred Jap Civilians in 1945

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese woman who returned Monday from Communist China said today she saw Russian soldiers line up and shoot 1,000 Japanese in cold blood after Japan's surrender in 1945.

Mrs. Kesae Kuraishi, one of 4,000 Japanese just repatriated from Manchuria, told a press conference she escaped the massacre by hiding in a ditch.

She said the incident happened in Manchukuo where Japanese civilians, thinking they were still at war, fired on a Russian plane.

Then, she said, 1,000 of us, evacuees from Japan, were lined up and raked with machine-gun fire," she said.

Her husband was later killed by Manchurians.

Mrs. Kuraishi's story was one of the most sensational told by any of the Japanese repatriates who have arrived at Maizuru after spending from 10 to 20 years in China.

GARDINER SAYS FARMER BETTER OFF THAN EVER

Agricultural Minister Defends Govt. Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner says the Canadian farmer is better off today than ever and no one knows it better than the farmer himself.

All the farmer has to do, Mr. Gardiner told the Commons Monday night, is put his hand in his pocket—even after Finance Minister Abbott has taken his tax slice—and there are his pockets full of earlier years.

The minister, in an hour-long speech in defence of government policies, offered the opposition parties a bit of advice. They should stop shouting, he said, that Canada is in a bad business slump, that agriculture is going to wrack and ruin and that markets for agriculture have been lost. The farmer knew otherwise.

Markets Not Lost Claim

Mr. Gardiner said markets have not been lost. The fact is that the cost of production had gone up, but so had farm production. Canada had produced more food in the last three years than in the last three years of the Second World War.

And, Mr. Gardiner said, so long as the General government is in power, prices will go down less than they would under any other party's policy.

Mr. Gardiner spoke after John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) moved a motion urging government consideration of a greater use of floor prices to bolster the farm industry. The motion asked that prices floor would result in "fair return" in relation to the cost of production.

Diefenbaker Moves Motion

The motion, technically one of non-confidence in the government, said Parliament should not after consultation with farm organizations.

Mr. Diefenbaker moved his motion after a long debate in which Opposition parties raised issues ranging from the Canadian Pacific Railway to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Caught at Homes

Three Communist bigshots rushed at their homes by police raiders were charged with endangering the external security of the state. They are: Leslie Sill, editor of the Paris Communist daily newspaper Humanite; Lucien Molino, secretary of the Communist-dominated Confederation of Labor (CGT) Travail; and Andre Tollet, CGT leader.

Police also raided the home of CGT Secretary-General Benoit Frachon, 61, but found him gone. Guards at airfields, seaports and frontier posts were ordered to arrest him on sight.

Raid Offices

Led by 25 chief inspectors, police today pounced on about a dozen CGT offices—mostly in northern Paris—trade union headquarters and party meeting halls in a dawn clean-up began about 5 a. m. and lasted more than 3 hours.

The raiders met some resistance but there was no violence, a police spokesman said.

While some police seized documents inside the building, others mounted ladders outside to tear down banners demanding the release of Alain de Leap, another CGT secretary arrested in the October raids.

Two Communist lawyers, Joe Nordmann and Pierre Villard, quickly offered Sill and the other leaders under arrest, contending the police power was tinged to coincide with Premier Rene Mayer's departure today for conferences in the U. S.

Mayer wants to arrive with the heads of Communists in his suitcase," said Nordmann.

Twenty Feared Dead In Brazilian Wreck

SAO PAULO, Brazil (Reuters)—Twenty persons are feared to have died today when a crowded passenger train plowed into the back of a standing freight here today.

More than 100 persons were injured. The wreck occurred in the suburbs of Sao Paulo.

U.S. and Colombian Troops Break Biggest Chinese Drive In Savage Battle for Hills

SEOUL (AP)—United States and Colombian troops broke the biggest Chinese attack in five months today in a savage battle for three key hills on the western Korean front.

Early reports indicated close to 300 Chinese were killed or wounded along the Imjin valley invasion route to Seoul.

The main Red attack smashed at a three-mile sector, 11 awgol over Old Baldy and Pork Chop hills and against T-Bone and Hill, three of the most fought-over peaks in Korea.

The Allied nicknames of the hills derive from the odd battle-scarred terrain.

U.S. 7th division soldiers cut out the heart of the Red attack but on the Reds held doggedly to one side of Old Baldy, still a churning battleground this afternoon.

Part of the Colombian battalion was in the fray.

With the 7th division took the first blow on Old Baldy. Later U.S. infantry came up to help.

The Chinese opened the battle along a 4-mile strip Monday night with diversionary attacks on the Colombians just after dark. Three Red charges were beaten back.

Then, at 9 p.m., the Reds swung their Sunday punch.

Three battalions charged from under artillery against the hills. The Colombian division troops bear the Reds back after two hours of bloody fighting.

But at Pork Chop and Old Baldy the Chinese poured to the crest. Hand-to-Hand Fighting

The Allied troops met the Reds hand-to-hand. They fought on the torn top of Pork Chop for three hours in smoke and roar of machine-guns and burp guns and artillery. At dawn the Reds fled.

But on Old Baldy the battle still raged for the top.

U.S. tanks opened up on the Reds and the Chinese laid a smoke screen to bring up reinforcements. Wave of guns poured in, thundering barrage into the base.

Not since the battle for White Horse mountain last October have the Allies hurled such reckless large-scale attacks.

The air war was quiet. Low clouds hung many Allied planes on the ground.

1,000 Police Round-up Reds In Paris; Hold Leaders For Endangering State Security

PARIS (Reuters)—A force of 1,000 steel-helmeted police probing a plot against the state today arrested Communist leaders here in a series of dawn raids on Red publishing houses, trade union headquarters and homes of party members.

The Paris military court ordered the round-up in connection with its investigations into alleged Communist attempts to demoralize the French armed forces. The investigation has been going on since last October, when police raided Communist haunts throughout the country.

The purchase, announced here Monday by Kaiser-Frazer, is expected to be completed next month. It is subject to approval by Willys-Overland's common stockholders who will meet April 24.

Graft Is Charged In Nfld. House

ST. JOHN'S (CP) —

A charge that corruption is going on under the nose of the New-foundland Government was levelled in the legislature Monday by Malcolm Hollett, leader of the Progressive Conservative Opposition.

He said no effort is being made to eliminate graft and extravagance and graft and corruption."

Mr. Hollett's charge followed moved to have him ruled out of order. Mr. Hollett was protected by a 11th-century ruling because the charges were not directed against a member of the House.

Two-Alarm Fire Ties up Traffic

TORONTO (CP) — A two-alarm fire raged out of control for more than an hour in east-central Toronto today, guttting a three-storey factory, paralyzing and tying up morning rush-hour traffic in one of the city's busiest areas. No one was injured.

Firemen estimated damage to the McCull Corporation building at $100,000.

Nine firefighters were treated for minor cuts and flames spread through the brick factory and burst through the roof, showering the area with fiery debris. Neighboring apartments were evacuated when the blaze threatened to spread.

BILL TO REPEAL COLORED OLEO BAN BEFORE HOUSE

Liberal Member Issues Prepared Statement

TORONTO (CP) — Margarine and edible oils, subject of much discussing in members' rooms but little legislative action, came before the Ontario House Monday.

Albert Wren, (Lib.-Lab.—Kenora) submitted a bill to repeal the ban on colored margarine.

Mr. Wren said the ban on yellow margarine was "discrimination" and "useless." He thought the dairy industry never emphasized the possible effect of colored margarine on the sale of dairy products.

The Liberal member spoke only briefly in the house but distributed a prepared statement which said the ban served only to "drag a red herring across the path of forcing large section of the population to use a product they are pleading to them."

Observers said Mr. Wren's bill has considerable unofficial support from the government members in that it would be up to approval unless the government introduced amendments of its own which would make it government legislation.

Another bill on edible oils, which would empower the government to forbid the manufacture and sale of edible oils except margarine, is still awaiting second reading although it was introduced almost a month ago.

The bill was presented at the women's groups who paraded in front of the Parliament Buildings last week.

Spring Blizzard Blocks Roads, Communication

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Northern Saskatchewan battled eighth-consecutive blizzard under a spring blizzard.

Snow fell more than 12 inches of snow at some points in the Prince Albert-Battleford-Saskatoon triangle and at 6 p. m. winds piled it into eight-foot walls. Roads were blocked and numerous communities isolated.

The snow started late Thursday in southwestern Alberta. The storm picked up speed as it moved northeast across the Prairies. Monday night it was blowing itself out over the Hudson Bay country of northwestern Ontario.

The Prince Albert area reeled under the worst storm since March 16, 1951. A milk shortage threatened as high drifts prevented farmers from making deliveries.

Fuel dealers reported that heavy orders for deliveries could not be made because of snow-blocked roads. Rural mail carriers were unable to get into the city to pick up deliveries. Country schools were closed.

Aged Dowager, 85, Reported Sinking As Heart Weakens

Queen Elizabeth, Others Go to Marlborough House

LONDON (CP) — Proud old Queen Mary sank near death today and members of the Royal Family were summoned to her bedside. She is 85.

Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret, left Buckingham Palace hurriedly just before 5 p.m. GMT (noon EST) for her grandmother's home, Marlborough House just 200 yards down the Mall.

Queen Mary took a grave turn for the worse today and anxious doctors said her heart is weakening. The proud old lady appeared to be sinking fast.

Call Archbishop

Other members of the Royal Family included Queen Mother Elizabeth, the Duke of Windsor and the Duchess of Kent, visited Queen Mary's bedside.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, also hurried to the aged Queen.

Crowds began to gather outside the 85-year-old Queen's residence, Marlborough House, near Buckingham Palace. Court officials reported the grave news to Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family.

Bulletin Issued

A medical bulletin issued early this afternoon said Queen Mary's condition has become "more grave."

It was the second bulletin of the day on the condition of the grandmother Queen, who took a turn for the worse today after being stricken a month ago with what doctors said was a recurrence of a gastric ailment.

Medical experts said the two bulletins left no doubt that there had been a sharp deterioration in Queen Mary's condition.

Weakening of the heart is extremely dangerous in a woman of her age, they said.

No Details Given

No details of the exact nature of Queen Mary's stomach complaint have been disclosed.

The granddaughter, the Queen, and other members of the Royal Family were quickly informed of the developments. The Duke of Edinburgh arrived by plane after a week's tour of Germany and hurried to Buckingham Palace.

Crowds gathered before Marlborough House, Queen Mary's residence near Buckingham Palace.

There are earlier bulletin posted on the gates today (6:30 a. m. EST) said:

"Queen Mary had a restless night due to a recurrence of more severe symptoms of gastric ileus. Her Majesty's condition is causing some anxiety."

Specialist Attends

It was issued by Sir Horace Evans, the Queen's physician who specializes in kidney and arterial diseases, and Lord Webb-Johnson, her surgeon.

Queen Mary has been confined to bed for more than a month with gastric ileus, described as a recurrence of an old gastric ailment.

RCN Destroyers Given Citations For Korean Duty

OTTAWA (CP)—Award of a unit citation by the president of the republic of Korea, Syngman Rhee, to four Canadian destroyers was announced today by naval headquarters.

The ships are the Cayuga, Sioux, Nootka and Huron. They were members of United Nations task force 95, under command of United States Navy command, which received the presidential unit citation for continued devastating attacks against the enemy" between September, 1950, and August, 1951.

The Athabaskan, another Canadian destroyer now on her third tour of Korean duty, was cited December, 1951, for her services during the same period. The four destroyers have been rotated since the outbreak of the Korean war so as to have three destroyers on the job at all times.

"The efficiency with which task force 95 accomplished all of its assigned missions," the Rhee citation said, "is in accord with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon the unit and each individual member."

The citation listed the accomplishments of the task force, which included assault landings at Inchon and Kansong in 1950.

Rubble Kitchen for War, Disaster Feature of Restaurant Exhibition

Canadian Press Business Editor

A cookstove made of rubble, with a garbage can for an oven, is a feature at the convention and exhibition of the Canadian Restaurant Association which opened today in Toronto.

The primitive cookstove is set amid thousands of gleaming utensils and gadgets of sleek restaurant operation. It is an exhibit designed for contrast—and it is not there to show how the science of food-serving has progressed.

It is there to show people how to get to work quickly if war or disaster should set them to forging for food.

The cookstove is part of an exhibit by small electric welders services, which was opened Monday by Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, federal civil defence co-ordinator.

Electric- and gas-operated equipment, including stoves that run out of commission, but anyone, if he can improvise, can quickly set up an emergency kitchen with things that are around him.

He can build a stove from rubble, using mud for cement. He can set an oven in its centre, even if, as with the current exhibit, it is only a garbage can. He can provide a fuel space underneath which will serve for a hot plate, a flash pan for oil and water.

In Britain, some 60,000 women are being taught how to go to work quickly with such "curbside" cookery. British experience is that people in their first distress and shock need something "hot and sweet"—probably tea—to revive them.

The "curbside" cookstove can produce that and follow up with sustaining stews.

Restaurants and other cooking and eating establishments are being asked to make arrangements so that they can quickly put emergency facilities to work, if their modern kitchens are put out of action.

And, shortly, communities across Canada will be asked to send representatives to Ottawa to take instruction in emergency cooking and feeding. These representatives will, in turn, instruct teachers in their own communities.

NURSES DISCOVER NUMBERS OF CASES OF PINK EYE

The health department nurses are discovering a great number of cases of pink eye among school age children. This fact was reported today by the medical officer of health, Dr. A. M. Brealy.

The doctor described pink eye as a highly contagious but abnormally affecting one or both eyes, causing irritation, redness and discharge. The symptoms usually disappear within a week.

Because of the communicable nature of the disease, Dr. Brealy has given instructions that no pupil having pink eye is to be admitted to classes. Parents are requested to examine their children's eyes before sending them to school, and to keep them home if they exhibit the aforementioned symptoms.

In case of doubt, it is wise to consult the family physician.

DELEGATES RETURN FROM CONVENTION AT SIMCOE

Mrs. William McKenna, president or the ladies auxiliary of the Provincial Command of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, Mrs. Arthur Galbraith, secretary of same organization, and Mrs. John Clarke, delegate from the local branch, have returned from Simcoe, where a meeting was held over the week-end.

Meeting at the same time was the Provincial Command of the A.N. & A.F. Veterans which president James Lazenby of the local branch and William Ford, a past - president attended.

Both meetings were reported successful affairs and the hospitality of the host branch left nothing to be desired. The delegates at early meetings will report to their respective branches on the business transacted.

Concert Assoc. Ready to Start 20th Season

The 20th. annual meeting of the Community Concert Association was held in Bridge St. United Church on Monday evening.

A representative from Columbia Concerts, Miss Christine McKeon, was present and briefly addressed the gathering.

Miss McKeon only recently joined the staff of Columbia in New York. She brought the compliments of the organization to the local group. "It would be difficult," she said, "to imagine what life would be like without music. It always has had and always will have a great influence on our personalities. It is our one spontaneous contact with children. Music is also an aid in overcoming the language barrier," she noted.

Miss McKeon described several instances of her associations with music in Europe. She acclaimed the gathering, that by Tuesday all membership renewals must be turned in. "There are many campaigns under way," Miss McKeon said in conclusion, "and this is another. Unlike other campaigns, this is one for the soul, one which refreshes the mind."

Commend on Work

Miss Leona Rigga, president of the local group, commended on the success of the year's work. She said: "We have 19 years behind us and I know there are many present who were here when we were first started. We are now embarking on our 20th. campaign," she continued, "and I know that with the good will of son here tonight, may be depended upon to assist in carrying it out to a successful conclusion.

Mrs. R. L. Gibson, campaign chairman, announced that new memberships, both senior and junior, were being turned in. She noted that to date 438 adult memberships had received and along with 48 student memberships. She also urged the gathering to submit their renewals by today as Tuesday was the deadline. The renewals are to be turned into the Y.M.C.A.

Following the meal, renewal envelopes were distributed to those who had recruited new memberships.

Miss McKeon was introduced by the president, Miss Leona Rigga.

Willet Ketcheson Celebrates 92nd Birthday

Mr. Willet Casey Ketcheson celebrated his 92nd. birthday and his family gathered at his home on Sunday at Foxboro.

During the afternoon several relatives called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. Ketcheson, to extend birthday greetings, gifts and best wishes for health and happiness to Mr. Ketcheson.

Many friends and relatives of Mr. Ketcheson remember many real old sugaring-off parties given by him to his Sunday School class, and community at the sugar house in the bush, when thirty, fifty and one hundred friends gathered around a large kettle, and had a splendid feed of maple taffy and maple sugar.

These parties were usually held to celebrate Mr. Ketcheson's birthday. The memory of which, along with other happy occasions, when the community gathered at the home for melon feeds, socials and other events, will be treasured by those privileged to enjoy them.

Mr. Ketcheson's 92 years have been spent in the Bethel - Zion community. He always attended Sunday school and church services regularly until very recently. He enjoys fairly good health, was a successful farmer, and at present helps with the lighter chores around the farm.

He has one daughter, Mrs. G. D. McCullough, Foxboro; two sons, Mr. Cecil B. Ketcheson, Holloway, and Mr. D. Clifford Ketcheson, Holloway; three granddaughters, Mrs. Donald Bateman, Trenton; Mrs. M. Gay, Belleville; Miss Ann Marie McCullough, Toronto; also a grandson, Mr. Laurison W. Ketcheson, Holloway.

During the afternoon Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson, Mrs. Laurison Ketcheson served dainty refreshments to relatives who called to wish Mr. Ketcheson many happy returns of the day.

On his 92nd. birthday Mr.

65 Years Married

MR. AND MRS. J. F. WEESE

Mr. and Mrs. James Weese, Rednersville, on Saturday Will Be Married Sixty-Five Years

After working each autumn in a neighborhood sawing factory since quitting the farm 22 years ago because of a heart condition, James F. Weese, 87, of Rednersville, six miles west of here in Prince Edward County, thinks he will retire.

"I think I have worked long enough," the retired farmer says. "I am not going back to the factory this year."

"You work too hard at the factory," his 81-year-old wife agreed. Mrs. Weese also works at the canning factory and fully expects to return this autumn and help peel and pack tomatoes.

On March 29, Mr. and Mrs. Weese will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary and all five children, three sons and two daughters, will be on hand for the family get-together.

The couple was married back in 1888 at the Methodist parsonage in Carrying Place. Mr. Weese is a native of Prince Edward and has lived there all his life. Mrs. Weese is the former Matilda Stewart and was born in Hamden township.

Owned Three Farms

Since their marriage they had owned three different farms. They milked as high as 16 cows by hand "We never had any milking machine or tractors," Mr. Weese said. He can see no use for a tractor on a small farm where horses are kept. "Anyway," he says, "tractors pack the ground and cut production."

He recalls when Prince Edward was a big grain growing district with thousands of bushels of wheat and barley being shipped out by schooner each year to Oswego and other lake ports south of the border.

Harvested with Cradle

As a young man he recalls getting behind the cradle and doing it with the cradle. Later came the reaper but the wheat still had to be tied by hand. "Then binders were introduced and now we have the combine," Mr. Weese said.

Mr. Weese has no recipe for their successful years of life and the love and has done so since he was a young man. "I don't think what we do or what you do has much to do with it."

They have been regular attendants at Rednersville United Church and just across the road from their home. Mr. Weese doesn't go much any more because of his difficulty in walking, but Mrs. Weese attends regularly.

Mr. Weese still drives a car and proudly says he has never had an accident. "Accidents don't just happen," he says, "there has to be a cause and mostly the cause is just carelessness. He thinks a more strict examination before granting driving licenses would help.

Both Wear Glasses

The elderly couple both keep abreast of world events by reading and listening to the radio. Both wear glasses only to read. Mr. Weese does not think the proposed St. Lawrence Waterway will ever be a success. "Ocean boats would come in and take away the trade or Canadian lake freighters," he said.

He is a firm believer that in the end right will survive. He thinks that only Divine intervention saved the British at Dunkirk in the last war and believes that internal troubles will eventually destroy the Communist regimes.

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Weese live in the Bay of Quinte district. They are Clayton, Smithfield, west of Trenton, and Norman, of Frankford. A third son, Lloyd, lives at Rednersville. One daughter, Mrs. Everett (Flossie) Strickland, lives in Toronto, while another, Mrs. Thomas (Beryl) Lasilla, is in Belleville.

There are 13 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Ketcheson could look back and recall many occasions when, through his efforts and unselfishness, some happiness was added to the lives of others.

Public Relations Subject of Talk At Rotary Club

Charles Watson, vice president in charge of public relations for O'Keefe's Brewery, urged business men at the Rotary Club to conduct a local survey to discover how their business is regarded by public eyes. "If you don't know what people think of you, how can you conduct your business in a manner which will be satisfactory to your customers?" he asked.

Mr. Watson was speaking at the regular noon luncheon of the club in the Hotel Quinte on Monday. He described his own company's policy in the field of public relations and stressed bringing about better public relations between management and its employees and the public.

"We are in a period of buyers' market. Now is a time of public wooing. Remember the public has a long memory, at least for a bad deal. In this matter of good public relations, we must put first give your own employees a fair shake," he stated.

The speaker described several instances whereby good public relations had paid off in small establishments, when these firms were already outclassed in appearance by larger and more progressive appearing firms.

Mr. Watson concluded by saying: "This business of public relations," Mr. Watson said, "can best be described as a showing of common courtesy with expressions of appreciation to customers. Let your customers know that it is a pleasure and privilege to serve them. Never forget to say 'thanks a lot' and 'we appreciate your business' in the meeting. To be good public relations, must be used by Albert "Toots" Holway with thanks being expressed by Stu Martin. Club president Harry Knott was in the chair.

Courtesy, Service Best Ways to Win Says Speaker

A showing of common courtesy with expression of appreciation to customers is one of the best and simplest ways to conduct a public relations campaign, members of the local Kinsmen Club were told at their regular bi-monthly dinner meeting Monday evening.

The speaker was Charles Watson, public relations manager for O'Keefe's, who told what his firm was doing to bring about better public relations between management and its employees and the public.

"Good public relations is a very simple matter," he pointed out. "Employer-employee relations are at their best when workers are content and happy, while courtesy and service with a smile make for better relations with the public."

The speaker illustrated his point by citing the case of a Florida night spot which was doing a land office business despite the fact is as outclassed in appearance by its more elaborate neighbors.

"The reason is that customers are greeted with a smile and when they leave the manager is on hand with an expression of appreciation for their patronage."

Discussion regarding a carnival show proposed to be brought to the city in the near future by an up-and-coming service club, was brought up most of the business session of the meeting.

The proposal if the show is introduced by Albert "Toots" Holway with thanks being expressed by Stu Martin. Club president Harry Knott was in the chair.

Public Relations Subject of Talk At Rotary Club

Charles Watson, vice president in charge of public relations for O'Keefe's Brewery, urged business men at the Rotary Club to conduct a local survey to discover how their business is regarded by public eyes. "If you don't know what people think of you, how can you conduct your business in a manner which will be satisfactory to your customers?" he asked.

Mr. Watson was speaking at the regular noon luncheon of the club in the Hotel Quinte on Monday. He described his own company's policy in the field of public relations and stressed bringing about better public relations between management and its employees and the public.

"We are in a period of buyers' market. Now is a time of public wooing. Remember the public has a long memory, at least for a bad deal. In this matter of good public relations, we must put first give your own employees a fair shake," he stated.

The speaker described several instances whereby good public relations had paid off in small establishments, when these firms were already outclassed in appearance by larger and more progressive appearing firms.

Mr. Watson concluded by saying: "This business of public relations," Mr. Watson said, "can best be described as a showing of common courtesy with expressions of appreciation to customers. Let your customers know that it is a pleasure and privilege to serve them. Never forget to say 'thanks a lot' and 'we appreciate your business' in the meeting. To be good public relations, must be used by Albert "Toots" Holway with thanks being expressed by Stu Martin. Club president Harry Knott was in the chair.

IN MEMORIAM

PHILLIPS. — In loving memory of Mary Jane Phillips, who passed away March 24, 1950.
Sadly missed by husband and family.
Time heals their home shows,
But memory keeps their memories fresh.
Rewarded for her love,
Remembered and loved always by her husband, children and family. M34

BARLOW. — In loving memory of Martha, wife of James Barlow, who passed away March 24, 1952.
Sweet is the memory of a dearly loved one,
Sadly mourned today,
Lovingly remembered always. M34

KELLNER. — In loving memory of a dear son, Pte. Jack Edward (Joe) Kellner, who died March 24, 1945.
God gave me a wonderful son.
His memory will never grow old;
He fashioned his smile out of sunshine,
And left it with me.
He inscribed his heart of pure gold,
He needed a new star in heaven
A beautiful light to shine,
So out of this old world of sorrow
He chose that star as his home.
Remembered and loved always by his mother, sister and brother. M34

LITTLE. — In loving memory of Gail Elizabeth Little, who passed away March 24th, 1952.
Sweet memories we have of you,
Dear Gail, but we keep weeping
The darkest hour is just before dawn
And just as it was opening
To the glory of the day
Down came the Heavenly Father
And took you away.
Lovingly remembered by daughter, mother and sister Wanda. M34

LITTLE. — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who died March 24th, 1952.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our memory,
For the days we do not think of you
Are very few indeed.
All the years we've worn ours to give
To you we still hold dear.
We'll be true to your memory
Down coming through the door.
—Loving wife, daughter Jean and son Frederick, daughter-in-law Muriel and Nancy. M34

Daughter of Former Residents Wins Trip To United Kingdom

Two lucky Manitoba teen-age girls Wednesday were given an all-expense tour that a month in Great Britain this summer with other Canadian girls as guests of W. Garfield Weston.

They are Barbara Thomas, 16, of 99 Middlegate, and Carol Bowyer, 17, of 649 Riverwood avenue, Fort Garry.

The girls, together with others chosen from across Canada, will sail for England May 22 on the Empress of France. They will spend a month touring famous cities and towns in England, Wales, Scotland, Ireland and a few days in Paris.

In addition they will be spending several days in London during Coronation period with a special group of 50 British girls who will be coming to Canada as Mr. Weston's guests.

The trip is sponsored by the Canadian-British Festival as a means of fostering closer Commonwealth relationships. The girls were selected in co-operation with the Canadian Education association and provincial education departments.

Qualifications considered by the selection committees included school-astic records, leadership qualities, and ability to meet and converse while on the tour and later to pass them on to other students.

Barbara Thomas is a student at Gordon Bell high school.

Carol Bowyer is a student at Viscount Alexander high school where she had an above-average scholastic record. A Girl Guide leader, she has interested in music and choir work.

Carol, who is also the first girl president of Viscount Alexander high, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowyer, formerly of Belleville.

May be Using St. Mary's River By End of Week

CLEVELAND (AP)—With their eyes on the thermometer, Great Lakes shippers predicted Sunday that ore navigation may be moving through the St. Mary's river by the end of this week.

Right now the river, which connects Lake Huron and Lake Superior, is a mass of ice 14 to 20 inches thick. But the Coast Guard says the ice is deteriorating rapidly and ice breakers are already operating there early this week.

"If the weather stays warm," said Capt. Dwight Dexter, operations officer in the Coast Guard here, "I think some ore vessels will be able to get through the St. Mary's under escort, on Saturday."

The biggest fleet operator on the Lakes—the Pittsburgh steamship division of U.S. Steel—started getting some of its 54 ships ready for the navigation season Sunday.

Forward crews were going aboard, the company announced that nine vessels will leave Lake ports March 27 for the Lakehead.

There, at such points as Duluth and Two Harbors, the ships will take on ore and start the long file that won't end until late fall.

JOLSON ESTATE SOLD

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — An estate where the late singer Al Jolson lived during his marriages was sold at auction today for $112,500 cash. The buyer is William E. Holroyd, retired insurance dealer, of suburban Sherman Oaks. The Encino estate includes a main house with 14 rooms and eight baths, a guest house, chauffeur's dwelling with two bedrooms, two baths, a four-car garage and workshop; a 75-by-25-foot swimming pool with bath house and cabanas, and 127 orange trees. Furnishings went with the house.

Col. McNaughton Will Change Name For $250,000 and 10-Room House

KINGSTON (CP) — For $250,000 and a 10-room house, Lieutenant-General A. G. L. McNaughton's son is going to change his surname to Leslie.

The 23-year-old second son of the Second World War commander of Canada's overseas forces has given notice in an advertisement in an Ottawa newspaper that he will seek to take the surname of his grand-aunt, the late Mrs. James Norman Stuart Leslie, of Kingston.

J.L.-Col. Edward Murray Dalziel McNaughton will apply to a county court judge in Ottawa on April 27 for the change of surname which will enable him to claim the legacy of Mrs. Leslie, who stipulated that, to inherit her property, he must take her family name.

The bachelor Col. McNaughton was serving in Korea with the 1st Royal Canadian Horse Artillery when he first heard the terms of Mrs. Leslie's will.

Since boyhood he had known the ivy-covered house with its precious antiques, fluvial trees and crowded memories of his grand-uncle's life. Described as a big house affectionately called him Mr. Teddy when he spent two weeks as a guest of the wife dowed Mrs. Leslie shortly before her death in 1951. Col. McNaughton her husband's old regiment in Korea. Soon after he went to the Far East, Mrs. Leslie died, having been in her 80's, died.

Interviewed in Korea after announcement of the will last August, Col. McNaughton said he was quite comfortably off as it is and I don't particularly need the money. Naturally, I like the traditions of changing my name. My father is very well known and I am quite happy with it."

He also said: "If the old girl (Mrs. Leslie) sincerely wanted me to continue the family name, it very much like will be a matter of personal honor with me."

Col. McNaughton, who was an older brother, still is in Korea. He will return to Canada in May if leave is granted his regiment.

Brig. Howard Graham, now Lieutenant of the Canadian section of the International joint commission, was not available today for comment.

The amount of the succession duties on the estate still is being determined. Some of the Leslie holdings are in U.S. and European securities, which figures still to be assembled and valued.

Col. McNaughton, whose home is in Ottawa, served in the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery in the Middle East and Europe during the Second World War.

He was Mrs. Leslie's favorite relative. The joy he brought to both Mrs. Leslie and her husband in his childhood days and the pleasant memories that arose from the association are acknowledged in the bequest.

Mrs. Leslie was the former Ann Gertrude Dever, daughter of Senator Dever of Saint John, N.B., and was married as a kindhearted, retiring woman.

Her Kingston residence remember her riding once a week through the streets in a chauffeur-driven limousine to visit the bank and some women's shops. The rest of the time she stayed in seclusion in her home on Emily St., Kingston Lake Ontario.

As she mourned for her husband, a military man all his life and the holder of a First World War decoration, and walked past the portraits of her ancestors in her house, she looked about for a way to keep his name from dying out. She was childless.

The founder of the Canadian branch of the distinguished Scottish Leslie family fought under Field Marshal Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham in 1750.

Col. McNaughton's mother was formerly Miss Wehr, a niece of Col. Leslie.

Even the name-change requirement was the main provision in Mrs. Leslie's will. The will also said that if Col. McNaughton declined to change his name, his children by any furture marriage should be given a similar opportunity.

Fiery Committee Argument Over Demotion of CNR Hotel Manager, Motion Ruled Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Reverberations over the strife-ridden case of Robert Pitt, demoted Canadian National Railways hotel manager, will be heard today in the Commons railway committee.

As it seumes, the committee will have before it the echoes of a roaring, indignant denial by Donald Gordon, CNR president, of any "political interference" touching him in Mr. Pitt's shift.

The big, silver-haired rail chief, riled by the "political interference" suggestion, swept committee rules aside Monday night and yelled that no one has had the "slightest influence" with him in the Pitt case, crashing a huge fist on the committee table for emphasis.

Parliamentary Issue

His statement was the latest episode in the Pitt case, which has become a parliamentary issue in recent weeks. Mr. Pitt was moved to Brandon, last fall from the managership of Winnipeg's Fort Garry Hotel, one of the top units in the CNR chain.

Opposition members of the Commons have been trying to dig out correspondence on his case—on suggestions that he was moved down because of complaints from government quarters after a visit of Prime Minister St. Laurent to the Fort Garry last summer—but the communications were refused by the Commons.

Correspondence Refused

Progressive Conservative members renewed the attack when the railway committee Monday night, also calling for the appearance of Mr. Pitt and Robert Sommerville, CNR manager of hotels. A motion for production of the correspondence was ruled out of order by chairman Hughes Cleaver (L—Halifax) in a complex decision that apparently left the question open, to be taken up later.

Mr. Pitt, Mr. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) made a brief appearance, and then blew up when Mr. Pitt's demotion was connected with suggestions that the way members of the prime minister's party were treated in the Fort Garry.

Mr. Macdonnell said since had been an "outburst" in the hotel lobby by Ex. W. Pickersgill, clerk of the Privy Council and former special assistant to the prime minister, over a newspaper headline of the prime minister.

Mr. Pickersgill had told Mr. Pitt he did not "know anything about running a hotel."

Builds Up Steam

Mr. Gordon sat silent, apparently building up a head of steam as various committee members toned down the incident. Then he blew his safety valve late in the session.

The old-fashioned rail chief, just entering his third year in his $50,000-a-year job, stamped his fist down on the committee table with a thump and said it was an "absurd" for Mr. Pitt to ask for a committee hearing through Mr. Macdonnell. This should have come through himself.

With another wallop at the desk he shouted:

"I have been accused of giving way to political interference. I deny it."

Said Called a Liar

"Do you suggest that Jack Pickersgill, or anyone else can scare me?" he asked E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops), who had been backing up Mr. Macdonnell.

"Do you think you can scare me?" returned Mr. Fulton, red-haired former Rhodes scholar.

Mr. Gordon accused Mr. Macdonnell of calling him a liar, at which point members started calling for order.

Amid an uproar of calls for order and for adjournment, Mr. Gordon could be heard:

"I don't care if I'm in order or not. I will not be called a liar."

About then the committee decided to adjourn until this morning. Besides the Pitt case, which cropped up on the hotel section of the annual report of the CNR, it still has to discuss several of the major aspects of the railroad's operations and financing.

Operating Costs Put Railways In Dilemma —Gordon

OTTAWA (CP) — Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, said Monday railway operating costs and increased freight rates resulting from them have put the railways in a dilemma.

He told the Commons railway committee the railways are pricing themselves out of some business and, beyond that, high rail charges of commodities could affect the sale of Canadian products in foreign markets.

The answer, he said, is "self-discipline" so as not to "kill the goose that lays the golden egg," though he said specifically he was not aiming this admonition at railway labor. The CNR payroll accounts for 56 per cent of its operating costs.

Down Wage Yield

In his annual appearance before the House committee looking into the CNR's affairs, Mr. Gordon said:

"Do you think you can scare me?" returned Mr. Fulton, red-haired former Rhodes scholar.

Mr. Gordon accused Mr. Macdonnell of calling him a liar, at which point members started calling for order.

Amid an uproar of calls for order and for adjournment, Mr. Gordon could be heard:

"I don't care if I'm in order or not. I will not be called a liar."

About then the committee decided to adjourn until this morning. Besides the Pitt case, which cropped up on the hotel section of the annual report of the CNR, it still has to discuss several of the major aspects of the railroad's operations and financing.

gave information over a wide field including:

1. The CNR feels there must be no loss of revenue to the railways from the current freight-rate equalization studies being conducted by the board of transport commissioners.

2. The company is trying to find a means of producing cheaper meals in its diners, which now are giving an expensive and "too luxurious" service.

3. New and perhaps "surprising" proposals concerning commuters' service are to be made by the company to the transport board.

Mr. Gordon said the CNR loses heavily on commutation service.

Not Too Happy

4. The CNR is "not too happy" about its accident record but is doing all possible to tighten up safety precautions. However, the record is no worse than those of other railroads.

5. On passenger operations, the CNR probably makes "a little money" on its main lines and loses on practically all branch lines.

6. The CNR does not expect to lose out from water competition created by the proposed St. Lawrence seaway, figuring that anything good for Canada generally is good for the railways. New business created by the seaway will be shared in by the company.

Expresses Apprehension

On the question of how much higher freight rates can go, Mr. Gordon expressed some apprehension, in response to questions from committee members. He said the problem is complicated by competition from other carriers, chiefly highway transport.

"We are in a dilemma," he said, "and it is getting increasingly worse. With each freight rate award, the area in which we can get an effective increase is narrowed, and we are pricing ourselves out of the market steadily."

T.V. AND PURE CANADIANISM

In the face of heavy criticism in the House of Commons in respect to television policy for Canada, it is interesting to note that the Government can and does plead the strength of its position by citing the policies laid down by the late Viscount Bennett when the CBC was being established in the 1930's.

The issue in the House has been argued on the rights of private television operation. In this argument the Progressive Conservatives have taken the lead in demanding fuller opportunities for private operators, criticizing the extent of control vested in the CBC. Behind all this of course is a stated government policy aimed at developing good Canadian programs, produced by Canadians for Canadians. The merits of the issue can be argued interminably without any prospect of the Government retreating very far from its plan whereby stations in the largest cities will be publicly owned and operated, leaving the smaller centres to private enterprise.

To the outsider in the debate, however, a refreshing contribution to it in lighter vein was made by Walter Dinsdale, Progressive Conservative M.P. for Brandon after he had listened to a number of speeches on the importance of developing a "real", a "new", a "dynamic" Canadianism by the public control policy. A former social science professor, Mr. Dinsdale thought some of the views were a bit extreme.

He wondered whether someone might go so far as to suggest that we shut out all foreign influences and invited the House to listen to what an American delegate had to say about this. Americans to preserve their Americanism. The U.S. writer had described a "typical day" in the average American's life.

Dawn found the typical gazette in pyjamas, a garment of East Indian origin, and lying in bed built on a pattern which originated either in Persia or Asia Minor. He is mumfied to the ears in un-American materials: cotton, first domesticated in Indian; linen, originally from the Near East; wool from an animal native to Asia Minor; or silk whose uses were first discovered by the Chinese. All these materials had been made into cloth by methods invented in Southwestern Asia.

On awakening he glances at a clock, a medieval European invention, given its name by a Latin word. Here, if he chooses to think about it, he must feel he is in the presence of a great American institution. But if he ponders the question he will realize that the foreign influence pursues him even there. All the fixtures are of foreign origin.

Mr. Dinsdale stressed that no matter how hard Canada may try to develop a pure Canadianism, foreign ideas will worm their way in as they already have both in Canada and the United States. He felt that somehow Canada will be the better for it, too.

Many will concede, no doubt, but at the same time it must be agreed that some measure of protection from a veritable flood of American television is desirable. Over the years, with such protection, Canada could have come a long way on its own. There is room of course for both, and the argument will always arise as to the policy which provides the desirable and happy medium.

A DISTRESSING AFFAIR

There was something particularly distressing about the story from Ottawa the other day which told how thousands of baby chicks deliberately placed in steel drums to be gassed and destroyed.

In a strike-bound packing plant the chicks were just breaking out of their shells or were a day or two old. There was no one at work to feed them. Pickets would not allow them to be shipped out of the hatchery.

As the only alternative, destruction, and the chicks was supervised by officials of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. And the strike went on.

It was a shocking affair to the average citizen. It was an absurd waste. It was a disgusting demonstration of the lengths to which forceful picketing is permitted to go.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1953, Edgar A. Guest)

GOOD BUSINESS

If I possessed a shop or store,
I'd drive the grouches off my floor.
I'd never let some gloomy guy
Offend the folks who came to buy.

I'd never keep a boy or clerk
With mental toothache at his work.
Nor let a man who drawe my pay
Drive customers of mine away.

I'd treat the man who takes my time
And spends a nickel or a dime
With courtesy and make him feel
That I was pleased to close the deal.

Because tomorrow, who can tell
He may want stuff I have to sell.
And in that case then glad he'll

To spend his dollars all with me.

The reason people pass one door
To patronize another store
Is not because the busier place
Has better silks or gloves or lace
Or cheaper prices, but it lies
In pleasant words and smiling eyes.

The only difference, I believe,
Is in the treatment folks receive.

It is good business to be fair,
To keep a bright and cheerful air
About the shop, and not to bear
Your customers how much you know
Whatever any patron did,
I'd try to keep my temper hid,
And never let him suspect a thing
The word that I had done him

"I'm sorry, sir, but we really can't do anything about a threatening letter - - - from the collector of internal revenue!"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 24, 1922.

With the Moira River almost at summer levels, the Bay of Quinte lower and the harbor shallower than it has been for some time, boatmen expect that they may have trouble this year in launching boats from boat houses which are almost stranded on the banks.

Major John Phillips of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police has been transferred from Ottawa to Belleville where he is spending a few days at his home here before proceeding to that city. Major Phillips has 35 years of efficient service to his credit in the force.

Mrs. James May of Picton is the guest of Mrs. Emma Reeves, Charlotte Street.

Mr. W. C. Springer and members of his family have returned home after spending several weeks in Florida.

Mr. William Hurst, Everett Street, will leave here tomorrow for Fort William.

30 YEARS AGO

March 24, 1923.

At a meeting here the Eastern Ontario Jersey Breeders' Association elected the following officers: President, M. Grant Thompson, Bloomfield; vice president, George W. Collins, Plainfield; secretary-treasurer, Gordon W. Jarrell, Campbellcroft; directors, Garnet Kerr, Campbellcroft; Percy Potts, Smithfield; James A. Fraser, Prescott; Elmer Mallory-town; A. C. Darling, Almonte. A sale will probably be held in June.

Mr. Harry Mackie is home from Toronto to spend a few days.

Brown wove is being sold here at $8 per load and cord wood sells at $14 to $15 per cord.

The Salvation Army Band and other members of the Army, entertained the public at the House of Refuge on Tuesday evening. Adjt. Cranwell was in the chair.

40 YEARS AGO

March 24, 1913.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wessels of Kingston are visiting his parents at their home on Lewis Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berry of Trenton spent Easter here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Milne, Victoria Street.

Mr. H. Bosphory will leave tomorrow for Stanton, Sask.

Mr. Samuel Harkins of this city is visiting his son, R. S. Williams at Selby.

Miss Mary Falkiner of, Toronto, formerly of this city, is spending a few days in town.

Mrs. W. E. Carmichael of Toronto, former druggist here, is renewing acquaintances in town today.

50 YEARS AGO

March 24, 1903.

With a membership of over 1,200 the public library seems to be filling a long felt want.

Mr. P. C. Jones discovered a broken rail on the track of the Grand Junction Railway near Victoria Avenue last evening. He notified the Grand Trunk Railway offices and a new rail was placed in position in short order.

Ald. Charles N. Sulman has been appointed treasurer of the public library. He succeeds that of Mr. A. Vandervoort who resigned recently.

The production, "The Evil Eye," at the opera house last evening was well-received by a large and appreciative audience.

Capt. J. H. Smith will leave tomorrow for Kincardine.

A gun machine was discovered last night from the front of J. H. Marsh's store by some parties as yet unknown.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If your hostess brought in a coffee pot of hot water and a tin of coffee and helped you to a teaspoon of ground coffee in your cup and then poured the hot water on it, you would hardly think that a cup of coffee would you? It is true there are patent coffee derivatives and extracts that you can use in that fashion, dissolving the powder with hot water.

But all over the United States, except in a few enlightened regions, if you are crazy enough to order coffee, they bring you a pot of hot water, a cup and saucer, and there, sitting pretty on the saucer, is a dry tea bag. And you are supposed to make your own tea by immersing the bag in what might have been boiling water five minutes ago, but never two minutes ago, but, at the moment of delivery to you at your table, is now at about the temperature of good shaving water.

The tea bag, an international industry that must be extremely wealthy, appears to have abandoned the attempt to educate the Americans in the matter of tea. They have got, of course, out of this warm water and dry tea bag, to be not tea at all, but a dreadful sort of hay soup. It tastes flat and somehow slightly metallic, as disagreeable an infusion as could be imagined. I am convinced, as the comedian, who is hired by one of the big tea companies in the States, good naturedly defies his sponsors and insists that the only way to get tea is to put the bag in a cupful of hot water. On a recent occasion, when a waiter does the sponsor say it's got to be boiling water? Yes, he might let it in the cup, see? Put the bag in the cup and pour the hot water on it . . .

In defence of his method, he remarked that by his way of doing it, you could get your tea as strong or as weak as you like if by merely flahing the little bag out of the cup when you think it looks the way you like it.

But since it is not tea either way he does it, you might as well put the bag in the cup or the pot, it really doesn't matter. Tea has to be made with tumbling boiling water poured onto the leaves in a hot pot. With a million dollar promotor like Godfrey helping the Americans to misunderstand the whole cult of tea, we foreigners are not very far behind at hand to get if the Americans really got drinking it, they would swallow up the world supply.

The Real 'Lowdown'

("T.D.F." in Ottawa Citizen)

Brantford Expositor is "willing for anyone pitwit to start a rumor that Stalin was actually assassinated months ago." Pitwit is right; the lowdown is that Joe got fed up with the cold war and has gone away to enjoy the heat with Hitler.

English Week-end

(Peterkville Recorder and Times)

We have always suspected that the week-ends were not long enough — but it wasn't until we heard the phrase "English week-end" and its description that we realized a week-end could include a lot more hours than those inserted between 5 o'clock noon on Saturday and nine o'clock on Monday morning.

According to investigation, an English week-end starts by beginning on Friday morning and carries right along through the following Tuesday. Now this could mean that it might even get underway on Thursday evening — probably at five o'clock or possibly 4.30 — and might even be stretched through till Tuesday noon. All sorts of wonderful things could be accomplished during so much spare time. If a person were so inclined and had the where-with-all, they might make a week-end morning in Florida — or, if they had access to a jet plane, even a few days on the California coast. It would be nothing at all to hop over to London for the Coronation and back — and all within the week-end!

One thing about such a week-end — it would really end the week! In order to properly relax and enjoy the time away from it all a person would need to have a most lucrative business with a capable and competent staff to take turns staying at work on week-ends. It is doubtful such a business was kept in running order. Without the means to finance it, such week-ends are economic. Not that we would mind having one, but we'd much rather let anyone offer us a series of "English week-ends" and a job to go with them and we will gladly make the test to see if it's worth while.

Ho-hum! Come to think of it, if any of you are forth-coming they might wait for several weeks we're still pretty tired from being off from Friday evening till Monday morning!

Shortage Of Deer

(North Bay Nugget)

A wildlife official has advocated a "buck law" for Northern Ontario.

If passed, it would prevent shooting of does, and permit only the shooting of bucks over more than one year old. And resultingly deer would increase.

There does not seem to be any doubt that Northern Ontario's deer population is shrinking alarmingly. Outdoorsmen of all types have pointed out this.

Some want the buck law, but others oppose it.

Northern hunters generally claim that deer are increasing in the southern part of the province. Why, they wonder, should the season permit the shooting of bucks and does for Southern Ontario men to come and kill them, when there is only plenty of deer in the south which cannot be shot because of the buck system? It is a complex affair all right.

For years, the deer shortage (or otherwise) has been a subject for argument among hunters.

That shortage, it is said, has long been blamed for keeping the deer population down. It has been claimed that if all the wolves were dead deer would increase. Others suggested would have to shoot them to keep them from overrunning the country.

It is the old story of the depletion of our natural resources. Man, with all his brave talk of conservation, keeps heaving away his resources at a rate that only wildlife can then casts about for some reason for its death.

Whatever the reason, every effort should be made to restore the deer population and keep it at a high level.

Sailing By Frogs, Dogs

(London Free Press)

Captain Robert "D. Peltier, master mariner of Detroit, celebrated his birthday anniversary by licensed ship's officer by curling a communication to modern navigation by radar, radios and lighthouses. In his prime, he said, he sailed the Great Lakes by the Clair channel by "listening to frogs bellowing and dogs baying on the bank." He had his mate's paper "taken away" for 18 years and his master's licence when he was 31.

The venerable skipper of the good old days "did well in life day and is entitled to credit. His graduates were efficient, thanks and full of infinite capacity. Navigation was a tremendous adventure. Radar, radio and lighted buoys, however, have destroyed the wonderful service 'thru the best of bullfrogs and dogs. Year by year the lights of science dispel the shadows of ignorance but they remove some of the color too.

Parrot Not Losing Grip

(London Times)

Those who feel that the parrot has been losing its grip on public affection will have been heartened to learn that a town in Lancashire has had a number of these birds moved 700 miles, workers to march in procession through the streets.

It was said, to judge by the report, an exceptional member of the tribe, Forty-four years is not in this century a venerable age, and a working knowledge of Hindi, which was ascribed to it, while commanding respect, would hardly seem in itself to justify such enthusiasm.

Whatever the cause of this demonstration of excitement may have been, it should have done something to raise morale in the parrot world. For years parrots have been linked in the minds of the public with the dreariness and almost unpronounceable disease. Last 'year something was done to restore their reputation when it was made known that such a bird could be taught to whistle. "Splice the main-brace!" before the mast. Nothing to that, but what if your most splendid clitches are accompanied in the background by the vacuum cleaner or the asilles of a radio comedian? Not even the parrot can be blamed for an entire octave as well as the beginning of the Australian hymn which the composer used to play on his piano. There have been cases of parrots being so elaborated for them, in addition to a thorough course of entertainment in the home? Moments of doubt must have assailed the most unruffled breast.

Fortunately, the bird we zather euphemistically call the budgie has a strong personality. An attempt to teach it the Lord's Prayer provades the cage, a hint of tropical sunlight lies in the background. But the beady eyes issues a look of ineffable contempt for the lot.

Such qualities will not, in the Occident at least, rouse whole communities to demonstration, but they should enable the most unruffled breast to maintain its foothold in society.

No Sparing The Rod

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

In days gone by when children misbehaved in the classroom they were given the cane by the jabbed for it. They had no grudge against the instrument they did not carry any tales home.

Girls might be verbally punished or they might be given "token" slaps with the strap, but they were corrected in a manly and manfully and never moved them until the slapping was over. Then their hands might be tingling with pain, but they returned to their seats with a grin on their faces and a "Naw, it didn't hurt" attitude of bravado.

Parents are sometimes unaware of the changes that have come about in the classroom. Each home may be insolent brats at school, and if a teacher thinks punishment is required to establish discipline, it is no doubt deserved.

Visiting Capacity

(Windsor Star)

When a party of travelling Canadians visited the House of Commons the other day, they were introduced to Speaker Speaker M. Ross Macdonald. Too few Canadians go to see their country's capital, he said, and he was right.

Incidentally, the visitors in this case were 250 members of Ignatius Church, Sioux Lookout, from Ontario and Quebec points. Probably some of them may be travelling by car, but obviously others were not. The interest they showed in their national capital is something other Canadians might emulate to their benefit and mutual wellbeing. It is our country's parliament, remember, and every citizen's vote is a factor in that administration. Ottawa is a good place to see early, if not first.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

YOU DON'T GET DIPHTHERIA FROM A DRAFT

Without calling one another names—I'll do any name-calling that may be required here—we can agree about this one thing, I think: The more ignorant the individual the more readily he or she believes in indisposition or illness is due to "exposure" to draft, wet feet, insufficient clothing, inadequate heating of living rooms or foul weather.

If this habit of attributing illness to such causes applied only to minor, self-limited ailments we could dismiss it as just stupid. But unfortunately quite a lot of people whose health education consisted of the casual perusal of a free textbook, namely, the almanac, most of the serious illnesses attended by physicians are indiscriminately spread in the earlier stages as "colds."

For instance, scarlet fever, measles and diphtheria, to name only a few of the Common Respiratory Infections (CRI for short), frequently masquerade as "colds" in the beginning and proximity to some one who has it or some one who happens to be a "carrier."

Well, then, what can one get from such "exposures" to grit, wet feet, insufficient clothing?

In some instances discomfort. In other instances needless worry.

A few instances a pain in the neck, stiff shoulder, lame back, lumbago.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SO YOU CAN'T SLEEP

All my life I have been blessed with the ability to sleep. I have never suffered from the lack of it, for to sleep has seemed as natural as to eat when hungry. Sleep is the renewal process, and if we don't sleep renewing ceases and needed energies, we have to pay a serious penalty.

Now insomnia has been extended because we have learned how to fool ourselves. We swallow pep foods and nutrition has added years to the average life. We have put a high premium on the importance of good, healthy sleep. A happy and tranquil mind is ready to return to its possessor sound sleep and a blessed awakening to a new day.

Nature resents all substitutes, such as pills and medicine. Nature is its own medicine. If you can't sleep you have broken the natural adjustments. And these are mostly mental. Moral and natural sleep is essential to health and happiness. The most precious lines in literature are those that he may play it in harmony with all the others in the orchestra. When we can't find for a night of rest and sleep, we should have our mind in harmony by having inspiring thoughts. You can't sleep with a mind filled with worries.

For years I have made it a habit to read something stimulating and inspiring just before retiring for the night. Do you know how effective it is? I call to mind happy instances and experiences. The great of this world if you bless me as I read their thoughts as they come to life. It's as though they dropped in for a five-minute chat before telling me "Good Night."

Prayer, upon retiring, washes out the mind and puts it in tune with the Infinite Mind — that blind over all. Dismiss every unhappy or troubled experience. Nature will bless you if you bless her. There is a world of good philosophy in that familiar phrase — "Count your blessings." You will have them if you think about them instead of counting sheep to sleep! You can sleep if you make it a habit.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TREASURE HUNTERS

Many years ago a group of amateur treasure hunters made a search for gold on some abandoned farmland. Following the rather ambiguous directions of an old document, they dug a number of holes, looking for a buried hoard of silver bars. But their quest was unsuccessful. Many years afterwards the owner of the property, digging over the land, discovered that he was the possessor of a generous if legitimate fortune in copper ore.

Some people go through life in the attitude of seeking the real rewards while they are pursuing the imaginary ones. Each year millions of dollars are spent by gamblers who hope that the horses, cards, or dice will bring them the "easy money" they are unwilling to earn for. Prison bars restrain many thousands who chose a dishonest way to get rich. The divorce courts are crowded by men and women who long pasts, a try a succession of several mates in the hope that some new happy marriage which in reality comes only from within, will bring love and unselfishness. Still others seek in alcoholic oblivion the happiness they have not found real life.

The repeated failures of all these frantic searchers merely emphasize the fact that there is no shortcut. Men build their happiness by their daily living, out of everyday materials. That is the only way real happiness comes.

Press Gallery Denies Tass Representative Membership

OTTAWA (CP)—The Parliamentary Press Gallery Monday denied membership to Ivan Tvretvov, the present Ottawa representative of the official Russian news agency, Tass.

A general gallery meeting voted down a 14-member application for Tass on the ground that Mr. Tvretvov is an official of a Russian government agency, attached to the Russian embassy in Ottawa.

A statement by gallery president Robert Needham, Ottawa representative of the London (Ont.) Free Press, said the gallery's decision was "based on an objection to Mr. Tvretvov's direct association with the embassy which leaves his status as a newspaper man in doubt."

Denies Association

Mr. Tvretvov, 30, denied he is associated with the Embassy, in an interview Monday night he said he is a Tass correspondent in Ottawa on the same basis as his predecessor, Arcadi Ogorodnikov, a member of the gallery recently recalled to Moscow.

The vote by the 73-member gallery beat Mr. Tvretvov from such privileges as a seat in the press sections in the commons and senate chambers, desk space in the gallery quarters and attendance at press conferences restricted to gallery members. He can still file dispatches to Moscow, however.

Listed From Embassy

His predecessors, Mr. Ogorodnikov and several others, obtained gallery membership because they were not officially attached to the Russian embassy. The press gallery checked Mr. Tvretvov's status with the external affairs department and was told he entered Canada under a diplomatic passport and is listed as a member of the embassy staff.

The Press Gallery, which has discretion in accepting or rejecting applications for membership, based its decision on its long-standing practice of not admitting employees of any government to membership.

Sponsored by Soviet

Although Tass is sponsored by the Soviet state, it is not regarded as involving such a direct connection with the Soviet government as Mr. Tvretvov's embassy attachment.

A similar question was raised in Washington in 1951 by the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which demanded that Tass correspondents be barred from the congressional press galleries. The galleries' standing committee decided against the demand on the ground vice-chairman Mrs. Tatham, were instructed to take charge of the press and publicity, that any organization wishing publicity of their plans would contact them.

It was decided that larger representation would be made for the future meeting if notification cards were sent out advising the time and place, and the secretary was instructed to have 200 prepared and sent out before the next meeting took place at the Legion Hall on March 31st.

Russia Rejects U.S. Protest Over Firing on Plane

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia has rejected a U. S. protest against a shooting scrape involving an American plane near Siberia. A Kremlin note said the craft made two "premeditated" violations of Siberian territory and fired first.

The Soviet rejection, printed in Russian newspapers today, demanded that the U. S. government take steps to prevent future violations of Soviet borders by U. S. planes.

A Moscow radio broadcast said the reply was delivered Saturday to the U. S. embassy in the Soviet capital.

The U. S. protest had declared the March 15 incident—involving an Alaskan-based B-50 bomber which the U. S. Air Force reported on weather reconnaissance—occurred 25 miles off the coast of Siberia's Kamchatka Peninsula. It said a Soviet MiG-15 shot at the bomber, which then returned the fire. The U. S. Air Force said neither plane was damaged.

Claims Two Flights Made

The Russian reply said it had been established that the bomber made two flights over Soviet territory March 15—the first at Cape Krestovol, in southern Kamchatka, and the second near the village of Zhupanovo, northeast of the Soviet base of Petropavlovsk.

"Good weather which in both cases enabled the crew of the (American) aircraft to carry out visual reconnaissance on a large area excluded the possibility of a loss of orientation and confirmed that the above two cases of violation of the state frontier of the U. S. S. R. were of clearly premeditated character," the Soviet note declared.

Senator Flanders (Rep. Vt.) accused the U. S. Air Force last Friday of issuing a "false report" on the air clash. He asserted that the "bomber was not just there on weather business. It may, nevertheless, have been engaged in a useful mission."

DOWAGER

One London medical authority said the bulletin on the Queen's condition means she is "not quite holding her own."

The most probable explanation of it, he said, is that she has a base case of intestinal trouble (Hartshoes) and her doctors are unable to replace lost of fluid quickly enough.

May Need Blood

He said indications are that a blood transfusion is in order or that glucose may have to be injected through the veins.

In any event, the source said, it is a dangerous condition in a person of Queen Mary's age because resistance is hard to maintain.

Only Monday night it was stated at Marlborough House that Queen Mary had had a comfortable day and that announcement about her

MARMORA

Three Injured As Car Crashes Into Abutment

MARMORA — Three Marmora men were injured last night when the car in which they were riding crashed into the northeast abutment of the Crow River bridge.

In Belleville General Hospital is Donald Wright, 30, suffering from facial injuries and shock. Hospital authorities today reported his condition as fair.

Ross Lake, 30, driver of the car, and Stewart Haig, 23, another passenger were treated at the scene of the accident by Dr. H. J. Parkin. Neither needed hospitalization, although both had leg injuries.

Chief constable Bert Loumbury who investigated the accident, said charges would be laid.

Group Captain C. G. Sutton, DSO, CD, 36, of Belleville, Monday officially assumed the duties of chief staff officer at Tactical Air Group headquarters in Edmonton. The appointment was announced last week. He relieves Group Captain M. P. Martyn, CD, 38, of Edmonton and Calgary, who was recently appointed commanding officer of R.C.A.F. Station Penhold, Alta. G. C. Sutton was formerly assistant director for service requirements at Air Force headquarters. He joined the R.C.A.F. in 1938 after graduating from Brandon College.

condition in the future would be made only from time to time instead of daily.

Both the Duke of Windsor and the Princess Royal visited their mother Monday.

The Duke interrupted a Florida vacation two weeks ago to hurry home to his mother's bedside. He was accompanied by the Princess Royal who cut short a tour of the British West Indies. The Duke also visited Prime Minister Churchill Monday, but no reason was given for his visit.

Queen Mary's condition has been followed with particular anxiety because of the elaborate preparations the government and people of Britain are making for the Coronation June 2.

Though it already has been decided that the dowager Queen's advanced age would prevent her taking an active part in her granddaughter's Coronation, the Royal Family hoped she would recover in time to at least watch the procession pass in front of her residence.

Sources close to the Royal Family are understood to have given the Coronation probably would not be postponed, but it is understood no firm decision has yet been made.

BILL TO REPEAL

Agriculture Minister Thomas has been ill two weeks and was not present when the protest was staged. Other cabinet ministers, including Premier Frost, have declined comment.

Aim at Tighter Control

Health Minister Phillips introduced an amendment to Cemeteries Act aimed at tighter control of cemeteries operated for profit.

During the throne speech debate, members on both sides of the House said profiteers were buying land cheaply and re-selling it for cemetery lots at enormous profits.

The bill would require cemetery companies to keep records, and these are available for government inspection at regular intervals.

It would also give the government power to decide what percentage of profits should be devoted to the perpetual care care of cemetery plots. Members said cemetery promoters channeled little of their profits into the improvement of land.

Look For Another Man

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar said he was looking for another man to add to the eight-man Ontario municipal board. Mr. Dunbar said the board is overloaded with work, and a competent lawyer with municipal law experience was badly needed.

He made the statement in answer to a question by William Houck, L-Niagara Falls who said he knew a good lawyer but that he was a Liberal.

"It doesn't make any difference," Mr. Dunbar said, "the chairman, Lorne Cumming, was an outstanding Liberal although I don't think he has any politics now."

Let's Debated

A bill which would give Labor Minister Daley discretionary powers in hours of work for women was debated by CCF members and J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive member for Toronto St. Andrew.

The bill would permit the labor minister to grant permission for employment of women beyond 11 p.m. in cases where necessity for continued production was proven.

CCF House Leader W. J. Grummett said it was "a backward step."

You can't go ALL-OUT If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure of hurry, worry, fear, fun. The strain on body and brain makes physical fitness more and more—harder to regain. Today's home living, lowered resistance, and the quantity of germs have affected normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and toxins remain in the blood. Backaches, disturbed rest, that "tired-and-weary" feeling are often the result. Then is the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—many better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 33

Weddings

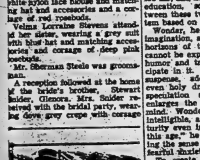
STEELE-SNIDER

PICTON — Rev. F. J. Whitney officiated at a quiet wedding at Picton United Church on Saturday, March 21, when Bernice Edna Snider, R. R. 1, Picton, became the bride of George Steele. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Snider. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. William J. Steele, Picton, and the late Mr. Steele.

The bride wore a navy suit with white nylon lace blouse and matching hat and accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Velma Lorraine Stevens attended her sister, wearing a grey suit with blue hat and matching accessories and corsage of deep pink rosebuds.

Mr. Sherman Steele was groomsman.



A reception followed at the home of the bride's brother, Sherman Snider, Glenora. Mrs. Snider received with the bridal party, wearing deep grey crepe with corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother received in royal crepe with corsage of rosebuds. Also assisting in receiving the fifty guests were: Mrs. Sherman Snider, Mrs. Ida Caniff and Mrs. Frank Snider. Pink and white streamers and white wedding bells decorated the rooms. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, was centred by a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by pink candles and roses. Those who served were: Rita Caniff, Mrs. Floyd Snider, Mrs. Ronald Snider and Verna Snider.

During the reception, a phone call of good wishes was received from Mr. and Mrs. Ron Sherman, Islington, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Irma Thomas, Mrs. Hilda Dale of Perry, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. John Snider, Sharbot Lake.

After a short honeymoon spent in Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Steele are residing in Picton.

The bridegroom gave his bride a rhinestone necklace as a wedding gift and the groomsman a lighter. The bride gave her bridegroom a collar and tie clip; the bridesmaid, rhinestone necklace and earrings.

Professor B.C. Diltz Speaks To U.W.C. on 'Sense of Wonder'

The March meeting of the University Women's Club was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. W. H. Finkle with a large attendance of members. The president, Mrs. Douglas Hurst, was in charge of the short business meeting. Plans for the Spring Fair were discussed, and a report made by Mrs. William Hurst, the representative for the Canadian Federation of University Women's Clubs.

For the program, there were present a number of special guests, including the executives of the Women's Canadian Club.

Mrs. Gillis, dean of women at Albert College, introduced the speaker, Professor B. C. Diltz, head of the department of English at the Ontario College of Education. Professor Diltz is known as a well known figure in education, the author of several books, and as eloquent speaker.

"Unseen Horizons"

His lecture for the evening, entitled "Unseen Horizons," was based on the content of his latest book, a book described to be published in May. His theme was education, a popular study in this day. According to Professor Diltz, the older system of education was entirely centred on the subject, on facts, while the new system is centred on the child, and in trying to teach him how to live his life, with fear of the psychologist as an ever present discipline. The pendulum, Professor Diltz said, has swung too far, and he urged a system of education somewhere in between these two extremes, a system based on "Wonder."

Wonder, he said, engages the imagination, and lifts the unseen horizons of the mind. Wonder cannot be explained, but, as with humor and truth, it can participate in it. It is made up of suspense, adoration, reverence, even holy dread, it transcends speculation and curiosity, and enlarges the boundaries of the mind. Wonder makes knowledge intelligible, and is proof of maturity even in a small child, "in this age," he said, "we are killing the sense of wonder with our fearful anxiety to be practical."

To quote the spirit of wonder, Professor Diltz urged more and better reading material for Grade II up, and just have statements but something to stir the imagination. "An abundance of fables and fairy tales is advised to aid in building up the spirit of wonder.

Let Children Try Their Wings

Professor Diltz expressed disapproval of present parental attitudes which result in a child's being always under parental supervision and care. "Let them grow up, let them try their own wings, he urged, because children really do want to grow up, to do what is right and be of use. Let them have a chance, more and then to try."

Both the old idea of competition with others and the new idea of competition with one's mental ideal, Professor Diltz felt, were disapproval. Learning, he believes does not require such people because all children have the inner spirit of learning, want to learn, and are glad to participate in the process. Be done with the competitive idea, he said, and encourage participation. The spirit of learning will create its own standard discipline. Dull and bright learn by the same method, but at a different pace, but all participate.

The life of the school, Mr. Diltz believes, should transcend the life of the community, and not be limited by it. It should be a place where a special kind of learning is done, not how to work in the local lumber yard. It should be a place where the minds of creative thinkers, where teaching is done, not just all of them. Mean, low, inadequate horizons of education with no wonder in them, he said, encourage only the development of little "Caesars."

"The trend today to depend on our own private resources, what we know, what we see," he said, "can't succeed, that is not all of life. We need more wonder and a shift to the abiding gifts of life with not horizontal but vertical horizons. We must have a shift to wonder. Wonder with a desire to engage in participation in good knowledge. Methods of Christ."

"As for methods of teaching, Professor Diltz says that we can't do better than to follow the methods of Christ, the greatest teacher of all. His aim was to instruct, to enlighten, and to have every man serve. In Christ's presence everybody grew. Now, instead of wonder with our fearful anxiety to be practical."

To quote the spirit of wonder, Professor Diltz urged more and better reading material from Grade II up, and just have statements but something to stir the imagination. "An abundance of fables and fairy tales is advised to aid in building up the spirit of wonder."

B.P.W. Clubs to Visit United Nations, N.Y.

Four members of the local B.P.W. Club, Miss Norma Arkles, Mrs. Simone McFadden, Mrs. Dorothy Brown and Miss Helen Vivian, as well as those from other centres, will journey to New York on April 1st to visit the United Nations.

Last July the International Board of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs met in New York, and their program there included a day at the United Nations. This experience proved so stimulating that at least one member of that group returned home resolved that others should be given an opportunity to see at first-hand how the United Nations carries on its fight for world peace and the advancement of the people of the world.

Mrs. Maudie Bayley, immediate past president of the Ontario Federation, introduced a motion at the provincial Convention calling upon the clubs of Ontario to set up scholarship funds which would enable them to have at least one member of their club visit the United Nations.

So great was the enthusiasm aroused in this project that it had hardly been launched before it was necessary to cut off registrations at 50, and that the group should be restricted to a maximum of sixty-five.

Two planes will take off from Malton Airport Wednesday morning, April 1st, carrying members from all parts of the province. Arriving at Idlewild Airport in New York, they will be met by members of the U.S. National Federation and escorted to the St. Moritz Hotel which will be their headquarters during their stay in New York.

The International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs enjoys consultative status in UNESCO, FAO, at the United Nations, and they are represented there at all times by an observer, Mrs. Esther Hymer, who reports to the clubs on all matters pertaining to the status of women. Mrs. Hymer has arranged briefing sessions for Wednesday afternoon; authoritative speakers will set the stage for the introduction to the regular sessions of the United Nations, which will be attended throughout all day Thursday and part of Friday. The group will sit in on the meetings of the Commission on the Status of Women which will be in session at this time.

Through the good offices of the United Nations Society of Toronto, Senator Cairine Wilson, The Hon. Paul Martin, and other friends of the Federation, it is expected that members visiting the United Nations will receive special attention from the Canadian Mission.

Each member participating in the project is pledged to report to her club on her return and in every possible way to encourage members and friends to develop an awareness of the work which the United Nations is doing in its attempt to lead the world down the pathway to peace.

Audubon Film 'Nature Oddities' To be Shown Here

The second of the Audubon Wildlife Movies is to be presented on Thursday, March 26th in Bellleville Collegiate Auditorium. It was announced today by Dr. Morris Smith, president of the Quinte Field Naturalists Club which is sponsoring the series. Walking ferns, shooting stars, flying squirrels and praying mantis, these are but a few of the 30 varied "nature oddities" revealed in the beautiful color film, "Oddities in Nature" filmed and presented in person by Mr. Walter B. Sneddon of the National Audubon Society.

Mr. Sneddon, retired from Shackleton, lecturer in business in Louisville, Kentucky in 1945, has photographed the unusual wild life in his large sanctuary which includes lakes, swamps and deep woods. He is now able to study and enjoy the plants which he learned as a boy during the field trips with his uncle, a botanist, in the then comparatively unsettled Green River country of Kentucky.

"Bonaventure Diary", the first of the Audubon Screen Tour series presented in January, by Mr. Robert Hermes was at a calibre equal to Walt Disney's "Water Babies" which appeared in a local theatre during the winter. Actually some of Mr. Sneddon's "shots" made up a part of this composite film. "Oddities in Nature" like other Audubon Wildlife Movies, should be most attractive and interesting.

Avondale School Holds Successful Country Fair

On Friday a successful "Country Fair" and bazaar was held at Avondale School. Those who attended spent an enjoyable evening. The children were able to enjoy movies and a fish pond.

The home cooking table had many delicious cakes and tarts, and the sewing table had everything from tea towels and aprons to bankies with crocheted edges.

The white elephant table had a large variety of interesting articles. Everyone enjoys the delicious home-made candy and the refreshments of sandwiches, tarts and tea or coffee.

For amusement there was bingo and many enjoyed a game at the expense of the weight guesser, who, it is understood, commented all the ladies with his guesses.

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Makes Presentations

Last evening the W. A. Evening Branch of Christ Church met for a social get-together with 40 in attendance.

Following the devotional period which was in charge of Mrs. Everett Smith, president of the branch, court whist was enjoyed with Mrs. J. B. Cavegan, Mrs. P. Reid and Mrs. C. Musclow emerging as winners.

A bean contest was also held which provided much fun. This was won by Mrs. Musclow.

Highlight

The highlight of the evening was presentations to three members who are leaving; two permanently and one for a vacation in England. The first was to Mrs. P. Portlock, who is moving to Hamilton. The presentation made by Mrs. C. Furzen; the second to Mrs. M. Burleigh by Mrs. G. Wright. Mrs. Burleigh will be the third to the honorary president, Mrs. G. G. Wright, who will be holidaying for some time in the Old Country. This presentation was made by Mrs. Everett Smith.

Miss F. Reid was in charge of the entertainment which was greatly enjoyed, and Mrs. H. Ingram and Mrs. I. Reid of the refreshments.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Neglects his own home, but does his mother's chores

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married for two years and have a small baby.

For the first year of our marriage, my husband and I were very happy, but since then a problem has developed.

The is, that if there is anything that needs doing around the house, my husband keeps putting it off until I have to do it myself or it doesn't get done at all. Yet if his mother asks him to come over to her house and do some little job, he goes right away and gets it done.

Am I wrong to tell him that his home should come first?—Mrs. T.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Of course you're not wrong to think that a man's own home and family should be first in his life. No man of the right kind should need to be told this at all, for it should be his instinctive way of doing things.

It is too bad that you live so near your mother-in-law, is there anything that could be done about this?

If not, then the problem is to get your husband to realize that when he married, he definitely chose a wife in preference to a mother, and that his first duty is to them.

It might lighten this realization on his part if you tried letting a few things go that he is accustomed to have done for him. This might bring him to a point where you could talk the whole thing over and arrive at an amicable agreement. Perhaps if you had not made it plain that you would do the things he leaves undone, he might be quicker to take care of them. In any event, if you can manage to go by quietly leaving some things undone yourself, then I think you should say frankly that you have your duties in the home and he has his, and you are not willing to assume the responsibilities of both.

Her fiance has rights, as well as he

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been engaged for a year to a fellow with whom I have been going steady for three years. I am 20 and he is a month older.

The problem is that we are not of the same faith. When he became engaged, we talked this over with his parents, who gave their permission for us to be married in my church when the time came. Three months ago he was drafted, and so planned to get married this spring. Now all of a sudden he has told me we had better wait until he is out of service, because his mother won't allow him to sign papers agreeing that our children will be brought up in my church. I think that if he really loves me he won't let his parents interfere in his life.—A. P.

Dear A.P.:

This particular type of problem is a very difficult one for young people to solve, and because I feel you would make a mistake if you tried to persuade this young man, against his real wishes, to marry you now, my advice would be for you not to press him at this time. After all, he is the one who is yielding to your wishes. You are making the sacrifice for him. So I think if he wants to wait awhile and see how this difference of opinion with his mother can be adjusted, it would be only fair for you to go along with him.

I agree with you that if a young man is old enough and mature enough, for marriage, he should be independent enough to make up his own mind on these questions. At the same time, it is naturally wise to make his adjustments, if possible, in a way that will preserve a happy relationship with his mother, and I think he is entitled to time in which to do this. After all, which is the more important, how would you feel if you refused to grant him this time, and he yielded to your contention that if he loved you, he would do as you wish, and the result was a break with his family?

To turn your own phrasing around, let's say that if you really love him, you will look at this thing from his point of view for a reasonable length of time. While it is perfectly understandable that you should want to be married now, wouldn't you rather give in a little for the time being than run the risk of having trouble develop between you two? If you show understanding of the young man's problem now, it will not only make your whole relationship happier as time goes on, but he is far more likely to see things your way if he eventually has to make a very hard decision.

How Do You Like Your Eggs Cooked?

By MARY MOORE

A valued friend who has criticizing privileges blurted out "Mary, it you would just tell some of these young cooks how to poach an egg you'd save a little digestion of some of our brilliant young men."

I suspect she has a secret complaint against some of her daughters-in-law, for she is French and the mother of four handsome young men and a skilled cook.

Hey hesited remark made me wonder just how well our young girls do do such a simple thing as poach an egg.

Here are the cooking-school directions from my notebook of decades ago.

POACHED EGGS

Put boiling water in shallow pan to 1 1-2 inches depth, when it boils hard, break an egg into a saucer, then carefully slip it into the boiling water. Cover. Remove from burner and set back where it will keep hot. Cook until white is firm and a film has formed over the yolk—about 4 minutes. Carefully lift out with skimmer, drain a little, betore transferring to hot plate or onto buttered toast.

Now would you like to know how the French poach eggs?

FRENCH POACHED EGGS

Put 6 cups boiling water in saucepan and add 1 tablespoon vinegar- and 1-2 tablespoon salt. Stir vigorously around edge of saucepan, using wooden spoon held in upright position, while water is rapidly boiling, as soon as a deep whirling well is formed in centre slip in 1 egg from a saucer. Reduce heat as much as possible and cook until white is set. Take out with skimmer, and slip onto small round of toast on hot platter. Keep hot until you have repeated poaching 1 egg at a time until you have enough.

EGGS SCRAMBLED EGGS

Beat 4 eggs with rotary or electric beater very foamy—about 2 minutes. Add 6 tablespoons milk or cream or evaporated milk and 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 to 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Have ready in hot frying pan 2 tablespoons butter melted until it is just turning gold. Quickly pour in scrambled egg mixture and keep heat high for 1 minute. With skimmer push to one side the under portion which is getting cooked, allowing liquid to flow to bottom of pan. Repeat this pushing aside until all of the mixture is set, and the cooked portion is piled up in layers with golden streaks between. Do not overcook. Serve at once on or off toast and with or without bacon and some sliced tomato.

DINNER EGGS

This is one of those recipes where skill and patience produces a delicious result and very little cost. Hard cook 6 eggs. Chill. Remove shells, cut eggs into halves crosswise and deftly remove yolks and mash them with 1 tablespoon chopped mustard pickle, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 1 tablespoon cream. Restuff whites with this mixture, and put pairs together again in whole-egg shape. Have ready 3 cups freshly mashed potatoes, seasoned with 1 tablespoon grated onion, about 1-4 cup hot milk, and salt and pepper, and whipped until fluffy. Cool these enough to handle them comfortably. Divide into 6 portions, flatten each portion into a cake and wrap each stuffed egg in this potato coat, making outside smooth and the same shape as egg. Serve, egg. Roll in sifted dry breadcrumbs or in finely-crushed corn flakes. (I am going to recommend that you deep-fry these—but if you want to they may be baked—if you bake them roll them in buttered crumbs.) Fry in deep fat at 390 deg. Fahr., 3 at a time, until golden, turning once. Drain on paper towel while second batch is frying. Serve very hot in place of meat for dinner or supper, and accompany them with two cooked vegetables such as broccoli or spinach or asparagus and shoe-string carrots or tiny turnip dice.

SEEKS U.S. CITIZENSHIP

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Gurie Lie, pretty blonde daughter of UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie, has applied for U.S. citizenship, it was learned Monday. Miss Lie, who is in her early 20s, has been in the U.S. with her father since 1946. She is a Norwegian citizen and has held a special visa which carried with it diplomatic privileges.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Omitting the year-like in formal marriage announcements a deception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter eloped and was married about a year ago. So few people have known about this marriage, but now our daughter and her husband would like to have us send out formal announcements and we would like to do this, if you approve.

They urge us to omit the year line. Would this be at all correct, making the announcement look as if the marriage had taken place this year, instead of a year ago? At about this same time? My other daughter insists that the year line is a "must" on marriage announcements. Is it?—Mother.

Yes, ma'am. . . your other daughter is absolutely right. The year line is a "must" on formal marriage announcements. . and you and your husband should be completely unwilling to be part of the deception your daughter and her husband so dishonestly suggest. More than possibly the "very few people" who know about this marriage may have told others, and they will look for the year line, and comment to others about the conspicuous omission. So please either send these formal announcements as they should be worded, or don't send them at all.

The wives of the lodge officers should wear same type of dress as the wives of the non-officers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband has just been elected president of a lodge, and I was asked to be one of a committee of the members' wives to plan the big banquet which is to be given soon. At these banquets, the officers of the lodge wear tuxedos. Non-officers wear dark business suits, and their wives wear day dresses. The wives of the officers are seated at the tables with the wives of the non-officers. The question has come up as to what the wives of the officers should wear, as their husbands will wear tuxedos. Should we wear dinner dresses, evening dresses, or what would you advise?—W. A.

My advice is that the wives of the officers should wear dresses of the same type to be worn by the wives of the non-officers. To my way of thinking, it would not be in good taste for the wives of the officers to wear dresses conspicuously different from the dresses worn by the other women at the same table.

Hostess rises to indicate the dinner is over

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have not been very used to entertaining, but now our circumstances have changed and we would like to give several small dinners at home, and possibly one or two in a restaurant. We disagree as to whose place it is to stand first after the dinner, as the suggestion that the dinner is over. He thinks it is the host's responsibility, to do this, but I think it is the hostess who does this. (Or perhaps it is the woman guest of honor?)—Diane V.

You are right . . . it is the hostess who rises, to indicate that the dinner is over. And this is the correct procedure whether the dinner is at home or in a restaurant.

"A Shipload of Scotch"

The twelve members of the Bannon family of Greenock, Scotland, are seen on their arrival in New York aboard the S.S. U.S. Included in the clan, which left the land of bagpipes and heathers to emigrate to Toronto, are: Grandson Brian McKay, 2, front; Mary, McCrorey and James Towle, both 10, front; Margaret, 12; Marie Towle, 25, and Pat McCrorey, 16. Second row: Mrs. Elinore McCrorey, Bernard Bannon, Jr., Janet Towle and young Janet, one year, third row; and Mrs. Bernard Bannon, at top. Seventeen other members of the family are expected to arrive later on, after the Bannon's are settled in their new home. — Central Press Canadian.

BEAUTY

A pleasing expression of the mouth contributes to beauty

Carefully and painstakingly a girl will mould the lipstick, blending it into all the little folds of her lips, being cautious about the lines she draws. Fine business. But it won't mean anything if she assumes an unpleasant expression.

It is a crying shame that, when a girl has a grand gift from heaven in the form of a perfectly designed mouth, she won't keep it lovely, but must distort it. She can click her teeth together, tense her lips and look as hard as nails. She then has what might be termed the machine-gun face. At any minute there is likely to be an explosion of bitter words.

Mouths change with the years. The expression of the mouth can change with a thought, so keep your thoughts serene. Chagrin pulls in the lower lip. Brooding and discontent pull down the corners. The worrier's mouth looks as if it were afraid to both little up and down lines eventually form. Think these things over, especially if you are sailing along toward mid-channel in the birthday voyage.

Character is sometimes revealed by the expressions assumed by the body and face. It is an interesting study, by observing it may save you from falling into little good-looks lapses.

Note the critical woman, who has no tolerance for the mistakes or weaknesses of her fellow creatures. She pulls up her shoulders, pulls down her chin, purses her lips. It is the attitude of disapproval. She is being as mean to herself as to others, because she will develop a face like a graven image. You can't imagine anyone wanting to put their arms around her.

Every woman who is chasing beauty rainbows should make smiling a habit. Lifted lip ends keep lines away from forming. One should wear one's company face, even when alone.

There is a strong appeal in twinkling eyes and smiling lips. They are the cheapest kind of good-looks investment. But watch out for that half-baked warmed-over smile that doesn't mean anything. You've seen it often enough.

The lips should look soft and kind. The best way to keep them that they is to maintain a sweet disposition, endeavor to get along happily with the members of your family, with your friends, and with the woman next door.

Chapter 21

DENIAL

From the hands of Annas, Jesus was led directly to the home of the high priest which adjoined the Temple. The journey, which on foot took less than twenty minutes, was made in silence, commanded by the guards; at that hour it was like the very belly of darkness, and the narrow, coiling Jerusalem streets were deserted. Except for the hired men and Judas and the Roman soldiers, almost no one saw the dismal procession on its way to the judgment.

Outside the priest's front door they waited for orders from Caiaphas—the mob surging around Jesus now, with hands bound, stood erect between two soldiers. Not once did the luminous brown eyes turn; had He looked left, He might have seen a stout figure warming tough old hands nervously above a pan of coals. Peter!

But Jesus did not see Peter then, nor did He look to the right where, among the moist dark faces of hired disturbers, He might also have seen the young and difrait face of John.

Peter was still warming his hands when a young woman carrying a lamp stopped suddenly before him. "The girl's name was Huldah and she was one of the favorite servants of Caiphas; she studied Peter with slow recognition.

"You!" she said, something spiteful in her voice.

"I" answered Peter in a worried tone.

"You. You were also with Jesus, the Galilean."

"I don't know what you are saying," stammered Peter, uneasy at a lie.

A Cock Crows

"You were with Him," Huldah insisted, stamping her foot.

"Woman, I know Him not," said Peter, and shook his head. He moved off, hoping to lose himself in the crowd, but before he could go two steps, another maid joined Huldah, crying shrilly:

"Surely he is one of them, He is a Galilean himself. Even the very way he talks gives him away."

Then Peter uttered an oath and swore:

"I don't know this man you are talking about."

The lying words had no more left his lips than there came a lull in the clamor of voices and Peter heard the shrill crowing of a cock. And when Peter turned he was looking into the eyes of Jesus, and it was the compassion in those eyes that made the fisherman weep bitter tears. Not reproof, but the full understanding of a loving heart. The ring of a crowing heart. The sound he heard when the cock crowed no more was the gentle chuckle of God!

In the Hall

The prisoner was kept waiting outside the Hall of Judgment, while the crowd inside watched the space between two monoliths at the entrance, where they knew He must soon appear.

The high vaulted hallies of the council chamber where the trial would be held was lit with hundreds of oil-burning torches set in niches cut in the walls. An enormous auditorium, built of great marble pieces, it was called the Hall of Hewn Stones, or Lishkath Haggazith, and was regarded as the national shrine of justice.

By eleven o'clock that Thursday night the majority of the seventy judges were in their places; Caiphas had worked busily enough. The roof echoed with the low drone of their voices — chatter subdued by the solemnity of a capital occasion. Turbaned, barefoot, and cross-legged as usual embroidered cushions, they were ranged in a deep hairpin design, a living letter U. And the judges, rubbing finger tips, shaking heads, rolling eyeballs, spreading hands fanshape, shrugging shoulders, twitching locks, all were whispering energetically, speculating on the audacity of their summons and the anxiety that must have driven Annas to sanction such an unprecedented move. Was it because he feared the power of magic with which the prisoner was said to be endowed?

At the bottom part of the U sat a blotch-faced old functionary who was called the Nasi, chief of the assembly. Like a meditative patriarch, he was conferring with the gorgeous and blooming Joseph Caiphas, in ordinary robes. Presently, the high priest was now a sight to strike almost any prisoner with awe. Annas, his father-in-law, was not yet visible.

Scribes and Novices

At either tip of the human hairpin were stationed rows of little men with inkhorns, quills, and strips of parchment; they would record what was said and done. Beyond the scribes were three rows of younger men: blackbeards, but few greybeards, for these were only learned novices. If one of the squatting judges were to fall ill, or become paralyzed or die, an understudy from the row of young substitutes would take the vacant cushion and the trial would go on.

All of these, various ranks of man made up the Sanhedrin, most potent ecclesiastical and secular assembly convoked now to try, under the code of Moses, one accused of being a false prophet.

They were learned scholars and of true character; among them were schoolmasters and lawyers; Pharisees, too, fanatics who would make every breath a man drew subject to some new and capricious twist of scriptural interpretation, but they would be equally meticulous to see to it that any prisoner got a square deal. For among them, Phariesee, Sadducee, all, there was not one judge who did not accept his responsibility, or who carried it lightly. These were counselors who could not be threatened or influenced by outsiders, but only by their own prejudices and fears. Theirs was the highest of all honors, a place in the sanhedrin, and they had obtained it only by a lifetime of hard work and sacrifice. As a result, so acquainted with his own fingers they knew the law; from memory they could cite precedents and decisions of countless judges who had gone before them, together with all essential passages of Scripture. They were schooled, too, in science—medicine, chemistry, astronomy; but they also had to be familiar with the condemned practices of the black magicians, the soothsayers, and the necromancers. All spoke the languages of Roman, Greek and Egyptian as well as certain dialects of neighboring countries. They were supposed to have a spotless moral reputation, and many of them did.

They were, of course, rabbinical logicians and apt in dialectics.

Finally, not one of them had ever followed at any time in his life a trade, an occupation, or a profession by which he had earned an income.

No Appeal

The scope of this court had no boundaries within the range of morals and dogma and human behavior. In its humanity, its detachment of its attitude was oddly objective; an intellectual determination to be scrupulously just. Since from the court's verdict there could be no appeal, the sacred duty lay on the conscience of every judge to protect the interests of those on trial. Their oaths bound them to be actual attorneys for a prisoner. They must interpret the law in his favor whenever that was possible; it was their explicit duty to look for extenuating circumstances.

Since then, the whole judicial scheme of Israel was designed to make it impossible to convict an innocent person, these judges, if they respected their oaths tonight, would have to acquit Jesus. Annas knew that, if Caiphas did not.

One might be certain they would think a long time before they beheaded Jesus, or strangled Him, stoned Him or burned Him, or hung Him on a cross. In a dozen regulations their own laws stood between Jesus and a sentence of death — especially one great and favorable point, that, in criminal procedure, was a final check on injustice called the "antecedent warning" — a safeguard for a prisoner unequalled in any other court of law, before or since. Under its provisions no man accused of a capital offense could be convicted unless it were also proved beyond contradiction that he had been warned in advance; had been told that, for what he was about to do, he could be put to death. Even more than that, it was required that the offender must have been told that he did certain he was about to commit the crime, was fully aware of its penalty, and that he meant to do it anyhow.

How could anyone be sentenced to death under such merciful latitude? How, above everyone else, could Jesus of Nazareth be convicted?

"Truth and Justice"

Through a small door to the left popped suddenly, like a breeze of authority, the little figure of Annas. Promptly on the midnight bugles he came, the crab-apple face pale in the fluttering torchlight; the wisp of white hair greased and pushed back. Suddenly the little man marched to the table where stood Caiphas, arms folded in magnificently pretended repose. Briefly Annas spoke to his son-in-law, then made his way to a raised cushion and sank down upon it with a painful little grunt. Everyone knew that now the trial could go on.

Without delay Joseph Caiphas strode forward with a grand sweep of arms and robes and took a commanding position. He spoke in serious, even gentle tones:

"I ask for silence! I ask for attention! I ask for truth and justice!

In a low, responsive murmur came the chorused answer:

"No mote it be!"

Upon which Caiphas, turning to the great doorway, called out:

"Jesus of Nazareth, stand forth!"

Corruption Probe in Sask. CCF Government Insurance Office Attracts Crowds to Hearings

REGINA (CP)—A probe of alleged corruption in the Saskatchewan government insurance office is ending its second week. It may go on until Easter.

Speaker Tom Johnston has said the integrity and good faith of the Saskatchewan government and of the legislature are at stake. Premier Douglas has promised the investigation will be thorough.

The inquiry by the Conservative opposition committee, is centred on an affidavit sworn by Joseph Oliver Hewlett, 35-year-old Regina insurance man.

Gave Affidavit

In the affidavit, Mr. Rawlick claims that in return for insurance business steered to his firm, "kickbacks" on insurance premiums paid to Provincial Treasurer Clarence M. Fines and to the manager of the government insurance office, Michael F. Allore. Both have denied the charges under oath.

The hearings have brought crowds of up to 1,500 spectators to the public gallery in the committee-room onto the floor of the chamber behind the members' desks.

The crowds have been attracted by sharp clashes between Premier Douglas and Liberal leader Walter Tucker, and by dramatic incidents such as the sudden announcement that Mr. Rawlick and Mr. Fines lent the veracity of their statements by taking "truth serum."

The Crown corporations committee has 32 members—or better than two-thirds of the legislature. It deals with the six provincially-owned business enterprises of the CCF government, including the government insurance office which sells casualty, fire, automobile and inland marine insurance and operates the Saskatchewan Guarantee and Fidelity Company Limited.

Mr. Fines Accused

The affidavit was brought before the committee March 10 by Mr. Tucker. Mr. Fines said then it must be understood the affidavit had been in existence for some time and that John Diefenbaker, Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative member of Parliament, had investigated Mr. Rawlick's charges before last June's Saskatchewan election and had "refused to have anything to do" with them.

The affidavit tells how Mr. Rawlick, together with Dr. Morris C. Shumiatcher, Q.C., and Philip Bodnoff, organized Financial Agencies Limited in 1950, first as a collection and real estate agency and later as an insurance firm. The next year Mr. Shumiatcher and Mr. Bodnoff withdrew from the company and Mr. Rawlick eventually got his government insurance agency.

The affidavit alleged that in December, 1950, shortly after the company was organized, Dr. Shumiatcher and Mr. Bodnoff told Mr. Rawlick that "Mr. Allore had indicated his willingness to direct as much business as possible through our company. In return we wanted to receive for himself and the Honorable C. M. Fines, 30 per cent of all commissions received by the company on business turned in by him. . . .

"Dr. Shumiatcher and Mr. Bodnoff thought this would be a good arrangement but that Mr. Allore and Mr. Fines should be satisfied with "40 per cent of all commissions received. . . and I agreed with this proposal."

Dr. Shumiatcher, formerly of Calgary and an MLA and graduate of the University of Alberta, testified for nine hours and said there was not "one iota of truth" in statements involving his name.

Allegations Denied

Mr. Bodnoff, a drive-in theatre operator who came to Regina from Montreal in 1943, also denied the claim.

Mr. Rawlick at one point described as alleged car ride during which he claimed he gave Mr. Fines money in an envelope. It was this evidence that prompted Premier Douglas to bring up the question of "truth serum."

He told Mr. Rawlick: "You heard Mr. Fines' denial. You recognize you both can't be telling the truth." He then went on to ask the witness, if the honor of a public man was at stake, and if Mr. Fines was willing to undergo a similar test, "would you be prepared to submit to examination by truth serum?"

Mr. Rawlick replied: "Yes, I most certainly would."

He requested protection of the Saskatchewan Evidence Act Thursday night when he admitted he had signed false signatures to a number of cheques.

Identical Twins Married Sisters While in Army

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Their wives can't tell them apart—that's what they say about Paul and Wesley Tobey who live in this quiet town 30 miles north of Toronto.

The brothers are identical twins, married to sisters they met while serving with the RCAF in England. They spent their early lives together, went through five years of 2nd World War companionship and again joined forces to go into business together.

Now they have been elected to the two top positions in the Canadian Legion branch here—president and vice-president. Paul is president. If it makes any difference.

Friends and neighbors are always confusing them, but they say that the Tobey children are the only ones who can tell them apart. Paul has a boy and a girl and Wesley has two boys.

Wesley and Amy Bainbridge were married in England, but because he hadn't completed his duty for a honeymoon, Paul carried out his guard duties for him without being detected.

Paul was married to Zena in Newmarket. The twins had planned on a double wedding in England but Paul, serving in the WAAFS, was posted, so the wedding was postponed until after the war.

The twins have had some amusing incidents.

Before the war, judges at an Ontario agricultural exhibition awarded Gelt thought Wesley had broken the half-mile record. But they considered afterward that when Paul finished the first of two laps he ducked behind a car and let Wesley take his place. Wesley was 100 yards ahead of the field when he crossed the line.

GARDINER SAYS

At the House opening, External Affairs Minister Pearson said there is no concrete evidence of any change in Russian foreign policy since Georgi Malenkov became premier. He said, however, that the attitude of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations has been more conciliatory. [...]

Debate Procedure Voted

The Commons spent more than an hour debating a procedural point as to whether debates on resolutions providing money bills should take place with the Speaker in the chair or at a later stage. Speaker Macdonald presided during later.

The government introduced a bill to give the Yukon council powers now exercised by the federal government. These will include such matters as jurisdiction over hospitals, agriculture, wills and bequests and the borrowing of money.

In the agricultural debate Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada's farmers are worried about the future. They want parliamentary action to halt failing prices, surpluses and lost markets.

Wants U. K. Markets

The government, should act to restore the United Kingdom market by buying defence needs in Britain. This would enable Britain with the necessary dollars to buy Canadian farm products. Canada depended on the U. S. market now, but the Americans always favored their tariffs and erected embargoes when necessary to help their own farmers.

Mr. Herridge said no steps should be taken to restrict agricultural production. It would be "complete humbug and hypocrisy" to do that when so many people going hungry in the world.

Asks Parity Prices

Robert Fair (SC-Battle River) said there should be a system of "parity prices" for agriculture—a system under which farm prices are related to the cost of production. For the government to ask farmers to cut production means no markets was "criminal" while there were hungry people in other countries.

F. H. Larson (L-Kindersley) said Canadian farmers wanted to see a renewed effort for international wheat agreement, but world wheat surplus conditions should be kept in mind. There should be no return to conditions of the 1930s when farmers were driven off their farms.

Dr. C. E. Ross (PC-Souris) also said there should be a new international wheat agreement "but not at any price."

He could not agree with Mr. Gardiner's assertion that farmers were satisfied. Many of them were worried and he was one of them.

LONDON (CP) — Ace snooker player Joe Davis walked almost eight miles in a recent match, it was shown by a pedometer attached to his leg. But his skilful arm work made the distance only about half that taken by the average player.

'Not Disturbed' By Criticism Of Modern School

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—C. W. Routley of Toronto, assistant secretary of elementary education for the Ontario department of education, says he is "not disturbed" by many of the criticisms of the modern school.

"I find myself much more capable in many ways than the children in my day," Mr. Routley told an education conference of 175 eastern Ontario teachers and school trustees.

Schoolchildren have wider knowledge and can think, read and talk more clearly than the pupils of 20 years ago, he said.

However the province was straining to overcome a shortage of school space and the department had asked school boards to concentrate on erection of classrooms in any new building.

In the team competition for the three high boys of each county Durham County were declared winners with 2,395 points. Hastings County team placed second with 2,349; Prince Edward were in third place with 2,307; Ontario County fourth, with 2,294; Lennox and Addington, fifth, with 2,288; Victoria, sixth, with 2,278; Frontenac, seventh, with 2,254; North Cumberland, eighth, with 2,238; and Peterborough, ninth, with 2,-124 points. The individual placings for the first twenty competitors are as follows: Harry Graham, Nestleton, Durham County, 799, high with a total score of 811, out of a possible 850; Ken Buttery, Bowmanville, Durham, 795; Ross Foster, Bloomfield, Prince Edward, 790; Clifford Brisco, Campbellford, Durham, 789 1-2; Don Green, Nestleton, Durham, 789; Charles Keen, Tweed, Hastings, 785; Robert Bush, Glen Miller, Hastings, 784; David Kemp, Brewer's Mills, Frontenac, 780 1-2; John McLeary, Grafton, Northumberland, 780; Laverne Moore, Springbrook, Hastings, 780; James Jones, Bethany, Hastings, 780; Wally Jackson, Springbrook, Hastings, 780; Glynor Sleeman, Ontario, 778; Larmer Rowsvear, Tyrone, Durham, 778; Robert Green, Frankford, Hastings, 788; Jack Hutchinson, Lindsay, Victoria, 766; Robert Lyle, Sunderland, Ontario, 765; Rod Hawley, Stirling, Hastings and Addington, 764.

On Thursday evening, at the Central Ontario Spring Show, four contests competed in the Junior Farmer Inter-County Square Dancing Competition. Peterborough County took top honors, with Hastings, second, Durham, third, and Victoria, fourth. The Rawdon Junior Farmers represented Hastings County in this competition. Approximately 1,500 people were in attendance for this event.

JUNIOR FARMERS MEET (By ELOISE BINK)

The theme for the day, "Let's Learn to Lead". President, Don Martin, reviewed the year's club activities, the highlights being the visit to our County of Miss Beada Metcalfe, Yorkshire, England; the Junior Farmer Camp at Roblin Lake; the county social evenings at Clive Snowdrove, Belleville; the Public Speaking Competition at which Miss Eloise Kinnon, Madoc, was the winner, and the debating team of Marilyn Parks and Kathleen Homan, who are now the top team for Eastern Ontario.

Mr. J. Allen Francis, Assistant Agricultural Representative, conducted the election of officers, with the following slate: President, Ralph Burkitt, Sidney; vice-president, Grant Richardson, Brighton; secretary, Marilyn Parks, Thurlow; treasurer, Rose Moncrief, Madoc; Directors, Jean Frost, Sidney; George Slatherwick, Tyendinaga; Graham Tschesne, Madoc; county director, Donald Martin, Hungerford; publicity director, Eloise Bink, Sidney.

Ralph Swan led a rousing sing-song, accompanied by Mrs. F. Bailey.

A three-minute report was given on the past year's activities by the following county executives: Sidney, Eloise Bink; Thurlow, Georgina Clare; Tyendinaga, Earl Badgley; Brighton, Grant Richardson; Hungerford, Phyllis Kleinsteiber; Madoc, Don McKinnon.

Several members took part in a skit, "The Business Part of Your Meeting", after which Mr. Francis conducted a meeting on correct usage of Parliamentary Procedure.

Bill Leeming, Chairman of the Resolution Committee brought forth the following resolutions: Whereas, the 1953 Guinte Field Day, held in Belleville, was such a success that we, the Hastings County Junior Farmers and Junior Institutes invite it to be held at Belleville again in 1953. Therefore, be it resolved that the Ontario Junior Farmers kindly consider having it there again.

2. Be it resolved that the secretary be instructed to send letters of thanks to the Hastings County Council, the Local Press, CJBQ, and the Madoc High School Band; and also a vote of thanks to all those who have come to assist in the program during the day.

Marlene Moorcroft, Editor, read the Hastings Review and Annual Herald.

During the evening, David Pelsterlo, Ralston County, and President of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association spoke using the theme of the day, "Learning To Lead". He stated that every boy is born with leadership ability, but that many do not put it to use. He stressed that leaders are needed in agriculture's work in Junior Farmer and in your community. We, as Junior Farmers and Young People, must accept the challenge and take the responsibility of good citizens.

Mr. F. S. Follwell, M.P., presented the Frank Follwell Public Speaking Trophy for Hastings County Junior Farmers' to the winner, Don McKinnon.

The evening concluded with play party recreation led by Rose Moncrief.

Sidney Junior Farmers' Hold Meeting—By Barbara Dodds

The monthly meeting was held at Johnstown Hall on March 12th. We held our separate meetings at which the girls commenced the work on their cushions and chesterfield sets, and the boys enjoyed an address on "Soils and Seed" by Mr. A. O. Dalrymple. Later the girls joined the boys for the joint meeting, which Miss M. Eileen Nese, Home Economist addressed the group on the subject, "Proper Dress for the Proper Occasion". She planned our bus trip which will be coming up early in April. Afterwards everyone enjoyed recreation, and lunch which, followed.

ONE UP!

The Junior Hawks came through with a convincing 4-1 victory over those puck-chasing wits-o'-the-wisp from Dixie last night and Flash Hallett started slinging the "stones" immediately following. Again it was game-saved-by-the-goalie as the best little "adapters" the game has seen here in some time, for they grabbed the close-checking style followed by the Flashers, which in itself was large-ly responsible for the 5-3 whitewash they hung on the boosters last Saturday night. Mebbe the Hawks have solved the style of the Hotsticks. Again maybe they haven't. This will, or should be, proven in Dixie tomor-row night when the teams clash in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series.

The close checking of the Hawks told the story and mixed in the hassle were two outstanding performances by "Jurk" Barclay and Terry Clements, the respective goalies. Both would make the proverbial coolness of the traditional cu-cumber look like a fever rash. The Hawks were full value for their win and easily held up their end when the going became a bit rugged. A little over one thousand pewsters saw the till and there should have been twice that number. A lot of fans are missing some high-class puck performances regardless of what other attractions have to offer.

"The sooner you stop bringing these American wrecks with worn-out reputations, the sooner you'll have some mon-ey in your pockets. You've had your quota of them for a few years before and you will lose them again. I hope you do—with the underwear attached."

That was the direct criticism fired at the Ontario Baseball Association by Bill Rogell, former star shortstop with the De-troit Tigers and now a silver-thatched member of the Detroit City Council. He was guest-speaking at the annual convention banquet in Simcoe on Saturday.

Rogell was referring to American players who are im-ported by Canadian teams and who have "nothing but a re-putation."

"A lot of you won't like what I am saying, and I don't care whether you do or not," was the second broadside from the Rogell battery of high explosive, verbal guns.

"Baseball is an American game just as hockey is a Can-adian sport, he went on. "Why still make baseball American over here. Inject some Canadianism into it and the only way you can do it is to use your own Canadian boys. You haven't seen one photo player to the Tigers, Pirates, Phillies or Sen-ators. And you won't as long as you insist on bringing in them worn-out Americans and paying them."

"You have lots of managerial and player talent over here, but how are you going to develop it, if you don't let your Can-adian boys play?" he said.

"You people over here love baseball. You love your boys. Get them into the game the only way. Let 'em play, and make 'em play."

"But they won't as long as you bring in broken-down Americans. Okay, so and spend your money that way. Maybe by the time you've lost $18,000 or more you'll get smart."

Rogell turned from a critical point of view to an advisory one. He stressed practice, practice and more practice. He should know. He used to spend three hours a day with his second base-man when he was with the Tigers, practising double plays and other infield manoeuvres.

He urged discipline, and lots of it. He told of an exper-ience as a manager of a baseball club. When he took over, the third-base coach used to fly beer out of a bottle along the coach-ing lines. Players smoked on the bench and on the field.

"Hustle, hustle and more hustle," Rogell stressed. He re-called the time when the Tigers were playing the Cards in a World Series and Goose Goslin failed to come in for a "sleeper." The error of omission started a rally that cost the Tigers the baseball game. "Always run 'em out", was his ad-vice. "The fielders may catch 999 fly balls but there's always the chance your hit may be the 1000th, and he'll muff it."

Strangely enough, Rogell doesn't bother much with baseball any more. He is a hockey fan, seldom misses a game in De-troit. Maybe it is because his son is a star on a Canadian junior team. Maybe it is the close contact with a last stand to give Canadian boys a chance to play baseball, "just as you did hockey. Where would Richard, Howe, Red Kelly and other Canadian hockey stars be today if they had not been given the chance to play?"

TRENT VALLEY FINALS

What is expected to be a "classic" of a hockey series gets under way tonight in Memorial Arena when Campbellford and the Wellington Dukes tangle in the first of their best-of-seven series for the Trent Valley Hockey League championship. A crowd is expected to capacity to see the teams clash in the opener with large delegations coming from the rival centres. The Duke clansmen headed Frankford Lions and Camp-bellford seeded Marmens in the semis. Both teams appear evenly matched and the series should be one that compares favorably with those of previous years.

MINOR BASEBALL

Thursday night in Kiwanis Centre the Belleville Minor Baseball Association will hold its annual get-together. The association will operate as in the past, as a circuit, this year, according to a motion passed at the meeting of the parent Belleville Baseball Association a week ago Sunday.

The BMBA had a successful season last year despite the fact it was into just a few "headaches", but it is hoped these things will be ironed out at the Thursday evening confab. Frank Grandzone, who did such a grand job at the helm last year, was again named chairman of the association, and it is hoped a num-ber of minor baseball-minded people will rally to his aid.

Nearly three hundred youngsters played baseball last year, thanks to the efforts of the association, its sponsors, coaches and managers, and, it is expected, this number will be greatly increased this year. This will mean that additi-tional assistance will be required, and all interested in the minor game are urged to be on hand Thursday night. The meeting gets under way at Kiwanis Centre at 7.30.

But Habs, Detroit Red Wings Are Choice of 'Wisenheimers' To Enter Stanley Cup Finals

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—The Stanley Cup playoffs get under way to-night and coach Lynn Patrick of Boston Bruins says: "Who's afraid of the big, bad Wings?"

This can come under the cate-gory of whistling in the dark. If there's any team which should have a healthy respect for the cham-pion Detroit Red Wings, it's Pat-rick's Bruins.

The two teams' open their best-of-seven semi-final series tonight at the Detroit Arena. The Red Wings are heavy favorites to roll into the finals against either Montreal or Chicago.

During the season, the Wings whipped the Bruins. They won 10 of 14 games. Two ended in ties.

But Patrick said last night will entitle the first two games here, to-night and Thursday.

"It's tough to see how the Wings can lose. They won their fifth straight league title this season—an unprecedented feat—and they also had both leading individual scorer, Gordie Howe with 95 points, the best goalie, Terry Sawchuk, who won the Vezina Trophy for the second straight year, the highest scoring defenceman, Red Kelly with 50 points, and the highest scoring team, 222 goals.

"But, as Patrick says, playoff time is different. It's like a new season.

Asked who he'd play against the Wings, counting first line of Glen Skov, Ted Lindsay and Howe, Patrick replied:

"It doesn't make much differ-ence who'll play against them. . . I mean I figure it doesn't make much difference."

'Howe Now Red Kelly?'

NEW YORK (CP)—But for an official ruling, Gordie Howe would have tied Maurice Richard's Na-tional Hockey League record of 50 goals in a season.

Howe, who wound up the season with 49 goals, believes he scored one goal which was awarded to defenceman Red Kelly.

The goal occurred Feb. 8 in Bos-ton. Late in the third period Kelly fired a shot from the blueline which beat Jim Henry. Howe claimed he tipped the puck before it went into the net and his teammates agreed. But the officials didn't see it and credited Kelly with the goal. De-troit won the game 5-2.

Howe, who at the time was looking for his 40th goal of the season and his 300th since breaking in, wasn't bitter about the decision however.

"It couldn't have happened to a nicer guy," he said of Kelly.

What, Again? Joe Primeau To Retire

TORONTO (CP) — Joe Pri-meau, coach of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, will soon retire the Globe and Mail says today.

Primeau, who operates a con-crete block business, will be suc-ceeded by King Clancy, coach of Pittsburgh Hornets of the Amer-ican Hockey League and a Leaf farm, sportswriter Al Nickleson says.

Primeau would not comment on his future plans Monday night af-ter returning here from the final game of the season in Boston. The Leafs were eliminated from the NHL playoffs Sunday night.

Conn Smythe, managing direc-tor of the Leafs, said he has not heard anything from Primeau about his future plans. He said that "Joe has the coaching job until he gives it up."

'Wot No Sun' Clouded By 'Early Mist'

LONDON (AP)—Wot No Sun, one of the fastest entries for next Saturday's Grand National Steeple-chase at Aintree, was declared out of the race Monday. Trainer No-vills Crump said it had been im-possible for him to give the horse the necessary preparation for the gruelling four-mile, 856-yard race over 30 tough jumps.

Crump also trained Teal, last year's winner and an early favor-ite this year, who died recently after a rupture operation.

Wot No Sun, held at 20 to 1 in the last ref-use of odds, finished third in 1952 and second in 1950. His withdrawal left the number of probable starter at 41.

Eighteen of the probable starters are trained by a call-over later in the day and the Irish-trained Early Mist emerged as the favorite at 100 to 9.

'Hap' May Retire in '53, Mayhap

TORONTO (CP) — Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers of the On-tario Hockey Association Junior A series, said Monday he will quit at the end of the season.

"This time it's definite," Emms said. "This coaching is too rough and I'm not getting any younger. The hockey season takes a lot out of me. It takes a lot out of my wife and family, too, you know."

Emms said he had received offers from clubs but wouldn't say any more than that they were "higher than juniors."

The Flyers currently hold a 4-2 edge in their best-of-nine semi-final with Toronto Marlboros, with the seventh game scheduled for Barrie Wednesday.

Detroit Wings Grab Major Honors In 1952-3 National Hockey League

MONTREAL (CP)—One team and one individual record were set during the 210-game National Hock-ey League schedule which came to a close Sunday night in a wild scramble for the last playoff spot. The post-season Stanley Cup ser-ies now takes over.

Detroit Red Wings became the first team to win the NHL cham-pionship five seasons in a row. Big Gordie Howe, Detroit right-winger, set a point-scoring record. His 49 goals and 46 assists for a total of 95 points bettered his own mark of 86 points, made in each of the last two seasons. He failed to reach the 50-goal record for one season set by Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens in the 1944-45 campaign.

It was Detroit again for the goal-tending honors. Terry Sawchuk's goals-against average was the low-est and he is winner of the Vezina Trophy for the second successive season. The trophy goes to the goalkeeper "who has played the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it."

Next Average

Sawchuk's average, counting the seven games he missed because of an injury, was 1.90. In his previ-ous two seasons in the NHL Saw-chuk had averages of 1.98 and 1.94.

The league record for goal-tend-ing goes back to the 1928-29 season when the late George Hainsworth, playing with Montreal Canadiens, had only 43 goals scored against him in 44 games for an average of .977. Hainsworth registered 22 shutouts in the 44 games.

Gerry McNeil of Canadiens was second behind Sawchuk with 2.11, followed by Harry Lumley of Tor-onto Maple Leafs with 2.36. Jim Henry of Boston Bruins, 2.46. Al Rollins of Chicago Black Hawks, 2.50, and Lorne Worsley of New York Rangers 3.01. McNeil and Lumley led in shutouts with 10 each.

In points-scoring, closest to Howe's 95 is the league's official statistics released today was 71 by Howe's line-mate Ted Lindsay. The little leftwinger had 32 goals and 39 assists. Richard finished third with 28 goals and 41 assists for 69 points.

Richard finished the season as the most penalized player in the league, with 112 minutes. He moved out Detroit's Lindsay, leader all season, by one minute. Toronto was the most penalized team with 810 minutes.

Junior Hawks Take Game Lead With 4-1 Victory Over Dixie Flashers

Grab 1st Period 2-Goal Lead And Never Looked Backward In Close Hard-Checking Game

By JOHN GOODFELLOW

Belleville Black Hawks defeated Dixie Flashers 4-1 at the Memorial Arena last night and moved into a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven quarter-finals of the O.H.A. Junior "B" playoffs. Still smarting from the 6-0 loss handed them in Dixie Saturday night, Hawks Barclay-Jettrey went all out to salvage this important victory and that they needed some spectacular goal tending by Don Barclay is worth a lot.

Davey Jones scored twice for the Hawks, with the other counters going to Jerry Goyer and George Jacklin. Billy Gibb got the lonesome Dixie goal.

Take Early Lead

The Hawks bounced into a 1-0 lead at 4.27 of the first period. Jones was the marksman on this effort, punching home a short shot on passes from Hank Therrien and Pat Gilmour.

Goyer added to the margin near the end of the period on a beautiful shot. Jones shot a pass to the big defenceman at the blue line and Goyer pulled the trigger. Clements, the fine Dixie goalie, didn't see the puck until it was past him.

Jones upped the statistics to 3-0 at 2.23 of the second period. He took Therrien's pass at the enemy blue line and skidded in, led his way prettily through the Dixie defence to tally a dandy. Gilmour also had a hand in the payoff.

Ron Halstead and Johnny Casey drew successive penalties and while they were off Dixie scored. Gibb, who was the best of the losers, got the counter, slashing a short shot behind Barclay when the latter was victimized by some sloppy clearing. Jacklin, with the aid of Goyer, wound up the scoring at 2.53 of the third canto. Goyer picked up the puck two strides inside the Dixie blue line and cut loose with a belt-high shot. Jacklin, standing at the edge of the crease, put some wood on it and Clements was beaten cleanly.

That tore it for Flash Hollett's crew. Hull, Jones and Halstead all had good chances to add to the total but found Clements a trifle stingy.

Jones Gets Two

Jones played a fine game for the Hawks. The lanky centre man has been all the game of late but last night was the "Available" of earlier in the season. Therrien and Gilmour were both effective as were Jacklin and Hull. Halstead had one of his rare mediocre games. Casey, Brant and Hermiston, until the latter cracked up his knee again, formed a forceful unit. The defence, bolstered by the return of Archie Stocco, turned in a useful performance. Goyer came up with another of his two-way efforts to aid the scoring cause.

The Webster boys, Bruce and Vic, plus Gibb and Boncardo stood out for the Visitors along with twine custodian Clements.

The teams meet in Dixie on Wednesday and return here Saturday. Attendance was 1,044.

The teams:

Dixie: Goal, Clements; defence, Mitchell and Bain; centre, Reynolds; wings, Gibb and Belford; alternates, Henry, McInnis, Boncardo, Webster, B. Webster, Gardineer, Bellegheim, Copeland and Blake.

Belleville: Goal Barclay; defence, Stocco and Goyer; centre, Jones; wings, Therrien and Gilmour; alternates, Halstead, Jacklin, Hull, Brant, Hermiston, Casey, Delbosco and Green.

Referees: Bill Reason and Stan Scrutton, Kingston.

Summary:

First Period

Belleville — Jones (Therrien, Gilmour) 6.27

Belleville — Goyer (Jones) 16.33

Penalties: Halstead, B. Webster, Delbosco, Gibb, Jacklin.

Second Period

Belleville — Jones (Therrien, Gilmour) 2.23

Dixie — Gibb 5.40

Penalties — Belford, Halstead, (minor and misconduct), Casey, Sicinski, Gilmour, Therrien.

Third Period

Belleville — Jacklin (Goyer) 2.53

Penalities — B. Webster, Mitchell, Gilmour (3).

Amateur Boxer Dies After KO

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A 17-year-old amateur boxer died in hospital Monday night after being knocked out in a Golden Gloves bout.

Physicians said Clifton Johnson, 147-pound Negro, failed to regain consciousness after being admitted to the hospital in critical condition.

Johnson was knocked out in the third and final round by Charles Cator.

Scores 300 Goals

George (Sonny) Agar, 33, has reached the small, select group of players who have scored 300 goals in professional hockey. The centre for Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League broke into the money ranks in 1939 and has played all his hockey in minor leagues. He won the scoring championship in the Coast Hockey League last season and the 1947-48 title while with Houston of the old United States League. Maurice Richard of the National Hockey League and Wingy Johnston of the Tacoma Rockets of the WHL are the others in the 300-goal circle among still active players. — (CP Photo.)

Remember When

Loi Sobman, famed Toronto sports promoter, died 22 years ago today. He built the old Mutual Street Arena, where Arenas and St. Patricks for years played their home National Hockey League games, and the stadium at Hanlan's Point across the bay, former home of the Toronto International Baseball League club. Sobman was president of the Toronto ball club at the time of his death.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Trap-shooting is not, of course, what might be termed a popular sport. It has a limited participation, an even more limited spectator following. So it was but natural that a clitterish hockey star, Rocket Richard of Montreal Canadiens, whose feat in breaking goals record, 324, compiled by Nels Stewart, should have been voted Canada's athlete of the year.

Richard is the Babe Ruth of hockey, a dynamic showman, a magnetic figure. But it seems as though the selectors, perhaps swayed by Canada's famine of honors at the Olympic Games, overlooked one of the most brilliant achievements of 1952 by a Canadian sportsman. The performance of 17-year-old George Genereux, of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, the high school boy who won 10 of Canada's total of 30 points and tie out for the gold Medal, Amateur Trophy award, when he defeated greatest trap-shooters in the world. That one so young should win such honors is unusual. That he should lack the acclaim such a performance merits, is unfortunate.

George Genereux's record in his favorite sport is little short of fabulous. He was only 13 years old when he first started to shoot at the Saskatoon Gun Club. His ability was quickly spotted by Jimmie Girgulis, veteran trapshooting star. Girgulis was introducing his sons to the clay-target busting business one afternoon, by letting them shoot at birds with a .410 shotgun, when George joined in. His proved to be an important meeting, for, from that time on, Genereux-wise Girgulis kept George at his wing and has been his coach and mentor ever since.

The first major victory in competitive shooting for George was in 1949, when at the tender age of 14 he shot his way to the Manitoba-Saskatchewan Handicap Championship. Two years later at the American Trapshooting Association championships at Vandalia, Ohio, he won three North. American Championships—Junior Junior, the Junior All-Around and the Junior High Over All.

Last year at the contests sponsored by the A.T.A. he won runner-up in the Junior Preliminary Handicap Championship, and won the Junior Champion of Champions of North America title. To this he added the Saskatchewan Championship (Singles). Then before going to the Olympics he stopped at Oslo, Norway, where he placed second in the World Championship.

George Genereux is just a normal boy. In a game that requires chilled-steel nerves, there is no ice-water in his veins. At school, he is a star in hockey and baseball. And a good student. Just a normal, healthy young Canadian, whose fine feat was, unfortunately, overlooked in the attention paid more glamorous competitive sports.

Eddie Olson Top Scorer In American League

NEW YORK (CP)—Eddie Olson of Cleveland Barons, with a total of 86 scoring points, finished the American Hockey League's regular season last week at the top of the list. He is the first United States-born player ever to lead a professional league.

Olson automatically became the winner of the Carl Liscombe Trophy and a league bonus of $300 by setting the scoring pace with 32 goals and 54 assists.

Gayle Fielder of St. Louis Flyers finished second with 27 goals and 61 assists for 83 points. Fielder was best in the playmaking department.

Third place in scoring went to Jackie Gordon of Cleveland with 78 points. Kelly Burnett of Syracuse Warriors was fourth with 76, and Ike Hildebrand of Cleveland fifth with 78.

Hildebrand was leading goal scorer with 33, one ahead of his teammate Steve Wochy, last season's leader.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh won a sweater trophy and a $200 bonus as leading goalkeeper of the season. He allowed 146 goals in 64 games for an average of 2.35.

GIANTS SELL BLAYLOCK

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — New York Giants sold first baseman Marvin Blaylock Monday to their Minneapolis farm club in the American Association. The Giants also shipped six players to their minor league training base for assignment to various farm clubs: Pitcher Dick Adair, infielders Foster Castleman, Bob Boring and Bill White and outfielders John Golich and Bob Lennon.

Richard 'Most Colorful Player' According to 'Writers-Casters'

This story is one of a Canadian Press series on outstanding players and teams in the National Hockey League. Selections were made by a poll of sports writers and sportscasters in NHL cities.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Maurice Richard, a tight-lipped scowling figure on and off the ice, today was named the National Hockey League's most colorful player and the master who makes the chips are down.

He ranks high with color guys of another era—rambunctious Eddie Shore, flashing Howie Morenz and dynamic Francis Michael (King) Clancy. And the black-haired fellow can score million-dollar goals and fire his team-mates when the going is tough.

That is the opinion of sports writers and sportscasters in the league's six cities who have watched the Montreal Canadiens right-winger flash across the big league since 1942-43.

He is idolized and hated. In Montreal, he is the city's No. 1 citizen. In Toronto, he is public enemy No. 1.

Rugged Star

In his 11-season swing with Canadiens, the 31-year-old Rocket has had an electric effect on fans and players alike. His fists have played a tattoo on many faces and he has left a trail of buried heaters and buckets of blood behind him. At the same time he has become the greatest scorer in the history of professional hockey.

The experts, asked to name their choice in a Canadian Press poll voted almost solidly for Richard as the game's most colorful player and the greatest money player.

In voting for the most colorful player, two balloted for Detroit Red Wings' Gordie Howe and one for veteran Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins, but there were far behind Richard. No other players received a vote.

The selectors were asked to compare their choice with Shore, the gruelling Boston star defenceman of the 1926-40 era; Morenz, voted the game's greatest player of the half century in a CP poll, and Ottawa-born King Clancy, a one-pound bundle of dynamite with the old Ottawa Senators and Toronto Maple Leafs from 1921 until 1937.

They came up with various comments.

"Richard belongs with them," commented Baz O'Meara, veteran sports editor of the Montreal Star. "He scores the most spectacular goals."

"Richard oozes color," was the succinct comment of Bobby Hewitson, Toronto Telegram sports editor and former NHL referee.

"His great ability, coupled with his appearance and explosive temperament make him the most newsworthy player in hockey, on and off the ice, for all time," said Lou Walter of the Detroit Times.

John Gilbody of the Boston Daily Record, who balloted for Howe, said the 24-year-old Red Wing right-winger "is a match for Richard and better than Morenz and Clancy."

Top Money Player

The money-player decision showed Richard far ahead of Schmidt, Howe, Detroit's Ted Lindsay and Terry Sawchuk, Vezina Trophy winner last season.

"Look at Richard's playoff record," said Vince Lunny, sports editor of the Montreal Herald.

His 13 goals in the 1945-44 Stanley Cup playoffs against Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks is a record. He also holds the record of five goals scored in a single playoff game—in 1944—against the Leafs. In eight playoff series he has 45 points on 45 goals and 22 assists, another high. Several reporters stressed the stormy right-winger's ability to deliver in the pinch.

"Repeatedly Richard has cashed the big shots when the chips were down," wrote Jack Desmond of the Chicago Tribune.

Support for Schmidt

Schmidt supporters said chiefly that they preferred their man's choice. "He is always at his best in playoff games," said Red Burnett of the Toronto Daily Star. Sportscaster Foster Hewitt of CKFH, Toronto, said: "He is great defensively and offensively and scores the badly-needed goals."

Sportscaster and Fallon of WHDX, Boston, Dana Morley of WEEI, Boston, and Bill Currier of Wes McKnight of station CFRB, Toronto, marked one up for Schmidt.

Richard is the League's most shadowed forward. Opposing players ordered to check him practically climb all over Richard's five-foot-10-inch frame and his retaliatory methods have been explosive.

Richard scored goals at a remarkable pace, climaxed by his record-breaking 325th last Nov. 8, which beat Nels Stewart's 324 total over 15 seasons. It came 19 years to the day after the Rocket tallied for his rookie, scored his first NHL goal.

Langfeldt Wins Over Barbuie

TORONTO (CP) — Al Langfeldt of Hamilton Monday night decisioned Willie Barbuie, of Toronto, in the 136-pound class, five-round, main bout of the Oakwood Boxing Club's amateur show.

In a five-round semi-final Hamilton's Ed Beattye decisioned John Veitch of Weston in the 122-pound division.

Results of the preliminary three-round bouts included:

115 pounds — Jim Hurley, Brantford, decisioned Jim Clark, Toronto.

126-pounds — John Wilmott, Toronto, decisioned Don McLellan Brantford.

128 pounds — Omer Seford, Brantford, won by technical knockout over George Nixon, of Toronto, at 1.10 of the second round.

Toronto, marked one up for Schmidt.

'All Is Fixed' For Olympics In Australia

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australia Monday cleared a $4,500,000 hurdle blocking the way to holding the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne.

Prime Minister Robert Menzies said the government will advance the money to build an Olympic village in the form of an interest-free housing loan.

Melbourne's attempt to be host to the Olympiad has run into one snag after another, and the games were in danger of going to another continent.

But now "everything is fixed," Australian Olympic Games control committee chairman, said Monday night. "We could not wish for anything better."

The federal government will advance the $4,500,000 to Victoria state to house visiting athletes and Olympic officials. Afterward the village will become a housing project.

There is only possible hitch. Victoria's Premier John Cain has not yet accepted the offer.

The card sense of a bridge expert is not an exclusive gift that was born with him. Reduced to simple rules, even a beginner can see how the mind of a skilful player works under certain conditions.

Take the knack of knowing how many cards in each suit are held by each of the other players. Without looking at their hands, I mean. It is simply a matter of applying easy, understandable rules.

Most often an even number of unseen cards are divided unequally; an odd number as equally as possible. With equal length suits, first bid the higher rank; with unequal lengths, first bid the longer.

Knowing this, hold the north hand shown here:

♠J 8 3
♥K 8 7 3
♦K 8 4 3
♣K Q

Suppose the bidding goes like this:

South	North
1 C	1 NT
2 S	3 NT
3 S	4 S

You know your partner in south has only two red cards; since he has shown 11 blacks. Ride along with the bids and you will see.

Having bid clubs before spades his club suit is longer. But a suit is rebid it must have five cards. So, he must have five spades. If his clubs are longer he must have six of them. Thus, two red cards.

With your cards, figure what opponents have: Five spades, five clubs, seven in one red suit, nine in the other red suit. Split as rule suggests. Two spades unequally; odd number as equal as can.

Thus, one opponent is assumed to have three spades, two clubs, five in the red suit, three in the other. His partner has the balance.

You are going to tell me that you do not have time to figure out first in a bridge game. Or could remember it all. I know, dear. This is why an expert is an expert.

Phil Watson Gets Suspension

MONTREAL (CP) — President Martin Conway of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said Monday night that as the result of a junior game here Sunday night, coach Phil Watson of Quebec Citadelles will be suspended for the next game and must post a good-behavior bond of $200.

Montreal Canadien Juniors defeated Citadelles 3-1 Sunday night, the winning goal coming with eight seconds to play. Watson and his players argued hotly that the puck had not crossed the goal-line. When the grand combat's ruckus rolled over into the crowd, with Watson and his players involved in the fist-swinging.

The next game is scheduled for the Montreal Forum but Sunday Citadelles lead the series 3-1 in the final playoff of the Junior Amateur Hockey Association.

In Quebec, Watson, still sizzling over the game, said the next game will be in Quebec next Thursday "or there will be no game."

Wareham Wins Golf Tourney

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Lew Worsham shot his fourth straight 68 to fight off a closing birdie barrage by Jim Ferrier Monday night in the Jacksonville open golf tournament with 272, Ferrier finished second with 273.

Worsham birdied four holes on the second nine when he knew the pressure was on. His 272 was 16 under par.

Tommy Bolt, who started the day tied with Worsham for the lead, finished third with 275. His final round was 71.

LONDON TECH WINS

LONDON, Ont., (CP)—Led by star defenceman Frank Anderson, London Tech won their second straight WOSSA senior hockey crown Monday night when they downed Assumption High of Windsor 5-1 to take the two-game total goal series 5-3.

Anderson, who played the entire 60 minutes, scored one goal and assisted in three others as Tech outplayed the young Assumption sextet all the way in the fast contest.

Goalie Hal Macanlab for London, who played a steady game throughout, was robbed of a shutout with less than a half a minute to go in the game when Orlando Cunlado scored on a pass from Eddie Carriveau.

Playwright's Wife Is Found Dead In Estate Garage

NEW CITY, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, 54-year-old wife of Maxwell Anderson, the playwright, was found dead Sunday in the garage of her several months, close friends of the family said.

Mrs. Anderson, a native of Montreal and the second wife of the 65-year-old playwright now winning playwright, had been separated from him for more than several months, close friends of the family said.

Mrs. Anderson, formerly an actress, was found seated in her car in the lighted garage.

She was clad in a nightgown and a mink coat.

Ernest F. Wiebicke, chief of police of Clarkstown township which includes New City, told reporters:

"I am really satisfied that it was suicide from carbon monoxide poisoning. She had been dead from 24 to 36 hours."

Called Outrageous

TORONTO (CP)—Describing proposed new regulations which would permit Ontario brewery companies to serve meals as "outrageous" and "liquor favoring," Rev. Roy Spence of the Council of Good Templars said Saturday the move "is a device to get patrons to stay longer and therefore drink more."

The new meals-with-beer regulations announced Friday in the legislature by Provincial Secretary Welsh would extend the liquor control board.

Rev. Spence said:

"It will mean additional liquor sales and that, in turn, will mean increased drunkenness, disorder, destitution and crime."

MARMORA

I. O. D. E. Names Committee Conveners

MARMORA — Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E. held a business and social meeting for its March meeting held in the Masonic Hall on Thursday evening. The newly elected Regent, Mrs. H. Rennie, presided over a good attendance of members.

Following the opening ceremonies, correspondence was read, which included two "thank you" notes. The financial statement was read by Mrs. C. R. Whitemore and accepted.

Conveners of the various committees were announced as follows: Flower and Gift Fund, Mrs. Clinton Nickle; Films, Mrs. F. H. Wells; Publicity, Mrs. D. P. Mac-ett; Membership, Mrs. Charles Brady; Services at Home and Abroad, Miss M. Savage; Empire Study and World Affairs, Mrs. E. Manchester; Sewing, Mrs. M. Borland; Knitting, Mrs. J. R. McCrodden; Education, Mrs. R. Reynolds; Program and Pianist, Mrs. J. Aitchison.

The two Chapter representatives on the Provincial Committees, Meadames E. Brady and R. Frost, left to attend the Town Hall gathering in the form of the Chapter as being 100 per cent in their Empire Citizenship and to bring back the tidings that the large membership was also 100 per cent in favor of having artificial ice at the arena.

Annual awards to high school pupils for the current year were discussed. It was left to the discretion of L. Begley, B.A., principal of Marmora High School, and the Education Committee of the Chapter to handle the matter.

Miss Muriel Hamilton's tea-dy family was being looked after.

Mrs. Gordon Jarvis, the Chapter's representative on the local campaign to raise funds for the new Home for the Blind at Kingston, reported good success.

Since the Chapter has decided to be sponsors for the Girl Guide movement in the village, Mrs. S. York, captain of the Marmora Company, will be asked to address the Chapter at its next meeting.

The secretary was asked to write Elmer Sandeman, M.P.P., protesting the bill designed to place a ban on margarine, salad dressing, edible oils and such like.

The holding of another cooking school was discussed and will receive further consideration. Also discussed to some extent was the holding of a Coronation Dance in the near future. Mrs. E. Brady was asked to make enquiries regarding the possibility of sponsoring a band concert.

The spelling of one new candidate was voted on and unanimously accepted. The country's flag was then brought forward and the meeting closed, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs .W. T. Fox of Toronto, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Sanderson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Madgett, of Sutherland, visited Mr. and Mrs. Manley Lavender, over the week-end.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Cauley in Mr. Lawlor's Nursing Home, on March 17.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Sanderson spent a couple of days in Toronto this part week, and visited the latter's sister, Miss Flora Sanderson, there.

Miss Anne Lavender, who is teaching school at Port Perry, spent the week-end at her home, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson of Peterborough renewed acquaintances here on Saturday.

Mr. Watt is able to be around again after his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lavender spent Sunday in Kingston.

Mrs. Betty Wellman, of Toronto, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ez. Hewitt.

FRANKFORD

Y. P. U.

FRANKFORD — The Young Peoples Union of Stockdale United Church held its regular weekly meeting in the Sunday School rooms of the church, Tuesday evening, with a fair attendance. President Donna Plumpton was in charge of the meeting. Business was dealt with, and the offering received. Vera Pitcher conducted two St. Patrick's contests. The first one, a "Pat" contest was won by Barbara Welt and Rev. MacEachern. The second, a "Green" contest, was won by Barbara Wiley and Glenn Flood.

In the worship service, Vera Pitcher led in the Bible study and discussion. The Scripture passage was read from Matthew 20 by Myrtle Bird.

Next Tuesday night, there will be a special guest present at the Y.P.U. and all young people of the district are invited to Stockdale for the evening.

The Frankford L.O.B.A. recently held a successful euchre party. Ladies' first prize went to Miss Jean Beasley; second to Mrs. M.' Johnson; men's first was won by H. W. Rose; 2nd by R. Sexsmith. Euchre party will be held on Monday, March 23. Good assembly was also present and refreshments served. Everyone is invited.

Among those attending the Sportsman's Show in Toronto on Wednesday were: Frank and Joan Terry, Stan Bird, Karl Austin, Gene Plumton, Harry Gillingham, Claude Rose and Gene Lohnes.

Mrs. Carl Lohnes returned from Trenton Hospital, Saturday, and is convalescing at her home on Mill Street.

Mr. Dey, Wannamaker, of the Royal Canadian Navy, has returned to Nova Scotia after spending a month's furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wannamaker.

MADOC

THREE QUILTS QUILTED

MADOC — At a series of potluck dinners and quiltings held around Rigor and Hartz communities, three quilts have been completed for shipment to United Church Headquarters at Toronto for overseas relief.

At the final dinner and quilting held at Mrs. Harry Stout's March 18 a draw was made for a lace tablecloth donated by Mrs. Mason Twiddy for Hart's Church Fund, and won by Mrs. Bert Devolin. Thanks are extended to the public for their generous response to this project.

Mrs. Frank Phillips of Port Hope, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tutte.

Miss Lamoine West, of Niagara Falls, Ont., spent the weekend with her father, Mrs. George West.

Mrs. Ed. Phillips of Winnipeg, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. R. Lowery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson of Winnipeg, are spending a few days in Madoc and area.

By Thomas Hal Phillips

X

Somebody stepped onto the porch, "Who is it?" Papa said. He looked as if he was afraid to turn his back on me.

William said, "Wallace, I guess." He went to the door. A kind of wilting process fell over the room. William opened the screen and said, "Come in, Meb."

Papa turned, but I held on to the poker, though I had lowered it, like a cane.

Meb stopped in the doorway. "I know this is a bad time to come—when everybody's saying goodby. I was just bringing a little going-away present."

"Come on in...come on in," Papa said. "Don sort of surprised us with all this."

She smiled, as if she knew more than anyone else about the matter.

Papa said, "Maybe that's the best way to join. No wailing around. But I think he's too young. It's not right for 18-year-old boys to get mixed up with all the rackets of a soldier. You know, you've shoved right into the middle of folks who'll do anything. That's why I'm against his going." He turned to me. "But I reckon your mind's made up?"

I didn't answer him. I was thinking how strange Papa was when he came up against something like a wall. He never tried to go over or around or under. He simply turned his back and marched away, as if he had become a million uninterrupted miles. Like the time he took us to Memphis to the Mid-South Fair and we stayed in the Peabody Hotel; and that was the year he didn't even have a job.

Mama came back into the room. "I don't know where Wallace went off to." She saw Meb. They spoke to each other, and Meb held out the present toward me. I put the poker aside, crossed the room and took the package, a small one. "Thank you very much," I said. It was like rehearsing a play.

"I'd better go now," she said. "I'll go with you," I said.

"I'll wait out here for you." She went out. I knew she did not want them to see our goodbye.

"I'd better go," I said. I turned to William. "I need bus fare to Corinth."

"Oh, law," Mama said. "I was about to forget." She ran into the kitchen.

William held out a half dollar. "That's all I've got, Don."

"Thank you."

"Listen," Papa said. "Listen."

Then Mama was back. She was taking money from a jelly glass. "They's exactly $2 here, Preacher money."

"I don't need it, Mama. This is enough." I shoved her the half dollar.

"You might need it—for something—and I want you to have it." She poured the money out into her hand and put it into my pocket. "Like as not it's the last thing I'll ever give you. You're walking in your Uncle Willieam's shoes..."

"Listen." Papa said, "I don't have a penny on me right now, but you go by the store and tell old man Wilkes to let you have $5—put it on the grocery bill. You might need it."

"I won't need it."

"You might, you hear? Now you go by. Promise me you'll go by."

"All right. You'll have to tell Wallace goodby for me." I kissed Mama. "Goodby, Papa." He more or less put his arms around me. "Goodby, William." We shook hands.

I picked up my suitcase and started out. I could hear Papa behind me saying, "We'll write you all about the football games ...and everything..."

Meb was waiting in the yard for me. We started the long walk to Young's station. She walked a few yards away from me.

"Some people want to get killed," she said, "I could understand something like that."

"I'm not that crazy."

"But you're pretty crazy, Don. We both are."

We stopped on the knoll behind the station; from there we would be able to see the bus when it topped the hill half a mile away.

"I'm sorry you're leaving on the bus; it would be so much better if you left on the train. You understand?"

"Perfectly."

"Would you understand if I asked you to give back that present?"

"Now who's crazy?"

"Me. Would you give it back?"

"So you can give it to your friend?"

"No, I just want it back."

I gave her the present.

"I'm taking this back because it's not worthy of you—I hope that explains. As for me and William, the least said the better, Men understand men and women understand women."

* * *

We walked on the knoll, I looked down at the suitcase, one Uncle Brack had left at our house so long ago I'd forgotten how long he stayed.

"You're still thinking about William?" she said.

"Yes." I looked away from her. I was not hurt or angry, I felt as I did once when I went running out to tell Papa something—excited, mouth open—and swallowed a bee.

She sat down on the suitcase and looked up at me, her eyes as bright as her hair, smiling. "Well, after all, three is a magic number."

XI

Nobody seemed like the people back home, but the talk in our hut was sometimes like storetalk. Every morning, while we dressed in the cool naked light, I heard a long, thin, dark-haired Texan talking to all of us: "I'd love the Navy if it didn't have so many buttons." And later, when the hut was warmer: "You thimble-brain, you think everything you heard in Sunday School is true because you heard it on Sunday. Let me set you straight: it's the love of possessing, not the love of money, that's the root of all evil."

And still later: "Americans were made for war, just like the Germans, and get that through your brain. They love it, and you know why? Because it's the best thing there is for heroes better than all the home runs and touchdowns and two-under-par's and all the other infantile tricks that have to be concocted for an infantile country where the unopposed rich 30 with a wife and two kids and find out they're too old to swing a bat or kick a field goal..."

Then David Mapp, a Pennsylvanian, interrupted him with: "Say a little more about America and I'm gonna take a swing at your educated face."

But they never fought, for the feel of uniforms and the sound of bugles was still new to us. Usually you could find them, every night after chow, drinking milk shakes together. Often I walked past the small stores and saw them, and while I watched I thought: One of these days I'm going to tell you a big lie. But I preferred to tell it to David Mapp rather than to the Texan, who seemed to see through me.

The Texan got up and stretched.

"Where you going?" David asked.

"Out to worship nature. See you at the quizzing."

The afternoon of the twentieth day at The Lakes was set aside for the last of the physical examinations and for some kind of mental examination.

* * *

It was early and there were only a few men in the medical hall. We undressed. David was put into one line and I into another. I was glad I was next to him; beside mine only made me look hollow, though I was not thin. I always afraid some examiner would find something wrong with me—except for the dentists, at the end of the line.

Finally I arrived before the dentist and he, as usual, stopped to chat with me: "You've got mainly got fine teeth, son. Where you from? Tennessee?"

"Almost. North Mississippi."

"What do you folks eat and drink there?"

"The same as everybody else."

"What kind of paste did you use, when you were little? Salt and soda, and a blackgum toothbrush?"

I thought he was laughing at me, so I said, "Hickory ashes."

I waited for him to trim me down, but he only said, "Hmm," and looked at my teeth again. "You got any brothers or sisters?"

"Yessir."

"They got the same kind of teeth?"

"I guess so. We've never been to a dentist."

He shook his head. "You don't know what they're worth, son. That's all." I saw that David had come up behind me.

I found my clothes and began to dress. David said, "Lemme see them fine teeth, Mack."

"We've reen your gold," I said. "You ever work any?"

"That bother you?"

"Rich guy, huh?"

"No." I said, "I haven't got anything, till I'm 21."

"How much you got then?"

"A little."

"You know, you just crazy enough to have money. You sure never worked none. I can see that."

"I never had a chance. You'd be just like me if you'd been brought up in a family that never let you lift a hand—breakfast in bed, never raised my arm to get my coat off a hanger."

"Take it easy. I didn't mean nothing."

"That's okay. But you don't know the rich—they make me sick. They're not like ordinary folks. Strange sweet in Indianhead penny, betray a friend for a b.fish nickel. All they want out of anything is more than they ought to have. Don't tell me. I'm talking about the real rich. You ever heard of Wade 55 Motor Oil, Dallas, Texas? My mother owns that. My old man owns 51 per cent of the Trans-Southern Railroad. Started out cutting crossties; you'd think he could remember, but he don't."

"Why didn't he keep you out of this mess?"

Queen Mary Dies

Grandmother of Queen Elizabeth and widow of King George V, dies in sleep at her home, Marlborough House, London, late Tuesday afternoon.

HOUSE CONTINUES DEBATE ON POWERS OF GOVERNMENT

Cabinet Wants Renewal Of Act to May, 1954

OTTAWA (CP) — The verbal duel concerning the government's Emergency Powers Act and whether it should be renewed for another year was refought in the Commons Tuesday with the end not yet in sight.

The act, giving the government wide powers without reference to Parliament in event of an emergency, expires next May 31. The government seeks renewal until May 31, 1954.

Justice Minister Garson again outlined the government's side, denying that the act itself gives the right to make secret orders or interfere with the liberties of Canadians. These powers were contained in the dormant War Measures Act, he said, and therefore did not want such arbitrary powers in peacetime.

Like Up Against Extension

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, M. J. Coldwell, CCF, and Solon Low, Social Credit all have lined up their parties against renewal of the act. They argue it gives the government powers that rightly belong to Parliament.

The debate, going off and on for a month, probably will continue today.

British Columbia's S.C. Govt. Defeated in House Vote After 206-Day Minority Reign

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia's Social Credit government was brought down Tuesday night in the legislature after a 206-day minority reign.

The combined opposition, predominantly CCF, bolstered by one rebel Social Crediter, defeated the government by a vote of 28 to 17 to end a paradoxical situation.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said he will ask for dissolution of the 48-member House and an election, probably June 8.

Lieutenant - Governor Clarence Wallace can do one of two things:

1. He can grant Mr. Bennett's request for dissolution and an election. Earliest possible date for an election would be 60 days after dissolution.

2. He can ask CCF Opposition leader Harold Winch to form a government. Mr. Winch said he is ready and willing to form a government immediately.

The first choice appears more likely.

Present standing in the House is: Social Credit 21, CCF 19, Liberals six, Progressive Conservative two, Labor one, vacant two. The government crashed on second reading of a bill designed to set up a new system of education. Rebel Bert Price (SC-Vancouver Burrard) voted against the government with the combined opposition. Before the vote was taken, Mr. Bennett said he would regard before the lieutenant-governor.

ONT. TO TURN OVER RENT CONTROLS TO MUNICIPALITIES

House Offered Modified Bill on Edible Oils

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial government took steps Tuesday to turn over rent controls to the municipalities and ban the sale in Ontario of edible oils—except margarine — which resemble dairy products.

Travel Minister Cecile introduced a bill which would end provincial jurisdiction over rent controls March 2, 1954. The bill municipally affected—all the cities and most of the large towns—would be permitted to take over the function themselves.

Highways Minister Doucett introduced a bill which would ban the sale of substitutes for whipping cream, sherbet, delicate milk and similar dairy products.

He claimed the measure, the second bill introduced this session in connection with edible oils, would benefit the whole province.

"This bill is necessary for the welfare of the dairy industry. . . it is a protective measure not only of a great basic industry, but also of the welfare of all our people. If in part it protects our farm population, it likewise protects all those dependent on their sustained purchasing power."

The edible oils bill was the government's answer to critics of the earlier and less specific bill, which was termed at once too strong and too weak. The edible oils industry said it would mean the sale of peanut butter, shortening and mayonnaise.

Symbol of British Monarchy Dies Peacefully In Sleep

Death Not Expected to Delay Coronation of Elizabeth

By PHILIP CLARKE

LONDON (AP) — Millions around the world today mourned Britain's grand old queen Mary. The symbol of British monarchy—Queen-Empress for 26 years, mother of two sovereigns, and grandmother of a third — she died peacefully in her sleep Tuesday night at the age of 85.

Her passing was not expected to delay the Coronation June 2 of her grand-daughter, Queen Elizabeth II. The decision is the Queen's, but she-will-heed Queen Mary and friends months ago, while talking of the ceremony, that "nothing must interfere with it. Nothing."

Queen Mary had been ill for more than a month with what her doctors described as a gastric ailment. The exact nature of her illness has not been disclosed.

Her death came at 11:20 p.m., 5:20 p.m. EST, within hours of a sudden turn for the worse in her condition. Only the day before she had been reported improving.

Prime Minister Churchill, himself only seven years younger than Queen Mary, gave the hushed House of Commons and the world the first news of her death.

Holding a sheet of white paper in his trembling hand, the dinner-jacketed government leader said in a broken voice:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise to move adjournment of the House. I have with great regret to make the announcement that Queen Mary has died."

Queen Elizabeth Decrees Month of Court Mourning

LONDON (CP) — The Queen today decreed a month's court mourning for Queen Mary, thus carrying out the wish of her grandmother that nothing interfere with the Coronation in June.

Queen Mary died peacefully in her sleep Monday night at the age of 85.

The Queen also discussed funeral plans for the grand old lady of British monarchy, Queen-Empress for 26 years and mother of two sovereigns. Her decision on the date and where the services will be held is expected to be announced within the next 24 hours by Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Scarbrough.

The short period of mourning—the period for King George VI, ordered last February, was three months—assured plenty of time for completing preparations for the Coronation, now in the advanced stage.

Although Britons still awaited official assurance, there seemed no doubt that the June 2 Coronation will go ahead as planned. It was Queen Mary's last wish.

Sherr-stricken Queen Mary told friends months ago, while talking of the ceremony, that "nothing must interfere with it. Nothing."

As much as anyone, it was she who promoted the 26-year-old granddaughter for the Crown.

Date Not Set

The touch may take place at the end of this week or early next week. She is now at her home at Windsor, where her husband, King George V, was laid to rest in 1936 and she, King George VI, was buried only 13 months ago.

The funeral service probably will not be held at Westminster Abbey because of the Coronation building work in progress there. The services may be conducted at St. Paul's Cathedral in London or St. George's Chapel in Windsor Castle.

During the month-long illness which led to her death, Queen Mary was anxious that no thing should interfere with the Coronation. She had always agreed with her doctors that she should not go to Westminster Abbey to see the ceremony. But she was hoping to watch her granddaughter drive through the streets of London.

Eagerly, she told her friends that she would watch the two-hour Coronation service on her television set—one of the first conceived in the modern age. She never used a telephone in her life.

Queen Mary would have been 86 May 26, seven days before the Coronation.

Queen Mary's children and grandchildren—their faces beary with grief—drove slowly up to the doors of Marlborough House today.

Princess Margaret, Duke of Edinburgh stayed 40 minutes. They were in deep mourning.

Other visitors, in like attire, included Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, the Duke of Windsor, the Duchess of Kent and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

The Duke of Windsor—Queen Mary's favorite son who left the throne in 1936—drove up alone.

Queen Mary had been ill with what doctors described as a gastric ailment, the exact nature of which was not disclosed. Her death came as something of a surprise since the medical bulletin on Monday had indicated she was making progress toward recovery.

Londoner's' passing on their way to work, black - bordered newspapers in their hands, read on the gates of Marlborough House the simple 13-word bulletin which told of the Queen's death: "While sleeping peacefully Queen Mary died at twenty minutes past ten o'clock."

Men dotted their hats as they passed the silent guardsman on duty. Then they moved on. For thousands of elderly Britons it was the end of an era. The last link with the Victorian Age which Queen Mary personified to the end had passed.

Through the night and day telegrams of sympathy poured into London Palaces from most of the world Kings, statesmen and diplomats from their condolences, and there were simple messages from folk in the countryside who mourned the passing of the oldest member of their Royal Family.

Sorrowing Britons Wander Slowly Away from Home

LONDON (AP)—"Poor old soul—and she wanted to see her grandchild crowned so badly."

So sorrowing Britons murmured as they wandered slowly away from the gaunt Marlborough House early today after a night-long vigil.

It was there they were in the waiting crowd pressed against the iron hand lining outside the gates of Marlborough House bearing the final bulletin telling the world the queen-mother had died.

Men, some in evening dress, gently removed their hats as they did and there a woman dabbed at her eyes and they filed two deep past the board.

They stopped for a few seconds, and looked at the sheet of paper headed by royal crest in black and then passed.

All was quiet save for the twittering of starlings in the trees and the footsteps of London's traffic along brightly-lit Piccadilly only a few hundred yards away and the tramp of iron-studded boots as greycoated Guardsmen marched on sentry duty.

A crowd of 300 clustered along the sidewalks in front of Marlborough House and at sides of the palace gates had been waiting patiently for four hours for the tidings of the queen-mother's death—some sleeping peacefully Queen Mary died at 20 minutes past 10 o'clock."

'House of Death' New, Baffling Mystery in Scotland Yard As Fourth Female Corpse Found

LONDON (AP)—Detectives today found a fourth rotting female corpse in London's "house of death."

The bodies of three women were found walled-up in the pantry of an apartment in the drab Notting Hill district Tuesday. The fourth, like the first three still unidentified, was under the floorboards of the same pantry.

Hunt Quiet Clerk

One of the dead women, however, was believed by police to be the key to the mystery figure in a general manhunt arising from the discoveries—55-year-old John Christie, a quiet little clerk who had rented the apartment.

Police with shovels and crowbars searched other rooms and began digging in the garden which behind the house.

The new discovery brings to six the number of deaths in the grim house in recent years. A woman and her son were murdered there in 1949.

Three of the decomposed corpses were believed to have been dead several months, and the other a few weeks.

All Strangled

Dr. F. E. Camps, a pathologist, carried out post-mortem examinations on the first three bodies and reported his preliminary investigations indicated they had died from strangulation. They were reported to be bodies of women aged between 25 and 30.

Tenants of the building told police neither Christie nor his wife had been seen for a month.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said: "It is thought Christie may be able to assist us in our inquiries."

The bizarre discovery was discovered Tuesday by Beresford Brown, a prosperous tenant for the Christie apartment. While looking over the place, he found a pantry niche which had been sealed off with several thicknesses of wallpaper.

Tenant Horrified

Brown broke through the paper and was horrified to find the decomposed body of a woman.

He called the police, who found two more corpses in the niche.

Police records revealed that Christie was the principal witness in 1949 at the trial of Timothy J. Evans, who strangled his wife and infant son in the same dingy house.

Evans was hanged for the double murder.

Neighbors said Christie, who worked for a truck firm, had a nervous breakdown soon after the Evans trial.

Judge Dismisses Jury and Orders New Trial

DETROIT (CP)—Judge John A. Ricca dismissed a jury of 11 women and one man Tuesday and ordered a new trial for Joseph F. Giettzen, 26, charged with the Sept. 15 murder of his father.

Jury foreman Oscar Sass, 44, said Monday after 18½ hours deliberation the jury was no closer to a decision than it was when it first began deliberations.

He said all jurors except one were in favor of a verdict of innocent by reason of insanity. The one, Halloway held out for a verdict of guilty of second-degree murder. One juror said she stuffed cotton wool into her ears because she "couldn't stand the screeching" of the lone woman holdout.

Another juror, Mrs. Wanda Minor said Mrs. Halloway "wouldn't listen to the arguments of the rest of us and said as far as she was concerned he (Gietzen) was not innocent because he didn't act insane in court."

Three Canadians On Favorite In Irish Sweep

MONTREAL (CP) — Three Canadians, all from Ontario and identified only by name or phone, drew Irish hospital sweepstakes tickets to-day as the field for the latest call-over for Saturday's Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, England.

The latest call-over quoted Early Mist at 9 to 1, the Irish Sweepstakes favorite, Lucky Done, quoted at 10 to 1, and Nickel Prince at other Canadians, all using nons de plume.

None de plume of those with tickets on Early Mist are "4.30," "Palomino," "Wallace," "Lisa" and "Guards Swelle," Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal addresses.

Those who are "Gun," Ajax: No. 106," Montreal, and "Eric," Leaside, Ont., Montreal addresses, identified as G. H. Carpenter of the Montreal Gazette.

"Smyley," Elora, Ont., drew a ticket on About Trembiant, quoted at 100 to 7.

Ontario, Manitoba Will Soon Have Official Boundary

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario and Manitoba soon will have an official boundary.

An act introduced in the provincial Legislature Tuesday defined for the first time the Manitoba House and in the Commons—sets the exact boundary for the first time.

When the boundary was first surveyed in the mid-1850s it was carried only to a point about 375 miles south of Hudson Bay.

Since 1925, there have been increasing disputes of mineral and the area is slated for greater development in future. Thus it now is to the advantage of both provinces to know exactly where the boundary falls.

The boundary will be marked by 36-inch high cement markers. At some points they are a mile apart, but in the northern areas it was difficult to find a good location they are as much as five miles apart.

Earliest Opening Of Navigation

BROCKVILLE (CP) — What is believed to be earliest opening of navigation on record here came about yesterday when the Dominion lighthouse tender Grenville docked.

The Grenville, commanded by Capt. O. R. Morphet, formerly of Midland, Ont., will lay buoys off Brockville today, then continue westward toward the Bay of Quinte as far as Trenton.

Arrival yesterday of the tender beat its schedule by one week.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Warm weather has produced many spring day in Southern Ontario; lakes were light and clear, streams reached the high ffiles. However, overcast skies, occasional snowflurries and temperatures near normal were reported in northern regions.

Cooler air from the Prairies has put an end to summer weather Tuesday night. This air will continue slowly eastward covering all of Ontario by tonight. In the southwesterly flow of cooler air snowflurries will continue in the northern regions. Southern and central Ontario will be mostly cloudy with widely scattered snowflurries in western regions and local snowfalls elsewhere in eastern regions today will change to snowflurries tonight.

The weather Thursday — widely scattered snowflurries. Low 32; high 40.

4 Men Fined $1,000 for Having Too Many Trout

FARRY SOUND (CP) — Judge Walter Little dismissed appeals by four fishermen Tuesday and imposed fines totalling $1,000 for violations of the 10-trout limit in the Ontario fisheries regulations.

Dr. Jacques Cartier, of Caledon; William Stubbe, of Caledon, and Lockwood Stubbe of Alton, were each fined $250 and George Laver, of Cookville, was fined $500.

Laver, an honorary deputy game warden, was fined an additional $100 for failing to enforce the Game and Fisheries Act.

The men were arrested with their creels each May 25, 1952, in Lockwood township and originally convicted October 19 by Magistrate F. C. Powell.

ICE BREAKER THROUGH

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Coast Guard ice breaker Mackinaw, having escorted the first vessels through the straits of Mackinac, is expected to head for the St. Mary's river today for the annual spring fleet parade of passage by the lakers Meteor and Edward L. Ryerson of Cleveland.

The latest call-over quoted Early Mist at 9 to 1, the Irish Sweepstakes favorite, Lucky Done, quoted at 10 to 1, and Nickel Prince at other Canadians, all using nons de plume.

None de plume of those with tickets on Early Mist are "4.30," "Palomino," "Wallace," "Lisa" and "Guards Swelle," Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal addresses.

Queen Mary Outlived All Queens And Kings of English History

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Queen Mary outlived all the queens and kings of English history.

She was born as midnight struck in Kensington Palace May 26, 1867, the year of Canada's Confederation. She died in her 6th Royal, ruling four more years than either both Queen Victoria and George III.

Queen Eleanor of Aquitaine,wife of Henry III, was her nearest rival. She died at 82.

Queen Mary's lifetime spanned the longest period of peace in three "epochs" each with a special quality—the Victorian, Edwardian and Georgian periods. She saw vast social changes and the transformation of monarchy from a small aristocracy with a direct influence on the nation's affairs to its present more symbolic role, as an image of national character and unity.

As nearly as 1893, as bride of the heir presumptive to the throne, she became associated with monarchy at a time when Britain was at the height of her power, Australia, along with Australia and New Zealand, was growing.

Through all the changes Victoria Mary Augusta Louise Olga Pauline Claudine Agnes, as Queen Mary was christened in what was then a Victorian nursery for royalty, remained steadfast and immutable. She embodiment of old-fashioned Victorian virtues.

Dress, this clinging to her own past and her horrified changes in standards and fashions in a changing world, is typical of the changes.

Her conservatism 'in the flapper days of the 1920s was illuminated in a phrase she used to describe the present Queen. "Lovely Duchess of Edinburgh stayed 40 minutes. They were in deep mourning.

The Belleville Camera Club had a Black and White Print Exhibition recently at the Corby Library.

Bledisy James opened the proceedings with a talk on "Qualities to Look For" in an exhibition print. He illustrated his talk with advertising photographs and professional style work.

The prints were then shown and all present took part in the voting.

"Strength for the Day" by Jack Hatfield took first place, followed by "Old Mill" by Phil Harris, and "Implements of Bacchus" by Jack Hatfield in second and third places respectively.

Bill McCormick and Johannes Holmboe then discussed all the prints exhibited with the other members of the club.

The best seven prints, through the kind co-operation of Mr. Gardiner Duff, will be displayed in Duffy Drug Store in the week commencing April 6th.

NAME OMITTED

The name of Ed. Sunderland was inadvertently omitted from the committee in charge of raising money for the "Jamie Carling Holiday Fund". Mr. Ken Carling is said to be working hard on the project and his efforts are much appreciated by his colleagues.

Two Veterans Will Represent Local Regiments at Coronation

Two local veterans of World War II will go to England for the June 2 Coronation representing their respective regiments, on the Belleville Parade.

They are Sgt. Frank Belsey, with the quarter master's stores of the 8th Hussars, Regiment, and Cpl. George Christopher with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Both men served overseas in the last war, Belsey with 1) 5th Anti-Aircraft, and Christopher as despatch rider for the Hasty Pees.

Announcement of the men to represent the two local regiments at the Coronation was made this week by their respective commanding officers at parade night at the Armouries. Lieut. Col. R. H. Widdifield, C.O. of the Hasty Pees named Christopher as the regimental representative Monday night, while Lieut. Col. G. W. Creegan, C.O. of the 49th Anti-Tank, named Belsey Tuesday night.

Cpl. Christopher, a member of the Hasty Pees regimental band, enlisted when only 17 and went overseas in 1941. He was seriously injured in Holland when thrown off his motorbike while serving as a despatch rider. Now living with his parents on the Belleville-Trenton Highway, he is working as a fireman for the C.N.R.

Sgt. Belsey served five years overseas with the 5th "Ack Ack" under Major C. S. Drummond of this city. He lives at 34 Lewis Street, is married and works for Canada Packers.

Christopher is highly enthusiastic about his trip to the Coronation and is looking forward to the occasion. He has already arranged for two months leave of absence from his job.

Word of the appointment to represent his regiment at the Coronation came at a time of sadness for his family. For the first time as a member of the band, he failed last night to turn up for parade owing to the sudden death of his wife's father.

Three Soldiers Escape Injury, Car Hits Engine

Three soldiers from the Canadian Army Training Base at Picton escaped injury early today when the brakes on their car failed and it crashed into the side of a C.P.R. passenger train at the Bay Bridge Road crossing.

Gordon Haskins, 19, of nearby Hillcrest, was driving north with Arlington A. MacDonald, and Maurice E. Anderson, both of Picton, as passengers when his car crashed into the 13th car of the passenger train. The train, in charge of Conductor J. C. Shannon of Toronto and Engineer H. Wesse of Smiths Falls, proceeded on its way with crew members apparently failing to realize there had been an accident.

Haskins told police that he applied his brakes when he saw the train but they failed to hold. The front end of his car was damaged to the extent of about $400 and the rear end was driven around and carried 62 feet from the point of impact. The trio were returning from the army base at Picton when the accident occurred.

Mr. Howard Ashley Marks 92nd Birthday

Well-known and highly respected resident of Bridgewater Township, Mr. Howard Ashley on Monday celebrated his 92nd birthday, on the same date Mrs. Adam (Ella) Corrigal, a sister of Mr. Ashley marked her 90th birthday. Mrs. Corrigal resides in the west.

Mr. Ashley, who lives with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tummon, Stirling, is enjoying good health and received a number of felicitations on his natal day.

W. H. Ireland, Hospital Board Chairman, Retires to Director

Trenton (Special)—At the second annual meeting of the Trenton Hospital Board last Thursday night W. H. Ireland, chairman of the Board, stepped down to the Board of Directors. Director S. G. Newton took Mr. Ireland's place as chairman on a unanimous vote.

Acting secretary treasurer James Utley tendered his resignation "with regret" and the position was accepted by former Mayor Kenneth J. Coughey.

The Hospital Board now comprises: Chairman S. G. Newton, vice chairman J. A. Newton, secretary treasurer K. J. Couch, W. H. Ireland, F. P. Carnew, Harry Sager, Bob Baker, Gerald Weaver and Herman Morrison.

In his remarks the retiring chairman said: "I cannot help but think back over the years since the day of a hospital was first conceived, and the many hours of effort spent in making that dream a reality. The path is not always easy but denotes adversity and sometimes, discouragement, we come through and I am very proud of your final result.

We can boast of debt free assets of a half a million dollars and the finest service in the district of 90,000 worth of modern equipment including one of the best hospitals in the province.

During the year donations for capital equipment enabled us to convert our X-ray unit into a dual tube installation, a dictature table, a diathermy short wave machine, a basal metabolism unit, a portable suction pump, and a new surgical gown. We were among the majority that acquired. To all, whose kind donations make this possible, I extend our sincerest thanks.

A Fine Asset

An electrocardiograph machine a gift from your secretary-treasurer, S. G. Newton, and myself, has been obtained and will add to our diagnostic facilities. The hospital will be instrumental in convincing new industries to locate in Trenton. It has provided employment for nearly a hundred persons, returning in this area $140,000 annually in salaries and wages another $20,000 which is spent in local food supplies. The hospital is without doubt one of the finest assets ever acquired by Trenton.

The past year has seen a continual increase in the number of patients looked after with consequential increase in our financial affairs. Our thanks go to the Town of Trenton, the County of Hastings and the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham for their grants to help alleviate the deficit incurred. It is not possible to mention by name all of the many people, women's organizations, churches, business houses, private groups and individuals, who have all had a helping hand in the success of the hospital, but to all of them a big sincere thank you."

Mr. Ireland praised the work of the medical staff and extended thanks to Superintendent Lorne Droppo and all members of the hospital staff.

Jim Utley's financial statement showed that the hospital's operating deficit had been reduced from $25,321.40 in 1951 to $7,178.05 in 1952.

Superintendent Droppo noted that demand for beds for people chronically ill. Her report showed 727 babies born in the hospital last year "with a quarter" there were no deaths attributed to maternity," she said.

The Women's Auxiliary reported progress during the year.

Rate of 65 Mills

At a special meeting of council yesterday it was announced that the mill rate, for the town of Trenton for 1953 would remain the same as last year, 65 mills.

The ratepayers had hoped for a reduction after the Board of Education produced their "Economy Budget" but council decided the extra money was needed for necessary expenditures.

Clerk in Hospital

Town Clerk O. W. Larry is in hospital here being treated for a recurrence of a kidney ailment. The temporary clerk is Alan Weaver the assistant collector.

Facing Two Charges

Everett "Duke" Terry, 39, of Trenton, faced two charges, one of dangerous driving under the Criminal Code and careless driving under the Highway Traffic Act when he appeared in court here yesterday. Magistrate J. Y. Wills granted a week's remand.

Terry, the driver of car involved in a fatal accident here last Friday, is still in custody and will appear in court.

Wins Prize for Smacking

Mrs. Muriel Behan, 30, of Middleton Park was elated yesterday when she received word she had won first prize in a Toronto needlework contest with an exhibit of English smocking. Mrs. Behan the winner of $150 in British War Bride who learned the art of smocking in Canada. She was taught the intricate sewing by a friend in Queen Bay, Labrador while she lived with her husband LAC Chester Behan on a tour of duty at the northern Ontario airfield.

It takes Mrs. Behan three weeks to smock a dress. She follows her hobby religiously and is kept busy sewing for relatives and friends.

IN MEMORIAM

RICHMOND. — In loving memory of our dear father, who passed away March 25, 1952.

In the heart, dear father, lingers
Always tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear Pop,
I do not think of you.
Sadly missed and ever remembered, daughter Annie. M33

RICHMOND. — In loving memory of my dear dad, James Mason Richmond, who passed away March 25, 1952.

The thoughts wander as daylight fades
To the days that I spent with you dad,
And memory paints the secret of old
In the hush of twilight grey.
I seem to see in the hot dim light
A face that is dear to me,
And I sigh, and sit and dream of you dad
And the trains he loved so well.
Sadly missed by daughter Annie. M33

RICHMOND. — In loving memory of our dear grandpa, James Mason Richmond, who passed away March 25, 1952.

Dear Grandpa, you are not forgotten
Though you sleep in a distant land
Still in memory you are with us
And always will be.
Sadly missed by Grandsons, Gloria, Jeanette, Sharon and Gail. M33

RADLEY. — In loving memory of our dear father, who passed away March 25, 1952.

Four years have passed since that day
We heard you say
The one we loved was called
To rest.
God took him home, it was His will
But in our hearts she liveth still
Sadly missed and ever remembered, daughter Annie. M33

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to thank our kind neighbors and friends for the gifts and for the beautiful presents and party given to us on our recent move to the community.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices turned upward in forenoon stock market trading today.

Industrials and western oils led the gains while mine metals followed closely. Golds showed a minor gain. Volume for the first hour totalled 831,000 shares.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals rose.

Industrials were strong in steels, miscellaneous issues, papers, refining oils and construction.

Junior gold producers and holding companies were mixed but senior showed some strength.

Awide majority of moderate gains bolstered western oils. Royallte showed one of the few losses in leading issues.

Corporation to Bring Action Against P.U.C. on Assessment; Will be Test Case for Province

What is said will be a test case for all of Ontario will be tried in court here next October, when the city of Belleville will take action against the Belleville Public Utilities Commission to uphold the assessment and taxes levied against the Commission.

In accordance with an amendment to the Assessment Act allowing municipalities to assess the lands and buildings owned by public utilities, the property of the local commission was duly assessed. The Utilities, however, questioned the amount of assessment, claiming that settling basins, filters, pumping equipment and reservoirs were exempt.

"The act is not clear and does not specify equipment claimed as exempt by the Utilities," stated City Solicitor R. A. Pringle. "The case will be tried in Supreme Court here next October and will be a test case for the whole province."

The solicitor noted that the city assessing department is receiving many enquiries from all sections of the province asking how the case is proceeding.

Allan Speagle, Toronto solicitor, will appear for the Public Utilities, while the city's case will be presented by City Solicitor R. A. Pringle.

Members of the Executive and Finance Committee at a meeting last week recommended that the necessary action be taken to uphold the city's assessment against the Utilities. The services of Assessment Commissioner J. F. Coombe, will be retained for the case.

Better Understanding of Boss-Employee Relationship Stressed by Club Speaker

"What does anyone expect of his boss?" John J. Carson, management development officer for the R.C.A.F. in Ontario, suggested eight answers when he addressed members of the Quinte District Foremen's Club at the monthly meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday evening.

Speaking from what he termed "a seat on the sidelines," Mr. Carson said: "There are things which have a certain universal appeal, such as, a day's pay for a day's work, job security and the usual retirement plans. But I do not think you can expect these things from the man you answer to, your supervisor or foreman. Actually," Mr. Carson continued, "the supervisor has little influence on how much you are paid, and things like job security and retirement plans are. I feel there is not much point in speaking of these normally acceptable things."

Purposeful Work

"Below this level," the speaker went on to say, "are certain expectations or aspirations with which human beings people have set up. I intend to list a few. First of all, we expect to be supplied with purposeful work . . . a meaningful work. A man works better when he has the purpose of his own individual job. You will find there is higher morale when man becomes an individual. People really want to be engaged in a meaningful work."

As his second answer to the question, the speaker pointed out the employee desire the man in charge to have high expectations for them. "Most of us want the boss to have high expectations and plans for us. We appreciate our worth and get much more if we feel he sets high standards," Mr. Carson stated. "We also hope and expect our superior to be generous in the matter of sharing knowledge with us. Everyone wants to know what is going on. When this does not happen, suspicion and resentment almost always arise. But if the boss is inclined to share the knowledge of what is going on around him with his employees, all things which bedevil and plague mass industry, will fly out the window."

"I thing another thing we need and look for, is for the boss to be sensitive to our feelings and attitudes. It must be annoying to be considered a machine without such senses and feelings. Let me stress the point the employee does not wish the boss to agree with all his ideas, all he does expect is his superior be sensitive to the fact he has feelings."

Mr. Carson also noted, there is an increasing desire upon the worker to participate in decision-making. He said men desire to gain some experience in the decision-making of things that influence their own working conditions. There is also a real desire on the supervisory level, that men like to feel the bosses are making a conscious effort to see a man's capacity for responsibility.

The speaker urged throwing responsibility upon the men before it is actually known for certain whether they are ready for it. However, he cautioned, adequate safety measures should be taken to assure the entire working system is not thrown out of kilter.

"As my last point," Mr. Carson said, "and it is what anyone wants—the freedom to grow and develop. All of us are consciously concerned with growth and progress on an individual level. I believe it to be a fundamental need."

Prior to the start of the meeting, one minute's silence was observed for the late Queen Mary. Entertainment during the dinner was supplied by Bill Colclough. Mr. Colclough sang two solos and then led the group in a sing-song.

The speaker was introduced by Lloyd Skeaff and the thanks were expressed by George Hendry.

QUEEN MARY

beth: "Thank God," she said, "there is at least one of the modern girls."

Though her stiff-backed dignity and devotion to duty made her stern-seeming and formidable to some, she had at the same time a gentleness and gravity of character. The Duke of Windsor records in his memoirs that his mother was much less severe with parent than his father, George V.

"Although she backed up my father in all matters of discipline, she never failed to take our side whenever it was a question of us being harsh," writes the Duke. "Indeed, she had a shrewd idea of her sense of duty and awareness of social conditions. Once she inspected a slum property owned by a committee of prominent persons, who wished her to see only the model flats. Queen Mary insisted on seeing them all, called the owners to account in the presence of the tenants and threatened to withdraw her patronage unless they were rebuilt. They were—in two months."

During the First World War she worked with Mary MacArthur, pioneer labor woman, on a committee which found employment for wives and widows of fighting men.

It was in this period that she introduced austerity to the court, carrying economy to the point that the Royal household was permitted water for only one hot bath a week.

She showed the same touching quality in the Second World War. She was constantly the target visited to "sit out" the war in London, but in the country home at Badminton, Gloucestershire, where she stayed with the Duke and Duchess of Beaufort, she insisted on doing her bit.

There was nobody in the whole of England," writes Marion Crawford in a book on royalty, "who went in for austerity to such a degree as Queen Mary . . . She kept everybody busy from morning to night with knitting-parties, or rolling bandages, and she in person would go out into the woods and assist with the felling of trees. . ."

Plans for Annual Meeting Made

Details of the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society were discussed at the monthly meeting of the board which was held in Bridge St. United Church.

The annual dinner meeting will be held in the Orange Hall in Plainfield on April 17 and it will be the privileges of those attending to have Mr. Kelso Roberts, M.P.P., deputy Speaker of the Legislature. Mr. Roberts' visit will be of unusual interest as he is a former Bellevillian and his grandfather, Mr. J. J. Kelso, was one of those who framed the Children's Aid Act.

The superintendent, Mr. McLenaghen, reported that there are 434 children involved in the protection cases at the present time. He outlined the importance of this section of the work and of the many phases which enter into the problem of keeping homes together. There are 103 children under care in foster homes. Mr. Mclenaghen spoke of the advances which are taking place in child welfare and made suggestions which members of the board might become better acquainted with the working conditions of the society.

1,567 Cases Handled by Police Department Report Shows

TRENTON (Special) — Crime was at its highest level in the history of Trenton during the year 1952. The Chief Constable's annual report revealed that a total of 1,567 cases were handled by his department in the 12 months departed on. The increase was mainly due to increase in population in the vicinity and greater activity in the community as a whole. In 1951 the total crimes committed numbered 1,276.

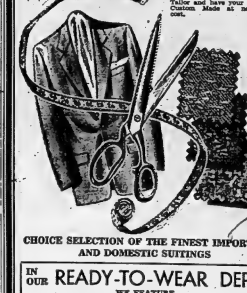
Crime control cost the citizens $50,282.1 giving the department a credit balance of $806.19 from a budget appropriation of $50,000.00.

The financial statement showed that fines and fees collected and paid to the Magistrate totalled $11,191.75 of which $3,533.39 was received by the town. Dog licensing provided $1,130 to the town coffers; meter violations another $1,525.

Police were paid $34,212.07 in salaries, and went unpaid their pension fund and $823.75 to the employees' liability fund. The expenditures column showed $858 paid out to the Police Commission and $127 to the Justice of the Peace.

The meter constable's salary was $2,234.29 while school guardy and equipment cost $1,58, 6 maintain.

The police had a perfect record dealing with the stolen auto problem. They recovered 12 stolen from here and five for other departments with a total recovery value of $11,400.



Highway Traffic Act offences created most of the work for the department while the Liquor Control Act and breaking by-laws were troublesome too.

Chief Constable Jack Taylor has a complement of 13 including the meter man.

Message of Sympathy Cabled To Queen by Prime Minister

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A generation of Canadians to whom she was a living symbol of the dignity of the Crown mourned the passing of Queen Mary.

Though 70 years had passed since she set foot on Canadian soil, the 85-pound Dowager Queen was a familiar figure to them. Her death Tuesday night severed a link with a period of history stretching back into their childhood.

The loss of the tall, stately woman who trained her children and grandchildren in the duties of the throne affected Canada almost as keenly as a reigning monarch.

House is Stunned

A stunned House of Commons heard the news from Prime Minister St. Laurent at the opening of its evening sitting and adjourned quietly. Provincial legislatures adjourned, or observed two minutes of silence. The CBC devoted much of the evening to radio and television accounts of Queen Mary's life.

Mr. St. Laurent described her death as "a personal sorrow for Canadians" and cabled the Queen a message of sympathy on behalf of the Canadian people.

In a similar message, Governor-General the Honorable Vincent Massey said Queen Mary "will always be remembered in the hearts of all of us with love and affection and gratitude."

Serene Character

Opposition leader Drew said Queen Mary's serenity and firm character had much to do with the unique position of the British Crown throughout the Free World as a symbol of freedom. M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, spoke of her as "a queenly personality and a noble example of wife and mother."

Social Credit leader Solon Low termed her "every inch a Queen."

Provincial leaders added their tributes. Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland said "a great and gracious lady of the commonwealth has gone." Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said people in all parts of the world remember with affection Mary's years in which she and King George V sat on the throne.

Manitoba's Premier D. L. Campbell said Canadians were proud to share the affection she gave to all peoples of the Commonwealth. Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario recalled her as "one who has given a lifetime of service to the peoples of the Commonwealth and indeed to the world."

QUEEN MARY

For nearly nine decades Queen Mary was part of the living memories that the British people had known as their royal family have become in history.

In the islands beyond the seas this day there will be real and genuine sorrow at the death of this gracious lady who was so long the queenly personification of all the intangibles which link the British people to the Royal Family by ill or sad and enduring affection. The miracle of it is that this is an affection which transcends any quality of esteem or respect which any monarchy has ever received from its subjects.

In the far-flung places of the Commonwealth there is sadness among many millions who could never quite understand that essentially British attachment which literally sees the Royal Family as an extension of every British family, but who must always remember Queen Mary as the symbol of the integrity, the dignity and the strength of the Throne by which the Empire at last is held.

As a consort, as a Queen Mother, as a devoted and beloved dowager of the Royal Family she had many occupied the century and a quarter through all four decades in the line of British peoples she had been an abiding link with the past and the unique British association of peoples of which they have been in such large part the lines of adversity and sadness, of triumph and satisfaction.

A remarkable chapter in history has closed with her death

MR. GORDON WAS PROPERLY ANNOYED

In polite parliamentary language no one ever calls anyone a liar, but there are times that all the approved amenities of debate are forgotten when someone suddenly realizes that he has not been taken at his word.

Donald Gordon encountered just such a situation as this Monday when he appeared before the House of Commons railway committee. And when he did it was something to be remembered by the members of the committee. Roaring an indignant denial, with appropriate thumping of his fist on the desk, the burly Scottish-born chief of the Canadian National Railways made himself clear beyond all misunderstanding. When he had finally shown an irate Scot's complete disdain for rules of order the committee's chairman was prepared to call it quits and accept a motion to adjourn.

Mr. Gordon is best known to most Canadians as the man who did a superlative job during the war years as head of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. He was not only the administrator of the board but he was the man whose personal admonitions over the air from time to time had more to do with keeping Canadian black-market-eering at a minimum, and keeping the controls operating with a maximum of effectiveness, than any policing arrangement could have achieved. No other nation succeeded in the same degree of effective control, in the prevention of panic-buying and the same curtailment of avoidance of parole-buying and the same curtailment of corner-cutting practices, as Canada, under the same conditions.

This was in no small part due to the intrinsic weight of sincerity Canadians came to attach to the softly-burred statements of Donald Gordon. It was inevitable that he done such a job as he was called upon by the government to leave again his position as deputy-governor of the Bank of Canada and become president of the Canadian National just a few years ago.

It was put on the record just a few days ago, in the annual report of the operations of the C.N.R., that Donald Gordon is now making outstanding things in one of the biggest executive jobs in the country. Yet when he faced the railway committee this week he was immediately challenged on a matter of internal management and accused of "political interference", when he refused to discuss it before the committee.

Outside of a personal interest taken by a few members of the House of Commons, and the individuals immediately concerned, the matter which prompted this explosive incident in the committee is of small concern to anyone. Such a committee might have been better employed in engaging Mr. Gordon's time in discussing the larger problems of the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Gordon, if unparliamentary, was properly annoyed.

FEW SOLDIERS MARRY OVERSEAS

Recently a young Canadian soldier returned to his western home with a Japanese bride and took occasion to make some rather slighting remarks about Canadian girls. It is particularly fortunate for the young woman of this country to note that in contrast to U.S. servicemen abroad Canadians show comparatively little desire to find their brides overseas.

To date only half a dozen of Canada's 6,000 men with the 27th. Infantry Brigade in West Germany have walked down the aisle with frauleins. Not only is the percentage much higher for American troops but the latter are subjected to more restrictions in regard to foreign marriages. Even in Japan and Korea where Canadians have been stationed for a much longer period than in Europe, few have taken native wives. Only 20 Canadians of the 25th. Brigade have married Japanese women and no Canadian serviceman has yet married a Korean girl.

The comparatively small number of marriages of Canadian servicemen abroad is certainly not due to official restrictions. Matches are neither discouraged nor encouraged. A soldier may marry with the consent of his commanding officer and consent is seldom refused. As soon as he is married he receives a marriage allowance. When he returns to Canada the government pays his wife's travelling expenses.

If he marries without consent, no marriage allowance is received and he must pay his wife's expenses back to Canada. No attempt is made, however, to prevent his wife from entering Canada.

"One may go wrong in many different ways, but right only in one, which is why it is easy to fall and difficult to succeed — easy to miss the target and difficult to hit it." — Aristotle.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 25, 1933

Mrs. William Tracey, and Mrs. Glenn Campbell are spending a few days with relatives at Niagara Falls.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel entertained the members of the executive committee of the Women's Canadian Club at her home last evening in honor of Miss Isabella Gauntlett following his lecture in the Collegiate Institute auditorium.

Miss Clara Eagen, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Johnson, William St.

Mr. E. Corneal, Grier St, is spending a short time at Deseronto.

Mr. and Mrs. David Coon celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding at their home in Frankford on March 8. They were married at the home of Mrs. Coon's relatives in Oxford County, where the marriage Mrs. Coon was Miss Sarah Best and was engaged in teaching school. They settled on the Coon farm in the 4th concession of Sidney township and remained there until five years ago when they retired to make their home in Frankford. Mr. Coon's grandparents were United Empire Loyalists and the farm has been in the possession of members of the Coon family for three generations. Mr. and Mrs. Coon received many beautiful presents along with the congratulations and good wishes of many friends, who gathered at their home in the evening to celebrate the happy event. Mrs. Coon is 76 years of age and Mr. Coon has reached the age of 80 years. Their son, Mr. Wilbur Coon, is also residing on the farm. Their daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Chapman, resides at Marshall, Mich. and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Hirsch, resides at Hillside, Mich.

On the invitation of the Rev. R. B. Kenny, formerly of this city, Messrs. T. F. Wills, J. A. Walmsley and A. A. MacLennan assisted in the revival services in Methodist church in Bowmanville last evening. Mr. Kenny has been pastor of this beautiful church for some time and the splendid congregation numbers from one thousand to eleven hundred.

Messrs. W. Wilkins and R. Gibson spent yesterday in Cobourg.

Mr. J. L. Anderson, of Edmonton, Alberta, formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days here on business.

Mr. Glenco Thompson, Sinclair Street, left today for Enfield, Sask., where he will spend the summer with his sister, Mrs. W. O. Kerr.

50 YEARS AGO

THE GIRL HE LEFT BEHIND

We used to think her frivolous,
you know how parents are;
A little quick to see the faults and tardy flaws that mar.
The girl their son is fond of and may choose to make his wife,
A lively-spirited miss of the one
who'd share his life;
But the girl he left behind him when he bravely marched away
Has blossomed into beauty that we see and need today.

She was with us at the depot, and we turned our backs awhile,
And her eyes were sad and misty,
but her lips were forced to smile.
Then we put her arm round mother, and it seemed to me as though
They just grew to love each other, for they shared a common woe.

Now she often comes to see us,
it seems to me we find
A heap of real comfort in the girl he left behind.

"She's so sensible and gentle," mother said last night to me,
The kind of girl I've often wished and prayed his wife would be.
And I like to have her near us, for she understands my sighs,
And I see my brave boy smiling
when I look into her eyes.

Now the presence of his sister in the chart seems to fill our home with joy.
She's no longer young and flighty—she's the girl who loves our boy.

To Teach Russian?

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

Those who have been concerned with the merits and demerits of teaching the classical languages in schools may be more than a little interested in a suggestion which is now being hotly debated in some sections of the British press, regarding the possibility and the advisability of adding courses in the Russian language to the school curriculum.

This is not an entirely new idea. There are schools in Britain where for many years Russian language has been offered within the framework of modern language instruction. On the current occasion is made that a knowledge of Russian is now and promises to continue to be, of more value than formerly, because things Russian are now matters of vital importance to all of us, whether or not we like the fact.

With the basic contention which has been advanced there can be no dispute. It is held that a knowledge of the language of any people is essential to a full understanding of that people, because in the language is expressed in the national language, (in the case of Russia, because of a more or less logical character could be drawn from the study a language which is grammatically simple to the point of actually may well be present a similarly elemental nature.) And while it may be true that many correspondents have expostulated, that such an understanding of Russia is not to be gained in school, it is no less true that it must be out of the introduction of a school study that future Russian specialists and interpreters must be recruited.

Furthermore, it is pointed out that the Russian language is not nearly as difficult as it is generally presumed to be. Once the initial difficulty of a new alphabet has been overcome, in many respects very similar to the English, the average reading facility can easily be achieved. Correct pronunciation, however, is a different matter, Russian having several sounds which are alien to Western ears, and practice, but the initial contacts of Western education, it is argued, would naturally be with the written, rather than the spoken, language. And from a syntactical point of view, Russian is said to be more regular in structure than either French or German. The same construction is followed in the use of subordinate clauses and the simple word order which characterizes most make Russian the subject of favorable comparison with either the German language. At least, so say the linguists.

And finally there is the vast field of Russian literature which is largely unexplored even in the West. To the average man, Russian literature begins and ends with "War and Peace" and "Crime and Punishment," both of which, it is argued, are pre-Soviet and therefore irrelevant for today. But the student who has a broader view of Russian literature which preceded the present Communist regime will find Tolstoy, Chekov and Gorki is as different as Dickens, Thackeray and Hardy from Shaw, Wells, or Bennett, or science which omits Lomonosov, for example, or not Russian literature of the great age is Soviet is to be blind indeed.

But, when all is said and done, the fact still remains that a first necessity in Englishspeaking countries so in foreign languages before they have mastered an adequate working knowledge of their own.

The Apple Is Easier

(Montreal Gazette)

Mathematics has come a long way since Teacher used a knife and a nice red apple to show how fractions are formed. The development of electronic calculators has given those who find figures a little baffling the feeling that they can forget the whole thing and let machines do it for them.

Unfortunately, the machines still depend on human minds to feed their insides and tell the operations. Only when their "memories" are completely stocked can they be called upon to solve further problems.

Sometimes it takes quite a while for the proofs to follow at all. His precise formula for the construction of the ideal matter was set down by him in 1903, but it was not applied to steel until atomic fission became an established proposition.

This division of formula and proof is emphasized in his latest declaration of the existence of a unified field theory which would explain, mathematically, all physical laws from the structure of the atom to the structure of the universe.

The theory, says Mr. Einstein, is "logically simple" but that, I have not been able to find out if there are any physical truths in it.

Such a statement leaves the layman wondering if he read it right. If it were made by anyone else but Mr. Einstein, it might be considered pompous balderdash. As it was Mr. Einstein, it will be accepted on faith.

Meanwhile, a nice red apple and a sharp knife are still useful in explaining fractions.

The guest's return to the host comes in the multiple millions spent and spent in the metropolitan area, in the hotels, stores, supplies bought — from a 5-cent sah tray to a $100,000 limousine and in the year-round awarding of contracts, in utility bills paid out by the visiting firms and that show up as budget-line statistics. The United Nations and the United States extends considerably beyond the United Nations has brought with it about 800 delegates and aides who live in the U.S.A. permanently, and about 500 more who come every year for the three-month sessions of the General Assembly.

After Salt

(Fort William Times-Journal)

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Each time the Packsack ventures to express an opinion on music, whether classic or popular a number of professionals in those fields write to protest. This was once about the Packsack's qualifications to write on music, which was what might be called a private interrogation, after which the party had to have credentials. In those days, music was confined pretty well to a small coterie. Classical music was played by golfers knock a golf ball off the golfers who had retired or touring symphony orchestras, or consort virtuosi on the violin, piano and so forth. The number of people who went to hear them was audience and all, was relatively small. A couple of thousand people loved a few hundred additional persons of fashion attended the symphonic concerts. Popular music was looked after by the publishers, a little element of the population who attended night clubs, dance halls and other haunts for the jazz artists.

Then came the great change. Radio and gramophone blasted it, rich and poor, symphony and jazz, from one end of the country to the other. Does anybody seriously contend that the comment on music still belongs exclusively to the professional critic? Every darn one of us has the right to express an opinion, say, for better or another opinion.

Beethoven is a noble name in music. I have never heard that Beethoven would be a prophet or a sportsman. He was, it seems, all unawares, I had to listen to a performance of the Fifth Symphony played by the famed Budapest players of that form of music. Some of my best friends, nor for the public. You have to imagine a bespectacled golfers knock a golf ball off the tee of a recumbent cigar with a derby hat fifty feet away? It is interesting; but it isn't golf. The acting around music is the same sort of thing. I have seen a dog yelping and somebody outside, probably the lighthouse keeper, whistling "Rich — diddle — diddle," all through the number, a solid half hour of it.

It is true about radio that all you have to do is turn it off. But why should we have to?

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

HOUSE DUST SHOTS, EH?

Pennsylvanian reports a case of eczema which calls for, or at any rate gives me an excuse to hold off in my familiar way about "shots".

I may as well warn you that use of the word "shot" for injection irks me as much as use of the term "ether" for examine or "check-up" for physical examination, so you should brace yourself for some rough language.

Chilg aged 3 had eczema over most of her body. Her parents took her to the Allergy Clinic.

The term "clinic" when used to designate a U.S. business place where a number of trick specialists gang up to exploit popular credulity irks me, as you may have noticed.

The gullible parents took the child to the racketeers a year ago. There she received over a hundred tests—scratch tests, that is, criss-cross scratches of skin and applications of a wee drop of dilute extract of one or another food, pollen, fur, dog dander, horse hair, wool, dog biscuit, cat hair, dog hair, or whatnot. If the patch doesn't look irritated in half an hour or so, the test is "negative". If a reaction occurs the individual is allergic to the substance applied.

This is the theory on which the allergist works. In practice it is of questionable merit.

Well, at the "clinic" the doctors prescribed an anti-histamine salve and soap, and in three days all the "clinic" the child's skin was cleared up. Since then they have been giving her "shots" to desensitize her against house dust and excluding from her diet the foods to which she is allergic.

"We can't help but wonder if she will get permanent relief—if she doesn't we are at least thankful for this past year during which she has been able to eat and sleep without us having to bind her hands down as she couldn't scratch her skin raw. The improvement is almost unbelievable."

I quote that paragraph verbatim so readers may judge for themselves whether I am fair. I confess I wrote the first half of it before I finished reading the letter, and I was astonished at the conclusion. But there it is.

The immediate business is altogether too much for me. I cannot take seriously either an allergist's attempt to scratch or patch test with a substance of such indefinable composition, and notwithstanding "unbelievable improvement" in the child's mind I say the administration of house dust injections is nonsense. Of course the trick specialist or clinic racketeer so successfully married to the science Yankee public. (In my lexicon, lunkhead, Yankee means American).

Fortunately in the vast majority of cases of infantile eczema the disease tends to disappear spontaneously as the child grows older.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT IS HAPPINESS?

Happiness is what you have—the money you have made, the property you own, happiness in the community. Happiness is the opportunity to dominate others and to withstand and take orders from others. Happiness is a chance to live a life of continuous pleasure—and happiness is having plenty of money to buy liquor and plenty of leisure time to drink it.

By this time you're sore, aren't you—and disgusted, and don't believe any of these things. Neither do I. For happiness can be defined in this one simple statement:

Happiness is what you are. If you have a million dollars and a bad reputation, you are really not happy no matter how much you think you are. If you have robust health, and spend your life in a World of Sport and enjoy having a good time and wallowing in as many creature comforts as possible, then you are not happy, any more than a pig snoring in the corner of his sty.

Happiness is that inner contentment which comes to all in our lives unnoticed and unheralded because of a multitude of right decisions and faithful performed duties. You can hang all the stuff on the Christmas tree you want to, and in the end you have a Christmas tree, not a happy person, for happiness is an inner matter.

It is not what we have but what we are that matters.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

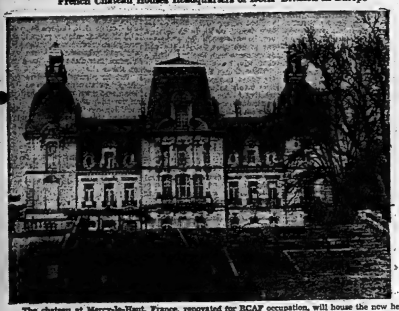
THE OLD BLACKSMITH SHOP

Few institutions of half a century ago have left a more enduring memory than the old Blacksmith Shop. There was one in every town, and many in the larger cities. Outside its utility to the horse and the driver of a horse, there it was a boy's delight.

It was a safe—at a safe distance from the Blacksmith and his forge—to watch the fire, the bellows and look with awe at the great muscles of the man who wielded the sledge and hammer to the song of the anvil—for "the village blacksmith" was no poet. He always had time to talk with his boy visitors, and made them feel that they were the other delight that stirred the imagination.

He would stand and watch the white-hot creations that later became a source of the pride and marvel at the skill of the Blacksmith before our eyes. In one of the small rooms of my youth there was a jolly fellow whom I always knew as "Bill Smith". He loved children and he would make rings for them out of dimes, and always kept careful watch upon many a child en-gination.

trusted to his care. He was a mother's friend as well as the children's.



Of late years, a few miles from the metropolitan city, there still was one of these old Blacksmith Shops, where I went to have many things made for my small island home. There were the usual forms of old wagon wheels discarded frames, and whatnots, all useful when something might be made from them on order. And there was the good old fellow at the Blacksmith working at his forge. Tragedy fell to the lot of the gentle owner of my youth there was a jolly fellow whom always knew as "Bill Smith". He loved children and he would make rings for them out of dimes, and always kept careful watch upon many a child en-gination.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

French Chateau Houses Headquarters of RCAF Division in Europe

The chateau at Mercy-le-Haut, France, renovated for RCAF occupation, will house the new headquarters of the RCAF air division in Europe. Built between 1906 and 1909, the building stands on a hill four miles from Metz. It was used as a hospital by the Germans during their occupation of France. Later it became the U.S. army divisional headquarters during the assault on Germany, and less than 100 yards from the building a large POW camp was used to confine captured Germans. In addition to the chateau itself, the RCAF will have the use of an ancient French chapel and several farm buildings, forming the outbuildings of the chateau proper. — Central Press Canadian.

Two Children Die in Gravenhurst Farm Fire

Bodies of two small children were cremated in these remains of the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Engil, four miles south of Gravenhurst, Ont. The parents, immigrants from Yugoslavia, had left the home to visit neighbors 400 yards away when it burst into flames. Virginia, 18 months, and Monica, four months, died before their parents could break through the barrier of flames. — Central Press Canadian.

Queen Elizabeth H-S Assoc. Builds Focal Centre Around One-Act Play

Drama has a two-fold purpose, to entertain and to educate. Usually, the former receives "top billing" but every once in a while there is a place for the morality play, the one that is not ashamed to have its sermon showing. The Theatre Guild production of "Fresh Variable Winds," performed recently at the March meeting of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association, fitted into the latter.

It accomplished its purpose in a most satisfactory manner — as witnessed by the lively "buzz session" which followed. The play was well received, because of the excellent portrayals of the cast and because it dealt with a subject both topical and pertinent; the degree to which both parents are responsible for the development of the child.

Love vs. Fear

It is normal, but not necessary, for a child to become obnoxious while in the process of growing. In theory, the wise, understanding parent will guide the child's self-assertion before it reaches the "ornery and obnoxious" stage. Control by love rather than by fear is the most effective method of developing well-adjusted adults.

It was the feeling of the group chaired by Judge Anderson that a combination of love and punishment rather than either "acceptance and love" or "punishment and humiliation" was the more useful and successful. Consensus of opinion was that "acceptance and love" was far superior to "punishment and humiliation" in strengthening the child's own efforts to be good and live up to the parents' expectations. Bringing up children is the duty of both parents, not the exclusive job of the mother.

Director, Cast

The play was directed by Mrs. Doris Bradford, assisted by Mrs. Winsome Lewis and starring David Punchard (Tucky), Julia Bradford (Helen Gridley), Mrs. May Goldie (Aunt May), Gordon Thompson (Jeff), and Mrs. Elsie Punchard (Mrs. Gridley). Sid Rose, introducing the play, mentioning, as a Theatre Guild member, the amount of diligent rehearsing and study involved in the production and acting of such plays. Mrs. Marion Paradis thanked the Theatre Guild and the players for their excellent performances and the very able direction.

Discussion groups were then formed under the leaders, Mrs. Wm Carr, Mrs. A. E. Purdy, Mrs. F. E. Moore and Miss Daisy Young. Those who acted as group speakers were Judge J. C. Anderson, Mr. W. Dougherty, Mr. F. B. Sheffield and Mr. F. J. Benson. Appreciation is extended to both group leaders and speakers for their intense interest and able leading and reporting. Every member joined enthusiastically into the "buzz session."

Mr. Benson acted as chairman when the four groups reassembled in the auditorium. The highly successful program was completed under the supervision of Mrs. J. McGregor, program convener.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. J. Godwin. Delegates were requested to attend the national convention of the Home and School Associates to be held in Toronto on April 7th. Mr. W. Gordon Anderson, principal of Queen Elizabeth School, reported that over 300 children attended the three highly successful library story hour periods. This is a continuation of the Saturday morning story hour periods that have been held at the main library for some time.

After the meeting was closed refreshments were served, under the convenorship of Mrs. I. J. Slavin, in the kindergarten room.

400-POUND STONES FALL

QUEBEC (CP)—Two 400-pound stones slipped from the clock tower of the Quebec legislature building early Tuesday and fell 75 feet to the street below. No one was injured. An official said the break was caused by water and ice action during the thawing period.

ONT. TO TURN

The earlier bill was less specific in that it left power to fix edible oil sales regulations with the cabinet.

In a prepared speech, Mr. Doucett said the government never intended to prohibit sale of peanut butter, shortening, margarine and similar foods which have been sold freely for many years. The Edible Oils Institute, official voice of the industry, claimed the bill would have that effect.

Mr. Doucett said soybean farmers would not be hurt by the bill. He said dairy farmers buy a large portion of the soybean crop for livestock feed, and thus soya growers depended on the buying power of a dairyman for their welfare.

Mr. Cecile's bill would permit the municipalities to take over rent controls from the provincial government in much the same manner as did the province from the federal government in April, 1951.

Mr. Cecile noted that the transfer of jurisdiction from the provincial government was facilitated by "cordial cooperation." Federal records and personnel had been lent to the provincial government.

He said the province would extend the same co-operation to any municipal government which wished to enter the rent control field.

Three cabinet members—Attorney-General Porter, Planning Minister Warrender and Mr. Cecile—are members of the select committee on rent controls.

The committee's only opposition member, T. D. Thomas (CCF—Ontario) has called the devotional bill "undemocratic and unfair."

The legislature adjourned an evening session after party leaders expressed sorrow at the death of Queen Mary.

Premier Frost moved that the legislature adjourn after he said the dowager Queen helped to make the British throne "stronger with its own people in the eyes of the world" than it has ever been before, he continued:

"The greatest thing about the Queen was her integrity of character, her devotion to duty and to the fundamentals of that which made our country, our Empire and Commonwealth great."

Weddings

YATEMAN — McCOY

A quiet, but pretty double-ring ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McCoy, Bellevile, when their eldest daughter, Olive Dorothy, became the bride of Walter Stillman Yateman, of Belleville, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Yateman. The Rev. Orend Irwin L. Brown, principal of Brockville Bible School, and uncle of the bridegroom, officiated. The home was suitably adorned with daffodils, white nuptial and ferns for the occasion.

Miss Maureen Wyatt provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Raymond McCoy, the bride was attractively attired in a delph blue ensemble with matching accessories and corsage of Talisman roses tied with matching ribbon.

Mr. Floyd Yateman, brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman.

Following the reception, which was held at the tastefully decorated home of Mrs. E. Delaney, Bridge Street East, where white snapdragons, white tulips intermingled with ferns, accented by silver candelabra with tall, white candles, added a lovely background, the happy couple left for points west. Mr. and Mrs. Yateman are residing in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto and Brockville.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wyatt, Dufferin Avenue.

Women's Activities

WHITE'S W.A.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Albert Jones was hostess to the ladies of White's Woman's Association on Thursday afternoon with 12 members, two visitors and three children present.

The president, Mrs. Ernest Curtis, presided, and opened the meeting.

The devotional service was taken by Mrs. Lorne Hunt whose theme was "Faith." Mrs. Clifton Rush read the Scripture, Mark 16:1-7 and meditation on the resurrection was given by Mrs. Hunt. A reading, "The Greatest Faith," was given by Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. C. Rush closed the worship service.

There was one new member and two members paid dues. There were three donations to the birthday box. It was decided to have a strawberry ice cream social, the time to be set later. It was also decided to have a booth and Jack Horner Pie.

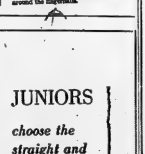
Program

Mrs. Leonard Young and Mrs. Walter Jones had charge of the program and readings, "I Wish I were Single Again," "When Things Go Wrong," "The Ladies Aid," and "The Meaning of Easter" were given by Mrs. Albert Hockaday, Clifton Rush, Mrs. E. Curtis and Mrs. L. Young. An Irish contest of scrambled names and places was enjoyed.

Mrs. W. A. Ward and the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton tied and in the draw the latter won the prize. An Irish game, "Kissing the Blarney Stone," was won by Mrs. Lorne Hunt who received a potted plant. The meeting was closed by the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton.

The hostess and her daughter, Mrs. Ward, served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Hockaday moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for opening her home.



Carmel Young Adult Group Sponsors Three Act Comedy

A large crowd gathered recently at Carmel Church to enjoy the three-act comedy play, "Raggedy Man," put on by Zion-Plainfield Y. P. U. and sponsored by Carmel Young Adult Group, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Tudor.

The director, Rev. E. J. Kersey of Plainfield, and all members of the cast are to be congratulated on this fine performance.

Delightful vocal entertainment was provided between acts by Miss Beverley Cowe and Mr. Wayne Cowe, also Misses Eileen Ray and Joan Kerr. Miss Shirley Kerr was the accompanist for both of these numbers.

Following the play, refreshments were served by the leaders and their assistants.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He Can't Seem to Make a Hit With the Girls

A young man of 20, who is troubled because he never seems to be able to make a hit with any girl, writes me as follows:

"I have had dates with quite a few girls, but somehow my friendships with them never seem to last.

"When I ask them for a first date they accept very willingly, and when I take them home they seem very pleased about our evening together. Then they'll go out with me once or twice again, and after that, all of a sudden they get too busy to go out with me.

"I've tried to find out the reason for this, and have gone over every date from start to finish, trying to understand what I did wrong, but I can't ever recall anything that went amiss. I have even asked the girls themselves, but they just brush me off with a polite answer. As far as I can remember, all I have ever done is tried to be a gentleman and do my best to please them. Sometimes I wonder if girls appreciate being treated like ladies or would rather be treated like dames."

Obviously the experience this chap has had with girls has made him a bit cynical about them. One gathers from his last remark that he thinks perhaps if he were more of a wolf he would be more popular.

This is the point of view that I question. If it really is his own, then I hope he will take my word for it that there are girls who like to be treated like "dames", but far more who like to be treated like ladies, and that it's probably something quite different which is at the root of his trouble.

One difficulty may be that he has failed to give as much thought to planning his dates as he gives to analyzing them afterwards. Has he, for instance, tried to find out in advance what sort of entertainment the girl would most enjoy, or has he always just taken his dates some place he thought of himself, without regard to their preference?

Consult About Program

What I mean by that is that some girls like to go to the movies and others would rather go dancing; some love music or classical tastes and enjoy a "long hair" concert, and others, again, are the energetic type that would rather spend an evening at a skating rink than anywhere else. So, naturally, if a girl who wants to make is taken to the movies when she has to sit still all evening, she obviously wouldn't enjoy herself as much as she would as much as her escort expected she would. Similarly, she would be too polite to say she hadn't enjoyed the evening, and she would probably be too polite, when asked again, to say she'd rather do something else than what the young man had in mind. So she gives him the "too busy" routine instead.

The young man who wants to make a hit with a girl is always careful to consult her about the proposed evening's program in order to make sure it will be based on the things she likes best, so that she'll look forward eagerly to another evening with this thoughtful chap.

Another very important consideration is—what about the young man's own entertainment value? Is he up on enough things to talk about, so that he can be sure he and the girl have some common interests to discuss together? Does he make a point of finding out what her hobbies are, what sort of job she may have, what she likes to do for recreation, what sort of books she likes to read and so forth, so that he can make conversation easily? If a young man talks to a girl solely about things that interest him, without regard to whether or not they would be likely to interest her, he runs a big risk of boring her to death, and what girl will go on more than one date with a chap who bores her?

These things I have mentioned are prime essentials for any man who wants to make himself attractive to the other sex. If this particular young man thinks them over carefully it should help him put a finger on what has gone wrong with his dates in the past. Then he can take steps to remedy matters in future.

In the Easter Parade

By TRACY ADRIAN

EASTER Sunday is the great day for stepping out in one's best from top to toe. So it is very important to have some pretty new shoes to add the finishing touch to a new spring ensemble.

Whether you are planning to be a suit, coat dress for participation in the parade you'll find these patent leather sandals a most becoming and popular choice. Made in black and white patent they are right in line with the latest fashion trends. A slender ankle strap curves up from the wide toe strap to give a graceful and feminine line to this shoe designed for afternoon and daytime wear.

Women's Institute

STIRLING W.I.

The March meeting of Stirling Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Lewis Rodgers, with the president, Mrs. F. Bronson presiding.

Mrs. W. E. West, treasurer, gave the proceeds of six card parties held during the winter months, which was $36. Boxes of fruit for sick members were ordered paid. A message of cheer was to be sent to Mrs. George Lewis, a charter member of the W.I., who has been a patient in Stirling General Hospital.

A nominating committee was named to form a slate of officers for 1953-1953, which consists of Mrs. R. Foster and Mrs. G. Rodgers. Quilts have been made for their purposes and also a used clothing drive.

The property committee, Mrs. W. H. Corbett and Mrs. M. Ward, will replenish the lacking dishes and glasses before the end of the year.

Mrs. Bronson thanked the members for the intended loan of cups for Achievement Day, which was held in the community hall. A letter was read by the secretary from Mrs. Purcell regarding the conference which is to be held in Guelph, May 7th. and 8th. Two delegates were elected to attend, president, Mrs. F. Bronson, and Mrs. S. McMurray, secretary.

The business being completed, Mrs. L. Rodgers moved an adjournment until the next regular meeting which will be held a week later than usual.

Mrs. A. Gentzler took the chair for the program. Mrs. H. Rodgers led in community singing, with Mrs. Vernon Matthews at the piano. Mrs. George Sarles gave a reading in two parts, "The Birthplace of St. Patrick," Mrs. West gave a reading, "Our Motto for Home and Country," which must be lived up to if one can be called a good W.I. member. Mrs. L. Rodgers, a reading, "Be a Farmer, Co-worker with God."

Mrs. Harry Coulter, delegate to the Federation of Agriculture conference held in Toronto, compiled a report on the West Hastings district to which she was sent as a representative. A reading by Mrs. H. Rodgers, "What is Canada Worth to You?"

Mrs. George Sarles put on a "Planting Contest," with Mrs. Frank McGee winning.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee. Community singing closed the meeting.

CENTENARY 3 T's M.C.

CENTENARY — Mrs. Fred Edmondson was hostess last Monday evening for the March meeting of the Centenary 3 T's Mission Circle. Mrs. Edmondson opened the meeting. There was an attendance of seven.

Mrs. Gordon Garrison contributed to the birthday box.

Mrs. Edmondson read a "thank you" letter from the secretary of Bridge Street Mission Circle, and announced that Mrs. G. Garrison's group will have charge of the April meeting, which will be held on April 20; and will be the Easter Thank-Offering. Their Thank-Offering envelopes were passed out.

The meeting was then turned over to group leader, Mrs. Orval May. Mrs. May followed the Worship Service in the Missionary Monthly, giving the call to worship, with Mrs. G. Garrison giving the Scripture, Luke 10:1-9, Acts 8:25-31 and 35-40. The group leader read a story, "Polish My Heart," from the "African Angelus".

Mrs. May, with the assistance of Mrs. Edmondson, Elaine Bain, Margaret Slavon and Mrs. Garrison, gave characterizations of missionaries in Africa.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments and a social time was spent.

CAT MOTHERS PUPPIES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three of six puppies born to "Brenda," miniature pinscher, died and the mother was too weak to feed the others. A call for help resulted in a mother cat being brought with her kittens. The puppies mingled contentedly with the kittens.

Special-Purpose Menu

The meal and potato boys might give this meal the dim view if they knew their precious meat and potatoes weren't ever going to show up, but when they are finished their happy stomachs will send up the okay message, and once more the overstrained budget will be relieved.

I'm proud of the soup that but-bustin out all over with enthusiasm for this custard pie. It is no ordinary pie you may be sure.

Old Fashioned Homemade Vegetable Soup; Toasted Buttered Rye Bread; Generous Chef's Salad with Cheese; Old-Fashioned Custard Pie; Tea.

Directions:

Good News: You may use 2 cups leftover liquid from boiling a ham or some corned beef or a leftover ham bone as the meat ingredient in this soup if you wish.

Old-Fashioned homemade Vegetable Soup
(serves 8 generously)

One-half cup each dried lima beans and dried peas, 2 tablespoons each barley, rice, kidney beans and lentils (lentils are optional), 8 cups cold water (or 2 cups cold water and 3 cups ham or corned beef liquor), 1-2 cup finely cut outer celery stalks and leaves, 2 medium-sized potatoes finely diced, 2 small onions sliced, 1-2 cup finely chopped turnip, 1 cup stewed or canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon (or more) of salt, 1-4 teaspoon of pepper (and if on hand 1 bay leaf, or 1 finely chopped wiener). Wash the beans, peas, barley, rice, kidney beans and lentils and soak overnight in the water. Bring to boiling point then add the celery, potatoes, onions, turnip, tomatoes, salt and pepper. Simmer, covered, very slowly for two hours. You may have to add a little water if it cooks away too much. A ham bone or wiener are used add them one-half hour before serving. Taste to see if this needs more seasoning. Remove bone before serving. I add ½ to ¾ finely chopped parsley about 1 tomato sliced thin, about 1-2 cup finely chopped green pepper about 1 minute before serving time. This soup is quite thick and a meal in itself. Some of you may want to add 1-2 cup carrot dice and a little sugar — about 1 tea-spoon. Use your own native soup-making judgment.

The toasted buttered rye bread is improved if held in a warm oven for about 5 minutes before serving. This treatment makes it curl.

Chef's Salad

For six good salad eaters you will need half of a large head of lettuce or one small one, cut into 1-inch cubes with silver knife, about 1 tomatoe sliced thin, about ½ green pepper shredded, about ¼ scored but unpeeled cucumber sliced wafer thin, about 1-3 cup chopped parsley and some shredded celery and radishes if you like. If the French dressing has a slice of garlic in it you won't need to rub the bowl with garlic. Toss the works with about 1-3 to 1-2 cup of your own French dressing. Make the salad at the last minute, of course, to preserve all of its precious vitamin-content.

Old-Fashioned Custard Pie

The filling: 5 whole large eggs (1 1-4 cups), 1-2 to 2-3 cup granulated sugar (don't be tempted to add more — custard might get watery), ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 to 2½ cups milk —not homogenized (better still use 2 cups non-homogenized whole milk and 1 cup cream). With rotary beater beat eggs slightly, then add sugar and beat a few seconds. Add salt and vanilla. Add milk very slowly — it should be scalded to hasten baking time. Stir as you add the milk. Strain. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate with high fluted edges. The amount of milk depends on the size of your pie plate. Don't have it so full that you spill it when carrying it to the oven. Add any filling that is leftover after you have made the trip safely to the oven door. Now bake in a hot oven — 450 deg. Fahr. — for about 23 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. until custard is set —a silver knife inserted at centre will come out clean. The high heat during first part of baking bakes the crust quickly and prevents soaking. Add nutmeg or cinnamon to this pie filling, in or on it, if you like spices. This is pure a honey.

BEAUTY

Forehead, serene and satin-smooth

Do you cut capers with your eyebrows, drawing them together or lifting them? If so, don't do it. Stop before it is too late. If you continue this facial diversion long enough, you will have a forehead like a road map—lines scooting across from temple to temple; little, short, up-and-down cuts between the eyes. Life brings enough beauty worries without creating more.

Sweeping the hair away from the forehead and bringing it over a clear-cut look that seems necessary for the contentment and good appearance of many women. Neatly arched eyebrows, smoothly applied lip-stick, and cheeks with only the faintest sign of rouge constitute all this type. Remember, years ago, when the hair was pulled down over the ears and cheeks? No, you are too young. Look at some old photographs. You will realize that we are stepping along the good-looks path.

Despite the popularity of bangs, the high brow is still in the public eye. It is naked and unashamed and is a considerable contribution to the perfection of the facial composition.

The forehead is a common field for what are called expression lines. That sounds better than wrinkles, but means the same thing, except that you make them yourself while wrinkles are usually the cruel touch of time.

Frowns come to the woman who is easily irritated. Cross lines on the forehead are created by the habit of expressing surprise by lifting the eyebrows. Better do that little thing with words.

Tight hat bands can cause furrows on the forehead. They cut off circulation, necessary to keep the tissues firm and toned: They force the flesh downward. When playing with the massage cream at bedtime, give your forehead a little attention, even though it may be in perfect form. Take out insurance against future troubles.

Place the fingertips of each hand in the middle of the forehead. As one group sweeps upward, the other group goes down; both move from side to side. This is a favorite movement of well-in the last few days.

trained facial operators. Follow along with brisk slapping, then frisk an ice cube over the flesh.

SURE SIGN

The Greatest Story Ever Told

Chapter 32

ON TRIAL

At the top of the great stairs the figure of the prisoner appeared between two vast marble pillars. The guards stood back and let the whole assembly get a look at Him. Seeing Him this second time, Annas was jolted harder than before. The impregnability of that alert and tranquil countenance tormented him, not because the old one did not understand, but because he was beginning to suspect that he understood too well.

The prisoner's calm humility was enough to pierce intellectual pride. In one straight glance Jesus seemed to survey the whole entrenched and greedy power which here was marshalled against Him. His head slightly tilted, He might have been listening to the echoes of the long-ignored voices of the prophets and seers of the people.

The cackle and gabble of conversation dwindled as guards led Jesus forward. It was just a few minutes past midnight. Now, in the bright torchlight of the huge chamber, they sized Him up with the most intense curiosity, and wondered at His calm. Did not this man realize His peril?

He realized everything. He knew this court, with its full and legal quorum assembled illegally in the night; its powers and unbounded jurisdiction; its ideals and its frail humanity; and imbedded in that humanity its fears.

Prayers of Caiphas

And now Caiphas stood up in the middle of the hollow of the U. On his head the high priest wore a cone of blue sovereught with gold, and across his chest was the brass plate of his office glittering with twelve precious stones. His flowing robe was also of blue, but his girdle was of scarlet, purple, and gold, and out of his sleeves fluttered the pure white linen of his sacerdotal underwear. Of the whole court only he wore sandals, but you could barely see them for the gaudy fringes of his robe embroidered with crimson pomegranates.

Before the trial began Caiphas prayed with theatrical intonations and histrionic pauses; he should have begun by making the morning sacrifice, but he skipped over that detail. He merely lifted up his hands and brought palms together just below the last ringlet of his redolent beard, and a silence fell as the intoning voice fairly crooned up to Jehovah. Caiphas, addressing the God who, as a pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night, had led the Israelites out of the bondage of Egypt, now reminded this same light to shine on the deeds done here at this trial; that the elders, the priests, and the scribes might know the truth and judge justly.

The prayers, as Nicodemus said afterward, was much too long. As it was finished there was an uneasy rustling of men seizing a little opportunity to settle themselves, clearing of throats, coughings behind the hand, brief whisperings, neighbor to neighbor, and finally a full, expectant hush.

Caiphas gave a signal and the guards moved Jesus down the last two steps, into the hollow of the great U surrounded by His judges.

The Accusation

"Let every man know of what this Jesus of Nazareth stands accused," resumed Caiphas. "His crime is blasphemy. For that crime He is now to be tried. He is accused of having used certain words, of having said certain things. If these charges are true, if the witnesses agree, then He is guilty not only of sacrilege, the most abominable crime, but also of that charge which has been forbidden since Moses gave us the law—the crime of sorcery. Let the witnesses be called."

First there was brought in a tall, gaunt, hungry man with eyes that peered from under reddish in unaccustomed wonder at all this bright and deadly room, this display of torches and sandstone, this splendor of wardrobe, this unaccustomed glory in the dark hour of morning. Caiphas caressed his beard as he asked the first question.

"What is your nade?"

"Ben Jezrel."

"You have promised to tell the truth. You have not forgotten the commandment?"

Ben Jezrel put his hand under his right thigh in token that he had spoken the truth and answered:

"I remember: 'You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor'."

"If You Sin . . ."

Crossing his hands, the high priest began the recitation of ritual words required by the code:

"Forget not, O witness, that it is one thing to give evidence in a trial as to money and another in a trial for life. In a money suit, if your witness-bearing shall do wrong, money may repair that wrong. But in this trial for life, if you sin, the blood of the accused and the blood of his seed, to the end of time, shall be imputed unto you . . . Therefore was Adam created one man and alone to teach us that if any witness shall destroy one soul out of Israel, he is held by the Scriptures to be as if he had destroyed the world, and he who saves one such, it should be as if he had saved the world—for a man from one signet ring may strike off many impressions and all of them shall be exactly alike, but He, the King of Kings, He the Holy and Blessed, has struck from His type of the first man the forms of all men that are living, yet so that no one human being is wholly alike to any other!

"Wherefore let us think and believe that the whole world is created for a man such as He whose life now hangs on your words!"

Caiphas waited for a moment and then began the formal questioning.

"Did you actually see and hear the prisoner commit the crime with which He is charged?"

"I did."

"Did you caution the prisoner of the gravity of His offense?"

"I did."

"And He persisted?"

"He did."

The Warning

"Did you warn Him of the punishment to which He would be liable if He were convicted of the offense?"

"I did, sir."

"Do you think He was aware of the serious nature of His crime?"

"I am certain that He was."

"Now, what were the words you heard Him say?"

"I heard this man say these words," Ben Jezrel testified: "I will destroy this Temple that is made with hands and in three days I will build another not made with hands."

A murmur ran through the clerks, the priests, and the scribes. Had this Galilean dared to say such a thing? Would He deny it?

Caiphas turned toward the prisoner.

"Well, Jesus of Nazareth, what have you to say to this that you have heard?"

There was no answer.

"Do you deny the testimony of Ben Jezrel?"

Jesus' wrists bound, face untroubled, stood mute in the great unlighted hall. To remain silent was His legal right.

"Do you admit that you said those words?"

Still no answer. Caiphas turned, with a long sweeping grimace that encompassed the whole court. His shrug seemed to say to them: 'You see how it is? We have a stubborn, stiff-necked prisoner here.' But he scrupulously refrained from saying any word detrimental to the accused. Instead, he dismissed Ben Jezrel with a toss of his hand.

"Bring on the second witness."

A Poor Merchant

The second witness was Isaac ben Marath, a good, man from King David Street, a poor merchant in beans and barley but one who, nevertheless, gave up his tithes to the Temple three times a year.

"Well, Isaac ben Marath," began Caiphas, "tell us what were the words you heard spoken by this man?"

And Isaac ben Marath answered:

"I heard Jesus of Nazareth say: 'Destroy this Temple, and in three days I will raise it up'."

"You may go" said Caiphas, turning with triumph to the whole court, right and left, seeming to say: "Well, judges, you have heard the necessary two witnesses. Does not their testimony agree?"

As if in answer to that unspoken question, one of the most respected members of the court, Joseph of Arimathea, brought his bones together and stood up with an agility surprising in so elderly a man.

"The witnesses do not agree!" Joseph sternly declared. "If you think they do, you are very much mistaken. The first witness testified: 'I have written down very carefully what he said —that this prisoner, Jesus, had uttered these words: "I will destroy this Temple that is made with hands and in three days I will build another not made with hands." That is one accusation we have heard.

"But the second witness said something entirely different: he attributes to Jesus an entirely different statement which was, according to him: 'Destroy this Temple, and in three days I will raise it up'."

"They Must Agree"

A new murmur ran through the court, some saying one way, some another. They no more agreed among themselves than had the witnesses. But Joseph went doggedly on.

"In the first instance," he argued, "Jesus is accused of announcing His intention of destroying the Temple and then restoring it by sorcery. In the second instance He is quoted as promising to restore the Temple if someone else destroyed it. Which, then, did He actually say? Certainly one of these witnesses must be wrong, and our law says that at least two witnesses must agree!"

Caiphas, looking imploringly toward his father-in-law, had received an almost imperceptible signal. He gave vent to a deep breath of outraged annoyance, and answered:

"Very well; there is no need to argue the point. Let us hear from another witness."

Now Jacob, the corn seller, was a man Caiphas felt he could rely on, and he was there to be used in an emergency. Willingly Jacob slapped his thigh to the oath, answered the ritual questions, and was brought promptly to the point. He had been there in the Temple and he had heard Jesus say:

"What, then, did He say?"

"He said," replied Jacob, ruffling a somewhat tattered beard, "these exact words: 'I am able to destroy the Temple of God and to build it in three days'."

"Confusion on Confusion"

Again Caiphas turned to the Sanhedrin with a vindicating smile. But now there was a deeper murmur, and Joseph of Arimathea was again on his feet.

"This," cried Joseph, "is confusion piled upon confusion. Here we have a third testimony and what we call a valid, useless one. This third witness now quotes the prisoner as saying: 'I am able to destroy this Temple.' This is not what the other said: not the same thing at all. The first testified to a threat—the third to a mere boast.

"Which is it then, threat or boast? Or was it anything at all? A man's life hangs on the answer. Our law requires that the witnesses must agree together. Three have already disagreed. Caiphas, you have produced no case against Jesus of Nazareth!"

MARMORA

MARMORA — Beautiful colored slides of places visited and occupied by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in France and Italy during the Second World War were shown in the Marmora Town Hall on Monday evening by Major Rev. Fred Goforth, M.C., beloved padre of the regiment for a period.

These pictures were taken somewhat over a year ago as the padre revisited the old scenes in company with his wife. Scenes of the Canadian and Commonwealth cemeteries depicted the care and beautification given to graves of the fallen. The series wound up with a few representative English scenes.

Also at the meeting was Captain Farley (Squib) Mowatt, who is compiling a history of the Regiment and is taking the tour with Major Goforth, of centres in Hastings County this week in the hope of acquiring added data for the history.

Capt. R. J. Scott, of Belleville, also spoke briefly as a former Marmora boy, who enlisted in this village.

Comrade W. J. Cottrell, Marmora Legion, was chairman, the program being under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Crawford of Islington, were week-end guests of Rev. and Mrs. K. J. Crawford.

Mr. Thomas Flynn, of Erinsville, is spending a few days with his brother, Mr. Philip Flynn of Mrs. Flynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Margaret Chambers, of Trenton, Mrs. Charles Lough, of Springbrook, and Mr. Frank Lough of Foxboro, visited Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moffatt, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCormick an dfamily, of Tweed, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Flynn.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Snider in Mrs. E. Lawler's Nursing Home, on also spoke briefly as a former Thursday, March 19.

HOW much have automobile insurance rates increased?
- In relation to other car costs they've gone down.
Each $100 of insurance carried takes a smaller portion of the motorist's dollar than ever before.
- But cars are more expensive.
You can't insure the $2,400 car of today as cheaply as the $850 car of 1939.
- So, in dollars, how much have auto rates gone up?
An average of 20% for Public Liability and Property Damage. An average of 60% for hill coverage.

WHAT affects the cost of automobile insurance?
- The number of accidents
- The severity or cost of accidents
- The costs of doing business
- The profit or loss of the insurance company.

WHY have rates gone up in dollar cost?
- Because accident rates have been soaring.
Today one person is killed every four hours in Canada — one person is injured every fifteen minutes — a fender is smashed every two minutes.
- Because accident costs have been soaring.
